School district 564 has nine certified administrators, 155 classroom teachers and 57 non-classroom teachers for a total of 221 faculty and administration. Other employees include 22 aides, 28 bus drivers, eight confidential employees, 13 full-time and 11 part-time cooks, 36 custodians, two mechanics and 18 secretaries.

Educational philosophy of the district has been expressed in the annual report as follows:

It is the basic purpose of the public schools of Independent School District No. 564 to help develop skills, habits, attitudes, and character traits essential to our present day culture. It is recognized that today's society is affected by the pressures of technological, social, and political change, and the schools must at all

School Fund Balance In Strong Year-End Position

Increased revenues above budget projections and expenditures below budgeted amounts have combined to provide the Thief River Falls school district with a better general fund balance than anticipated at the start of the year, according to Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools.

In his remarks to the faculty gathered for the two-day workshop beginning this morning at Lincoln high school, Supt. Corliss summarized the situation. A memorandum concerning the figures shown in the annual audit report was also sent to members of the board of education Thursday.

Figures presented in the memo to board members indicate that actual revenues of the district were 4.4 per cent or $208,798 above budget while actual expenditures were 5.9 per cent or $269,478 below budget for the 1978-79 operating year. An audit fact sheet distributed to the faculty this morning shows total fund balance at the end of 1978-79 to be $840,361 as compared with $616,460 at the end of the previous year.

The superintendent's memo to the board contains the recommendation that the board set a special meeting specifically to review the cutbacks made for the coming year and to determine whether or not some of the items deleted should be reinstated in the budget. Dr. Corliss notes that it was not necessary to use the $200,000 authorized from previous fund balance for operations in the 1978-79 year.

Influences on revenue listed by the superintendent were approximately 100 per cent of local tax levy collected because of very small tax deliquency; high interest rates and good cash flow with all available funds invested; larger than anticipated county revenue as a result of mobile home taxes and apportionment; expansion of Title I and Title IV programs; and a couple of large property insurance dividends through the Minnesota state school boards association.

Influencing the expenditure budget were the use of long term substitutes in some teaching positions; vacancies which occurred in positions and were not filled for all or part of the year; smaller utilities cost than expected; and decision to defer major maintenance projects in some areas.

CHANGES IN SCHOOL DIST. 564 REVENUE AND EXPENSE

The following are major factors that caused actual revenue to exceed budgeted revenues in the General Fund by approximately 4.4%.

	Actual	Budget	Over (under)
Maintenance Levy	$ 1,297,366	$ 1,234,740	$ 62,626
Interest	85,116	20,000	65,116

Loan Rate For '79 Crop Grain Is Announced

Alton Nybladh, chairman of the Marshall county ASCS committee, announces that commodity loans will be made at the following rates in Marshall county for 1979 crop grain: Wheat $2.40, barley $1.56, oats 93 cents and rye $1.68.

No loan is available for flax.

Concert Ass'n. Schedule Set

Thief River Falls concert association has announced the schedule of four concerts for the coming season which opens October 15 and begun its advance sale of memberships to those who wish to renew memberships from last year.

Each year the association provides an opportunity for existing members to renew memberships before opening the sale to the public until capacity of the Lincoln high school auditorium is reached. The direct membership campaign will start September 17 and membership renewals will be given preference until September 4.

Ticket prices will be $13 for adults, $6 for students and family tickets (limited to 50 tickets) will be sold for $37. Tickets cover admission to all four concerts, according to Mrs. Pat Martin, membership chairman.

Concerts scheduled include the following:

Monday, October 15 — Bohemian Folk Ballet of Prague will present virtuoso dancers, singers and instrumentalists in colorful costumes;

Tuesday, November 13 — St. Olaf college orchestra offers a well-balanced group with an outstanding string section and woodwinds, brass and percussion proving their importance in the complete ensemble;

Tuesday, January 15 — Soprano Penny Orloff will present numbers including opera, oratorio, recital and off-Broadway favorites;

Sunday, April 20 — Singing Hoosiers of Indiana university will perform music from Broadway show stoppers and folk songs to jazz and production numbers.

Members of the association are asked to send their renewals together with a check to cover the fee and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for return of the membership tickets to: Thief River Falls Concert Association, P.O. Box 514, Thief River Falls, MN. 56701. Persons purchasing family memberships should also list the name and age of each child who will be attending.

ASCS Reveals Provisions Of Wheat Program

Preliminary provisions of the 1980 wheat program have been announced, according to Alton Nybladh, chairman, Marshall county ASCS committee.

Nybladh stated that there will be no required set-aside for the 1980 wheat program.

Loan rates have been increased by 15 cents per bushel on a national average. This should put Marshall county's loan rate at $2.55 per bushel. Target prices for 1980 wheat will be announced by March 15, 1980.

Newfolden And Viking Schools To Open Wed.

Marshall county central schools of Newfolden and Viking will start on August 29 with a full day of school. An estimated 520 students will attend classes this year. This will be a decline of 15 students compared to last year.

Lunch billing system will be used again this year. Student lunch prices will be 50 cents per day. Each month parents will be sent a bill for the lunches eaten by the students.

Due to the population changes the past two years, some bus routes have been changed. Parents of children on these changed routes will be notified by letter. Other routes will not change, however, children should watch for the buses the first few days.

If parents have questions about the opening of school, they should call the superintendent's office at 874-8530.

To Print Mon. Times Saturday

Once again a Monday holiday is making it necessary for the Times to revise its publishing schedule. Early news and advertising copy will be necessary for the Labor day issue of the Times which will be printed on Saturday of this week.

Falls Mall Shop Owners Hold Meeting

Organizational meeting to form the merchant's association for shop owners in the Falls Mall was held recently. Appointed co-chairmen of the association were Roger Bowman of First Northwestern Insurance company and Annette Bergan of the Big Scoop. Carol Wheeler of the Sassee Lassee was chosen secretary-treasurer.

By-laws for the group are being drawn up and the organization will work with the chamber of commerce to promote Thief River Falls as shopping community of the area. Plans are also underway for the Falls Mall-First Northwestern bank joint grand opening September 20, 21 and 22. Details will be announced at a later date.

Businesses presently located in the new Falls Mall are First Northwestern Insurance company, Big Scoop, Cloud 9, Jean Junction, Sassee Lassee, Sound Level, Bavarios Cheese and Fun & Games.

"WHEN A CUSTOMER CALLS IN for a reservation," Buttons Manafi, manager of Bergan Travel, explains, "with the new system we can put an entry into the computer and it will tell us flights that are available for the specific date the customer wants." The "new system" is the computerized reservation system recently installed and now in operation at the Thief River Falls travel agency owned by Annette Bergan. Manafi is shown keying the computer to give flight information desired by a call-in customer. The new system is also programmed to give fares, to print tickets and will eventually be able to give everything from weather conditions affecting flying to Las Vegas and Reno entertainment and will be able to make reservations for hotels and car rentals as well as for airlines.

Travel Is Computerized

by Kim Blaeser
Times Reporter

"Before we were fast," says Annette Bergan, owner of Bergan Travel in Thief River Falls, "but there were a lot of things that hampered immediate confirmation. Using an executive WATTS line, getting through to the airlines so you could confirm a reservation might take five, six, seven hours. Your client would be waiting here or at home and wondering so they could plan their date and it was so frustrating for them and for us."

With a newly installed computerized reservation system, Bergan Travel now has an instant tie-in with the airlines to get immediate flight availability information and reservation confirmation. The $50,000 system was installed Annette says, "Generally just to update. We really took the plunge to improve service because that is the way travel agencies can compete."

Installation was a complicated affair involving five seperate businesses. The equipment is made by Raytheon of Chicago and Bergan was sponsored in the system by Frontier airlines. Transmissions are actually sent from Denver, Colorado, through International Telgraph and Telephone (IT&T) but Bergan's tie-in is a system in Grand Forks. Local installation began April 19 and was completed in June. Involved in the installation were Raytheon, IT&T, Frontier, Northwestern Bell and an electrician.

Although installation is complete, programming will be an ongoing process. At the present time the system allows Bergan to get information on flight availability and some fares. As the agency reports to Frontier what city pairs it frequently books, further programming will be done giving Bergan access to more fares through the system.

The system will also eventually be programmed to release information on weather affecting flying

IMPRESSIVE PROJECT under construction about eight miles northwest of Red Lake Falls is this water control structure on the Little Black river. The project is designed to create a permanent impoundment of about 15 acres of water up to 14 feet deep with about 25 acres and 19 foot depth at flood stage. Erosion control downstream, sediment trap from upstream flow, flood control, recreational and wildlife benefits and potential irrigation water source are among the purposes of the $159,000 project. Red Lake watershed district is sponsor of the project in cooperation with the Lower Red management board, Red Lake county agricultural stabilization and conservation service and Red Lake county soil and water conservation district. Engineering was done by the U.S. soil conservation service. The 48-inch concrete pipe will be buried to the height of the hill shown in the background at right. More photos and information on the project will be provided in the Times when it is near completion this fall.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Kathy Ann Liden and Steven J. Bjerken Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Steven John Bjerken are at home in this city following an exchange of marriage vows at Trinity Lutheran church and a wedding trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota.

The bride, the former Kathy Ann Liden, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ardell W. Liden, rural Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bjerken of this city.

Rev. Berton Hushagen officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 300 guests. Organist was Mrs. Carl Nordvall: She played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," and "Bridal March," for the processional and recessional. Vocalists were Jane Olson, a friend of the couple, and Jeff Liden, a cousin of the bride. They sang, "If," "Annie's Song," and "Wedding Song."

For the ceremony, arrangements of white gladioli were on the altar, white bows marked the pews, and greenery and ribbon bows graced the candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white chiffonette gown designed by Mari Lee of New York. The bodice, encrusted with Venice lace and pearls, featured a Queen Anne neckline and lace-trimmed bishop sleeves with deep cuffs. Her full skirt was complemented by a cathedral train edged with a double ruffled flounce. A venice lace Camelot headpiece held her walking veil bordered with heavy lace. She carried a modified cascade of white roses, pastel colored daisies, carnations and babies' breath, accented with ivy.

The bride's personal attendant was her sister, Linda Timm.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Linda Mattson of Kneale avenue south, a friend of the couple. She wore a peach chiffon gown with V-neckline and caplet sleeves. Creating back interest was a double ruffle flounce that went up to the waistline forming a bustle effect. To complete her attire, she wore a peach hat and carried a nosegay of assorted pastel colored roses, carnations and daisies.

Wearing similar attire, only in yellow, pink and blue, were the bridesmaids: Patty Reed, Jewel Holen and Deb Wiskow, friends of the couple. Their pearl necklaces and matching earrings were gifts from the bride.

Flower girl was Amy Marie Liden, a niece of the bride. She wore a lilac colored gown, styled like those worn by the bridesmaids, and carried a white basket filled with assorted pastel flowers. The rings were carried by Joel Haider of Hungry Horse, Mont., a cousin of the groom. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a parchment colored tuxedo with a ruffled shirt and carnation boutonniere matching the gown of his female attendant.

Attending the groom as best man was Jeff Johnson of Grand Forks, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Mike Liden, brother of the bride, Randy Liden, a cousin, and Jerry Stallock, Karlstad, brother-in-law of the groom. Serving as ushers were Terry Timm, brother-in-law of the bride, and John Westlake, Grand Rapids, brother-in-law of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua-green floor length gown with raglon sleeves and a braided belt matching the trim at the neckline. The groom's mother was attired in a yellow floor-length gown with a pleated skirt and chiffon caplet. Their identical corsages were of roses and daisies in assorted pastel colors.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Matzke, Mrs. Julia Liden and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haider.

A reception followed with Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liden, uncle, aunt and godparents of the bride, as host and hostess. Tammy Rantenan, a cousin of the bride, registered the guests as Julie Hanson and Kim Wold, friends of the couple, served the punch.

The pillared, four-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pastel roses, featured a water fountain with flowing peach colored water. A cluster of wedding bells topped the cake and ceramic cupids surrounded the base. The cake was cut and served by Shirley Odegaard, aunt of the bride, and Denise Stallock, sister of the groom. Pouring coffee were Deb Westlake, another sister of the groom, and Eleanor Joyce, a friend of the couple.

At the gift table were Mary and Kim Liden, cousins of the bride. Waitresses were Cindy Liden and Sue Bjerken, sisters of the couple; Lori Sorteberg, Julie Odegaard and Shawn Lauer, cousins of the bride. The groom's dinner was hosted at the Rex Cafe by his parents.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed at Northland Foods. The groom also attended Lincoln high school and is employed by Arctic Enterprises. The couple is at home at Countryside trailer court, lot 96. Photo, Chuck Agnew, Mahnomen.

Marriage Vows Spoken By Ballingrud-Murphy

Miss Roberta Ann Ballingrud and Matthew James Murphy, both of St. Cloud, exchanged marriage vows recently at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ballingrud of this city and Mrs. Mary Murphy of Sartell and the late Frank Murphy.

Officiating at the ecumenical ceremony were Rev. Berton Hushagen and Rev. James Bernauer, priest at St. Bernard's Catholic church. Mrs. Walter Larson presided at the organ, playing Handel's "Largo," and Bach's "Arioso," for the processional, and Crouch's "To God be the Glory," for the recessional. The wedding scripture, I Cor. 13, stressing the theme of the ceremony "Love Goes On Forever" was read by Jon Ballingrud, brother of the bride. Vocal selections were a hymn by the congregation; and solos: "Love Never Faileth" and "The Lord's Prayer," by David Morken, and "Your Wedding Day" written for the ceremony to a Gaelic melody and sung by Janet Jessen of Buffalo.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a white knit gown with long, full sleeves and a Queen Anne neckline accented with silk Venice lace, embroidered with seed pearls. The sunburst pleated floor-length skirt with its cathedral train was also trimmed with lace. A lace and pearl headpiece held her double tiered veil, edged with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white Phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis, and ivy.

The bride's personal attendant was her sister, Jane Ballingrud, Grafton, N.D.

Maid of honor was the groom's sister, Elizabeth Murphy of Sartell. Other attendants were friends of the bride: Nancy Anderson, and Dana Coleman of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Jerry (Ruth) Owen. They wore floor-length gowns of mauve and peach blossom crepe and carried glamellias fashioned from pink and peach gladioli petals framed with ivy foliage.

Attending the groom was Tom Brantz of St. Cloud, a friend, as best man. Jonathan Ballingrud, brother of the bride; Tom Keaveny, St. Cloud, a friend; and David Renslow, Sartell, a brother-in-law, were groomsmen. The ushers were Cy Rubald, Chicago, Ill., a brother-in-law; Bill Trewich, Minneapolis, a friend; and Ron McCombs, Minneapolis, a brother-in-law. All wore brown and beige stroller styled tuxedos with rosebud and stephanotis boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length, floral-print gown in cream, mauve and peach; and the groom's mother wore a gown of floral print in soft blues. Their identical corsages were of white Phalaenopsis orchids.

A reception in the church parlors followed with Dr. and Mrs. V. L. Carlson of Buffalo as host and hostess. Mrs. Rebecca Pappenfus, Minneapolis, sister of the bride, registered the guests as Marcia Ballingrud, Minneapolis, a cousin, and Mrs. Kris Kremer, a friend, served the punch.

The three-tiered "Swan Lake" wedding cake, iced in white, was decorated with sprays of fresh white roses and lilies of the valley. Greenery and lilies of the valley surrounded the base. The cake, which was baked by Margaret Rupprecht, was cut and served by Mrs. Merrlin Palmer and Mrs. Angie Rubald, sisters of the groom. Mrs. Kathy McCombs and Mrs. Mollie Renslow, also sisters of the groom, poured the coffee.

The rice packets were distributed by Elizabeth Pappenfus and Allison Renslow, nieces of the couple. Jody Brekken, a friend, and Peggy Palmer, a niece of the groom, arranged the gifts and Cindy Restad, a friend, assisted members of the Eunice circle in serving the reception, catered by Mrs. Lillian Rux.

The evening prior to the ceremony, the groom's mother hosted a dinner at Lon's for members of the wedding party and the families of the bride and groom.

The couple is now at home in St. Cloud, where both are employed. The bride is employed by Boys' Club of America, St. Cloud chapter, and the groom by St. Cloud's Childrens Home. Both are graduates of St. Cloud State University. Photo, LeMar studio, Crookston.

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of Mrs. Harvey Ness

Rural Thief River Falls

Easy Butterscotch Bars
two-thirds cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1⅓ cup flour plus 1 tablespoon
2 teaspoons baking powder
⅓ teaspoon coconut
⅔ cups walnuts

Method: Melt butter, add brown sugar and stir. Add vanilla and eggs, one at a time, and the sifted dry ingredients. Fold in coconut and walnuts. Bake in a 9x13 inch pan for 30 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Cut into bars while slightly warm. These bars are rich and require no frosting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ness live on a 10 acre farm, on highway 1, east of the Vocational school. Prior to moving to Thief River Falls, they lived and farmed near Grygla. They are retired, he from Arctic Enterprises, and she from teaching, which included Sunday school and Wednesday school. Mrs. Ness stated that during the summer, she helps with the flower and vegetable gardening, and during the winter months, she reads and crochets and has completed afghans for all of their five children and six grandchildren.

Roberta Reopelle and Bradley Taylor Wed Here

Miss Roberta Lynne Reopelle and Bradley Jay Taylor, both of Oahu, Hawaii, exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, August 11, at 2 p.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reopelle, Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor, Backus.

Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the double ring ceremony, witnessed by approximately 100 relatives and friends. Mary Amundson was the organist and Sue Amundson sang, "If," and "We've Only Just Begun."

Forming the altar setting were wall vases filled with red anthuriums, flown in from Hawaii. At the base were baskets of white gladioli and blue carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a white crepe back satin gown featuring a gathered bodice with square neckline and long full sleeves gathered into wide cuffs secured by three pearl buttons. A draped belt complemented the four-tiered full skirt. Her headpiece was a large brimmed picture hat with white ribbon and plumeria flowers. She carried a modified cascade of silk white roses, blue carnations and yellow daisies. Her single pearl necklace and matching earrings were a gift from her maternal grandmother.

Maid of honor was Christie Irvine, San Cruz, Calif., a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Kathy Bacon, Thief River Falls, a friend, and Laurie Reopelle, a sister of the bride. The maid of honor was attired in a Hawaiian floral print polyester gown in blue, turquoise and lavender. It was styled with a full skirt and a blouson top with spaghetti straps. She wore a blue picture hat with plumeria flowers and carried long-stemmed blue roses and fern with baby blue ribbon streamers. Miss Bacon wore similar attire while Miss Reopelle wore a turquoise crepe back satin gown and a white hat with turquoise ribbon and plumeria flowers. She carried white long-stemmed roses with white ribbon streamers. All wore mother-of-pearl necklaces and earrings, their gifts from the bride.

Bill Taylor of Minneapolis attended his brother as best man. Groomsman was Bob Taylor, Minneapolis, another brother. Todd Reopelle, brother of the bride, and Steve Nicholson, Minneapolis, a brother-in-law of the groom, served as ushers. They wore baby blue tuxedos with deep blue accents. Their boutonniere were blue roses with babies' breath. The groom's attire, including his rose and babies' breath boutonniere, was in all white.

Mrs. Reopelle wore a gown of Hawaiian polyester print in orange, peach and rose. Her gown was designed with a high bodice trimmed with a dainty ruffle. A deep flounce complemented her full skirt. The mother of the groom wore a sleeveless light blue gown with a pleated top. Her corsage was of three blue silk roses.

Honor guests were Mrs. Ann Walter, maternal grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Irene Reopelle, paternal grandmother of the bride; Vera Griehs, maternal grandmother of the groom, and Pat and Mel Taylor, the bride's personal attendants.

A reception in the church parlors for relatives and friends was hosted by the bride's parents. Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with blue flowers and topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom.

The cake was cut and served by Suzanne Stiedl and Carol Tabott. Joann Peters and Sharon Johnson poured the coffee. All are friends of the bride's family.

At the guest book was Bonnie Nicholson, sister of the groom. Chris Tabott and Mary Krystosek served the punch as Cheryl Amundson, Colleen Cullen, Cindy Tabott, Dawn Engelstad and Becky Ulrich served as waitresses. All are friends of the bride. Debbie Brand and Colleen Gray of Chicago, cousins of the bride, arranged the gifts. The rice packets were distributed by Scott Reopelle, brother of the bride, and Chris Greenfield, nephew of the bride.

Relatives and friends attending were from Colorado, California, North Dakota, Iowa and the Thief River Falls area.

Following a wedding trip to the Portage camp resort at Backus and a tour across country to Texas, the couple will return to Oahu, Hawaii, where both are stationed with the U.S. Navy in communications. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls; and the groom is a graduate of the Backus high school.

Wood Energy Seminar Set At Brainerd

Crow Wing river environmental education council and the Staples regional energy information center are co-sponsoring a wood energy seminar at Madden's resort and golf club, in Brainerd, August 30-31.

The purpose of the seminar is to provide middle and small scale industries and institutions with information and education regarding the ramifications of using wood as energy for commercial concerns, in terms of cost, availability, reproduction, management, technology, and finance availability.

Conference participants will be exposed to a wide variety of topics on practical and technical applications of commercial sized wood heating systems; the status of wood as a potential commercial resource in Minnesota, first hand experiences of utilizing commercial sized wood heating systems through case studies, information regarding state and federal programs, and ideas on how to begin the search for funding. Question and answer sessions will be provided at the end of each day.

The conference fee, without room and board, is $15.00 per person.

Deadline for pre-registration is August 1, 1979. Reservations can be made by contacting Betty Holden, reservation manager, Madden Inn and Golf Club, Box 387, Brainerd, MN 56401.

Gasohol Group Officers Named, By-Laws Set

Last week the directors of the Minnesota gasohol commission met in Olivia to elect officers and adopt official by-laws for the state chapter. Officers elected were: Ray Anderson, president, Detroit Lakes; Rep. Dave Fjoslien, vice president, St. Paul; LeRoy Deichman, vice president, N. Mankato; and Glenn Klecker, secretary, Minneapolis and John Wilkerson, treasurer, Olivia.

National Gasohol commission delegates also were elected and include the above mentioned officers along with Jack Tersteeg, Olivia, and Einar Satter, Norcross.

Minnesota gasohol commission was officially incorporated April 30, 1979, with a mailing address and headquarters at Box 86A, Highway 212 and 71, Olivia, 56277, (612) 523-1470. The primary purpose of the commission as stated in the adopted by-laws is to encourage maximum use of alcohol-blended fuels derived from agricultural and other biomass resources through research and development, accumulation and dissemination of information concerning alcohol-blended fuels in the best interest of the public, environment and energy efficiency and further to be the official state affiliate of the national gasohol commission.

Memberships are open to any person or organization with a sincere interest in the use of alcohol fuels from agricultural and other biomass resources regardless of age, sex, national origin or economic status. Glenn Klecker stated that the goals of the commission cannot be met without individual and corporate support.

"We've only made a small beginning by incorporating and writing by-laws. Now it is up to the public. If you'd like to help promote alcohol fuels or if you'd like further information, please call or write one of the officers or the corporate headquarters.

"The benefits of alcohol fuels are many. A few are increased farm income, a cleaner environment, less dependency on Arab nations, savings of billions of dollars on oil imports, thousands of new jobs, higher quality fuels, reduction of carcinogens and poisons from the air, etc. We welcome and encourage your support and will be most happy to try to answer any questions you may have."

Driver Caution Required For Child Safety

There will soon be a population explosion of young pedestrians along our streets and roads. Youngsters are headed back for another school year, and it's time for motorists to exercise the extra alertness that can make the school trip accident-free.

The automobile clubs of Minnesota (AAA) are inaugurating their annual "School's Open—Drive Carefully" campaign by cautioning drivers to remember that young children often lack walking experience in the traffic environment, and depend on motorists to execute safe driving practices. AAA warns that the most common child action leading to a potential accident situation has been identified as a "dart out," or the sudden appearance of a person in the path of a moving vehicle.

There are conditions, all easily corrected, that can interfere with a driver's ability to act quickly in case of emergency. Frost, rain or dirt on the outside and smoke film on the inside of a windshield reduce driver visibility. Additionally, early morning darkness or driving into the sun can have the same dimishing effect. In areas where children will be walking or congregating, tragedy can result.

AAA urges drivers to be especially watchful for youngsters when turning right on a red traffic signal and always obey posted speed limits in school zone areas. They are also reminded that they are required to stop when they approach a school bus that has stopped to load or unload pupils, and remain stopped until children have crossed the street and the bus is moving again. This applies both in front and behind the bus, the only exception being on a divided highway separated by a median strip.

Parents can minimize the danger by reviewing safe walking rules with their children and by selecting the safest walking route to school — the one with the most guarded crossings, the least traffic and fewest intersections — and then walking with their children prior to the first day of school.

The Veterans Administration work force has risen by 28 per cent to 228,885, since 1954. Not until 1974 did VA employment exceed 200,000. In 1965, VA hit its 25-year low with 167,059 workers.

5 From Area To Attend BSU Fall Institute

Four Thief River Falls teachers and one from Plummer will be among 50 junior high school mathematics and science instructers participating in a unique educational program beginning this fall, designed to benefit both themselves and their students.

Attending the science institute from Thief River Falls will be Randy Johnson of Franklin middle school, William Fogarty, Jacqueline Knute and Robert Michalicek of Lincoln high school. Paul Walker of Plummer will attend the math institute.

Through a $32,000 grant received from the national science foundation, Bemidji state university's division of science and math is sponsoring a special in-service institute. During fall and spring quarters institute participants will spend time on campus enrolled in an evening course. Classes to be offered include: mathematics topics, which examines mathematical structure of concepts with emphasis on use of models such as geoboards and logic blocks; concepts of mineralogy and petrology, an exploration of sediments as indicators of past environments, plate tectonics and geomorphology; and astronomy, which includes such topics as solar and lunar orientation, black holes and space probes.

In addition, a portion of the classtime will be utilized in preparing a unit or project for use in participants' home classrooms.

During winter quarter, institute staff members will visit enrollees and help implement projects and provide whatever consultant services are desired. The three-quarter experience will earn participants a total of six quarter hours of graduate or undergraduate credit — the cost of which, plus travel and books, are covered by the institute.

Selection of the participants is based on consideration of applications, and the candidates' potential for instructional improvement. Twenty-five individuals are being named for each program (science and math).

Northern Mn. Pork Producer Ass'n. Formed

On August 14 at a meeting in the Best Western motel in Thief River Falls, the northern Minnesota pork producers association was formed. Pork producers from Marshall, Pennington, Kittson, Red Lake and Polk counties were in attendance. Elected to a nine-man executive board were Robert Fincher, Viking, Dalton Anderson and Roger Porch, Grygla, three-year terms; Orvin Sunsdahl and Bruce Nelson, Goodridge and Jerry Nelson, Red Lake Falls, two-year terms; Rodney Wayne, Dale Svendsgaard and Larry Vigen, all of Goodridge, one-year terms.

Officers elected that night were Robert Fincher, president; Roger Porch, vice president; Larry Vigen, secretary; Dalton Anderson, treasurer; Dale Svendsgaard, membership chairman; and Jerry Nelson, state director.

Northern Minnesota pork producers association is affiliated with the Minnesota pork producers association and the national pork producers association. The aims and goals of the association are disease control, market development, pork promotion, herd improvement and financing of hog operations.

Regular meetings will be held where pork producers can discuss mutual problems and ways to solve problems. Speakers will be brought in to bring producers up to date on housing; feed rations, drugs and equipment.

October 30 at 8 p.m. will be the next scheduled meeting at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. Guest speaker will be a veterinarian specializing in hog diseases.

Pork producers are at present conducting a membership drive. Hog producers dues are $2 per year. Associate members dues are $10 per year. Associate members are any persons who are interested in the pork industry, such as feed dealers, bankers, builders, hog equipment dealers and implement dealers. Any non hog producer can become an associate member, entitled to all benefits except voting.

Northern Minnesota pork producers association members can come from any county. In the near future an auxiliary — the Porketts — women who are involved in the pork industry, will be formed. We will also hold barbecue picnics, pork queen contest and shows, and nominate members for the swine honor roll and master pork producer and Minnesota state pork all-American.

With fresh fruits at their peak of perfection, homemade straight-from-the-oven pies will also be at their very best. To produce the ultimate fresh fruit pie, prepare the pastry, then mix together corn starch, sugar and spices and toss with fruit; then bake. The corn starch will thicken the fruit juices as the pie bakes, giving an attractive translucent filling that won't mask the fresh fruit flavor. Fresh Blueberry Pie is just one of eight recipes on the Ultimate Fresh Fruit Pie recipe sampler. For a free copy write to Argo/Kingsford's corn starch, Dept. PS-D, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE

1 cup sugar
2½ tablespoons corn starch
4 cups fresh blueberries
1 tablespoon corn oil margarine
1 recipe double crust pastry for 9-inch pie

In large bowl stir together sugar and corn starch. Add berries; toss. Turn into pastry-lined pie plate. Dot with margarine. Cover pie with pastry; seal and flute edge. Cut several slits in top crust to permit steam to escape. Bake in 425°F oven 35 to 45 minutes or until crust is browned. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Grygla-Gatzke Schools Open This Morning

Grygla-Gatzke schools opened for kindergarten through grade 12 today with Basil Shell as new principal of the school. Shell joins superintendent Sal Hoffert in the district's administrative team and for the past five years has been superintendent at Badger.

Enrollment is expected to be down about 10 at the school which graduated 36 students last spring and has 23 kindergarten students scheduled to start classes this fall.

Faculty changes will be few this year. Principal Shell's wife Maxine will replace David Moen as Title I teacher. Jerome Maki will teach fifth grade, repalcing Doris Simmons, and will also serve as boys' basketball coach.

Boys' football and girls' volleyball are underway with Darwin Hagen and Pam Worth as the respective coaches.

The immediate and long range goals of Independent School District No. 564 shall be as follows:

(1) Instruction of moral values and ideals that were and still are considered valuable in American society.

(2) An equal educational opportunity for every child to develop his-her physical and mental assets within the resources of the district.

(3) A balanced course of study.

(4) Modern methods of study and instruction.

(5) A strong staff.

(6) Adequate building, equipment, and supplies.

(7) Efficient and responsible budgeting.

Cold Air Used In UND Energy Saving Method

Use of what some regard as North Dakota's most abundant natural resource recently won the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks national distinction for saving energy.

That resource is cold North Dakota air, and officials of UND's physical plant have capitalized on it to cool water, which, in turn, is used to cool large bearings in power plant equipment.

UND received the award from the national association of college and university business officers' (NACUBO) recent national convention. LeRoy Sondrol, UND director of physical plant and assistant director of operations, noted that UND was among 30 institutions to receive national recognition for implementation of an outstanding cost reduction program.

Before installation of the new energy-saving system, Sondrol noted that water from the Grand Forks municipal water supply was used to cool bearings in the power plant and they was drained into the sewer system.

"We thought there might be a way to recirculate this water because we were not only paying the municipal water rate, but we were also paying a sewer rate," Sondrol explained.

UND researchers then discovered that water could be cooled sufficiently any time the atmospheric temperature was below 75 degrees. In North Dakota, this means at least six to eight months of cooling power to reduce internal temperatures, Sondrol said.

"The thing that dawned on me was, here we are in a climate that has more cold air than warm, and why can't we start harnessing the cold air?" Sondroll recalled.

The resulting system allows the same cooling water to be recirculated to hot bearings after being cooled by a secondary system which is cooled by outside cold air. This results in savings, Sondrol pointed out, in excess of nine million gallons of water annually. UND officials expect the new system to pay for itself in three and one-half years because of the substantial savings in water and sewer charges.

"The long-range use of this concept could be much greater than what we're using in just the power plant," Sondrol said. "This northern climate could be better used to cool food processing and industrial plants, where feasible, to save on the increasing cost of energy needed to cool mechanically. The new cooling system used in the UND power plant," he pointed out, "could also be fine-tuned to work in large freezers and even in household refrigerators."

Rites At Grygla Held For Mrs. Christ Aaserud

Funeral services for Mrs. Christ (Marie) Aaserud, 89, of Minneapolis, and formerly of Grygla, were held Friday at 2 p.m., at Our Saviors Lutheran church, rural Grygla. Mrs. Aserud died Tuesday night at the Crystal Lake Nursing home in Robbinsdale.

Rev. Jay Borchert officiated at the services. Mrs. Alice Skreland was the organist and Mrs. Arnold Hammer, the vocalist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Belmont Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were grandsons: Robert Hagen, Larry Hagen, Mark Hagen, Kyle Harmer, Kurt Schroeder and Curtis Olstad Jr.

Mrs. Aserud, the former Marie Smeby, was born July 9, 1890 at Toien, Norway. She grew to womanhood in Norway and immigrated to the United States in 1912, settling in Esmond, N.D. She was married there on July 17, 1914 to Christ Aserud. The couple moved to Grygla in 1920 and farmed there until 1964. Since then, they have lived in Minneapolis.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters: Mrs. Cora Olstad, Cedar, and Mrs. Earl (Martha) Hagen, Emo, Ont., Canada; 10 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are a brother, Ole Martinson, Rhinelander, Wis., and three sisters: Martha, Frederikka and Minde, all residing in Norway.

She was preceded in death by her parents, two grandsons, a great-granddaughter, three brothers and one sister.

Services Held Today For Mrs. Bessie May, 80

Funeral services for Mrs. Bridgit "Bessie" May, 80, of Thief River Falls are being held today (Monday) at 1 p.m., at the Green Funeral home. Mrs. May died Wednesday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Mrs. May, the former Bridgit Stromme, was born Jan. 14, 1899 in Chester township, Polk county, to Ole and Helga Stromme. She attended the Nesland school and grew to womanhood in that area. She was married in St. Paul in 1922 to Jack L. May. The couple lived in St. Paul until 1927, when they moved to the Oklee community. For the past years, Mrs. May has resided in nursing homes in Thief River Falls.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Delores Salazar, Corpus Christi, Texas; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, five brothers: Ole, Gunder, Tellef, Willie and Thomas, and two sisters: Annie and Gertrude.

Services Held For Mrs. David Engevik, 24

Funeral services for Mrs. David (Cynthia) Engevik, 24, of Gatzke were held Thursday at 10 a.m., at the United Lutheran church in Gatzke. Mrs. Engevik died unexpectedly Sunday evening, August 19, at her home in Veldt township, Marshall county.

Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the services. Special music was provided by the King's Men of Thief River Falls. Melanie Lunsetter served as organist. Interment was in the Lanstad cemetery, near Gatzke, with the Collins Funeral home of Middle River in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Harvey Ebbighausen, Don Kelsey, Dean Anderson, Nathan Engevik, Ron Beachy and Raymond Hagen.

Mrs. Engevik, the former Cynthia Bowling, was born Sept. 29, 1954 at Greenley, Colo., to Edwin and Patricia Bowling. She attended school and grew to womanhood in Colorado. She also attended Bible school at Three Hills, Alberta, Canada.

On June 10, 1977, she was married at Gatzke to David Engevik. Since then, she and her husband have lived and farmed in Veldt township, Marshall county.

She was a member of the United Lutheran church of Gatzke.

Surviving are her husband, one son, Joshua, at home; her parents: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bowling, a brother, Edwin Bowling, and three sisters: Mrs. Ken (Pam) Thiessen and Laurie Bowling, all of Grand Junction, Colo., and Marsha Meyer of Portland, Ore.

Julia Sande Services Held In Minneapolis

Funeral services were held Friday, August 24, at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Minneapolis for Mrs. Julia H. Sande, 83, who lived in Thief River Falls during the 1920-s. Mrs. Sande, widow of Ole R. Sande, Pennington county superintendent of schools from 1922-27, died in Minneapolis on August 21.

Mrs. Sande, the former Julia Herleikson, was born in Northwood, N.D. and was graduated from St. Olof college in 1922. She married Ole Sande in 1925 and moved to Moorhead in 1926. Since then; she has resided in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Ill.; Pine Ridge and Aberdeen, S.D., and at Wahpeton, N.D.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Harold (Donna) Dahlgren, Wheaton, Md.; and Mrs. Owen (Ruth) Shird, 6204 Parkwood Road, Elnda; a son, Robert Sande, Dickenson, N.D.; six grandchildren, a great-grandchild, and two sisters: Mrs. Helma Engen, Northwood, N.D., and Mrs. Beatta Markve, Oklahoma City, Okla.

She was preceded in death by her husband who died in Minneapolis in 1963, shortly after retiring from the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Services Held At Holt For Lars Ring, 86

Funeral services for Lars Ring, 86, of this city were held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Nazareth Lutheran church at Holt. Ring died unexpectedly Wednesday morning upon arrival at Northwestern hospital.

Regents Okay Fee For Daily Pending Spring Proposals

Mandatory student fee that helps support the Minnesota Daily will stand, at least for now, as a result of action taken by the University of Minnesota board of regents August 9. Regents met at the university's landscape arboretum in Chaska.

The board adopted a four-point resolution that calls for no immediate change in the way the Daily fee is collected and states that any future change in the fee must come through the normal process of setting fees.

Each spring, proposals for the next year-s student fees are studied by a student fees committee, a committee of student government, and the administration, before going to the regents for approval. What this means is that any move to change the Daily fee would have to come from the students themselves.

The resolution also calls for a journalistic code of ethics to be drafted by the board of student publications, the official publisher of the Daily, and presented to the regents in January along with the publications board's recommendation for changes in its own structure.

The motion to maintain the fee, which was made by St. Paul regent Mary Schertler, passed on a 9 to 3 vote. Madison Lake regent Lauris Krenik, West Concord regent Charles Casey, and Paynesville regent Lloyd Peterson voted against the motion.

Krenik expressed disappointment with the plan to wait until January for the publications board's report. "We know we must consider First Amendment rights, but we are also responsible for the welfare of the university," he said.

"As long as this thing is hanging around, everyone's being hurt. The faculty is being hurt, students are being hurt, and we're losing legislative support," he said.

But Minneapolis regent David Lebedoff, who chaired the special subcommittee that drafted the resolution, applauded the efforts of students on the board of publications and the Daily staff. "I don't know what any regent, or any citizen, or any parent could have expected them to do about this other than what they have done," he said.

Board of student publications is already in the midst of its inquiry into codes of ethics and its own structure, and the Daily has adopted a new editorial management plan written by current editor Kate Stanley.

At their July meeting, the regents appointed a special four-member subcommittee to study several aspects of the student-run Minnesota Daily in the wake of controversy stirred by a spring quarter finals week humor issue. That issue came under fire from members of various religious groups who felt it was anti-religious and offensive.

Regents have been under consistent pressure since the issue appeared to take some action against the Daily, and the most common demand from critics has been the severing of financial ties between the university and the Daily.

At the meeting yesterday, the regents also approved a plan to post official University notices on bulletin boards across campus in addition to printing them in the Daily.

The fact that official notices have, until now, been carried only in the Daily, was a point of contention between the regents and the Daily critics who felt students should not be required to read a publication they find offensive.

Peterson, who was the author of the original regents' resolution expressing disgust with the humor issue, told the board he is prepared to "wait and see what happens in the spring."

"If they (critics of the Daily fee) could have the benefit of 15 minutes of one of these meetings, I'm sure they'd come to the conclusion that it's not that easy to cut off the fee," Peterson said.

Regents have been warned by University attorney R. Joel Tierney that a decision to change the Daily fee now could be interpreted as punishment against the Daily, and thus an abridgment of its First Amendment rights. Since the Daily fee has already been set for the academic year, it would require a vote by the regents to overturn that fee.

"We've got good people over there now (at the Daily), and I'm convinced of that," Peterson said. "I think it behooves the students now to throw the ball in their court."

Immediately after the vote was taken, members of two religious groups distributed angry statements to the media. A statement from James Ahler, president of the Catholic league, accused the regents and President C. Peter Magrath of "callous disregard for the rights of the Christian minority on campus."

Kathy Sackett, chairman of the student Ad Hoc anti-defamation committee, called the regents' subcommittee meetings a "kangaroo court," and said her group will "work further through both the Minnesota legislature and the court system" to cut off support for the Daily.

In other action, the regents heard a lengthy recommendation to make fundamental changes in the way tuition is assessed at the University.

The report, presented by vice president for student affairs Frank Wilderson, recommends that tuition be charged by the credit instead of by the quarter, and that all first- and second-year students be charged the same tuition rates.

Under the current system, students who do not take the traditional "full load" have paid much more for their education by the time they get their degrees, Wilderson said. In recent years, more and more students have worked toward their degrees a few credits at a time for a vareity of reasons, he said.

"The cumulative cost of their degrees is much higher, and these people are subsidizing those who are proceeding in the classical fashion," Wilderson said.

Several regents voiced concern over the effect such a change could have on the institution. "This could change the essential nature of the University from a place where people take a full schedule to a place where you have a lot of in-and-out students," Lebedoff said.

According to Wilderson, tuition rates under the new plan would be adjusted to give more of a break to the part-time student while maintaining a certain financial edge for full-time people.

Regents also approved a motion to borrow $7 million to construct a steam power generator and build a steam distribution system that would connect the University, Augsburg College, and St. Mary's and Fairview Hospitals.

Money will pay for the first phase of a project that will eventually heat Augsburg and the two hospitals, allow the University to sell electricity to northern states power company, and burn all contaminated wastes within a 15-mile radius of the campus.

Kompelien To Begin Study At Divinity School

Kevin Kompelien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kompelien and grandson of Mrs. Bella Kompelien of Thief River Falls, left August 11 to attend Trinity Evangelical Divinity school in Deerfield, Ill. Kompelien will spend a few weeks in an intensive study of Greek prior to the regular commencement of classes in September.

While in Thief River Falls, 21 year old Kompelien has been active in youth and music ministries at the Evangelical Free church.

Helpful Tips On Low-Cost Decorating Ideas

MAKING THE BASICS OF GOOD DECORATING WORK

When you remodel a room in your house, the job won't be complete until you furnish and decorate properly. That means selecting and placing furniture correctly, creating a harmonious color scheme and picking the right accessories.

Start by selecting furniture from what you already have and adding just enough to complete the picture. The first rule of thumb: don't overdo it. Help is available from any standard reference work on interior decorating, but you may be able to do the job just as well yourself.

Be choosy and don't clutter the room with too many pieces. Remember that heavy, bulky furniture can make a small room seem cluttered and even a large room crowded.

Though seating pieces should be comfortable, they must be in scale with the room's dimensions and proportions and in keeping with its architectural style.

For instance, a room paneled with Georgia-Pacific's Chateau II Birch has a clean, contemporary look that calls for the contrast of dark-stained furnishings and brightly colored accessories, but the early American feeling of a paneling like G-P's Ol' Savannah Pine seems to need simple antiques and reproductions.

You should exercise care, too, when selecting the coverings for upholstered furniture. Generally the largest items in the room, upholstered pieces tend to dominate the space, especially if covered in bright fabrics.

Bear in mind that both fabrics—which include drapery material and tablecloths, pillows, sometimes lampshades—and colors should be selected with your decorating scheme or style in mind. Generally, traditional rooms require smaller patterns and quieter colors than contemporary interiors, which need bright colors and larger patterns and designs.

When deciding on paint, wallpaper or paneling, remember that smaller rooms should have brighter wall colors and lighter wood tones in the paneling. Dark paneling like Renaissance Tuscany from Georgia-Pacific tends to bring the walls in and can make a large room seem cozier. Lighter finishes visually expand the room and make it seem larger.

Consider exposure, too. Rooms with northern exposures will look cold and uninviting done in cool blues and greens, while those facing south and west can seem too bright and intense decorated in the warm yellows and orange.

For a full-color, 29-page booklet, called "How to Make Beautiful Things Happen With Walls", send 25¢ to "Beautiful Walls", Dept. NAPS, Georgia-Pacific Corp., 900 S.W. Fifth Avenue, Portland, Oregon 97204. It can help you bring the beautiful finishing touch of successful decorating to your new room.

CHOOSE ACCESSORIES TO COMPLEMENT YOUR WALLCOVERING. Warm wood tones of decorative panelings work well with any color scheme, bright or subdued.

Four-County WIC Program Has Openings

WIC (women, infants and children) supplemental nutrition program has been provided to residents in Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Pennington counties since February 1979. Purpose of the WIC program is to help people have good food to eat and to educate clients about good nutrition and how to stay healthy.

WIC is a United States department of agriculture sponsored program with the four county early periodic screening service directing the area program.

Persons who can be certified to take part in WIC are infants and children up to five years of age, pregnant woman from the beginning of pregnancy until six months after giving birth and up to a year after birth if nursing.

All participants must show a "nutritional or medical risk" factor. This is determined by checking height, weight and blood and reviewing eating habits. Anyone anemic, overweight, underweight, having food allergies or anything that interferes with good nutrition is considered nutritionally needy. Family income is also a qualifying factor with the cut off being $12,000. Families with incomes at or below this level with a mother or child showing a nutritional need, qualify for the WIC program.

The four-county WIC has a capacity for 200 participants with the client load after 7 months of service at 112. Therefore openings for immediate placement on the WIC program are available.

WIC vouchers worth about $30 are issued monthly to participants. The voucher list the type and amounts of food and formula that a client may purchase. Foods on the WIC program are carefully selected to provide protein, iron, calcium and vitamins A and C. For example all juices purchased must be pure and meet 100 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of Vitamin C. Other types of food WIC provides are infant formula, juice and cereal, eggs, cheese, milk and iron fortified adult cereal.

Clinics are conducted monthly in Warren, Grygla, Newfolden, Karlstad, Hallock, Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls and Oklee with schedules are published monthly in local newspapers and broadcast over local radio.

Coordinator for the four-county WIC program is Muriel Roley. Individuals or organizations who wish further information may call or write four-County EPS Service, 208 East Colvin, Warren, MN 56762, phone 745-4004.

MSU Course For Nurses Is Offered Here

Moorhead state university will offer 44 off-campus courses this fall, including one in Thief River Falls for nurses.

In Thief River Falls, "Initial Care and Assessment of the Trauma Patient" will meet September 4, 6 and 11 from 5 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls AVTI. One-credit workshop will cover initial assessment of emergency room treatment, focusing on the neurological, cardiovascular and respiratory areas.

Enrollment costs for off-campus courses are $12.65 a credit for undergraduate students and $25.85 for graduate students.

Students age 62 or over may enroll in these courses for only $2 per credit, or free if enough classroom space is available. Some classes, however, have special fees all students must pay separate from tuition.

Registration and payments can be handled at the first class meetings. For further information, contact Moorhead state continuing education division at (218) 236-2181.

Insurance Rep To Hear Local Complaints

Brian Pennington, insurance investigator representing the Minnesota state insurance division in hearing complaints about insurance claims and policies, will be available to the public in Thief River Falls at the Minnesota employment services office from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, September 5.

This service is free and no appointments are required or made. Early attendance with all related insurance papers will help Pennington in interviewing all complainants on a first come, first served basis.

Complaints may also be made by mail to: State Insurance Division, 500 Metro Square Building, 7th and Robert Streets, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Bus Operators Can Report Illegal Passers

"Minnesota school bus operators can report vehicles which unlawfully pass them to any law enforcement agency having jurisdiction, and the vehicle owner can be fined up to $100," said commissioner John P. Sopsic of the department of public safety.

New legislation, effective August 1, allows for the driver of the offending vehicle to be arrested within two hours after the offense is committed and the driver, upon conviction, can be sentenced to a fine of up to $500, 90 days in jail, or both.

State law requires the driver of a vehicle to stop at least 20 feet from a school bus which is stopped to load or unload children and is displaying flashing red lights and an extended stop arm.

"Motorists have ample time to stop behind a school bus. Flashing amber warning lights warn drivers at least 100 feet before a stop. Anyone who is not following too closely can slow down and stop in that amount of time," said Sopsic.

He urged motorists to remain stopped for the school bus until the stop arm has been retracted and all children are safely on the other side of the roadway.

Florian Church Bazaar Sept. 2

Annual fall bazaar of the Assumption Catholic church of Florian will be September 2, beginning with a polka mass at 10 a.m. Following the mass, a performance will be given by the young Polish dancers.

A meal will be served from 12 noon to 6 p.m. and games and other activities are planned throughout the day.

Calligraphy Is Offered At Two-Day Workshop

Calligraphy (beautiful writing) is one of the 16 classes which will be offered at the North country arts and crafts workshop at Concordia language camp near Bemidji September 26-27.

Teacher for the six-hour class, is Yvonne Meyer Johnson, one of the few professional Minnesota calligraphers. She will teach spacing, layout and uses.

Other classes which will be offered at the two-day workshop are klokkestreng, applique quilting, cathedral window quilting, stained glass, pine cone craft, refinishing furniture, woodcarving, spinning, tree and plant identification, bird appreciation, strawcraft, tole painting, coil basketry and sketching and rosemaling.

There are overnight accommodations and meals are served at the camp. Everyone must be pre-registered as the classes will be filled on a first come, first served basis. Registrations must be postmarked by September 7 to avoid a late fee. Registration blanks may be obtained from county extension offices.

Paper Mate's new "Eraser Mate" ink pen could cause possible forgery / alteration problems
The Paper Mate Division of Gillette Company has developed a new ink pen called "Eraser Mate" that has erasable ink. The use of this pen in writing checks could lead to possible forgery and/or check alterations.
To avoid the possibility of this problem, we recommend that you do not use this type of pen or accept ink pens from individuals unknown to you when writing checks or signing any legal documents.
We will not be liable for checks altered when they are written with erasable ink.
If you have any questions contact our Bookkeeping Department, 681-1930.

A Valuable Program

"Ignorance is a personal problem," a perceptive person once wrote. "But to take advantage of one's position to share that ignorance and call it gospel is a social crime of monumental proportions."

This is the way a statement of the Wildlife Management institute leads into discussion of the Pittman-Robertson program, created in 1937 to apportion funds among state wildlife agencies on a cost-sharing basis for research, land acquisition, habitat development and outdoor recreation. Money for the program comes not from the public purse but from an excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, archery equipment and handguns at the manufacturer level.

The reference to ignorance is pointed at individuals and groups who attack the program with the claim that most of the money is spent on animals and birds that are hunted. "They are half right, which makes them half wrong and, thus, ignorant of some important facts," the institute statement says.

In the more than 40 years since its inception, the program has financed more than a billion dollars in wildlife restoration activity. That is work that has been done for the benefit of wildlife which would have been done in no other way.

Indeed, most of the money is invested in programs designed and labeled to benefit game animals and birds. Consequently, most of these populations are in pretty good shape. But the programs benefitting these species do not decimate other non-game species as the attackers of the program imply. Many non-game species are increasing as a result of the programs.

"The reason is relatively simple," the wildlife institute points out. "Certain groups of wildlife species (game and non-game) prefer certain types of habitat. For example, when a land manager used prescribed annual burning in a maturing southern pine forest to stimulate the growth of low vegetation that provides food and cover for bobwhite quail, he automatically helps cotton rats, cottontail rabbits, bobcats (which eat the rats and rabbits) and at least 20 species of songbirds.

"It happens that way because the rats, rabbits and songbirds need the same type of food and cover as do the quail. There are many other closely knit associations of game and non-game in other types of habitat. Experienced wildlife managers can name the animals — game and non-game — Expected to be present in any one area simply by looking at the habitat type."

Since not all species like the same habitat types, the Pittman-Robertson funds are used to create diverse habitat types. The money is used for controlled burns in one place, water impoundment in another, timber cutting elsewhere, cultivation in another place and complete protection to existing vegetation someplace else.

"A visit to a water area developed for ducks or to an upland area managed basically for deer, turkeys or squirrels quickly reveals that many non-game animals are benefitted," the institute points out. "In fact, the number of non-game species benefitted invariably exceeds the number of game species."

The institute statement concludes as follows:

But to appreciate the present, one must understand the past. About 1900, many authorities did not have much hope that any of the larger forms of wildlife would survive beyond the 1920s. This pessimistic view failed to foresee the scientific wildlife management programs that developed in the early 1930s and which, with the help of P-R money, have expanded through subsequent decades. The beaver, pronghorn, bison, elk, white-tailed deer, wild turkey, trumpeter swan, wood duck, sea otter, and several species of egrets and herons were in dire straits during the early 1900s. Today, all these animals are relatively abundant. The P-R program helped finance the return and maintenance of these species, and many others, both game and nongame. And it does not cost federal taxpayers one penny because all costs for administering the program are borne entirely by the manufacturers' excise taxes paid by those who enjoy recreational hunting.

Let NASA Do It

Following editorial is from the Baudette Region:

You all know the scenario: The United States, along with most industrialized nations in the world today, is mired in a deep energy crunch.

There appears to be no shortage of energy in the world today, but there is definitely a problem with useable energy supplies. Petroleum supplies are tightly controlled by a small cartel of producing nations, and restrictions of supply along with drastic price increases have created havoc in Europe and America. Nuclear energy is drawing critics by the millions, including the governor of California who should know better. Solar energy technology appears to be as far from becoming an effective solution as it was thirty years ago, while the government and some of the oil conglomerates seem intent on nipping alcohol-based energy supplies in the bud.

It takes energy, and lots of it, to run any industrialized nation. But developing alternatives to petroleum seem farther and farther away with each passing month. In the meantime, the oil producing nations are developing more and more of a political stranglehold on the countries of the west each year.

In the meantime, conflicts between an ineffective President and a divisive Congress stymie any sort of effective energy program. The U.S. Department of Energy, in attempts to correct the short term problems, only manages to increase prices and restrict supplies of available energy sources.

It's a frustrating situation. It would seem that the United States is digging itself into a hole from which it will be impossible to climb out.

And leading the way is the newly-created Department of Energy. That federal bureaucracy appears to be the modern day equivalent of Abbott and Costello. No matter what steps it takes to alleviate our energy problems, it always seems to accomplish the opposite of its intended results.

In a way, the DOE's record of frustration should not be surprising. Its performance during the past months mirrors less than perfect results demonstrated by most federal departments, especially those charged with directing domestic policies.

We would like to forward one possible solution to the problem: Let's turn the whole thing over to NASA.

You don't hear too much about it any more, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is still around.

Created in response to Russia's initial lead in space technology and President John Kennedy's stated goal to put a man on the moon in the 1960's, that organization is one of a very few federal bureaucracies to accomplish its mission.

NASA brought together the finest engineering and scientific talent in the nation. Its states goal — to land the first man on the moon — was technologically impossible in the early 1960's. Yet, when Neil Armstrong stepped onto the moon's surface on July 20, 1969, less than a decade had passed since Kennedy set that goal for his country.

NASA had its setbacks, especially in its early years. Still, there were few internal scandals, no multi-billion dollar cost overruns, no history of ineffective management during NASA's glory years.

While many complained about spending government money for nonsense like sending a man into space, NASA quietly accomplished its job — and more. That digital watch you're probably wearing, the pocket calculator you just bought for less than $10.00, the high strength plastics vital to industry today, were all direct results of NASA research. Add to that some giant strides in medical technology and astounding advances in computer capabilities, and it becomes more and more evident that NASA paid us back more than the tax dollars that were put into it.

Best of all, most NASA research wasn't classified. The results of that research became readily avaiable to the American public.

Much of NASA's funding was phased out, following those few landings on the moon. The organization continues in abbreviated form today, quietly preparing for the space shuttle era of the 1980's.

Few government agencies have done so much as NASA did in its glory years. In the meantime, the present Department of Energy muddles along, defeating itself in everything it tries and actually regressing, rather than accomplishing anything.

Yet there stands NASA with an existing, effective organization, a history of effective action, and more than a few pleasant surprises.

Why not turn the whole energy mess over to them? That way, it might be solved some day.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"Sorry I can't pay you, Doc," the patient lamented. "I slowed down like you told me and lost my job."

QUEEN CANDIDATE for the annual "Blast to Brooks" celebration September 8 is Carolyn Gagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gagner of Mentor. Sixteen-year-old Carolyn is one of six girls competing for the Miss Brooks title by selling promotional buttons for "Blast to Brooks," participant who sells the most buttons will earn the title. This fall Carolyn will be a junior at Mentor high school. Her hobbies include baking, roller skating, downhill skiing and swimming. Carolyn also participates in tennis and band at school and has served as the volleyball manager. Her sponsor for the Miss Brooks competition is Cenex.

Henry Ford Had More Than One Good Idea

—Alcohol produced from farm products has tremendous potential to meet the nation's energy needs.

—Cars could be designed to run well on alcohol rather than on petroleum products.

—Production of alcohol for running cars would provide another needed market for American farmers.

—A nation which permits its fuel needs to be controlled by foreign countries is foolish.

Most of us assume that the above ideas are new, an outgrowth of the current energy crisis facing this country.

Not so. The statements were originally made by Henry Ford and a group of researchers he gathered around him in the early years of this century.

I was surprised to learn that at one time an alcohol-fuel industry actually existed in this country. Unfortunately, their product was burdened with a liquor tax of 40 cents per gallon, which ruled it out as an affordable fuel.

While in the White House, Teddy Roosevelt did his best to have the tax lifted, but failed.

Then the growing power of the oil industry doomed Ford's "alcohol as fuel" idea to oblivion for several decades.

But, Roosevelt and Ford were men of foresight; their idea is one whose time has now definitely arrived.

Today, we realize fully the folly of dependency on foreign oil, especially when we have products right here at home which could be used as energy. We understand the absolute necessity of developing alternates to the gas-powered vehicle. We see the worth of developing more markets for our domestic farm products.

All around the U.S., fledgling attempts are underway to get moving on development of alcohol fuels.

I will be doing everything possible in the coming months and years to aid these efforts.

Our office has already met with representatives from the Bureau of Alcohol. We'll have to change some obsolete laws that treat every still as though it were producing alcohol for human consumption.

Next, we must convince the President to switch from funding huge government bureaucracies to take over the energy-production market and, instead, give grants and loans to private efforts along this line.

Congress does not face an easy task.

It's going to take time and effort to move the American transportation system away from total dependency on petroleum products. Large problems lie ahead in the areas of development, production, marketing and distribution before alcohol fuels become widely available.

Despite these difficulties, however, this is clearly the way we must begin to move if we're going to find those long-term solutions to America's energy needs that so far have eluded the Department of Energy.

Bringing Happy Birthday wishes to Charlie Knutson on Friday afternoon were Cerise Knutson and Vivian Ruud of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Obert Svenpladsen of Minneapolis and Mrs. Leo Svenpladsen. In the evening the following brought a potluck supper and reminded Charlie of his birthday. Pastor and Mrs. Owen Christianson, Peter and Rebecca, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Paulson, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tiegland, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Aune, Margaret, Chester and Rueben Tengesdal, Mary Rustvold, Clara Ostby, Vivian Ruud and Mr. and Mrs. Thorfin Ostby. Happy birthday, Charlie.

Bryan and Corey Delorme of Thief River Falls spent Thursday until Wednesday with grandparents, Arne Kujanson's while their parents were in North Dakota and attending a wedding. Sandra Kujanson of Thief River Falls came and got them on Wednesday.

Gary Kujanson and Lorri Tollefsrud of Moorhead visited Sunday at the Arne Kujanson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fladeland of McGregor were Sunday overnight guests at the Roy Paulson home.

Florence Parson and Bernnie Korthold of LaCrosse, Wis. visited last Tuesday at the Arne Kujanson home.

Mrs. Arne Kujanson visited Thursday evening at the George Wikert home.

Jody and Carol Sistad visited Tuesday afternoon with Tammy Sistad.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Mrs. Ellen Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Alrik Lund of Thief River Falls, Alice Anderson of Rainier, Chester and Margaret Tengesdal visited recently with Mrs. Mary Rustvold.

Recent company at the Thorfin Ostby home has been Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wick of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lian of Middle River, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Aamot of Osnabrock, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Aamot of Lakota, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Ostby and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Klamar and Valarie of Gatzke, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McMillin and Randy, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Engelstad, Margaret Tengesdal, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Aune and Mrs. Roy Paulson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wally Sistad visited Tuesday evening at the Roland Sundberg home.

Vivian Ruud of Thief River Falls was Friday overnight guest at the Ed Engelstad home. Other company has been Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Richie of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Engelstad and Kevin.

Jolene and Chris Hanson of Brainerd spent last week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson. On Friday their parents came up and all visited over the weekend with Stewart Belters family of rural Thief River Falls. A pot luck dinner and lunch was served. Belters are now living in Brainerd.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ed Engelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Thorfin Ostby, Mary Rustvold and Clara Ostby were dinner guests at the Adeline Sorenson home. Mary and Clara were co-hostesses. Later Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lian of Middle River and Mrs. Agnes Engelstad visited.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Aamot of Osnabrock, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Aamot of Lakota, N.D., Mrs. Clara Ostby, Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Ostby and family and MR. and Mrs. Thorfin Ostby were supper guests Tuesday evening at the Ray McMillin home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lian of Middle River and Mrs. Agnes Engelstad of Gatzke visited Sunday with Mrs. Mary Rustvold.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sletten, Mrs. Ardith Stenen, Vernon Stenen and son Eric of Thief River Falls visited Sunday afternoon at the Arvid Sistad home.

Mrs. Gordon Saul took her mother Mrs. Mae Walker of Montana to Bagley on Monday to visit with relatives. Mrs. Amos Thompson went along and visited with her mother, Mrs. Thea Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Sorenson of Lindstrom visited Monday at the Hans Hanson home.

Sunday Minnie Bucholz accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Morris Stenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ness of Thief River Falls to the Harold Finney home at Humbolt to help Lorraine celebrate her birthday with a delicious dinner and later birthday cke. Happy birthday.

Friday luncheon guests at the Olaf Aune home were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Landsrud of Minneapolis and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Landsrud. Later visitors were Mrs. Orrin Aune of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer of Walker and Henry Schraufnogol of Mayvel, Wisc.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Randy Johnson of Thief River Falls on the recent arrival of a baby boy! He joins a brother, Renny and two sisters, Jennifer and Melissa. Proud grandmother is Ella Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Lewis were Saturday evening visitors of Mrs. Edith Dyrdal. That afternoon, Mrs. Roger Solem was an afternoon visitor and coffee guest at the Lewis home. Todd Lewis was an overnight guest of Kent at the Vernon Dokkin home.

Mert Hutchinson of Rocksbury and Bill Hoglo were Saturday morning coffee guests of Mrs. Marion Hoglo. Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Olson, Steve, Kelli and Jill of Rocksbury were supper guests after having just returned home from a week of vacationing.

LaVerne Hamre of Numedal was a Monday evening coffee guest at the Daryl Lewis home. Daryl was a luncheon guest of Mrs. Marion Hoglo early that evening. Mrs. Lewis was a coffee guest of Mrs. Don Dyrdal that same afternoon.

Mrs. Harvey Johnson (Deloris Carlson), Lynda and Sandy of Minnetonka was a Monday forenoon visitor and luncheon guest of Mrs. Edith Dyrdal.

Mrs. Bill Hoglo and Steven were Sunday after church lunch guests at the Daryl Lewis home. Cindi Solem was also a caller later. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and Todd were luncheon guests of Edith Dyrdal, who then accompanied them for a brief visit at the Nels Dyrdal home in Thief River Falls, and who was later a supper guest at the Lewis home, before attending the family night program at Oak Ridge church.

Sunday luncheon guests of Dewaine Johnson were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Austinson of North and Miss Ardith Johnson of Thief River Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Langaas also visited with them later.

Mrs. Edith Dyrdal, Mrs. Daryl Lewis and Todd and Harold Langaas were a week ago Tuesday afternoon coffee guests at the Martin Solseng home. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were visitors and coffee guests of Esther Solseng. The same Tuesday, Dick Hoglo, Todd and Troy of Thief River Falls were afternoon lunch guests, and Alvin Lietzow, Roger Dyrdal, Roger Jr. and Bryce were evening coffee guests at the Daryl Lewis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson (Deloris Carlson), Lynda and Sandy of Minnetonka and Kimberly Carlson of Sanders were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Harold Langaas home.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Olson, Steve, Kelli and Jill were Tuesday evening visitors of Mrs. Marion Hoglo. The girls remained to spend a few days with their grandmother.

Randy Nelson of Numedal joined them for the evening.

ST. BERNARD'S SCHOOL

Today Announced Its Policy For

FREE AND REDUCED PRICE MEALS

Free milk for children served under the National School Lunch, and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

FAMILY SIZE	ELIGIBILITY SCALE FOR FREE MEALS AND FREE MILK (DOLLARS)	ELIGIBILITY SCALE FOR REDUCED PRICE MEALS (DOLLARS)
1	$4,590	$7,160
2	6,040	9,420
3	7,490	11,680
4	8,940	13,940
5	10,390	16,200
6	11,840	18,470
7	13,290	20,730
8	14,740	22,990
Each Additional Family Member	1,450	2,260

Children from families whose income scale is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Applications forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. A simple statement of income and family size is required, plus a signed certificate by the parent or guardian that the information provided is correct.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of othe policy, Kathryn Kinsman will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If a parent wishes to make a formal appeal, a request may be made either orally or in writing to Father James Bernauer, 105 Knight Avenue North, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, 681-3571, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls to or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color or national origin.

The office of St. Bernard's Parish School has a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Rev. James Bernauer Superintendent 8/22/79

Scientists Study Animal Behaviors

No one knows why a huge fin whale beaches itself. Is it committing suicide? No one knows, why an 8-ton killer whale jumps completely out of the sea. Is it just being playful?

Animals perform hundreds of acts that humans don't understand. But the science of animal behavior is now finding explanations for wildlife antics that have puzzled man since Aristotle first studied birds and bees in the fourth century B.C., according to the current issue of International Wildlife magazine.

The study of wildlife is also becoming more closely linked with the study of human behavior, the National Wildlife Federation publication says, and "as scientists continue to study the lives of animals, their findings will throw new light on the nature of man himself."

Reports on recent studies are contained in a special issue of International Wildlife devoted entirely to animal behavior. Here are some of the questions about wildlife to which researchers have found answers:

Why do wolves howl? Contrary to popular belief, it's not because they're lonely. Wolves are highly social creatures with one of the most complex communications systems in the animal kingdom and the howling is a pack's way of keeping in touch at night or when visibility is poor.

Howling also serves as a mechanism for keeping different packs away from each other. Rather than fight other packs, they howl. If a neighboring group is nearby, it will know that both packs are too close for comfort. "This kind of 'distancing' is the major reason why lions roar and gibbons hoot," explains International Wildlife.

Why do birds sing? A bird's "song" is a succession of musical notes repeated in a recognizable pattern. Of the world's 8,600 or so bird species, nearly half are songbirds, and it's usually the male of a species that does the singing.

Their songs, which young birds must learn from adults, are closely connected to nesting and mating. Birds use their melodies — some species have a repertoire of half a dozen — to define their nesting territories and woo their mates. Aside from all these practical reasons, some researchers now believe that birds, like people, sing just for the "sheer joy of it."

Why do monkeys make faces? The "faces" are an important part of monkeys' communications with each other, but people have wrongly interpreted those expressions as if they were human. What looks like a monkey "yawn" may be a warning to another monkey to keep away, or it may be an expression of frustration. A monkey "grin" or "smile" is a signal of fear or submission.

Why do raccoons 'wash' their food? They don't, really. Raccoons have fingerlike paws that are as nimble and sensitive as human hands. The animals use them to probe and sift a stream bed with what looks like a scrubbing motion. Once a raccoon locates a crayfish, snail, or mussel, the tidbit is popped directly into its mouth without so much as a rub or rinse.

Why do cranes dance? If they didn't there would be no crane chicks every year. For young cranes that have never mated, dancing reinforces the union. Their courting ballets "synchronize the male and female sexually." Incidentally, all 15 species of cranes in the world dance to the same steps.

Why do animals fight? Mates or territory are usually at stake when two creatures of the same species fight. What's surprising is the fact that these encounters seldom end in a fatality. "Over millions of years, animal weapons and ritualized fighting methods have evolved so that one creature can usually escape from another without major injury," says the magazine.

Why do vampire bats suck blood? "Unlike its fictional counterpart," explains International Wildlife, "this common flying mammal of the southwestern U.S. and Central and South America is not a ruthless and terrifying mankiller." Actually, the tiny vampire bat doesn't suck blood, but laps it up "like a kitten with a saucer of milk."

It is true that the vampire bat may partake of human blood — a foot protruding from a blanket is a tempting target — but no one has ever perished from the bite of a healthy vampire. The bats prefer wild animals or cows, swine and goats. After alighting on its victim, the bat slices a shallow cut with its razor-sharp teeth and laps up the flowing blood. It needs about an ounce of blood a day.

No one knows how the vampire bat got started on its unique diet, but now its system is so specialized that it can't eat anything else.

Why do fireflies flash? Fireflies, which are actually beetles, produce light with a complex chemical reaction that takes place within their abdominal cells. The luminescence is reflected out through their transparent skin. Researchers have found that almost all of the 1,000 or so species of fireflies have distinctive light patterns. A male of one species blinks its pattern of flashes and waits for a female to flash back. If she does so, he recognizes her as one of his own kind, and flies off toward her.

Despite progress that has been made since Charles Darwin published "The Expression of the Emotions in Man and Animals" in 1872, International Wildlife concludes, the science of animal behavior is still an infant discipline. Within another ten years, it may answer baffling questions about the whales and other animals. In the meantime, says the magazine, we have much to learn from "our fellow creatures."

Four-County EPS Program In Operation

Local EPS (early and periodic screening) program is designed to detect common health problems of children before the problems become serious. EPS is for the apparently healthy child and the screening consists of a series of simple tests performed to sort out well children from those who have a disease or abnormality. If deviations from normal health patterns are found, referrals are made to appropriate health agencies.

During the screening a trained staff including a registered nurse and technicians examine and test each child. Tests include: vision; audiometric hearing test; dental inspection and instruction; growth assessment; nutritional intake and instruction; developmental screening in fine and gross motor skills, speech and language skills, and social-emotion behavior; urinalysis; blood test; and an unclothed physical assessment. The child's immunization status and health and development history is also reviewed. Any of the procedures, such as a vision test, can also be performed separately.

Children and young adults between the ages of six months and 21 years can be seen by appointment at the EPS clinics. Clinics are scheduled monthly in Warren, Newfolden, Grygla, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Hallock, Oklee and Karlstad. Fees are determined on a sliding scale based on the family's ability to pay.

Coordinator for the EPS program in Marshall, Kittson, Pennington and Red Lake counties is Muriel Roley. To make appointments for screenings call or write 4 County EPS, 208 East Colvin Ave., Warren, MN 56762, phone 745-4004. Further information on clinic schedules, program charges and general EPS information is also available from the Warren office.

PUBLIC RELEASE

The Independent School District 441 of Newfolden, Mn. today announced its policy for free and reduced price meals, free milk for children served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, and Special Milk Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family Size	Eligibility Scale for Free Meals and Free Milk (Dollars)	Eligibility Scale for Reduced Price Meals (Dollars)
1	$4,590	$7,160
2	6,040	9,420
3	7,490	11,680
4	8,940	13,940
5	10,390	16,200
6	11,840	18,470
7	13,290	20,730
8	14,740	22,990
Each Additional Family Member	1,450	2,260

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. A simple statement of income and family size is required, plus a signed certification by the parent or guardian that the information provided is correct.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy, the principal of the high school will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If a parent wishes to make a formal appeal, a request may be made either orally or in writing to Halward Anderson, Viking, MN. 523-3232 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls to or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color or national origin.

Each school and the office of the Superintendent of Schools, R. Gene Busch has a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Senior Citizens

Thursday, August 16, was a busy day as usual at the Strandquist center. Mildred was busy sewing together blocks for a piece quilt top, Ella kept busy pressing the blocks and most of the other ladies were busy getting the black cloth off the Arctic pieces so we can fluff up the inside for bed pillows. We managed to finish one large bag so you see how we work and what time we spend to get a pair of bed pillows ready. But who wants to come and not have a bit of work to do. We have plenty of time for visiting and jokes and laughs and before we know it, the time has gone by so it's time for lunch.

There were 20 registered in our record book Thursday. Visitors and coffee guests were Clara Nelson, Mrs. Henry Bengtson of Karlstad, Martin and Helen Eskildsen, Anna Setten, Ardys Larson and Benjamin and Ida Bruce.

Nine door prizes were given away, so almost half of our attendance went home with a door prize. Mabel Borsvold gave three prizes that Irene, Clara and Helen won. Irene gave three that Amanda, Ida and Anna won. Ruth Harper received the prize donated by Sophia. Sophia won the one Anna Brekke gave and Anna Setten received the prize Evelyn gave.

Mabel Borsvold gave some yarn to the center last week that was not acknowledged so thank you Mabel. Please bring some bingo prizes for our fun day soon. Anna Brekke served a delicious lunch.

Mrs. Verner Fredricks, Jolene and James of Mentor visited a week ago Monday afternoon at the Mildred Nelson home. Marlin Nelson visited Mildred Monday evening.

Senior Citizens

Ladies were busy Thursday, August 9, fluffing up Arctic scraps, filling and sewing up ends on four pair of bed pillows. Evelyn, Ruth Harper and Irene laid out and pinned some of the blocks for another quilt top. Then after a bit of visiting the lunch was served by Ruth Harper, our hostess.

There were 19 present for our gettogether. We were happy to have Arizona Kid (Martin) and Helen Eskildsen with us again. Martin has been hospitalized for a week or so but was now out and around again. Guess its hard to keep a good man down. Sharon Wayne of Blaine was a visitor Thursday.

Four door prizes were given away: Evelyn and Sharon won the prizes Mabel gave. Ella received the prize Irene donated, and Ruth Anderson won the prize Ida Bruce donated.

We received some good rummage on Thursday, so Polly was busy pricing and hanging that up. Thank you, Delphine Borowicz and Sharon Wayne, for such good rummage, and thank you, Sarah, for the cotton pieces you gave to our center. We can sure make use of them in our quilt making.

See you next week.

Inflation price you out of a new building? Take a look at Stran.
And reconsider.
As your Authorized Stran Builder, we're very much aware of how inflation has affected the cost of building new facilities.
Costs have risen dramatically for both materials, and construction labor. That's why it makes good building sense to take a look at Stran's building systems approach. Why?
- Most of the building is fabricated in a modern manufacturing plant to take advantage of automation and more productive man-hour utilization.
- The system is designed and produced to go together fast at your job site. Saving valuable man-hours in on-site construction costs.
So before calling off your plans for a new building, call us and let's see how we can help you deflate inflation. We may have you breaking ground after all.

Grain Warehousing System Improved By Federal Laws

American farmers in the early 1900's faced greater risks than they do today in marketing their products. Even if their crops survived plagues of insects, disease and bad weather, there still was no guarantee that the commodities would make it safely to market.

One of the problems was an American agricultural warehousing system that often was slipshod. Instead of selling at harvest, farmers sometimes put grain crops into storage warehouses hoping for a better price later on. But when they went to claim their commodity, they often found it had rotted or was missing. The warehouse receipts issued for commodities sometimes amounted to meaningless pieces of paper.

Then, in 1916, Congress passed the U.S. warehouse act. Since then, the people in the U.S. department of agriculture who administer it, with cooperation from the warehouse industry, have helped bring about a sound warehousing system.

In essence, the U.S. warehouse act promotes sound and uniform warehouse practices — and provides warehouse receipts with national acceptability in baking and commerce. The program and the all-important federal warehouse receipt supply a solid foundation upon which producers, warehouse operators, and financial people can do business. Participation by warehouse operators is strictly voluntary.

The warehouse division of USDA's agricultural marketing service licenses about 40 per cent of the nation's commercial grain storage capacity. Warehouse operators who want to have their facilities examined may apply for a license. Warehouses covered are those that store not only grains, but also cotton, peanuts, honey, dry edible beans, and wool.

Financially, a significant event occurs every time federally licensed warehouse operators issue receipts to farmers for their commodities — or to themselves for commodities they own. The farmers and warehouse operators then can use the receipts as loan collateral or sell them to a commodity merchant.

Also, farmers can pledge receipts for price support loans. Federal receipts are used to fulfill future contracts on all major commodity exchanges such as New York, Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City. Another advantage is that a federal receipt issued — say, by a warehouse in Georgia — is acceptable as loan collateral by a bank in Nebraska. The federal receipt says that the commodity is, in fact, stored safety.

"Bankers and insurance people have confidence in the federal receipt," said officer-in-charge George W. Harrison of the warehouse division's field office in Memphis, Tenn. "We often receive calls from financial people asking if a warehouse is federally licensed."

Operating requirements for a license are designed to protect depositors without being burdensome to the operator. Once federally licensed, a warehouse operator is subject to the laws and regulations of the act.

The thoroughness of twice yearly warehouse examinations performed by federal examiners strengthens the credibility of federal warehouse receipts.

"The examinations help us with our operation because the examiners measure the commodities in storage with expertise," said Donald Brouillette, president of Demeter, Inc., Indianapolis, Ind., an operation with a 10-million-bushel grain storage capacity. He further advised that the examinations assisted him and his managers by discovering potential problems which, if overlooked, could develop into serious situations.

Federal examiners must understand the principles of different storage methods, grading standards and grading procedures, record-keeping and accounting procedures, to mention just a few of the many areas of expertise used during a storage facility examination. An examiner must recognize threats to stored commodities such as mold, insects or excessive moisture.

"For anyone doing business on a large scale the federal receipt is vitally important. It is a merchantable item," said Brouillette.

Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the national association of wheat growers, advised farmers to know with whom they are dealing. "Some farmers have lost grain because they didn't have a proper receipt," said Rees. He added, "The warehouse receipt is essential, and a federal receipt is an indicator of a sound warehousing operation."

Donald Schneider, vice president of the commercial banking division of the U.S. National bank in Omaha, Neb., said a receipt may at times mean even more to a banker than a producer.

"It is a sign of liquidity and not just a piece of paper," said Schneider. "We prefer the federal receipt because we feel the monitoring is better. It's like going first class."

Bergan Travel Uses Computer For Scheduling

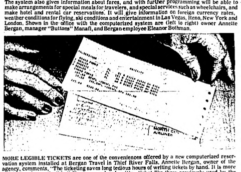
conditions, entertainment in Las Vegas and Reno, New York and London shows, ski conditions and ski area information, rate of exchange for foreign currency, and customs and duty information. It will also be able to make, not only airline reservations, but reservations for hotels, bookings for car rentals and special arrangements for wheelchair travelers, etc.

Another of the conveniences of the system is automatic ticketing. "The ticketing saves long tedious hours of writing tickets by hand," says Bergan. "Before one person or a person and a half would just sit all day and write out tickets and now they are just spit out. The computer is more efficient and more legible."

"Buttons" Manafi, manager at Bergan Travel, explains the workings of the system. "When a customer calls in for a reservation we can put an entry into the computer and it will tell us flights that are available for the specific date the customer wants. It will read out standard class fares and special fares that would be available and tell me how many seats it has available for each class of service. By putting in a different entry I can also get city pairs, the best connections from where the person wants to leave to their destination. First it gives the most direct route. If there is nothing available on the direct I can pull up the other connections, via Chicago or whatever.

COMPUTERIZED RESERVATION SYSTEM is now in operation at Bergan Travel of Thief River Falls. The system includes two screens and keyboards which allow Bergan employees to check availability of flights for customers without searching through books as was previously required. The system also gives information about fares, and with further programming will be able to make arrangements for special meals for travelers, and special services such as wheelchairs, and make hotel and rental car reservations. It will give information on foreign currency rates, weather conditions for flying, ski conditions and entertainment in Las Vegas, Reno, New York and London. Shown in the office with the computerized system are (left to right) owner Annette Bergan, manager "Buttons" Manafi, and Bergan employee Eleanor Bothman.



MORE LEGIBLE TICKETS are one of the conveniences offered by a new computerized reservation system installed at Bergan Travel in Thief River Falls. Annette Bergan, owner of the agency, comments, "The ticketing saves long tedious hours of writing tickets by hand. It is more efficient and more legible." Shown are a hand written ticket like those previously used by the travel agency and a new computerized ticket.

ANNETTE BERGAN, owner of Bergan Travel of Thief River Falls, is shown here with "the brains" of the agency's new computerized reservation system. In addition to releasing a printout such as is seen in the photo, another part of the system releases airline tickets when keyed by the operator. The travel agency has been computerized since June but programming is still going on to broaden the information available through the computer.

"From that information the person decides what they want and we punch in the date the person wants their ticket. On that particular day it would come up on what they call 'on cue.' In the morning we put in an entry and all the tickets that are 'on cue' for that day appear one at a time on the screen. That way we don't lose reservations. Then we put each in transmissions where it is ticketed. If a person comes in and wants their ticket right away we can make the reservations and cue the computer to ticket and by the time I walk to where the ticket comes out, it's written.

"We are getting to the point where we will have the itineraries and the invoices come off on the computer too," Manafi continues. "Right now, we still have to manually type those up for the client."

"There is so much detail work to a travel agency," Bergan comments, "and that is what makes you good — all of those little details very systematically done and filed. The computer helps with a lot of it — takes the drudgery out. We still can't replace our people, the human touch is important. But the computer makes their job easier."

The computer system has allowed Bergan Travel to handle increased volume with less employee expansion than would otherwise have been necessary, however. "We are still expanding but without the computers we would have had to expand even more." The agency now has five employees including Bergan. In addition to Manafi, employees include Eleanor Bothman, Marge Halvorson and Diane Boese.

Bergan Travel has been in existence in Thief River Falls for two years and will celebrate its second anniversary September 6 and 7 with an open house. "During that time people can come in and see how the system works," Bergan says. "People are really intrigued when you do anything with a computer and the customers have enjoyed watching the system work. And they appreciate knowing right away about their reservations."

Talking about the effect the system has had on her job, Manfi says, "One of the biggest things is that it has taken away a lot of the stress. Before you would call the airlines and they would be busy and you would be on hold for hours. In a very short time the customer would be calling back wanting to know about the reservation. With instant confirmation the tension is gone."

"All the little details are important to make a trip more pleasant for the passenger," Bergan comments, "and the computer takes a lot of the drudgery out. This way we can service our customers better with much faster and much more accurate service."

No Reduction In Food Stamps Is Expected

"Legislation signed by President Carter will enable us to continue food stamp operations in September without closing the program down or reducing benefits," states secretary of agriculture Bob Bergland.

The legislation also includes several administration proposals to further reduce error and fraud in the program, along with special provisions to increase benefits for the edlerly and disabled with high medical or shelter costs.

The new law authorizes an additional $620 million for food stamps in fiscal year 1979. U.S. department of agriculture expects that up to $500 million of this amount will be needed to avoid closing the program entirely or reducing benefits in September, the last month of the fiscal year. Action to cut benefits because of a funding shortfall would be unprecedented in the history of the 15-year-old program.

Bergland said the additional funds are needed primarily because an unanticipated increase in food prices, to which food stamp benefits are indexed, has pushed program costs above the ceiling on spending contained in the 1977 food stamp act. When the spending ceiling was enacted, food inflation was projected at between three and four per cent a year. But, in the two years since, food prices have risen nearly 20 per cent.

To a lesser extent, increases in food stamp participation have raised program costs, too. The program has recently undergone sweeping reforms. Administration proposals enacted by Congress have tightened and simplified program rules, imposed tough penalties for fraud and reduced or terminated benefits for higher income households.

At the same time, the administration's proposal to eliminate the requirement that households buy their food stamps has brought into the program several million new participants who had previously been eligible for food stamps, but had simply been unable to afford them. Many of these persons are the elderly and rural poor, whose participation rate has historically been very low. Because they have entered the program at a faster rate and are poorer than predicted, they have received larger benefits for more months of the fiscal year.

Observing that over half of all food stamp households have gross annual incomes below $3,600, and that benefits average only 33 cents per person per meal, Bergland said that cutting benefits "because the program is reaching larger numbers of the poorest households and because food prices have risen so high is not sound policy. While this administration is committed to controlling federal expenditures, we will do so within a budget of compassion which recognizes the fundamental importance of food assistance to our nation's poorest families."

As evidence of the food stamp program's importance, Bergland cited a recent Field foundation study in which teams of doctors revisited poverty-stricken areas they had visited 10 years earlier. Where they had previously found severe hunger and malnutrition, they now found strikingly fewer grossly malnourished people. The doctors reported that it is the food stamp program that is "making the crucial difference in improving the quality of the lives of many poor people."

Pledging his support for the program, Bergland called upon Congress to lift the spending cap for future fiscal years and to provide the funding that will be needed to avoid cutting benefits in fiscal years 1980 and 1981. He also asked Congress to enact pending administration proposals for further error reduction and program savings.

The provisions signed into law give the U.S. department of agriculture and the states the authority to require social security wage records and unemployment compensation records. These measures will facilitate more computer matching to weed out ineligible households.

Additionally, the new provisions require that persons convicted of fraud repay fraud claims as a condition of renewed eligibility after the period of disqualification mandated by the 1977 act. The amendments also permit states to keep 50 per cent of all fraud claims they collect as an incentive for more vigorous prosecution and collection activity.

Shuttle Bus Available For Fairgoers

Satellite parking with shuttle bus service to the Minnesota state fair will be provided Saturdays and Sundays during the exposition ending September 2.

Satellite parking will be available weekends at Har Mar Mall and Rosedale shopping centers, and the city of St. Paul's Midway stadium. Parking at Har Mar Mall and Rosedale is free; Midway stadium fee is $2.

MTC buses will provide shuttle service between the fairgrounds and all three satellite lots from 9 a.m. to midnight. One-way fare is 20 cents.

For more information, contact Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul, Minn. 55108; phone (612) 645-2781.

Cattle Supply In State Rises By 3 Per Cent

Minnesota cattle producers reported 3.8 million head on farms July 1, three per cent above a year ago and four per cent above the January 1 inventory, according to the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service.

The U.S. inventory of nearly 118.5 million head was down three per cent from a year earlier but up seven per cent from January 1 this year.

Cows and heifers that have calved in the state numbered 1.4 million, one per cent more than both the previous year and Jan. 1, 1979. Nationally, the total was 47.7 million head, two per cent below July of 1978.

On July 1, Minnesota beef producers reported 775,000 heifers 500 pounds and over that had not calved. This is a five per cent gain from a year ago and 13 per cent more than on hand Jan. 1, 1979. The U.S. total of 17.6 million head was two per cent below 1978.

Steers 500 pounds and over in the state were up seven per cent from a year earlier, from 629,000 to 676,000. The nation's total of 16.9 million head was down six per cent.

The 1979 Minnesota calf crop was estimated at 1.30 million head, two per cent more than the 1.28 million head in 1978. Producers throughout the U.S. expect a calf crop of 43.5 million head, a decline of one per cent from 1978.

Three years of intercollegiate football at Northland community college has produced just four victories. That figure could be more than doubled this year by the Northmen who open preseason practice drills today in preparation for the 1979 season which opens Sat., Sept. 8, against Mesabi in Virginia.

Sixty-eight players, easily the biggest squad in the short history of the sport at the school, reported for a team meeting Sunday. Two more players are expected to join the team this week. A year ago a late appointment of Irv Smith as head coach and a move by Smith from California left him with little time to recruit. His 28-player squad struggled through a 2-6 campaign.

"We're going to be vastly improved," predicted Smith whose squad will be nearly evenly divided between Minnesota and out-state ball players.

Sixty-three of the Northland football players will be freshmen this fall, including Thief River Falls products Jeff Gobell, kicker; Jim Shirley, wide receiver; and Jeff Schmitz, center.

Returning letterman include Joe Kraska, slot back; Brian Thomas, defensive back; Morice Hendricks, runningback; Chris Kneen, tight end; John Sipe, defensive lineman; Joe Ranum, linebacker; and Pat Yutrzenka, wide receiver.

Northland's home opener will be played Sat., Sept. 15, against Vermilion.

THIEF RIVER FALLS runningback Bill Jury was left to fend for himself after teammate Jon Pinkerton missed a block on a Warren defender during Saturday's sixth annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club Pigskin Preview. The Prowlers, Ponies, East Grand Forks and Grafton took part in the varsity scrimmage portion of the event. A large crowd was on hand to watch the football and eat the Sports Boosters barbecue beef picnic supper. Thief River Falls will open its 1979 football season Thursday in Grand Forks, N.D. with an 8 p.m. game against Grand Forks Red River at Cushman Field.

1979 Football Season Starts On Friday For Area Squads

Following nearly three weeks of preparation, six area teams — Goodridge, Middle River, Grygla, Oklee, Plummer and Marshall County Central — will kick off the 1979 high school football season Friday.

In nine-man North Tri County Conference play, Goodridge will host McIntosh-Winger, Middle River will be at Gonvick, Grygla entertains Erskine, Oklee travels to Clearbrook and Plummer visits Mentor. In a Top of the State Conference opener, Marshall County Central plays Stephen at Newfolden.

Gonvick, 9-0 a year ago in league play and a state playoff semifinalist, once again rates among the area's top nine-man football teams and carries the favorite's role in the 10-team North Tri County Conference.

A wide-open race is expected to develop in the nine-team Top of the State Conference where changes have found the withdrawal of Kennedy, Greenbush and Mount St. Benedict, forcing the combining of the former two-division set-up.

Newfolden . . .

An injury-free year could keep Marshall County Central in the thick of the expected first place scramble in the Top of the State Conference.

"We have a pretty good group of starters, but we don't have any depth this year at all," explained Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "If we run into injuries we'll be in trouble."

The injury bug has already struck, though, with 1978 starting quarterback Chuck Sorenson hurting an ankle in preseason drills.

Scott Peters and Jeff Johnson, both third year lettermen, will serve as co-captains of the Nordics this fall. Peters plays center on offense and a nose guard or middle linebacker on defense. Johnson is a runningback and linebacker.

Other seniors expected to carry key roles in 1979 are Kerry Hodne, quarterback and defensive back; Brian Skadsem, wide receiver and defensive back; Dan Engen, offensive guard and defensive tackle; and Sorenson, a quarterback and defensive back.

The Nordics were 6-3 in 1978.

Oklee . . .

Size and experience should make Oklee a North Tri County Conference contender.

"We'll be bigger than a horse," quipped veteran Oklee coach Dale Svaren whose line-up features 6-3, 240-pound senior Kevin Vettleson at center, 230-pound junior Joel Stolaas at defensive tackle and 200-pound senior Mike Kirkpatrick at halfback. "This is the biggest size I've ever had," reported Svaren, "but it's also the slowest. We'll have to avoid mistakes because if anybody gets by us we won't be able to catch them."

A large group of 13 seniors and an equal number of lettermen gives the Bobcats the needed experience.

Some of the top performers will likely include seniors Allan Vettleson, guard; John Dulka, halfback; Darrell Sandeen, fullback; Pat Paquin, linebacker; Steve Opdahl, quarterback; Larry Olson, end; Wes Magnell, halfback; Dave Lee, center; Kirkpatrick; and Kevin Vettleson, along with juniors Brad Gunderson, end; Randy Chaput, defensive tackle; Paul Gunderson, halfback and Stolaas.

Svaren says Gonvick is the North Tri County Conference favorite, "but we're not counting ourselves out." Oklee finished 5-4 a year ago.

Goodridge . . .

New Goodridge coach Rick Nelson says the Huskies have "a lot of optimism" heading into the 1979 season.

"We're short of seniors," admitted Nelson, "but we have three good leaders in Neil Race, Tim Anderson and Terry Drangstveit." Race will play quarterback and defensive back; Anderson will be a center and linebacker; and Drangstveit will be an offensive guard and linebacker.

A large Goodridge turnout for football — 21 reported for the start of practice, features a good crop of juniors headed by ends Randy Hendrickson and Kurt Wiseth, halfback Roy Haugen and fullback Mark Grabowska, a 6-1, 185-pounder.

"We're small and because of that, we lack linemen," noted Nelson. "If we have an injury in the line we're in trouble."

Nelson hopes to form Race, Hendrickson and Wiseth into a strong passing combination. "We're going to throw the ball," he promised. "This conference has never had much passing in it. But we're going to put the ball in the air."

Goodridge, under Ken Ewertz, was 2-7 a year ago.

Middle River . . .

With just one returning senior letterman — quarterback Delray Ness — Middle River has an immediate problem in overcoming inexperience. But given time, a talented group of juniors could turn around the Skippers' 1978 record of 3-6.

Grygla . . .

Size, for a couple of years synonymous with Grygla football, will be missing this fall for the Eagles, according to head coach Darwin Hagen who says, "We're going to look a little smaller this year."

Grygla will be led by four senior lettermen: Runningbacks Gerald Verbout and Gary Polansky, and guards Don Wikert and Roger Thomas. Junior John Nordby will quarterback the Eagles who were 4-5 in 1978.

Hagen hopes a little speed, supplied by Verbout and Polansky, will help compensate for the Eagles' size reduction.

Plummer . . .

Graduation stripped Plummer nearly clean, leaving only three starters from last year's 4-5 team.

"We lost quite heavily," reported coach Gary Brantl who will try to build the Cardinals around ends Kevin Walwitz and Jon Swanson and center Blair Gustafson, the three 1978 starters. Swanson and Gustafson are 1979 co-captains.

Others expected to hold down key positions are seniors Alan Mattison, a runningback; Clifton Franklin, a flanker or wide receiver; and Jay Brekke, a center; along with junior quarterback Brad Rosten.

"Our strength is at our ends," pointed out Brantl. "That's where our two biggest and most experienced kids are, so it might mean a little passing."

Pigskin Preview Review . . .

Prowlers Open On Thursday

Offensive polish, lacking in Saturday's sixth annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview, will be emphasized this week as the Lincoln high school football team completes preseason drills. The Prowlers open their 1979 season a day earlier than most Minnesota teams when they play Grand Forks Red River Thursday at 8 p.m. at Cushman Field in Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls managed but two "scores" during Saturday's controlled scrimmage sessions that included 20 offensive and 20 defensive plays against East Grand Forks, Warren and Grafton.

"We could have done better," surmised Thief River Falls coach Gene Jurgens following Saturday's shakedown cruise. "Offensively we thought we'd do better. We didn't come off the ball and we missed counts. But that's why we're here."

Wholesale substitution played a factor in the offensive difficulties encountered by all four teams. "It's tough to get something going when you're shifting people in and out," admitted Jurgens.

While the offensive produced some disappointment, the Thief River Falls defense, in giving up only two "scores," was a pleasant surprise according to Jurgens. "Defensively we might have done a little better than we expectd," he said.

Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks matched touchdowns, with quarterback Tom Bjorkman turning in a fine run on the option for a long score for the Prowlers. Warren turned in the only scoring play in a Ponies-Prowlers match-up, with Thief River Falls doing the same to Grafton when runningback Scott Loehr got outside for a long run.

"We're not ready yet," said Jurgens. "We've still got a long ways to go."

Tom Ronchetti Is New Slow Pitch President

Tom Ronchetti was elected president of the Thief River Falls men's slow pitch softball association for the 1980 season, succeeding Dennis Bendickson, at the association's annual post-season banquet Wednesday at the Elks.

Rest of the new board members include Murray Melander, vice president; Bendickson, secretary; Rick Reierson, treasurer; and Jim Olson, publicity.

Home Lumber was presented with a special sportsmanship award, sponsored by Ben Franklin, based on a vote by umpires. Team awards also went to the TRF Merchants, Division I champions; Tony Dorn, Inc., Division I runner-up; Rusty Nail Raders, Division I playoff champions; First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Division II regular season and playoff champion; St. Hilaire Bears, Division II runner-up; Schumacher's Tireland, Division III champion; Consumer's Co-op Association, Division III playoff champion; Wilson Brothers Co., Division IV champion; and Jean Junction-Rundell Electric, Division IV runner-up and playoff champion.

Name Mattson President Of Sports Boosters

New president of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club for the 1979-80 season is Jim Mattson, succeeding Ken Wiebolt.

Al Christofferson was reelected secretary-treasurer of the club at its organizational meeting last week.

Next Sports Boosters Club meeting is planned Thursday, a 12 noon luncheon meeting at the Rex Cafe.

Fishermen who catch a new state record fish will be presented a certificate by the Department of Natural Resources.

Tunberg's Will Sponsor Local PP&K Event

Local youngsters are back in the spotlight again — tuning up their football skills in preparation for the 1979 punt, pass and kick competition. This year the local level of PP&K — serving Thief River Falls, Goodridge, Oklee, Newfolden and Red Lake Falls — will be sponsored by the Tunberg Motor Co. of Thief River Falls, with the help of Lincoln high school football coaches.

Nationally, PP&K is celebrating its 19th anniversary. It is sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted millions of youngsters.

Participants in the punt, pass and kick program compete only against others their own age. Any youngster 8 through 13 years of age, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register to compete in PP&K at any participating Ford Dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participating does not impair a youngster's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance, and a point subtracted for every foot off the center line.

Twelve national finalists will compete for the national championships in their age group at Super Bowl XIV on January 20, 1980, in Pasadena, California. Winners will have their names permanently inscribed in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle.

AN EASY FUMBLE recovery was offered Thief River Falls' Jon Pinkerton following a Warren bobble Saturday in the varsity scrimmage portion of the sixth annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club Pigskin Preview conducted on the Thief River Falls athletic field. The Prowlers will open their 1979 football season Thursday against Grand Forks Red River, an 8 p.m. game on Grand Forks' Cushman Field. Thief River Falls' home opener will be played Fri., Sept. 7, vs. Detroit Lakes.

Lincoln Volleyball Team Faces Lakers In Opener

An important ingredient in volleyball — teamwork — should be Thief River Falls' biggest asset heading into the 1979 season which starts Friday for the Prowlers who will host Detroit Lakes at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school gym. Junior varsity match starts at 6:45.

"I'm going to be optimistic," reported Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss. "Five of our top six girls have all played together three or four years."

Those top six include seniors Kathy Walker, Paula Kertz, Nancy Noreen and Chris Lawrenz, along with juniors Stacy Ehrenstrom and Marlys Huot. Lawrenz saw limited playing time a year ago, but the others were full-time performers.

Varsity newcomers, brought up from last year's junior varsity team, are sophomores Barb Pfeifer and Sheryl Stimac.

Walker and Kertz are serving as co-captains of the Prowlers who finished with a 5-9 regular season record a year ago before winning their first ever Region 8AA Sub Region 4 title.

Thief River Falls' offensive attack will feature Ehrenstrom, the star of last year's sub region tournament, and Huot as spikers. They'll receive the ball from Kertz and Walker, the team's best setters. The Prowlers' switching defense will be keyed by Walker and Lawrenz.

But Stauss is concerned about the Prowlers' ability to serve. "They can do it in practice, but I don't know how they'll handle it during a match when points are on the line and you've got that adrenalin going. You've obviously got to get it over or you don't score."

Thief River Falls' 1979 schedule, expanded from 14 to 16 matches, includes first time foes Detroit Lakes and Bemidji and features the second annual Thief River Falls Northern Lights Invitational tournament Sat., Oct. 13.

North Star Transport Is Fourth In Region Meet

A pair of tough-luck one-run losses eliminated North Star Transport of Thief River Falls from the 1979 Northern Region Class B men's fast pitch softball tournament played Saturday and Sunday at Austin.

Hank's, a St. Paul entry, broke a scoreless tie in the seventh inning to take a 1-0 opening round victory from North Star Transport in the eight-team, double elimination event.

North Star Transport bounced back to win two games before losing a 1-0 lead and a 2-1 game on a controversial play at the plate in the sixth inning of the third-fourth place game against Windom.

Between the losses North Star Transport crushed Miller High Life of Sioux Falls, S.D. 9-0 and defeated Charlie's of Duluth 3-1, avenging an 8-4 loss in the championship game of the Minnesota Class B state tournament played a week earlier in Hutchinson.

North Star Transport team manager Manyard Moen praised the performance of his team at Austin. "We outscored the opposition 13-4," pointed out Moen, "and as far as I'm concerned we're even with all of them down there. We finished fourth in the region — you can hold your head high after that. I'm proud of the fellows."

Moen said the game-winning run scored by Windom was an obvious mistake by the umpire. "We lost that one because of the umpire," reported Moen. "Bruce (catcher Bruce Johnson) had the plate blocked. There's no way the guy could have scored; everybody there said we got a raw deal on the play. The umpires down there weren't up to the level we had here all year."

Pitchers Tom Neibauer and Marty Brown, in holding four opponents to just four runs, received additional plaudits from Moen who also wanted to add Bruce Ferguson of Frazee, a talented pitcher and strong hitter to his squad. However, Ferguson was shelved with a finger injury and did not join the team.

"Neibauer and Brown pitched well," mentioned Moen. "With Ferguson added to the team as a pitcher and designated hitter we could have won it all."

"It might take two or three games to get these kids initiated," acknowledged Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, "but if we can hold our own in the first couple of games we could be tough."

Sparby says Ness "throws the ball pretty well," and the Skippers have "pretty decent size; the biggest size I've had for quite a while."

Those juniors who will have to supply a bulk of the success this year include Monty Peterson, a halfback and linebacker; Scott McKeever, an end and halfback; Eugene Kaml, a flanker; and Terry Beito, an 185-pound center.

Two sophomores expected to contribute are 180-pound guard Ryan Johnson and 200-pound-plus fullback Steve Bengston.

"I don't have any dreams of winning the conference," says Sparby. "Gonvick should be tough again. But I think it'll be a pretty close race behind them and we could be in it."

Firearm Safety Classes Will Start Sept. 5

Registration for this fall's youth firearms safety training program will be held Wednesday, September 5, at 7 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Pennington county law enforcement center in Thief River Falls.

Course will consist of five two-hour sessions, the first to be held on registration night and the remainder on September 6, 10, 11 and 12, all at 7 p.m. Each youngster participating should bring the $2 course fee, which covers cost of the firearms safety certificate, to the law enforcement center September 5. Students should not bring firearms to the session.

Young people age 12 through 15 must have a firearms safety certificate before they can hunt in Minnesota.

Cheerleading Squad Gets 1st Place Award

Awarded a first place team trophy at the Duluth session of the United States cheerleader's association camp this summer was the Lincoln high school football cheerleading squad. Members of the squad are Sheila Busse, Anne Dondelinger, Tracy Wendt, Jane Halbasch, Kerry Madunich and Sue Rosetta.

The Lincoln students earned the award during their four-day attendance at the Duluth camp and, as award recipients, would have been eligible to compete in the 21st annual national grand championships sponsored by the cheerleading association in Lansing, Michigan. However the group did not have the funding to attend the national competition.

Farmers Desire Direction To Goals

Rural Americans don't want government control in their lives, but many would like some governmental cooperation directed toward specific goals, according to a recent survey conducted by Communicating for Agriculture, a non-profit rural organization based in Fergus Falls.

One member responding to the survey said, "the less government intervention in schools, farm programs, etc., the better. We've had too much government 'help'." There were many similar responses.

However, a majority favored farm and health care programs that would require government action.

Communicating for Agriculture (CA), the goal of which is described as "the betterment of rural life in America," surveyed its members recently to determine how they felt about family farm policies, rural education, health care and estate taxes. Surveys were distributed to members in 37 states. Approximately 1,200, representing the opinions of members in 31 states, were returned.

Members were given the opportunity to make general comments. Many argued against more federal involvement in citizens' lives. "We damn sure don't need more federal government," said one. "Taxpayers have been raped by our government."

Another said, "In all matters except protection of our land and citizens, I think the federal government should stay out." Many of the respondents apparently agreed.

However, it was in areas that would be defined as involving "protection of land and citizens" that some need for governmental (state or federal) participation was seen.

For example, 91 per cent said they would favor federal legislation to prevent foreign investment in American farmlands. Also, 78 per cent favor more federal loan programs to help young people purchase farmland. And 69 per cent said that they would like to see the loans extended to small town businesses as well.

An overwhelming 95 per cent of those responding to the survey said they were concerned about the amount of land being purchased by citizens and corporations from foreign countries. (More than 825,000 acres were bought by foreign investors in 1978, according to CA). One survey respondent said he felt that foreign purchase of land "is something which should trouble all Americans."

Legislation allowing states to guarantee loans, leases or sales contracts to young people interested in purchasing farms was favored by 90 per cent, and 73 per cent said they feel that legislated guarantees should be given only to people with net worth of less than $75,000. "It (a guarantee program) should absolutely not be used for the big to get bigger," said one respondent.

Members indicated they were especially concerned about the fate of rural education, and in this particular area, a "local government is best" philosophy was indicated by the comments.

Opposition to establishment of a branch of federal education offices specializing the study of needs of rural schools was registered by 56 per cent of those responding to the survey. A narrow 46 per cent majority indicated opposition to a separate U.S. Department of Education. (This compares with 44 per cent favoring such a department, and 10 per cent undecided.) A substantial 71 per cent felt that federal funds should be distributed equally among all public schools.

Plans aimed at curbing hospital cost inflation such as the ones now in effect in Minnesota and Rhode Island, which are geared to budget review and guarantees of comprehensive health insurance, were backed by 89 per cent of the responding members. "The cost of hospitals and doctors is so high the ordinary working people have a hard time making it," commented one.

The idea of a national health program does not seem popular among CA members. One said, "The mess we have with Medicare, Medicaid and the Post Office should be enough warning to anyone."

CA members would also like a lower inheritance tax rate for farm operations that remain in the immediate family of the deceased. Legislation that would increase the amount of an estate that would be passed on to heirs, tax free, was backed by 95 per cent.

Said one member, "I think it is awful that a farm family works so hard all their lives to have security for their families and so much of it is given to the federal government at their death."

Another warned that "estate taxes will put the family farm out of business if some changes are not made."

Elimination of a "carry-over basis," which affects the capital gains tax when inherited property is sold, was favored by 76 per cent of the survey respondents.

(Prior to 1977, market value at the time of death for inherited property became the basis for capital gains when the property was sold. The Tax Reform Act of 1976 created the "carry-over basis" which does not allow the basis to increase at the time of death. The "Carry-over basis" reverts back to the original purchase price, thus increasing the capital gains tax when the property is sold.)

CA president Milt Smedsrud said he is pleased with the survey. "The results of the survey indicate the majority of the members support CA's objectives and goals. CA is non-partisan and the members' responses were clearly indicative of that."

Fall Color Map Available For Auto Tourists

Minnesota tourism bureau is offering a colorful fall driving tour map and a toll-free telephone reporting service with up-to-date information on the progression of fall color throughout the state.

The four-color touring map charts 40 driving tours to view Minnesota's annual show of reds, yellows and oranges. The tours range from short drives in the Twin Cities area to longer journeys along the north shore of Lake Superior, the south shore of the Mississippi river and through Minnesota's many thick forests and lush river valleys. The touring map is a good companion to the state highway map.

The map folds to brochure size and uses the slogan: "Fall is the most colorful time of year in Minnesota." Inside, the slogan continues, "Even before the leaves turn." A collage of photographs illustrates various fall activities in Minnesota, and the piece also contains a calendar of events for September and October.

Fall color surveys will be conducted weekly by tourism bureau staff and reported via a toll-free telephone reporting system at the Minnesota tourist information center in St. Paul.

Hank Todd, Minnesota tourism director, encourages people to enjoy a Minnesota vacation this fall. "We all need to continue to conserve by driving safely and vacationing in our home state this fall," Todd said.

To receive copies of the fall color tour map or information on the progression of fall color in Minnesota, residents of the Twin Cities can call 296-5029. Persons living outside the Twin City metropolitan area can call toll-free 1-800-652-9747 Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mail requests for the fall color map can be sent to the Minnesota Tourist Information Center, 480 Cedar St., Box 701, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Doctor Reviews Problems Of Pet Parasites

by Robert Stear, DVM
Norden Laboratories

Intestinal parasites are a chronic problem with many pets, and worm medicines are some of the most common non-prescription pet medicines sold. These medicines may be more beneficial if pet owners understand some basic information about parasites and their control.

First, know that pets usually acquire worms from fecal material containing worm eggs, and from fleas carrying immature worms. Puppies may even be born with worms that migrated into the mother's womb. Pets do not automatically develop worms from eating sweets, milk or certain other foods.

Second, the symptoms of worm infestation can vary greatly, depending upon the type of parasite and the age of your dog or cat. Some pets with worms lose weight, become anemic and have dull coats or potbellies. Others show few signs, if any. Generally, young animals are more susceptible to the effects of internal parasites than older pets, which may develop some resistance to parasitic attacks.

Any pet that harbors a large number of parasites runs the risk of serious physical injury. Worms that travel from one organ to another damage tissues and interfere with the proper functioning of the body's systems. With heavy infestation, a critical amount of blood may be lost and young animals may die. Those that survive may be permanently stunted. Adult animals may become sluggish, have diarrhea and generally appear ill.

Your veterinarian can determine if worms are present by examining a fecal sample under a microscope. He or she may also examine the area around the pet's anus for rice-like particles that are tapeworm segments.

Worms are controlled by medications given by mouth or by injection. Generally, two or more doses are given, two to three weeks apart. The first treatment will kill the adult worms; the others will eliminate the young worms that hatch from remaining eggs.

If you decide to treat the pet yourself, remember that a worm medicine is not a cure-all. Too many pet owners turn to this medication at the first sign of any sickness in their pets. A definite diagnosis of a worm problem is necessary if the medicine is to be effective. Vague symptoms such as fever or diarrhea are not positive signs of worm infections. Many individuals worsen the situation by overdosing, or worming a pet that is sick for another reason.

The common internal parasites found in pets include roundworms, hookworms and tapeworms. These worms reside in the intestinal tract and rob cats and dogs of vital nutrients by feeding on intestinal contents or drawing blood from the mucous membranes lining the intestinal walls.

Successful worm control procedures combine the use of a worming agent with a thorough cleaning of the animal's living quarters. Check with your veterinarian regarding a disinfectant suitable for use in kennels and other pet areas. To help prevent reinfection of your pet, plan on regular removal of waste from litter plans and runs, plus a flea control program.

Because your pet can become infected with a wide variety of internal parasites, and because identification of the parasite is necessary before treatment, consult a vetinarian in order to establish a worming program for your cat or dog.

FASHION FORECASTS

THE PERFECT MATCH

Garanimals' smart but economical duds for kids feature adult styling: athletic fleece V-neck sports tops (left) with satiny racing stripes and trim twill pants for boys, 8-14. Little girls, 4-6X, love soft, brushed twill pants with a "Heidi" blouse, while boys, 4-7, don hockey tops. Scoring high marks with older girls is the mid-wale corduroy skirt with gathered front yoke (right) and knit smock blouse.

With school days ahead, parents are looking to Garanimals' color coordinating separates to make sure their children are well dressed for school.

Without distressing their budgets, parents can find just the right mix of durability and young, yet sophisticated styling in pants and skirts of denim, corduroy or twill to go with a variety of woven or knit tops for their kids all the way from toddler size to boys 8-14 and girls 7-14 sizes.

All this year's key textures—flannel, corduroy, velour, soft knit and handsome wovens—are available in Garanimals' latest children's collection. Mid-wale and wide-wale corduroys make the grade for both boys and girls from five years on up. There's also brushed twill pants that are neat and stylish yet stand up to a child's busy schedule of school and play. Good-looking yet rugged, fleece shirts are new this year for boys in the 8-14 size range.

Denim jeans, always a favorite for older boys in the 8-14 sizes, can have real Western flare when paired with a matching vest—both stitched with contrasting thread—and a brushed flannel or woven gingham plaid shirt with a Western yoke.

Little girls in the 4-6X range will appreciate a lace trimmed flannel pioneer blouse to wear with a matching flowered print skirt to insure making an excellent first impression.

Young boys in 4-7 sizes can get into the fashion picture, too, with sporty knit shirts with hockey V-necks and thermal shoulder and elbow patches. Or, they can choose velour tops or Garanimals' Superman screen print shirt to coordinate with any of the Garanimals pants in a color family.

For toddlers, styling is suitably athletic to match their energy: a hooded jogging suit with racing stripes may capture their interest during hours of strenuous play.

Colors like autumn rust, forest green and deep blue with heather, haystack yellow, and pumpkin orange accents are the heart of Garanimals' fall collection of separates. The nationally known brand's fool-proof color-coded hangtag system, first introduced in 1972, has saved many a parent the annoyance of not being able to find exactly the right color coordination in an item of children's apparel.

Eye-catching hangtags in imaginative lion, hippo, zebra and monkey shapes, show the match-ups for tops and bottoms in each color group. Every skirt, pant or overall in a color family has an animal tag to match that on a coordinating top. If the hangtags match, the top and bottom will go together perfectly.

The system makes it easy and affordable to build a child's wardrobe. You can keep on adding Garanimals tops or bottoms throughout a clothing season to go with the ones your child already owns. These popular priced separates are quality designed with value and fashion in mind.

Garanimals scores an A+ from parents who want their children to move to the head of the class in fashion, and are available nationwide through mass merchandisers, department stores and other retailers.

Food Purchases By Singles Show Variety

If you live alone, your age, sex and income level influence the kinds and amounts of food you buy, according to Benjamin Sexauer, a university of Minnesota consumption economist.

The number of people in the U.S. who live alone has grown rapidly in the last 25 years. The U.S. Census Bureau projects that more than one-fourth of all households will consist of only one person by 1990.

"Singles' food purchases are an increasingly important factor in our food system," Sexauer says. "A clearer understanding of the group's food buying habits is valuable in understanding current retail food demand and forecasting future demand."

Sexauer recently completed a USDA-sponsored study on the food buying habits of 12 subgroups of singles. "I'd say that the only thing these people have in common is that they live alone," he says.

One finding reveals what Sexauer calls the "Pepsi generation" phenomenon: young singles buy three times the amount of soft drinks that older singles do. On the other hand, older singles drink a lot more coffee, with older women the greatest coffee consumers.

Upper-income bachelors spend about five times as much on dining out than do older lower-income women, Sexauer reports. Income is an important factor on the proportion of money spent on food, he stresses; lower income singles spend up to a third of their income on food, while upper income singles spend from eight to 14 per cent.

"One striking generalization can be made: The average single person household spends more per week on food than do multiperson households per person," he says.

Within this fast-growing group of the U.S. population, certain types of single-person households will grow faster than others, due to demographic trends, such as the life span difference between men and women, the increasing age of first marriage and the high divorce rate.

"Currently, low-income elderly women make up one-fourth of all single-person households in this country, and I suspect this group will become even larger in the future," Sexauer says. "This group now spends about 30 per cent of their total income on food, a rather large proportion. This could be of special concern to food policymakers now and in the future."

Minnesota Has Many Camping Opportunities

More than 30,000 campsites in 676 campgrounds assure the camping enthusiast in Minnesota a wide range of outdoor overnight opportunities.

Approximately one of every five vacation travelers in Minnesota used a campsite in 1978. As evidenced by the 1979 Minnesota camping guide, produced by the Tourism Bureau of the Minnesota Department of Economic Development, Minnesota has campsites to fit everyone's needs.

Nine of every 10 private campgrounds listed in the Minnesota camping guide are situated on a lake, river or stream. The private campgrounds offer everything from the basics such as drinking water and firewood to the more luxurious facilities like hot showers, swimming pools, recreation halls, boat or canoe rentals and tennis courts.

Overnight fees start at $3 and go to $7 per evening. Many municipal campgrounds have no fee. Some private facilities require reservations, while no reservations can be made for the state parks.

One popular and unique camping outing can be experienced in the Superior and Chippewa national forests in northern Minnesota. Combined with the 26 state forests, Minnesota's state and national forests provide camping, hunting, hiking, wildlife and scenery within more than seven million acres of woods. There are almost 5,000 campsites in 117 separate areas within the forests. All camping pads are well-spaced allowing for the private enjoyment of Minnesota's wilderness areas.

The boundary waters canoe area (BWCA), located within Superior national forest, has more than 2,200 managed campsites. An entry permit is required to camp in the BWCA and is available from the Superior national forest supervisor's office in Duluth, or from many northern Minnesota resorts and outfitters. Canoe outfitters are listed in the Minnesota camping guide.

Some state forests charge a $3 overnight camping fee. Camping fees in the national forests range from $2 to $4, depending on the facilities available at the campground. Persons 62 or older are eligible for a golden age passport in the national forests entitling them to 50 per cent discount on the camping fee. Golden age passports are available at the forests supervisor's offices in Duluth and Cass Lake or at forest ranger's offices located in 11 northern Minnesota communities.

Fifty-eight of Minnesota's 67 state parks provide camping areas with campsites ranging from rustic to semi-modern. Most parks have fishing, swimming beaches and picnic areas; many provide boat and canoe rentals, and all have systems of hiking trails and staff naturalists on hand. Overnight camping fees in the state parks are $4 for a semi-modern site and $3 for a rustic site. Permits for entering a state park in an automobile are $1.50 per night, and an annual permit, accepted for one year at all 67 state parks, can be obtained for $5. Permits can be purchased at all state parks.

To obtain a copy of the 1979 Minnesota Camping Guide, write to the tourist information center, 480 Cedar St., St. Paul, MN 55101. Residents of Minnesota can call toll free 1-800-652-9747.

Smoke Detector Can Help Save Lives In Fire

Eight out of every 10 victims of residential fires might still be alive if their homes had been equipped with smoke detectors, says fire marshall Wes Werner of the Minnesota department of public safety.

"Smoke detectors are the most effective fire warning device on the market today. The early warning can give extra time to escape before the fire can increase and has a chance to burn or suffocate a person," Werner said.

"Right now, smoke detectors are the best protection against fire that money can buy; no one can afford to be without them," he said.

Main advantage of smoke detectors lies in their sensitiveness to microscopic particles and invisible gases given off soon after a fire starts. The detector senses the presence of these products of combustion and activates a loud buzzer alarm.

A new Minnesota law, effective Jan. 1, 1980, will require universal use of smoke detectors in all apartments, dormitories, hotels, motels and resorts.

"This new law requiring smoke detectors is one of the most significant steps in recent years to cut down the tragic loss of lives and property due to fire," Werner said.

Credit Given For Renewable Energy System

Renewable energy systems, such as solar and wind, can cost as little as half price now, according to the Minnesota energy agency.

Both federal and state tax credits are available to homeowners and renters for investments in solar, wind and geothermal systems, biomass conversion and earth-sheltered housing. Federal credit is also available for investments in conservation.

In a tax credit, the amount of the credit is subtracted directly from the amount of taxes owed.

State credit is 20 per cent of the first $10,000. Federal credit allows 30 per cent of the first $2,000 spent, plus 20 per cent of the next $8,000. Maximum allowable credit is $2,000 on the state taxes and $2,200 on federal taxes, totalling $4,200.

As an example, if you purchase a solar water heater which costs $3,000, $800 would be subtracted from the federal taxes owned and $600 from state taxes owed. This would reduce the cost of the water heater to $1,600.

Heating water is one of the best ways to use solar energy. A $3,000 system (or $1,600 after tax credits are taken) will usually provide at least half of the hot water used by a family of four. This cuts the normal fuel bill for water heating in half.

State energy credit covers purchases made between taxable years 1979 and 1982, the federal between April 20, 1977 and the end of 1985.

Credits cover the cost of the equipment plus labor costs for on-site preparation and installation. In addition, the state credit covers all components of passive solar systems. Federal credit covers only the parts of a passive system which are not essential elements of the building's structure.

In a passive solar system, the building collects the sun's heat directly through south facing windows and stores the heat for later use.

Federal credit also covers conservation, allowing 15 per cent of the cost up to $300. It can be taken only on a house built before April 20, 1977, if it's the taxpayer's principal residence. It covers a variety of conservation measures, including insulation, efficient furnace replacement burners, devices for modifying flue openings, electronic ignition systems for furnaces, storm and thermal doors and windows, automatic setback and clock thermostats, caulking, weatherstripping and meters which display the cost of energy use.

Energy tax credits do not cover design costs, swimming pools, swimming pool heaters or the part of a building used for business purposes rather than as a residence.

Energy agency director Al Johnson said, "Energy tax credits are one important way in which Minnesotans can offset the increasing prices of fuel. Conservation and solar improvements usually pay for themselves in saved fuel costs, and these tax credits will help pay back the cost of the improvements even faster. We hope people will take advantage of them."

More Bicycles On Road Mean Care Required

Bicycling continues to gain in popularity for transportation and recreation in Minnesota, especially as motor vehicles become more expensive to own and operate.

"Increasing number of bicycles means that both bicyclists and motor vehicle drivers must learn to look out for each other and share the road in safety," said commissioner John P. Sopsic of the Minnesota department of public safety.

Last year in Minnesota, crashes killed 23 bicyclists, about the same number as died annually since 1975. In 1977 fatalities number 24 bicyclists, compared with 21 in 1976 and 23 in 1975.

"The tragedy is obvious when we see that more than half the bicyclists killed last year were under 20 years old, and included two children under five years. Eight fatalities involved youngsters between 10 and 14, and seven victims were between 15 and 19," said Sopsic. Males accounted for 15 of the 23 bicycle fatalities last year.

Driver inattention and distriction — by both bicyclists and motor vehicle drivers — were the major factors contributing to the fatal crashes, according to police reports.

Other important contributing factors were that bicyclists failed to yield the right-of-way and improperly used traffic lanes. Motor vehicle drivers were cited for illegal and unsafe speed and improper passing and overtaking of bicycles, the police reports said.

LEGAL NOTICE

August 27, 1979
Hearing on Redistricting Plans For The Eighth AMBD Ninth Judicial Districts And Part of The Seventh Judicial District
State of Minnesota
In Supreme Court ORDER

WHEREAS, the Judges of the Seventh, Eighth, and Ninth Judicial Districts have submitted to the Supreme Court plans to realign the courts of the districts.

WHEREAS, the Supreme Court wishes to allow public testimony on the redistricting plans,

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that a hearing on the redistricting plans with respect to the Eighth and Ninth Judicial Districts and Clay, Becker, Otter Tail, Wadena, Douglas, and Todd Counties of the Seventh Judicial District shall be held in the Supreme Court Chambers in the State Capitol, Saint Paul, Minnesota, at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, October 4, 1979.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that advance notice of the hearing be given by the publication of this order once in the Supreme Court edition of FINANCE AND COMMERCE, ST. PAUL LEGAL LEDGER, and BENCH AND BAR.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that interested persons show cause, if any they have, why the proposed redistricting plans should not be adopted. All persons desiring to be heard shall file briefs or petitions setting forth their objections, and shall also notify the Clerk of the Supreme Court, in writing, on or before September 27, 1979 of their desire to be heard on the matter.

State of Minnesota
County of Pennington
PROBATE COURT
COUNTY COURT
PROBATE DIVISION
In Re: Estate of Martin C. Ekwall, Deceased.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 4th day of October, 1979, at 2:00 o'clock P.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota for the adjudication of intestacy and determination of heirship and for the appointment of Ottea (Ollila) Ekwall, whose address is Rt. 2, Goodridge, Minnesota, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and any objection thereto must be filed with the court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes, and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Clerk of the Court within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

LEC Reports 22 New Cases

August 21 law enforcement report listed a total of 22 new cases including eight accidents, six thefts, seven vandalisms and one case of forgery. Individual cases are given below by reporting date:

August 10 — Peggy Peterson of Middle River reported that her paycheck which was stolen while she was in Middle River was forged and cashed at a Thief River Falls bank. The incident is under investigation.

August 10, 1 a.m.: A car driven by Kyle Kaushagen of route 2 was proceeding north on county road 18. When Kaushagen came around a curve he lost control of the vehicle. The vehicle hit the left shoulder, came back onto the road, went into the right ditch, skidded sideways and hit an approach, went into the air, flipped and the rear of the vehicle hit a power pole. The vehicle sustained approximately $2,000 damage and Kaushagen suffered a split lip.

August 11, 6:35 p.m.: Mark Sorvig of Red Lake Falls was driving a motorcycle south on county road 71 when he entered a curve and the cycle started to slide on the roadway. The vehicle skidded and left the roadway on the east edge, went through a ditch and got caught in a woven wire fence. Sorvig was thrown over the top of the fence and hit a tree. He suffered minor injuries and the cycle sustained approximately $100 worth of damage.

August 13, 11:50 a.m.: A car driven by Helmer Myhrer of Thief River Falls was proceeding east on 3rd St. and making a right turn onto Tindolph Ave. when it collided into the rear of a car driven by Marcia Kalinowski of Thief River Falls. Impact of the collision sent the Myhrer car up over the curb and into the second house on Tindolph Ave. which is owned by Romal Burtness. Muhrer sustained facial bruises and his car was totaled. Damages to the Kalinowski vehicle were estimated at $1500 and to the Burtness home, $20.

August 14 — Mike Dominick of Thief River Falls reported vandalism was done to his vehicle while the vehicle was parked at Kife's cafe. Valve stems were pulled out of two of the vehicle's tires and the tires had damages estimated at $50.

August 14 — A report from the city utilities department indicates that five meters were shot out in Countryside trailer court with a BB gun. Damage loss was estimated at $17.

August 14, 1:51 a.m.: Steven M. Olson of route three was westbound in the eastbound lane on Parnham Ave. when the motorcycle he was driving hit a brick in the roadway, skidded a number of feet and crashed coming to rest facing east. The driver was thrown from the vehicle, and was unconscious at the scene of the accident. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance and transferred to United hospital in Grand Forks.

August 15, 3:41 a.m.: A van driven by Robert F. Gibson of Thief River Falls was westbound on Mussey St. and made a right turn onto Kendall Ave. when the driver lost control of the vehicle. The vehicle made a 180 degree turn, struck a fire hydrant and ended up on the curb facing east. Damages to the van were estimated at $150 and to the hydrant, $700.

August 15 — Stolen from the N. L. Olson garage in Thief River Falls was a grinder and a set of golf clubs. Value of the stolen items was estimated at $185.

August 15 — Eugene Prestegaard of 804 N. LaBree reported that someone had stolen a light blue ten-speed bicycle from his yard July 21. Also taken from his vehicle which was parked at the residence was a hubcap. The items were valued at $50 each making a total theft loss of $100.

August 15 — Norman Johnson of 932 N. Knight Ave. reported that someone entered his garage and took a $40 cooler and a Homelite model XL chainsaw valued at $90. The stolen chainsaw was owned by the city of Thief River Falls. Total theft loss in the incident was $130.

August 15, 4:35 p.m., 12th St. and Main Ave.: A car driven by Dennis Nelson of Thief River Falls was traveling east on 12th St. and attempting to make a right turn onto Main Ave. while a second car, driven by Karen Benitt of Middle River, was pulling out from a gas station and attempting to go north on Main. The two vehicles collided causing damages of approximately $100 to the Nelson vehicle and $300 to Benitt's vehicle.

August 17 — Kathy Femrite of Rocksbury township reported the theft of a blue 20-inch bicycle from the Femrite yard. Value of the bicycle was approximately $35.

August 17 — A 15 year old juvenile male was apprehended in the Pamida store for attempting to shoplift an item valued at $1.27.

August 17 — Don Zak of Middle River reported that someone had stolen a spare tire from the back of his pickup while the vehicle was parked in the Arctic Cat parking lot. The tire was valued at $100.

August 17, 4:20 p.m., 1st St. & Main Ave.: A pickup driven by Daniel Lerol of Thief River Falls was traveling west in the middle lane on 1st St. while a car, driven by Terrance Fladeland of Red Lake Falls, was also traveling west on 1st St. in the right lane. Both drivers were attempting to make a right turn onto Main Ave. when they collided. Estimated damages were $300 to the Lerol vehicle and under $100 to the Fladeland vehicle.

August 17, 1:44 p.m., 4th street and Main avenue: Selmer Nyflot of Newfolden was headed east on Fourth street while Lynett Brazier of Thief River Falls was proceeding north on Main avenue when the cars collided in the intersection. Nyflot's vehicle sustained approximately $500 and Brazier's, over $1,200.

August 18 — Shari Alby of Thief River Falls reported that the pop machine by the Eighth street Fas Gas station was tipped over. Damages to the machine were estimated at $10.

August 19 — Ann Aaseby of Thief River Falls reported that the glass on a gas pump in front of the Union 76 station at 6th & Main had been broken. Vandalism loss was given at $9.

August 20 — Bob Bregler of Thief River Falls reported that a glass bottle was thrown through four windows in the back of the city auditorium. Damages totaled $40.

August 20 — A glass bottle was thrown through the garage window at the Carmen Larson residence at 102 N. Spruce. Replacement cost was estimated at $40.

August 20 — Dorrie Souto of 235 N. Markley reported that someone had attempted to take the side mirror from her vehicle while the vehicle was parked in front of her residence. Estimated damages were $40.

Last week's police report listed a case of assault involving Dennis Brinkman. The individual involved was Dennis Ray Brinkman of Thief River Falls, formerly of route 2 Roseau.

UMC Positions Filled Pending Regent Okay

University of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC) has selected three candidates, pending approval of the University of Minnesota board of regents, to fill the vacant positions of soil science instructor, rural communications instructor and director of music.

Val John Eylands, currently working on his doctorate in soil fertility at North Dakota state university, Fargo, has been selected for the position of soil science instructor. Eylands holds both a master's and bachelor's degree from the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks.

Amy Krinick was recently chosen to become director of music, at the rank of instructor. The position is a temporary appointment, for one academic year while Robert Olson is on leave of absence. Krinick earned her bachelor's degree at the Eastman school of music, University of Rochester, and completed her master's degree in choral conducting on the University of Illinois campus.

Another one-year faculty appointment was that of Kenneth Torkelson for the agriculture division post of rural communications instructor while Wally Niebauer is on a leave of absence. Torkelson has been the new director and an announcer at a radio station in Langdon, N.D., the past 12 years. Prior to coming to Langdon, he obtained his bachelor's degree at the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks.

MERLE LUNDEEN FAMILY was on hand Thursday to bid farewell to their 4-H Japanese exchange student, Yasushi Kusakari (front left). The 15 year old Japanese student was one of four to visit Pennington county families this summer through the 4-H sponsored program. The students lived with their host families for three and a half weeks to get a taste of American culture. Pictured with Kuskari are (back row, left to right) Merle, Parry, Jeffery (front row, left to right) Barbara and Dale Lundeen.

This Weekend Most Deadly For Motorists

Labor day weekend, when heavy vacation travel marks the end of summer, has been among the most deadly holiday weekends for Minnesota motorists, according to the Minnesota safety council, which estimates 11 to 15 fatalities from auto crashes during the 1979 Labor day weekend.

During the five-year period from 1974-1978, 57 people were killed over the Labor day weekend. Only July 4 holiday weekends were more deadly, with 67 highway fatalities during the same period of time. There were eleven fatalities over the Labor day weekend last year.

Despite the heavy death toll on those holiday weekends, the safety council points out that the picture is still more favorable than in the years prior to the enactment of a national 55 mph speed limit.

The safety council urges voluntary compliance with the 55 mph speed limit as a positive way to save lives this holiday weekend. Other driving safety tips include the reminder to motorists to be alert to the hazards created by slower-moving trailered vehicles, to allow an hour to pass for each drink consumed, and to use safety belts for drivers and passengers.

Plan holiday trips carefully to avoid starting out or leaving for home during peak travel hours. Most dangerous span of hours is from 10 p.m. Saturday evening to 2 a.m. Sunday morning. Leave early enough to reach your destination by observing posted speed limits. Driving 55 mph saves gas and lives.

PROCLAMATION

Thursday, August 30, 1979, has been designated as George Schwartz "Appreciation Day" at First Northwestern State Bank of Thief River Falls.

Since becoming president of the bank in March of 1974, George has left his mark, not only in the growth and development of the bank, but also in the activities of the entire Thief River Falls area. Through his association and work in various civic and fraternal organizations, and on banking and business committees, George has made many friends, and has helped make our community a better place to live.

We have set aside August 30th as George's special day at the bank. We invite all of our customers and friends to stop in on Thursday to visit with George, acknowledge his contributions these past five and one half years, and to wish him well in his new position as President of the First National Bank of Fargo.

Land Use To Be Meeting Topic Sat., Sept. 1

Meeting in Newfolden on the family farm concept and a land use statement September 1 will be the first of four such meetings to be held in the Crookston diocese of the Catholic church. Input of local citizens concerned about the exploitation of land use in the United States is being sought for the development of a land use statement to be issued by the 44 Catholic dioceses of the Central United States.

Although the hearings are being sponsored by the church, Father Duane Pribula, director of the project in the Crookston diocese, emphasises that input is sought from the public at large. The statement draft will include "a study of the traditional Christian concern for land use, its ownership, as well as basic principles which should serve as guidelines concerning land use and its ownership today," Pribula comments.

A preliminary working draft of the statement has already been authorized and local citizens will be asked to review the document and suggest modifications on the preliminary statement at one of the open consultation sessions to be held in the diocese during September and October.

Following the gathering of local input a final land statement is expected to be released in early 1980 by the U.S. conference of Catholic bishops.

In referring to the land crisis situation now occuring in the Central United State and the importance of the project, Dr. Pribula stated, "Land is the basic and most precious commodity available to humankind and as such it must be treated with care and responsibility. This is a matter of survival for this generation and the next."

The meeting in Newfolden is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, September 1, and run until 1 p.m. It will be held in the Newfolden community center. Other area meetings are scheduled in Roseau, September 8 at Sacred Heart; in Shooks parish hall September 22; and in Mahnomen at St. Michael's church, October 20.

Flour Mill To Run Sat., Sun.

The historic 83 year old flour mill located at Old Mill state park in Marshall county will be put in operation over the Labor Day weekend, the department of Natural resources announced today.

Souvenir bags of flour made from the grain ground by the mill will be on sale to park visitors. Park officials said the grain will be supplied by the park and that individuals should not bring their own grain.

The mill will be operated Saturday, September 1, and Monday, Sept. 3, from 1 to 4 p.m. On Sunday the millstones will be uncovered.

Council Discusses Rural Fire Contract

Negotiations with township representatives for a new rural fire protection contract were among the items of discussion at a regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council held Tuesday, August 28. Mayor Bob Carlson reported on a negotiating session held between city officials and five township representatives August 27 at which the townships' officials offered a counterproposal to the city's latest contract proposal.

The city's proposal, presented July 21, asked for a contribution of one mill or approximately $10,000 from the townships in 1980 and a two mill, or $20,000 contribution for rural fire protection in 1981, 1982 and 1983. These $10,000 and $20,000 contributions would go to the city to help cover operating expenses for the fire department. In addition, the townships would continue to pay fire call fees of $40 for the first hour and $20 for each additional hour with these fees going to the volunteer fireman's relief association as they have in the past. Insurance costs and maintenance costs up to $500 would be paid by the city.

This proposal was rejected by township officials at the July 21 meeting and the counter proposal presented Monday called for a $7,000 contribution from the rural factions in 1980, $8,000 in 1981, $9,000 in 1982 and $10,000 in 1983. It was also proposed that the city pay annual maintenance costs of up to $2,000 for the vehicles owned by the townships.

After discussion, Mayor Carlson offered a proposal that the townships pay $8,000 in 1980, $9,000 in 1981 and $10,000 in 1982 with the fire call fees and maintenance contribution by the city to remain the same. Township officials agreed that if the council took action to accept the proposal at Tuesday's meeting they would hold a special meeting in the townships to attempt to secure ratification.

However opposition was raised at the Tuesday meeting to the proposal and with two council members absent, the item was tabled for vote by the full council at the next regular meeting scheduled to be held Monday, September 10.

Opposition to the proposal argued that with the townships having approximately 25 per cent of the annual calls, 25 per cent of the population served and 25 per cent of the assessed valuation, a $10,000 contribution to a $160,000 operating budget was not an equitable share. This would mean that while city residents were paying approximately $16 per capita for fire protection, township residents would pay only three or four dollars.

School Enrollment 2,937 On First Day

One of the most orderly and smoothly functioning school openings in recent years is reported by administrators and office personnel in School District 564 as classes began today for the 1979-80 school term.

Opening day enrollment of 2,937 compares with 3,008 recorded last year and marks the first time since 1970-71 that enrollment has dropped below the 3,000 mark. Record enrollment for the district was 3,295 in 1973-74 and continuing decline is predicted for the next several years.

Supt. William Corliss again noted this year that opening day enrollments do not constitute accurate attendance figures and that changes will occur frequently during the next several weeks.

Enrollment at Lincoln high school of 1006 this morning is up slightly from expectations but a far cry from last year when enrollment increased from 1,063 the previous year to 1,073. At that time a decrease had been expected and administrators were "looking for furniture" to accommodate the student influx.

Assistant principal Terry Soine at Lincoln said late this morning that "things are going exceptionally good". He termed conditions as "crowded" due to such circumstances as demolition of the Old Washington building and use of vocational section rooms for storage pending completion of the new vocational additions on highway one east.

Franklin middle school office personnel said opening day appeared to be "going beautifully" while elementary school personnel reported the first day of classes to be very smooth.

While Lincoln high school enrollment this year at 1006 was down substantially from last year's 1,073 figure, Franklin middle school (grades 6-8) increased this year to 660 from 649 a year ago. Last year the middle school enrollment dropped by 59 students.

Elementary enrollment at 1,271 this year is down only six students from 1,277 last year, including kindergarten through grade five and those students in special education classes.

Comparative enrollment by schools shows St. Hilaire up from 128 to 156 with reestablishment of a fifth grade there; Knox down from 311 to 308, Mark Twain down to 171 from 192, Washington up to 330 from 322 and Northrop down to 311 from 333.

A summary of comparative enrollments with last year at the various schools in the district includes the following with 1979 figures listed first and comparative 1978 figures in parentheses:

St. Hilaire — Kindergarten, 21 (20); grade one, 21 (28); grade two, 30 (29); grade three, 29 (27); grade four, 29 (24); and grade five, 26 (0); total, 156.

Mark Twain — Kindergarten, 31 (25); grade one, 25 (49); grade two, 29 (28); grade three, 27 (28); grade four, 28 (30); and grade five, 31 (32); total, 171;

Northrop — Kindergarten, 46 (57); grade one, 54 (50); grade two, 55 (57); grade three, 47 (59); grade four, 58 (53); and grade five, 51 (57); total, 311;

Washington — Kindergarten, 52 (48); grade one, 55 (50); grade two, 58 (53); grade three, 56 (59); grade four, 56 (54); and grade five, 53 (58); total, 330;

School Board Fills 14 Current Staff Positions

Fourteen staff positions were filled, including faculty and aide posts, when the Thief River Falls board of education met Monday evening at the school district service center.

At a special meeting of the board this morning to consider possible budget adjustments due to a higher year-end balance than anticipated, the board determined that approximately $80,000 should be expended to reinstitute academic and non-academic program cuts made earlier for the coming school year. Decision on which specific items will be put back in the budget will be made at a later meeting.

Also hired were Margo Peterson, school nurse; Nancy Benedict, management adie at Franklin; and Shirley Rivera, management aide at Washington elementary school. Susan Froiland was transferred from fourth grade at St. Hilaire to second grade at St. Hilaire.

Resignations were received from Bryan Stuart, bus driver; Myrtle Nelson, cafeteria helper at Franklin; and Marjo Schafer, aide at Washington elementary school.

Extra-curricular assignments approved were for Helen Anderson and Mary Nordhagen, girls' basketball in grade eight and girls'

UFO Causes Damage To Marshall Co. Deputy's Car

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"Four O Seven, what's the problem?"

"I don't know. . .something just hit my car. . .I don't know how to explain it. . .it's strange. . ."

"Is the car damaged? Are you in the ditch or what?"

"No. . .I'm upright. . Something attacked my car. . I heard glass breaking and the brakes locked up. . .and I don't know what the hell. . ."

The above exchange between a dispatcher in the Marshall county law enforcement center and deputy sheriff Val Johnson was recorded at 2:19 a.m. Monday. Johnson had just recovered consciousness after his patrol car and an unidentified object made physical contact about 12 miles southwest of Stephen.

Apparent impact of the collision broke a left headlight of the car without denting the cowling or fender, dented the hood near the windshield, broke the windshield and a flasher light on top of the car and sharply bent two flexible-mounted antennae. The path of damage indicated six points of impact in a line varying only a few inches off center.

Unusual phenomenon in connection with the incident include the following:

(1) Deputy Johnson first observed a brilliant light which appeared to be stationary, then moved toward him so rapidly (from a distance estimated to be about a mile away) that he had no time to anticipate impact.

(2) The light was so brilliant that it was painful, causing him to close his eyes, and lit up the whole inside of the car at the time Johnson heard glass breaking.

(3) Investigation showed that Johnson's car coasted 854 feet from the point where glass from the broken headlight was found to a point where skid marks from locked brakes began. The skid marks covered another 99 feet to where the vehicle came to rest on the road.

(4) Examination of Johnson's eyes by Dr. Pinsonneault after the deputy was taken by ambulance to Warren indicated damage similar to "welder burns". An eye specialist at Grand Forks later confirmed similar damage, although there had been rapid improvement.

(5) A mechanical watch worn by deputy Johnson and an electric clock in his squad car, both of which had been set at 7 p.m. when he started work and checked with the dispatcher, each was 14 minutes slow — indicating they had not been running for that length of time.

(6) Johnson can remember nothing from the time he heard glass breaking — calculated to be 1:40 a.m. — until he opened his right eye, saw the red engine indicator light on the instrument panel of his car (the motor had stopped but the ignition was turned on) and radioed for assistance at 2:19 a.m.

(7) Investigation revealed no other debris or skid marks on the roadway and all aviation sources in the area confirmed there were no aircraft in that area at that time. Deputy Johnson also says he heard no engine noise nor did he smell exhaust fumes.

In a statement made at the law enforcement center at 5:05 a.m. after being examined by Dr. Pinsonneault and having his eyes treated and bandaged, Deputy Johnson recalled that he had left Stephen shortly after 1:30 a.m. to return to Oslo where he is stationed. He traveled west from Stephen about 11 miles on County Road 5 to its intersection with highway 220, then turned south on highway 220.

At the intersection, which is shielded from the south by a field of sunflowers, he noticed the bright light hovering three or four feet over highway 220 and apparently stationary about two or two and one-half miles away. It appeared to be eight to 10 inches in diameter, resembling a sealed beam spotlight, and he at first believed it to be an airplane in distress.

He had gone about a mile south from the intersection and had accelerated to about 60 to 65 miles per hour in an attempt to approach the light when it came toward him at what he calls an incredible rate of speed. He does not remember hitting the brakes on the car, nor can he explain the nearly 300 yards the car coasted before brakes were applied.

In the conversation with the radio dispatcher at the law enforcement center in Warren, he responded to a question about his condition by saying, "I can't see too well but I don't think there's any blood. . ." He did have a bump on the forehead, possibly caused by hitting the top of the steering wheel when the brakes locked. It is not known if the bump was sufficient to cause him to lose consciousness for the approximately 40-minute time lapse between impact and radio call for assistance.

Because of the unique nature of the mishap, Sheriff Dennis Brekke of Marshall county contacted the Center for UFO Studies in Evanston, Ill., and chief investigator Allan A. Hendry flew to Warren to view the damage to the car and question Deputy Johnson. He could offer no explanation as to what happened in the incident, but virtually ruled out aircraft involvement in light of the type of damage to the car and other factors.

Hendry said the UFO center receives about 1,000 calls a year, 90 per cent of which can be explained by normally occurring situations. Of the remaining 10 per cent, only a few offer physical evidence of contact. He recalled only two other such circumstances in the past year, both far removed from this area. He said the incident west of Stephen has the best credibility of any reported UFO sighting this year.

The center for UFO studies is a private center funded by grants and donations. No governmental agency is officially involved in the investigation of UFO sightings at the present time.

Deputy Johnson, 35, has been employed by the Marshall county sheriff's office for two and one-half years, serving in a full-time capacity as deputy at Oslo since June of 1978. He was part-time deputy in eastern Marshall county for a short time and during that time was employed by Ericco Manufacturing company west of Thief River Falls. For a year and one-half prior to joining the Marshall county sheriff's department he was a tool and die maker for Arctic Enterprises in Thief River Falls.

Sheriff Brekke emphasized that Johnson is a thorough

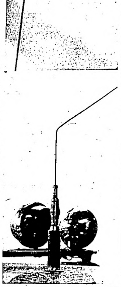
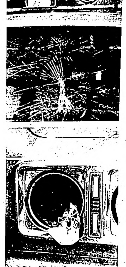
UNEXPLAINED TIME LAPSE of 14 minutes is discussed by Marshall county sheriff's deputy Val Johnson and Allan Hendry, chief investigator for the Center for UFO Studies in Evanston, Ill., following Johnson's encounter with an unidentified object early Monday morning. Both the mechanical hand-wind watch and an electric clock in Johnson's patrol car had apparently been stopped for 14 minutes after an object with intensely bright light struck the car about 12 miles west and south of Stephen on highway 220. Hendry said that of approximately 1,000 calls his center receives each year, the Monday morning incident is among the most credible.



TWO ANTENNAE on the Val Johnson patrol car were bent in the incident with an unidentified object early Monday morning. Both are mounted on flexible bases such as shown in the lower photo, leading to the belief that the object striking them must have been traveling extremely fast to inflict the bends without permitting the antennae to flex.



BROKEN HEADLIGHT and windshield were part of the damage to the Marshall county deputy sheriff's car which impacted with an unidentified object early Monday morning west of Stephen. Deputy Val Johnson can not account for approximately 40 minutes of time following the impact with his car.

Bergsnev and Schneider Vows Said at Greenbush

Miss Susan Bergsnev, daughter of Mrs. Orin Bergsnev of Greenbush, became the bride of David Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Forsberg of this city, at a recent wedding at Oiland Lutheran church in Greenbush.

Rev. Gustav Nordvall officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Dallas Erickson was the organist and Miss Carmen Andol, the pianist. Vocalists were Mrs. Ernie Janousek, a cousin of the bride, and Peté Faver, a friend of the couple. They sang "Colour My World," "Follow Me," "The Lord's Prayer," and "There is Love."

Candelabra, a unity candle and yellow mums graced the altar.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her uncle Wally Bergsnev of Duluth and given in marriage by her mother, was attired in an ivory colored, old-fashioned gown with sheer bishop sleeves edged with lace. The fitted bodice featured a lace yoke, in cape effect, with stand up collar and buttons down the front. A deep border of lace edged the skirt and chapel-length train. Her satin and lace headpiece with pearl designs, held her fingertip veil of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade of silk flowers featuring white roses tipped in green and pink, white carnations and babies' breath accented with green velvet leaves and long green streamers.

Mrs. Guy Strandberg was the bride's personal attendant.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister Peggy Bergsnev of this city. Other attendants were Mrs. Larry Graff, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Allen Melbye, a friend of the couple, and Julie Bergsnev, Greenbush, a sister of the bride. Their gowns of pale green crepe, in floral print, were styled with empire bodiced with three-quarter length puffed sleeves. Gold pendants graced the neckline. They carried bouquets of white daisies and carnations tied with pink ribbon.

Wearing similar attire was the flower girl Tracy Sather, Badger, a cousin of the bride. The rings were carried by Michael Bergsnev, a brother of the bride.

Best man was Timothy Miller, a friend of the couple. Serving as groomsmen were Archie Schneider, Eau Claire, Wis., and Les Schneider, brothers of the groom, and Jim Bergsnev, Greenbush, brother of the bride. The ushers were Duane Holland and Allen Melbye, friends of the couple. They wore green tuxedos complemented by light green shirts. Their boutonnieres were white roses tipped in green.

The bride's mother wore a light blue satin dress with a white lace bodice. The groom's mother was attired in a green double knit dress with long sleeves. Their identical corsages were of pink tipped apple blossoms and babies' breath with green ribbon accents.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joel Graff, grandparents of the bride, and the Wally Bergsnevs.

Following the ceremony, the mothers of the bride and groom hosted a reception in the church dining hall for about 275 guests. At the guest table was Jody Graff. Mr. and Mrs. John Roggenbuck, Embarrass, godparents of the bride, were reception host and hostess. The punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards as Heidi Sather distributed the rice packets.

The four-tiered wedding cake with a flowing water fountain was decorated with yellow roses and white bells. Topping the cake was a filigreed heart with three wedding bells. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Bob Graff and Mrs. Joel Graff, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Albert Sjolsvold, aunt of the groom, poured the coffee.

Waitresses were Ronna Brekke, Vicki Wahl, Corena Christianson, JoAnn Novacek and Beth Thompson. The gifts were arranged by Mrs. Leland Melby and Mrs. Gary Tveiten.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, the couple is now at home in Thief River Falls at 416 Knight avenue north. The bride, a graduate of Greenbush high school and the Thief River Falls AVTI, is employed as a secretary by Arctic Enterprises, Inc. The groom is employed by the Pennington County Sheriff department. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Minnesota Bureau of Apprehension. Photo, R.L. Nieland Studio, Thief River Falls

Shelly Erickson to Wed Stephen Stone in Turkey

Mrs. Goldie Erickson of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall C. Stone of Glens Falls, N.Y., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Shelly and Stephen.

The ceremony will take place on Saturday, September 1, in Izmir, Turkey where both are presently stationed.

Following the wedding, the couple will return to the United States to visit their families prior to leaving for Oslo, Norway, where they will be stationed for three years.

45th Anniversary Is Observed by C. Storholms

About 200 relatives and friends attended the 45th wedding anniversary celebration held July 15 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Storholm.

The occasion was sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lund of Oklee and Mr. and Mrs. Erling Lundeen of Spicer.

An anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Gustafson, decorated the table. Mrs. Emil Lundeen and Mrs. Ken Ferry cut the cake, while Mrs. Dayton Silk poured the coffee. Gayle Hilgeman and Barbara Lundeen served punch, and Mrs. Eldon Harbott attended the guest book.

Lois Molskness Weds Randy Martell at RLF

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Martell are residing in Ada at 701 Lily Lane after an exchange of vows at a recent wedding ceremony. Mrs. Martell, the former Lois Marie Molskness, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Molskness, route 1, Thief River Falls. The groom is the son of Mrs. Marion Martell, Red Lake Falls.

Rev. Gerald Noesen officiated at the two o'clock, double-ring ceremony held at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls. Organist Kristi Gerardy, a friend of the couple, played "Colour My World," for the attendants' processional, and the traditional wedding march as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. During the ceremony, Buss Olson, a brother-in-law of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Twelfth of Never," "Wedding Song," and "Annie's Song."

Forming the chancel setting were white hurricane candelabra and a white wrought iron archway decorated with greenery, doves and pink ribbon.

The bride was attired in a white Chantilly lace gown styled with an empire waistline and a Queen Anne neckline etched with seed pearls. Sheer organza formed the cuffed shepherdess sleeves and the accordion pleated panel that graced the front of the skirt. A chapel-length train gave back interest. Her double-tiered veil, attached to a half-hat headpiece, was trimmed with Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade of pink roses and babies' breath.

The bride's personal attendants were Carol Trontvet and Marguerete Burda.

Mrs. Jean Borneman, a friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Joan Hill, Warren, and Bev Olsen, Sedro Wooley, Wash.; sisters of the bride; and Brenda Gervais, Red Lake Falls, and Deb Lundsten, friends of the bride. Their identical gowns of a pink light-weight polyester were fashioned with empire waistlines and V-necklines. Topping the gowns were sheer lace jackets trimmed with matching floral print. They carried pink sweetheart roses, white carnations, light blue daisies and babies' breath. Their pewter hand-cut necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Serving as flower girl was Misty Olsen, Sedro Wooley, Wash., a niece of the bride. She wore a floor-length light pink gown with tucks accenting the bodice. A sheer white apron with wide ruffle complemented her attire. She carried a white wicker basket filled with flowers corresponding to those carried by the bride's attendants.

Ring bearer was Brian Martell, Red Lake Falls, a cousin of the groom. Like the men of the wedding party, he was attired in a medium gray tuxedo with black trim, pink ruffled shirt, and a pink rose boutonniere.

Jay Martell, Red Lake Falls, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Les Gervais and Danny Page, Red Lake Falls, friends of the groom; Randy Hill, Warren, a brother-in-law of the bride, and Al St. Marie, Ada, a friend of the groom. The guests were ushered by Allan Molskness, brother of the bride, and Richard Martell, Brooks, a cousin of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Molskness chose a floor-length gown of light blue polyester crepe accented with buttons at the neckline and long lacy sleeves. The mother of the groom wore a gown of dusty rose polyester with a high stand-up collar and a pleated cape. Their identical corsages were of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

Honor guests were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Amadie Champagne and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Martell.

About 200 guests attended the reception hosted in the church parlors by the bride's parents. They were registered by Maureen Johnson, a friend of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bushaw, Fargo, N.D., uncle and aunt of the groom, served as host and hostess. At the punch bowl were Wanda Martell and Dean Cardinal of Red Lake Falls.

The eight-tiered wedding cake, featuring a flowing water fountain, was flanked at the sides by smaller tiered cakes. Joining the cakes which were decorated with pink roses, were the stairways with minature replicas of the wedding party on the steps. Greenery surrounded the base. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Clarence Molskness, aunt of the bride. She together with Mrs. Raymond Molskness, another aunt of the bride, cut and served it.

Pouring coffee were aunts of the groom: Mrs. Jay Avelsgaard, Gentilly, and Mrs. Darrell Martell, Red Lake Falls.

Waitresses were Penny Martell, sister of the groom, and Carol Molskness and Connie Molskness, cousins of the bride. At the gift table were Carol Volochenko, Keef, N.D., sister of the groom; Jeanette Ste. Marie, Ada, a friend of the bride, and Barb Molskness, St. Hilaire, a cousin of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and prior to her marriage was employed here at Bostwicks. She is now employed by Lee Bros. Sales, Inc. at Ada. The groom, a graduate of Lafayette high school, Red Lake Falls, is employed by Town and Country Builders, Ada. Photo, Ted Nordheim Photography, Fertile

50th Anniversary Is Observed by George Hovets

Mr. and Mrs. George Hovet were honored recently at an open house at Trinity Lutheran church. The event was in observance of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary.

Hosting the open house were the couple's nine children and their families: Gordon and Shirley Hovet, Duane and Joann Hovet, Ronald and Barbara Hovet, Vernon and Carol Hovet, Art and Myrna Bessette, all of South Milwaukee, Wis.; Curtiss and Sharon Hovet, West Fargo, N.D.; Willie and Arlene Fox, Beattyville, Ky.; Roger and Vera Hovet and Marion Langevin of Thief River Falls.

Among the 350 relatives and friends attending were 30 grandchildren, a great-grandchild, Hovet's sister, Alice Lunden of Bremerton, Wash.; and Henry Hovet, who was best man at the wedding 50 years ago. The other attendant, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson Kuntz of New Jersey was unable to attend.

A short program was given with Larry Langevin, the oldest grandchild, as master of ceremonies. The history of the family, compiled by Jesse and Lillette Anderson, was read by Mrs. Anderson. Vocal selections were by a group of grandchildren, and by Grace Hammer, who also led the table prayer. Curtiss Hovet, in behalf of his parents and the family, expressed appreciation to all who attended the event, and to those who participated in the program and assisted at the reception.

Host and hostess at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Orris Olson and Alice Skreland. Elvina Sunsdahl and Ruby Ramsey cut and served the anniversary cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Henry Hovet. Pouring coffee were Mrs. John Sunsdahl and Mrs. John Kulseth. At the guest book was Mrs. Irvin Iverson. Lynae Langevin and Lynn Wahlock served the punch and members of the Merriam circle served the lunch.

Relatives and friends attending were from Hillsboro, Cavalier, Drayton and Mayville, N.D., Oklee, Trail, Plummer, Montevideo, Grygla, Goodridge, Gatzke, Virginia and Thief River Falls.

Karen Mae Brosseau and Douglas Hill Wed Here

Miss Karen Mae Brosseau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn D. Brosseau of Thief River Falls, and Douglas Lawrence Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hill of Waskish, exchanged marriage vows recently at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the double ring ceremony. Organist was Mary Amundson. She played the traditional wedding march as the bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. During the ceremony Patti Kildal played the guitar and sang "Take My Hand," and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied by her fiance guitarist Tim Brosseau, brother of the bride.

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the church was decorated in blue and white. A bouquet of gladioli and carnations graced the altar.

The bride was attired in a white lace gown styled with a fitted bodice with a mandarin collar, and a sheer yoke, trimmed with seed pearls and a pleated ruffle. Her bishop sleeves were gathered at the wrist and edged with pleated organza and lace trim. The triple layered lace paneled skirt flowed back to form a chapel train. Adding interest was a lace-edged chapel-length veil held by the same headpiece which her mother wore at her wedding. She carried a bouquet of blue and white daisies, yellow baby roses and babies' breath.

Kristie Brosseau attended her sister as maid of honor. Other attendants were the groom's sisters, Cindy and Caroline Hill of Waskish, and his sister-in-law, Kim Hill of Prior Lake. Their gowns of polyester powder blue print featured A-line skirts and lace trimmed empire bodices with narrow straps. Topping the gowns were long-sleeved jackets of powder blue sheer trimmed with lace. They carried bouquets of blue and white daisies and carnations accented with stephanotis and babies' breath.

Best man was Dale Hill of Waskish, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Donald Hill, Prior Lake, brother of the groom; Barry Pula, Thief River Falls, a cousin, and Donald Hudec, Waskish, a friend. The bride's brothers, Tom and Greg Brosseau, were ushers. All wore blue toxedos with contrasting blue trim, ruffled shirts and white carnation boutonnieres. The groom's attire was in all-white.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brosseau chose a green gown with lace sleeves, and a gathered floor-length skirt accented at the waistline by a sash. The mother of the groom wore a grey blouson styled gown with matching lace trim. Their corsages were multi-colored daisies.

Honor guests at the wedding were Mrs. J. E. Brosseau and Mrs. Philip Gerou, grandmothers of the bride; Mrs. Louis Rud, grandmother of the groom, and Patti Kildal, the bride's personal attendant.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a wedding supper at their home for approximately 100 guests. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated with blue and white flowers and wedding bells by the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Passa. Mrs. Passa, assisted by Mrs. Robert Clark, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake.

Waitresses were Carole Warnecke and Lynda Mattson, friends of the couple. Mary Beth and Sherry Passa arranged the gifts as Annette and Corrine Passa of Grand Forks, served the punch. All are cousins of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Glacier National Park, the couple is at home at Webster. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Thief River Falls AVTI. Prior to her marriage, she was employed at Northern State Bank. She is currently employed at the Chaska State bank. The groom is a graduate of Kelliher high school and served in the U.S. Navy, receiving his discharge in 1978. He is employed by Century 21, in construction. Photo, Tim Brosseau.

50th Anniversary Is Observed By George Frickers

Mr. and Mrs. George Fricker of Middle River were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday, August 11, at a reception held at the Spruce Valley Community center in Middle River.

Hosting the anniversary celebration were their children: Mrs. LaRue Johnson, Thief River Falls, and George Fricker, Jr., of Minneapolis and their families. The couple's six grandchildren: Mike, Tami, Bruce and Kris Johnson and Lynn and Scott Fricker served the punch, coffee and the anniversary cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Mary Chaplinski. The Bethany Lutheran Church Women of rural Thief River Falls were in charge of preparing and serving the luncheon.

Guests attending the reception were from Middle River, Holt, Thief River Falls, Newfolden, Warren, Stephen, Goodridge, Lake Bronson, Minneapolis, Grand Forks, N.D., and Superior, Wis.

Local Women Attend Nat'l. Aux. Meet In Texas

Two local women: Mrs. Robert Reeve and Mrs. James Cuppett, attended the 59th annual National convention of the American Legion auxiliary held at Houston, Tex. Mrs. Reeve was the Minnesota State delegate and Mrs. Cuppett, the alternate. Both have been active members of the local Ecklund-Holmstrom unit for over 20 years.

The convention, with 3,000 delegates and alternates was held August 20-24 at the Shamrock-Hilton hotel.

The Auxiliary, an aide to the nearly three million member American Legion, has a membership of one million. It is the largest patriotic women's organization in the world and is separately administered, having achieved its identity through effective programming. Its unofficial motto, "Service, Not Self," is reflected in the variety of programs developed in its 60-year history; and its national, international and civic projects are carried out in more than 13,000 units in United States and Canada.

Past History of Helperette Club Is Recounted

An afternoon of nostalgia and reminiscing was spent Thursday afternoon when former members of the Helperette club met at the Bob Kraemer home to honor Mrs. Anna Olson of Supulveda, Calif., who is visiting in the community.

Bits of the club's history was recalled by Miss Clara Olson, who organized the embryo club, "The Sewing Four" in 1924. Membership consisted of neighborhood women, Gladys Berggren (Sundt), Clara Johnson (Nelson), Harriet Anderson and Miss Olson. They met monthly, walking to their meetings, a distance ranging from half-a-mile to four miles, in all seasons and all weather. They spent the time tatting and crocheting "with a bit o' gossip thrown in."

In 1926, the membership increased to 18 and the name was changed to "Larkin Club." A feature of the organization at that time was that each member ordered one dollar's worth of merchandise from the Larkin catalog. The company issued coupons and when $10 worth of coupons were collected, each member received a household item, such as a set of dishes or silverware, or a rocking chair, which most members acquired.

In 1929, the Larkin club, with the same membership, became the Riverside club. During that time, members made quilts and crafts of that day. Several changes in club names and memberships were made through the years until 1939, when it became the "Helperettes" with the motto, "To Help One Another". The club disbanded in 1967.

Present at Thursday's gathering were Anna Olson, Clara Olson, Hannah Kisch, Lillian Anderson, Elsie Johnson, Marie Kleinvachter, Clarice Sorteberg, Beatrice Rude, Shirley Olson, Vivian McCrum, Jean Bruggeman, and Jane Mackenroth, a guest who photographed the group.

A dessert lunch was served by hostesses Ann Kraemer and Marcelene Grundhaus.

Assemblies Of God To Host Mission Couple

Rev. and Mrs. Ivan Smith, who are associated with Evangelical Outpost missions, a non-profit religious, charitable and educational organization, will speak at the Thief River Falls Assemblies of God church on Sunday, September 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The Smiths are from the Grand Rapids area. They have pastored in the United States and have served as missionaries to Venezuela. Rev. Smith is director of Mission Socorro, organized in 1971 to minister to the migrant Spanish speaking people of the Red river valley.

The public is invited to attend this missions service.

Slow down and live.

Polka Mass At Florian Sunday

A polka mass will open the fall festival at the Florian Catholic church Sunday at 10 a.m. with Cathy Erickson and her band of Middle River providing the music.

The first "Polka Mass" was celebrated in Eveleth, Minnesota on May 5, 1973 by Father Perkovich, originator of the "Polka Mass".

Various polkas, waltzes and other songs have been turned into hymns. Such songs as "Blue Eyes Cryin' in the Rain" have been converted into "At This Sacrivice", "The Barking Dog Polka" has become an offertory hymn and "Smile Sweetheart Smile" waltz is a now communion hymn known as "Under the Skies of Blue."

Experiencing the great feeling and uplift from a Polka Mass may be what you need next Sunday morning. Cathy says this is the third Polka Mass they have helped celebrate at Florian and they have been very well accepted.

Supt. Anderson Hired To Head Plummer School

Milton L. Anderson

School board of Independent School District 628 at Plummer has hired Milton L. Anderson of Clara City as a replacement for Edward L. Arntson as superintendent of schools. Supt. Arntson resigned last year to accept a position in North Dakota and principal Frank W. Tobias Jr. has been acting superintendent during the interim.

Anderson is a graduate of North Dakota state university at Fargo with a double major in composite science and physical educal education and received a master's degree in school administration from Northern State college in Aberdeen, S.D.

He taught science subjects and coached football, basketball and track at Eagle Butte, S.D., and also served as high school principal there for two years. He has been high school principal at Clara City for the past year, previously serving nine years at Maynard, two years at Sacred Heart, four years at Marietta and two years at Pukwana, S.D.

Anderson and his wife Ruby will be moving to Plummer as soon as housing can be arranged. The couple has two children, Bruce who lives in Hopkins and Curtis who lives in Maynard.

and dependable law enforcement officer who is trained to be observant and pay attention to detail. "What he says he saw, he saw," the sheriff affirmed.

What did Johnson see on that lonely stretch of highway early Monday morning? What caused the damage to his car? What kept the vehicle from veering off the roadway during a combined total of 953 feet of travel from impact to stopping point? What would create a light bright enough to cause eye damage and what happened to the 14 minutes gone from the electric clock and mechanical watch?

These are questions which seem destined to go unanswered, but Deputy Val Johnson is likely to find them whirling through his mind for a long time to come. One thing is certain: he isn't eager to encounter a repeat performance.

tracks in grades six, seven and eight; Walt Redinger, boys' basketball in grade seven; Alan Buhl, boys' basketball in grade eight; David Stromlund, fifth and sixth grade football; and Myron Peterson, seventh and eighth grade football. At the high school level, Lynn Dyer was assigned to coach ninth grade girls' basketball.

Employment of Susan Kayser and Vicki Wehage as ticket sellers for the 1979-80 school year at a salary of $630 was authorized.

Insurance coverages were renewed in a number of district coverage areas and plans for the AVTI carpentry department's new house in the Sherwood Forest addition was approved.

Bid of Shumway Oil company for gasoline at 76.5 cents per gallon was accepted, as was the bid of Koch Fuels, Inc. for No. 2 fuel oil at a price of $.74679 per gallon f.o.b. Grand Forks, plus current transportation of $0202 per gallon, and-or $.7300 per gallon f.o.b. Pine Bend, plus current transportation rate of $.0787 per gallon. No other gasoline nor fuel oil bids were received.

Robertson Lumber company of Red Lake Falls was awarded the contract of $17,410 for materials to be used in the AVTI house remodeling project. The bid was more than $1,000 low among four bidders with the high bid being $19,105.

The board approved establishment of a TMH middle school program for the 1979-80 school year with provision for a separate classroom in the Franklin-Mark Twain complex, hiring of one full time qualified teacher and aide(s) and resource material as indicated.

FIFTIETH WEDDING anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Hovet was observed recently by a large number of relatives and friends as they gathered at an open house at Trinity Lutheran church in this city. The event was hosted by the couple's nine children and their families.

Two Students Attend Camp At Chi Rho

Two area students recently returned from a week-long stay at a learning disabilities camp held at Chi Rho Center near Annandale. Phillip Sheehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson of Thief River Falls, and Wade Hallstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Hallstrom of St. Hilaire, spent August 13-19 at the camp facility.

While there, the students received academic instruction in reading and math and participated in various outdoor activities including canoeing, fishing, hiking, nature study and camp fires. Student-teacher ratio for the program was seven to one giving the opportunity for much individual instruction and attention.

Purpose of the learning disabilities camp is to reintroduce students to learning activities tied to social and recreational experiences and to help them prepare for the full-time school experience they return to in the fall. The camp is designed for those who have completed third, fourth or fifth grades. Sheehan will be a fifth grade student this year and Hallstrom, a sixth grade student.

The boys's attendance at the camp was sponsored in part by funds raised by special educators in the Thief River Falls area. The teachers undertook the sale of bumper stickers last year with proceeds going to the camp fund. The bumper stickers, which read "Have you hugged your kid today?", are still being sold by individuals and through some retail businesses to earn money to sponsor students for next year's camp.

Gina Strande Rites Held At Red Lake Falls

Mrs. Ole (Gina) Strande, 87, of Red Lake Falls, and formerly of Thief River Falls, died Friday at the Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ole Strande were held Monday at 11 a.m., at the Bethany Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls. Rev. David Putz officiated. Mrs. Arnold Hammer was the soloist and Jan Vanek, the organist. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery, Thief River Falls, with the Petterson Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Michael Schmidt, Gene Geito, Mark Ballingrud, Gordon Ballingrud, Chester Solberg and Harry Solberg.

Mrs. Strande, the former Gina Rustad, was born July 26, 1892 at Lyle to Mr. and Mrs. Peder Rustad. She grew to womanhood in the Goodridge area, where she was married in 1919 to Ole Strande. Following their marriage, the couple lived and farmed near Gully. After retirement, they lived for a brief time at Oklee. In 1954, they moved to Thief River Falls. Mrs. Strande resided here until 1973, when she became a resident of the Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls.

She is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Charles (Orrie) Schmidt, Red Lake Falls; Mrs. Morris (Gladyce) Ballingrud, and Mrs. Ken (Ione) Bergquist, both of Minneapolis; six grandchildren, a great-grandchild, and one sister, Mrs. Lena Solberg, Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in 1963, her parents, four brothers and three sisters.

Gas Prices Up After Slowdown Says Mn. AAA

After a month of weekly price increases of less than a penny a gallon, gasoline prices leaped 2.2 cents per gallon at full-service pumps and 1.3 cents per gallon at self-service pumps, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA). Price increases were noted in Minnesota AAA's weekly survey of 66 stations throughout Minnesota.

"We've been hearing about wholesalers raising their prices for the past two weeks, so I guess the retailers are finally passing along those increases," said Diane Nelsen, Minnesota AAA spokeswoman. Nelsen also noted that part of the July 1 crude oil price hikes by the OPEC nations were probably reflected in the high pump prices. "It takes about six weeks for an OPEC price increase to get into the gasoline distribution system," according to Ken Wingard, executive secretary of the Minnesota Independent retailers association.

The good news for consumers, however, is that gasoline supplies are adequate, and some stations have increased their hours. Forty-one per cent of the stations in Minnesota are open Sundays, 33 per cent are open after 8 p.m. weekdays, and 44 per cent are open after 6 p.m. Saturdays.

Currently, the average price per gallon at full-service stations is 99.3 for regular, $1.062 for premium, $1.031 for unleaded, $1.063 for premium unleaded and 94.6 for diesel fuel.

At self-service pumps, the average price per gallon is 96.6 cents for regular, 97.4 cents for premium, $1.005 for unleaded and $1.056 for premium unleaded.

Even though prices have crept above $1 a gallon at many of the state's gas stations, there are still a lot of variations, and motorists can save money by shopping around, said Nelsen. "For regular gas, prices range from 93.9 cents up to $1.048 per gallon; for unleaded premium, prices varied from 99.9 cents per gallon up to a high of $1.10 per gallon," she noted.

Much of the price differential depends on how much the station owner had to pay for the gas; if he gets a good deal from his wholesaler, then he can pass it along to his customers.

Wingard said he felt some of the price stability during the past month was caused by retailers swallowing wholesale price increases in order to keep their pump prices competitive. "People aren't worried about being able to find enough gasoline, so they're price shopping again," he explained.

Area Men Take Part In Air Force Exercise

Two area men recently participated in Global Shield '79, an Air Force exercise conducted by the Strategic air command.

Airman first class, Russell H. Bukowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bukowski of Middle River, is a vehicle operator-dispatcher with a SAC unit at Grand Forks air force base, here. Technical sergeant, William P. Winters, son of Mrs. L.P. Winters of 823 N. Main, Thief River Falls, is an operations systems management superintendent with a SAC unit at Grand Forks air force base, here.

Global Shield 79, which involves bomber, tanker, missile and reconnaissance forces, and associated air force reserve units, is the largest and most comprehensive test of SAC forces in more than 20 years.

Orientation At Moorhead State Slated Sept. 3

Orientation begins September 3 and classes open September 6 for Moorhead state university students.

Over 1,250 freshmen and 500 transfer students are expected on campus for the three-day orientation program and the university is anticipating a record enrollment of over 7,200 full and part-time students, up 200 from last fall.

Residence halls open at noon on August 31 and orientation kicks off the following Monday when President Roland Dille meets with parents at 3 p.m. in the center for the arts auditorium.

Freshmen register Tuesday and Wednesday mornings in the student union ballroom, returning students all-day Tuesday and transfer students all-day Wednesday.

Open House For Wheat Growers Set For Sept. 4

Open house for the Minnesota association of wheat growers building at the south edge of Red Lake Falls has been set for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, September 4, according to president Jorgen Knutson.

"There is still some work to be completed. We hope that all phases of the building will be finished in time for open house, but we cannot wait any longer for final work," he said.

The building was started last November on a 21-acre wheat plot adjoining the river. Work progressed throughout the winter months and the office staff moved into the new quarters in early May. A road has been constructed from highway 32 into the building and a parking lot has been arranged for 70 cars.

"We have had to borrow considerable money, but the new office facilities were needed to house the growers and Minnesota wheat research and promotion council. We are pleased with our new home and hope that the facilities can be expanded in due time," Knutson said.

In addition to the headquarters building; a wheat demonstration plot surrounds the facility. Some 16 wheat and durum demonstration plots are also planted near the building and the public is welcome to visit them.

Visitors for the open house will include Fred Schneiter, public relations director for Western wheat associates, and a group of wheat merchants from Taiwan. A cereal chemist trainee from Thailand who will attend NDSU this fall in connection with a wheat council project, will be on hand for open house.

Growers association officials are expecting several hundred people from all parts of Minnesota to be in attendance at the open house.

BROOKS CHEESE

JANET KLASEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Klasen of Brooks, is one of six girls competing for the title of Miss Brooks in conjunction with the annual "Blast to Brooks" celebration scheduled September 8. The candidate who sells the most promotion buttons will be crowned Miss Brooks in an afternoon ceremony. Fifteen-year-old Janet is sponsored in the competition by Brooks Cheese. A sophomore at Oklee public school, Janet's school activities include volleyball and cheerleading. She also enjoys tennis, swimming and reading.

Suggest Extra Elevator Crews At Duluth Port

Managers of the eight elevators in the strike-bound Duluth-Superior port have been urged to have extra crews available soon after labor day in anticiaption of settlement of the strike which started July 6.

"Elevators have already lost almost one-fourth of their shipping season, but there is a chance that a portion of the loss can be overcome by operating around the clock with full crews when work stoppage ends," wrote Jorgen Knutson, Minnesota association of wheat growers president, in a letter to the elevator managers recently.

He pointed out that the work tempo must be greatly increased to enable the port to get its rightful proportion of the U.S. exports this year.

U.S. department of agriculture is forecasting the export of about 1.5 billion bushels of wheat this year. The Minnesota-Wisconsin port will need to reach about 150 million bushels to keep pace with the rest of the nation.

"We firmly believe that transportation equipment, properly used by the port elevators, can supply all the wheat the port can handle through the remainder of this shipping season. We are aware that wheat will be competing with sunflowers for shipping space before the port closes for the winter," Knutson asserted.

Officials of the Minnesota wheat research and promotion council have pointed out on numerous occasions during recent weeks that the damage caused by the strike will be around for as much as five years. "We're already being labbed an unreliable suppliers by our customers overseas," Terry Fladeland, council chairman, told a group of farmers a few days ago.

Girl Scouts To Register For Coming Year

This year Girl scouts will be registered according to schools with either a registration night or parents meetings. Parents are asked to visit the school their child attends, sign permission and consent forms, pay $3 national dues and meet their daughter's leaders.

Following is a schedule of registration nights: Knox, school library, 6:30 to 8 p.m., Thursday, September 6; Mark Twain, school library, 6:30 to 8 p.m., Tuesday, September 4; Northrop, school library, 6:30 to 8 p.m., Wednesday, September 5; and Washington, school library, 6:30 to 8 p.m., Thursday, September 6.

Other schools will have parents meetings at the following times: St. Bernard's, September 4, Brownies (girls in second and third grade; at 7:15 p.m. and Juniors (grades 4-6) at 8 p.m. in the dining hall; St. Hilaire, Wednesday, September 5, Brownies (second and third grade) 7:15 p.m., juniors (4 and 5 grades) 8 p.m. at the school library.

WIN Program Finds Jobs For Welfare Cases

During the first six months of the 1979 fiscal year, the work incentive (WIN) program helped find jobs for 3,174 state registrants which resulted in estimated savings of $6,147,307 in welfare costs for taxpayers, the Minnesota department of economic security announced recently.

WIN program costs were $3,496,717 for the same period, Oct. 1, 1978 through Mar. 31, 1979.

Grant reductions to WIN participants also lowered public expenditures for medicaid and food stamps. In addition, the state and federal governments gained revenue through income taxes paid by employed WIN registrants.

WIN is a federal program which helps persons receiving aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) become gainfully employed, reducing or eliminating their dependence in public welfare. The program also provides training and other job-related services.

A total of 15,331 individuals, including 6,939 new registrants, were enrolled with the state WIN program during the six-month period. Of these, 5-650 are working full-time. WIN participants were 16 per cent men and 84 per cent women. Average starting wage for men was $4.56 per hour, for women, $3.43. State beginning wages were above the national average of $4.17 for men and $3.16 for women.

In Minnesota, 41 per cent of the men and five per cent of the women entering the work force took jobs in the machine trades, structural and transportation-related fields. Eighteen per cent of the males and 62 per cent of the females were employed in service and clerical work.

Authorized by amendments to the social security act, WIN is a joint effort of the U.S. department of labor and department of health, education and welfare. Now in its tenth year, the state WIN program is jointly operated by the Minnesota department of economic security and, through county welfare agencies, by the Minnesota department of public welfare.

Public Radio Handles Call-in To President

On Saturday, October 13 from noon until 2 p.m., KFJM and national public radio will broadcast, live from the White House, an exclusive two-hour program with President Carter.

"Ask The President" will actually be a write in, call out" program and area residents who want to ask the president a question should send their name, address and telephone number directly to: Ask the President, P.O. Box 19363, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Just prior to the broadcast, national public radio will select callers from across the country to talk directly with the president. "No questions are being solicited in advance and there will be no prescreening of questions", said Linda Brown of NPR.

Susan Stamberg, co-host of "All Things Considered," will anchor the program. KFJM is located at 1370 on the AM dial.

STATEMENT OF NONDISCRIMINATION

"Wikstrom Telephone Co., Inc. has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply full with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

"Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, or the Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, D. C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 90 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kep confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations."

Council Airs Contract With Townships

Rejoinder of those supporting the proposal was that, should the city not serve the townships they would likely have to purchase an additional truck since one is now furnished by the townships, they would probably retain the same force and incur the same operating costs and therefore any contribution from the townships was better than none.

The matter will be taken up again at the September 10 meeting of the city council with a vote to accept or reject the proposal expected at that time.

In other business, the council heard a presentation from Wayne Alfveby, director of Northwest regional library, regarding the systems 1980 budget. Last year the city's contribution to the library was $50,000 and this remained the minimum support level certified by the state. However, the request from the library board was for $56,386.03 and the matter was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

Also appearing before the council Tuesday night on budget matters was Ormond Johnson representing Northland community band. Johnson presented a report of last year's expenditures and asked for an allotment of $1500 again in 1980. Council voted to include the item in the 1980 budget.

Superintendent of utilities John T. Anderson appeared to ask the council to call for bids on load shedding equipment for the city with bids to be opened September 10. Estimated cost of the computerized system recommended by the utilities department is $158,000, depending on the number of units purchased by the city at this time. Utilities personnel hope to have the equipment installed by late November in order for the city to benefit in peak power cost savings in 1980. Council instructed the city clerk to call for bids.

Anderson also reported on a utilities rate study that is being undertaken in conjunction with the planning for installation of the load management system. He indicated that numerous variables are being considered in determining what the rates should be including the cost of oil as compared to kilowatt cost and the degree to which a customer's system is interruptable. A good portion of the study should be completed at the time bids are available on the load shedding equipment so the council can correlate action in the two areas.

At the Tuesday meeting the council approved a preliminary plat of Magner's subdivision on highway 32, approved a rental agreement with the Minnesota department of transportation for the rental of city facilities on highway 59, granted gambling licenses to the Elks Lodge and the VFW ladies auxiliary, accepted the resignation of Jan Reid as zoning administrator effective September 14 and approved the hiring of Jan Thorstad as her replacement effective September 4.

Approval was also given to the hiring of Neil Gillespie as a full-time fireman to replace Freeman Lanska and for a progression raise for Jerry Jensen in the street department. A bid from Northern Paving for paving the city fire hall was accepted in the amount of $4,939 and the project is expected to get underway shortly.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

There are much more important topics that I want to write about, besides that unacknowledged "Letter to the Editor" recently, but just in passing I would like to say, "whoever wrote that letter evidently did now know much about farmers."

In my opinion farmers in general are anything but greedy. In fact, I have never met one yet that wouldn't share his or her food, labor or whatever with anyone in need.

As for going on a tractorcade to Washington, D.C., certainly that should be their right. The big oil companies and other big businesses have lobbists in D.C. constantly to try to better their benefits. In fact, didn't the department of energy recently announce that new rule that permits gasoline prices to (in their words) "reflect full production costs"? What about the farmers? Shouldn't they be entitled to a fair return for their production?

In my opinion, farmers are kind-hearted and generous to a fault, but they are "individualists" and it is that "individualism" that is partly responsible for their problem. If the farmers would group together and sell their produce in the same spirit as they "tractorcaded" to D.C., they would not need to ask the government for help to get a fair return.

It seems that most all we hear these days is about the "energy crisis" but I am much more concerned about what will happed to us and our country if our senators O.K. the signing of the strategic arms limitation treats (The Salt II Treaty) with the Soviet Union, which would, I believe seal us into a situation of military inferiority, not only with Russia but also we could become so weak that we could become unable to defend our country against any aggressor.

Many people may think this could not happen to our big powerful country. They do not realize that most of our defense planes, etc., are old and obsolete against Russia's fast and efficient war missler planes, subs, etc. While our government is doing almost nothing to improve our defenses, the Soveit Union and other countries are going all out to add and improve their offense machines.

The Soviet Union has missiles that could destroy most of our country and most of our people in a few hours, and there would be no way that we could help ourselves.

I have read the analysis of the treaty and have been told by more knowledgable people than I that the treaty is written in such a way that Russia can interpret it in most any way that pleases them, while the restrictions on us are very defined.

In this big, warm-hearted and open country of ours, the Soviet Union will be able to keep a close check on our operations but does anyone think that we will be allowed to check on them.

Our U.S. Senator Rudy Boschwitz and other senators are asking all of us to write and tell them what we want them to do in regard to the signing of that Salt II treaty, and this is the way it should be.

I have written to both of our U.S. Senators from Minnesota and asked them to vote against that treaty, as I do not think we should enter into any agreement that will make us a weakling nation. I think we should build up our defenses to the maximum and I'm hoping and praying that every American citizen who loves this country as I do, will do likewise.

Our Senators' address is: Sen. Rudy Boschwitz or Sen. David Durenberger, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

People in other states can write to their Senators at the same address.

Also, I would also like to ask everyone to write to their Congressman and object to the Panama Canal giveaway. There is still time to save that, too, if we all work at it. The Congressmen's address is: United States Representatives, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Sincerely,
Mrs. L. Carpenter

Ed Ross Named Vice Chairman Of Wheat Group

Ed Ross of Fisher has been elected vice chairman of Great Plains Wheat, Inc., an international wheat market development organization, with which the Minnesota Wheat council contracts.

Ross, who was one of the original members of the Minnesota wheat research and promotion council, had served one year as chairman of the Great Plains wheat overseas marketing committee before advancing to the No. 2 elected position, which includes a place on the executive committee.

He recently returned from Russia, where he was the only farmer on a spring wheat inspection team making an investigation of the USSR crop for the U.S. department of agriculture.

In addition to operating a small grain farm, he is a stockholder in the Ross seed plant, serves as farm director for KROX radio and has other agricultural interests in the Crookston-Fisher areas.

Kermit Stahn, Morris, is the second member of the Minnesota wheat council on the Great Plains wheat board.

During the annual business meeting of Great Plains wheat at Rapid City, S.D., Ole Sampson, of the North Dakota state wheat commission, was elected chairman, and Wilmont Uecker, of the South Dakota wheat commission was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mike Hall of Washington, D.C., serves as president and chief executive officer of Great Plains wheat, which has offices in Central and South America, Europe and North Africa.

CHI RHO CENTER near Annandale was the site of a week-long camping experience for two students in school district 564 this summer. Wade Hallstrom (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Hallstrom of St. Hilaire, and Phillip Sheehan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholson of Thief River Falls, participated in a camp for learning disabled students August 13-19. The students are pictured here reviewing a camp brochure and recalling the week's activities which included instruction in math and reading as well as recreation such as canoeing and swimming. The students camp expenses were partly covered by proceeds from the sale of bumper stickers reading "Have you hugged your kid today?" Special education teachers handled the sales which are still underway to earn money to sponsor a student next year.

Plan Workshop For Parents Of Handicapped

PACER center, (the Parent Advocacy Coalition for Educational Rights) is planning 25 workshops this fall for parents of handicapped children. One is planned for October 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls.

The workshops are designed to inform parents of their rights in special education and to teach them to work effectively with schools in planning their children's education.

During the 1978-79 school year, PACER center's first year of operation, approximately 1,300 parents and other interested people attended workshops. PACER center also conducts public information programs, trains persons as advocates to help parents of handicapped children, and assists parents with individual concerns involving their children's education.

PACER center is a colaition of 18 Minnesota organizations representing persons with various disabilities. It is funded by a three-year grant from the U.S. bureau of education for the handicapped, department of health, education and welfare.

The organization's motto is "parents helping parents" and most of the staff members and consultants are themselves parents of handicapped children.

Persons wishing details about the workshop should contact the PACER Center office, 4701 Chicago Ave. So., Minneapolis, Minnesota, 55407, telephone (612) 827-2966. Parents of handicapped children may call PACER collect.

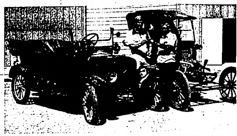
Swede Travels To T.R.F. For Car Purchase



SWEDISH CUSTOMER Bjorn Odlund (left) accepts the ignition key for one of these two Model T Ford cars which he purchased this week from Art Forsberg of Thief River Falls. Odlund, who also purchased a 1911 Model T from Forsberg earlier this year, made a special trip to the United States to disassemble and pack these two cars for shipment. "It will take two days to pick them," Odlund said, "and three years to pick them together."

Interest in old cars, particularly the American made Model T Fords, brought 35-year-old Bjorn Odlund all the way from Ahus in southern Sweden to Thief River Falls to purchase, disassemble, crate and ship two of the cars back to his home country.

Odlund made the purchase of the cars from Art Forsberg, 78-year-old founder of Forsberg's, Inc., who has had them in storage for more than 20 years. Sold to Odlund were a 1917 touring car and a 1923 runabout.

Affirming that the only reason he came to the United States was to get the cars and to visit the Forsbergs, Odlund was not unfamiliar with local people. He had purchased a 1911 Model T earlier this year after answering an ad Forsberg placed in "Motor News" magazine. That car was crated and shipped by the Forsbergs to Odlund who made the purchase sight unseen.

Crating and shipping for that 1911 model cost Odlund approximately $1,500, and taxes which had to paid upon its arrival in Sweden totaled another $3,000. With that investment, plus the undisclosed price of the car itself, Odlund could begin the arduous task of restoration. He expects to be driving the restored vehicle next year.

This time he will disassemble the two cars and pack them together in one large crate to save on shipping costs. "It will take two days to pick them apart and three years to pick them together," he laughed. He expects no trouble in obtaining needed parts for restoration, likely purchasing most of them through dealers in the United States.

Odlund, a sales manager for an American catering company which sells food to schools, hospitals and other institutions in Sweden, also owns an English A.C. car, 1935 model, which he purchased in England. He is a member of an international Model T club, the A.C. club in England and a local auto club in Sweden.

Mattison Ends Naval Training At San Diego

Navy seaman recruit, Gerry L. Mattison, son of Jerry and Jan Freitag of Plummer, has completed recruit training at the Naval training center in San Diego. A 1979 graduate of Pershing high school, he joined the Navy in February, 1979.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

I used to be a Levi's blue jeans man

You know what it's like. You bought them because it seemed that was what everybody was doing.

But, I never liked the fit. And the way they would shrink! I never knew what size to buy. Always guessing.

Then they would wrinkle and pucker and twist in the leg and take forever to get soft. That was the pits.

Some friends told me about Sedgefield. Crazy name for a jean, I thought.

They said it really fits—lean and clean like a jean should. That it does not shrink out of size or wrinkle or pucker or twist in the leg.

More, it gets softer faster and wears like a tough jean should while it's smooth and easy on my bod. How could I resist?

Now I'm a Sedgefield man. Everything they said is true. Sedgefield says if the jean does not live up to its promises, they give you your money back or replace the jean. That's fair.

Prowlers Underdogs Thursday

Lincoln high school football team will be cast in the role of the underdog Thursday when the Prowlers open their 1979 football season against Grand Forks Red River. Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

Thief River Falls will be trying for its first victory in Grand Forks since 1967 when the Prowlers scored 13 fourth quarter points to break a 6-6 tie and beat the first-year Roughriders 19-6. Thief River Falls has since lost five times to Red River on North Dakota soil.

A year ago Red River won its first-ever game in Thief River Falls, 30-18. Opening game opponents for eight consecutive years, the Roughriders and Prowlers will be almost alone in playing Thursday night. Of the 499 football-playing Minnesota high schools, only six openers will be played Thursday. A handfull will be played Saturday, but most teams open Friday.

Thief River Falls hasn't won a season opener since beating Red River here 20-13 in 1976.

"Obviously you like to win that first game," said Thief River Falls coach Gene Jurgens. "The momentum can carry you a long ways. But you have to use it, too, to find the right combinations; try to find the best 11 guys to play offense and best 11 on defense."

A change in the Minnesota state Class A football playoff format from an entire season's worth of computer points to the advancement of conference champions has also changed the complextion of the opening game, according to Jurgens.

"With the state playoffs the way they are now, finding the right people is more important at this time," explained Jurgens. "You've got more time to get ready for the conference season. Before, you lost one game and you were out of the playoffs.

Miscellaneous

+According to the Bemidji Pioneer, what has been a well-known secret for the past several weeks became official Tuesday with the naming of Jack Louma as new Bemidji high school athletic director, succeeding Ben Fortier. Luoma, who has been in the Bemidji school system for the past 30 years, stepped down as head basketball coach to assume his new duties. He will be succeeded as cage mentor by Mel Johnson who has been at Bemidji since his graduation from Bemidji State in 1967. He has coached at every level of the Bemidji basketball program, beginning in the seventh grade ranks. In another move, Kelly Lewis was named Bemidji girls swimming coach, succeeding Renae Stromme.

+ Todd Trickle, a 1979 Lincoln high school graduate, will attend the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire this year where he'll be playing hockey. Trickle selected Eau Claire after also considering Bemidji State, Northern Arizona, Merrimack college in North Andover, Mass. and the University of Maine.

+ Don Dicken and Murray Semanko of Thief River Falls, along with Mark Kirkpatrick and John Gunderson of Oklee were on hand for the start of preseason drills for the Moorhead State University football team. All four are non-lettered juniors. The Dragons open their 1979 football season against the University of North Dakota Saturday in Grand Forks.

+ Chuck's Off Sale men's slow pitch softball team of Wahpeton, called by Thief River Falls' Dennis Bendickson the "best team I've seen around here" after his Tony Dorn, Inc. team lost an early season tournament decision to the North Dakota outfit, will carry an 89-4 record and a list of 24 tournament titles into national competition in York, Pa. this weekend.

+Terry Sullivan, a former Lincoln high school and Northland community college football standout, will be a senior on the 1979 Mayville State football team this fall. He is an offensive tackle.

Marshallton To Host $10,000 Weekend Shoot

Spectators and participants are welcome this weekend when the Marshallton Gun Club stages a $10,000 Labor Day merchandise trap shoot.

Featuring some of the top shooters in Minnesota and North Dakota, the Saturday, Sunday, Monday event is billed as one of the biggest merchandise shoots in the state.

Marshallton Gun Club, site of the weekly Thief River Falls trap league action, is located 12 miles north of Thief River Falls on highway 59, one mile west and 1½ miles south on the ridge.

For additional information telephone 874-8285.

Fourth annual junior trap shoot for persons 18-years-old and younger will be held tonight (Wednesday) beginning at 6 p.m. at the Marshallton Gun Club.

The 50-bird event, featuring merchandise prizes, is open to the public. There is no handicap.

In addition to the junior shoot, an open chicken shoot will be held tonight following the completion of the younger competition.

Corliss Wins Tunberg Title

A steady, strong performance by Bill Corliss enabled him to win the third annual Tunberg Motors match play golf classic at the Thief River Country Club. Corliss beat runner-up Art Welter 4-3 in the 18-hole finals announced this week.

Corliss was never really threatened in the tournament. His closest match ended in a 3-2 victory over Mike Lee in the second round. Matches against Bruce Restad, Paul Williams and Paul Wurst resulted in 4-3 scores.

Welter played outstanding golf in the month-long tournament, struggling through somewhat tougher competition to gain his way to the final match. He ousted Jerry Johnson 2-1, edged defending champion Steve Easton 1-up in one extra hole, beat Stewert Rugland 2-1 and Got by Sylvia Sjoberg 1-up.

Wurst and Sjoberg were the tournament semifinalists.

Corliss won a 1979 Ben Hogan golf bag with matching head covers for his efforts in the handicap event.

Thirty-two golfers competed in this year's tournament, an annual event sponsored by Tunberg Motors, Inc.

Sports Boosters Meet Thursday

Lincoln high school principal Fran Hamerlinck and Northland community college football coach Irv Smith will be the guest speakers Thursday at the 12 noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters luncheon meeting at the Rex Cafe.

Play Thursday At 8 P.M. In Grand Forks . . .

Red River Ready, TRF Isn't, For 1979 Football Opener

With the 1979 high school football season starting a day earlier than most teams for Thief River Falls and Grand Forks Red River, opposing coaches Gene Jurgens of the Prowlers and Dalla Kopp of the Roughriders viewed Thursday's 8 p.m. game at Cushman Field in Grand Forks in strakly contrasting manner.

"Things aren't set yet. You just run out of time," said a worried Jurgens whose team did not perform as well as expected in its Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview Saturday.

"We're ready for a ball game," voiced a confident Kopp who was most happy with the way his team played in a scrimmage session Saturday at Crookston against the Pirates, Mahnomen and Barnesville. "Overall, right now after our jamboree at Crookston, we're fairly set."

Part of the reason for the different attitudes is the health of the two ball clubs. Outside of the loss of 200-pound fullback Jim Jackson, the team's leading ground gainer a year ago who damaged ligaments in his ankle before the start of practice, Kopp says the Roughriders have had an injury-free two weeks of drills. "We're in great shape," he beams.

But the Prowlers aren't as fortunate. "We're hurting," said Jurgens. "There are three or four starters who aren't healthy. It's really tough when you scrimmage Saturday and come right back and hit Monday. We've got some bruises."

Senior Jeff Ulrich, a quarterback and defensive back; senior John Dillon, a fullback and linebacker; and junior Dave Kays, a center and defensive tackle; all missed early week drills. Ulrich was held out of the Pigskin Preview after suffering a sprained knee in practice last week; Dillon was sick; and Kays is slowed by a groin injury.

Red River will be a formidable opponent; maybe one of the best teams the Prowlers will face this fall.

"We've got size and experience," pointed out Kopp whose defensive line features five players weighing 200 pounds or more and whose 22-man starting line-up includes only three underclassmen.

A Red River defensive unit whose average weight is 190 pounds is anchored by John Adams, a 6-5, 250-pound senior who plays both ways.

Jim Larsien quarterbacks the Roughriders. He started two games in 1978 and saw considerable playing time in the others. Halfbacks Chris Hoverstein and Greg Herndon were both starters a year ago.

Thief River Falls' opening night line-up is expected to have Kays at center; Brian Ranum and either Mark Williamson or Mitch Muzzy at guards; Dan Cullen and Wayne Huseth at tackles; Jon Pinkerton at tight end; Dave Waale, Brian Culkins or Jim Thompson (who also doubles as a runningback) at split end; Tom Bjorkman at quarterback; Dillon at fullback; and Bill Jury and Dave Odegaard at halfback. Kays is the only underclassman in the group.

On defense the Prowlers are expected to go with junior Rick Gobell at nose guard; Cullen, Huseth or Kays at tackle; senior Jim Nyland and Muzzy at ends; Pinkerton, Ranum or Dillon at linebacker; Jury at safety; Odegaard and either Thompson or Bjorkman at cornerback; and Thompson or Ulrich at monsterback.

Ranum will probably handle the kicking chores; Bjorkman will be the punter for the third straight year; Jury and Culkins will return kickoffs; while Jury and Odegaard return punts.

Red River beat Thief River Falls 30-18 to begin the 1978 season, with the Roughriders and Prowlers both finishing 4-5.

The Thursday playing date was needed to accomodate Grand Forks Central, the second Cushman Field tenant who will host East Grand Forks Friday.

Thief River Falls' 1979 home-opener is a Fri., Sept. 7, date against Detroit Lakes. The Lakers are hosting Fergus Falls Friday.

Men's Golf League Playoffs Underway

Ten teams were scheduled to compete today (Wednesday) in the men's league golf playoffs at the Thief River Country Club.

Playoff teams, determined by first and second half season finishes in the 24-team, three-division league, include the Arctic Swingers, Blue Cross, Ekeren Drug, Elks Club, Hartz Wholesale, Home Box Office, Miracle Water, Paint and Glass Supply, Pepsi-Cola and Wennberg's.

Arctic Swingers, Elks, Pepsi-Cola and Wennberg's were division winners in the recently completed second half season.

Wennberg's won the Snead Division title with an impressive 898, followed by HBO 912, Blue Cross 912, Paint and Glass Supply 928, Model Laundry 934, Professional Building 944, First Federal Savings & Loan Association 948 and Northern State Bank 954.

Pepsi-Cola took the Hogan Division Crown with a 913, followed by Miracle Water 922, Doctors, Inc. 919, Ekeren Drug 939, Gordon's 942, Hartz Wholesale 947, Simplot Soil Builders 953 and Dwight's Hartz 962.

Arctic Swingers and Elks shared the Demaret Division pennant at 912, followed by KOSN 927, Lee Plumbing & Heating 938, First Northwestern State Bank 943, Larson Music 943, Bridgeman's 946 and Bakke-Iverson Agency 956.

Jay Moum Is Winner On Oaks Course

Jay Moum shot a tournament record two under par 100 to win the annual shortstop golf tournament at Oaks, N.D. Sunday. Moum carded three consistent rounds of 35-32-33 on the par 34 course.

Placing second was another Thief River golfer, Marv Carlson, who had rounds of 33-33-37 for a one-over par 103. His first 18-hole 66 gave him medalist honors.

A black and white TV set was the first place prize for Moum, 1972 Lincoln high school graduate, who outlasted stiff competition from Huey Smith, the North Dakota state amateur champion and other top area golfers.

Senior Citizen Activity Pass Is Available

Senior citizen courtesy activity passes for Lincoln high school are again available to all residents of School District 564 who have reached the age of 60 years, reported Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith.

Passes for this year may be obtained by picking them up at the athletic director's office at Lincoln between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday; at the senior meals program at Northwestern hospital; at the Arts and Crafts shop at the city auditorium; at the Skylight apartments; or from Mrs. Gladys Loeffler.

The passes will be accepted at all Lincoln athletic events (except tournaments and jamborees), Lincoln spring drama, Lincoln fall drama, band concert, orchestra concert, Lincoln singer and concert choir concert and the first night of the Lincoln musical.

MUTUAL SATISFACTION is expressed by these three people as a result of the auction of a Ducks Unlimited special issue shotgun auctioned at the annual DU banquet in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening. Dick Vasse (center), assistant manager at Agassiz national wildlife refuge east of Holt, bought the Weatherby Patrician pump gun for $1,450 — the highest price paid for a DU commemorative shotgun since the local chapter was established four years ago. At left is Dick Wettersten, regional director for Ducks Unlimited, and at right is Stan Upham, local chapter chairman and banquet organizer. It is expected that proceeds from the event, attended by about 350 people at the national guard armory, will substantially exceed the $13,500 raised for the organization last year.

Haugen Wins Pistol Shoot Event At RLF

Over 38 contestants participated for trophies and recognition in the annual Red Lake Falls Sportsman's Club pistol shoot held Sun., Aug. 26.

In the 38 caliber division, first place went to Jim Haugen of Thief River Falls, followed by Bill Knox of Fisher and Mike Mohr of Red Lake Falls.

First place in the 22 caliber division went to Haugen, second place was awarded to Curt Grorud of Twin Valley and Mohr was third.

A women's pistol shooter's division was also held and Mrs. Eldora Braaten won first place. Second place went to Margie Mohr of Red Lake Falls and Vickie Miller of Twin Valley was third.

Trap League Ends Season, Has Class Shoot Tuesday

Final week of regular season Thief River Falls trap league shooting, which doubles as the city class championship competition, will take place Tuesday at the Marshallton Gun Club. Shooting has been changed from the regular Monday schedule to Tuesday because of the Labor Day holiday.

Tuesday's 50-bird event will use the first 25 birds for regular league score, then include another 25 targets for the 50-bird city class championship.

Top six second half season finishers will join six first half qualifiers in the league team shoot-off Mon., Sept. 10, to complete the 1979 trap season.

First half season qualifiers included Northern State Bank, Sjoberg's, The Times, Auto Body Repair, Triple J Trap Co. and Sethre's Hartz. Should any of those teams place among the top six second half finishers in the 26-team point standings, the post-season field would be reduced from its original 12-team line-up.

L.B. Hartz maintained its unbeaten status through eight weeks of second half season shooting Monday with a 121-106 victory over Northland Realty. Peterson-Biddick remained two points behind the leaders with a 120-106 triumph over the Cat Busters.

Elsewhere, Wilson Brothers Co. beat Arctic No. 3 117-110, Pizza Hut defeated the Viking Varmints 116-112, First Northwestern State Bank Southside knocked off Triple J Trap Co. 106-93, Arctic Spirit got by Sjoberg's 123-120, Bjorkman's downed The Times 103-98, H & B Oil upended Hydra-Mac 120-116, Marshallton Gun Club handled the Soo Line Hot Shots 120-108, American Legion tripped Auto Body Repair 118-114, Northern State Bank shot down Hible's Standard 122-117, Service Master riddled Pepsi-Cola 120-101 and Sethre's Hartz earned a forfeit over Noreen Development while shooting a 119.

High School Football Teams Open 1979 Season This Week

First games of the 1979 high school football season in Minnesota will be played for most of the state's 449 teams on Friday, the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) reported today.

Each school that plays its initial game on that day preceding the Labor Day weekend will have completed a five-day conditioning program in addition to two full weeks of organized practice sessions.

Over 31,000 youngsters throughout Minnesota will be participating in high school football this fall. The opening games will be the first of more than 4,300 contests scheduled to be held, mostly on Fridays, in August, September, October and November.

All but 19 high schools from among the MSHSL membership of 518 schools will compete in interscholastic football this season. And, for the eighth successive year, the league will conduct state football playoffs. Champions in five classes—based on enrollment — will be crowned November 16 at various playing sites. Each of the 487 conference-affiliated schools and 11 independent teams will be in a position to decide their own state playoff dreams on the playing field beginning with those opening games.

There will be a change in the format of the state playoffs in two classes — Class B and Class C — this year. The change will find conference champions or independents advancing to possible state playoff berths, as is the case in Classes AA and A, and in nine-man divisions. Last season in Classes B and C the top eight computer rated teams qualified for playoff berths.

As a result of the change all five football classifications will now be advancing conference champions or independents into eight state playoff sports at the end of regular season play.

The following reviews each of the five classes:

Class AA

Class AA football in Minnesota involves the state's largest enrollment schools, varying from Lake South Conference's average enrollment of 1,892 students to the 1,060 average of the Northern Lakes circuit. The classification involves nine conferences and one independent — Moorhead.

For the first time last year Class AA advanced eight teams to the state playoffs; previously four advanced. Some 31,036 fans watched the seven games, which ended with Edina West topping Fridley 21-0 for top honors.

The position of conference champions in the state playoffs bracket was drawn by lot for a two-year period in 1978 and the 1979 pairings are as follows:

At least one qualifying game is necessary as a result of a ninth conference and two such games would become necessary should Moorhead qualify as an independent. Moorhead would qualify only if its record of losses does not exceed one or if its losses do not exceed the number of losses suffered by a conference champion with the most number of losses among all other conference champions.

The qualifying game or games would be played prior to state playoff quarterfinal round games, which are scheduled for November 2 and 3.

One quarterfinal upper bracket pairing will find the Lake South Conference winner meeting the victor of the qualifying game between the Big Nine vs. St. Paul City. The other upper bracket contest will find the Minneapolis City champion playing at the champion of the St. Paul Suburban Conference.

Lower bracket pairings see the Central Lakes champion playing the North Suburban winner and the Northern Lakes titlist hosting either Moorhead or the Lake North Conference's top team. Moorhead, of course, must first qualify and then defeat the Lake North winner before entering the playoffs.

Class AA semifinal games will be played on November 8 and 9. The title game is set for November 16. Sites of semifinal games and the championship game will be determined by the MSHSL.

Class A

Two-time defending state champion Fridley Grace, holders of the state's longest winning streak — 24 games — is one of 90 high schools playing in Class A. The classification includes 12 conferences. None of the schools are independents. The 12 conferences have been divided into four geographical groupings for purposes of pairings for state playoffs. Four qualifying games are needed in order to determine the final eight state playoff qualifiers. Within each of the four groupings the conferences drew for qualifying game byes.

Dates for qualifying games and quarterfinal state playoff games must be played no later than November 3. Semifinal and final game dates are set for November 9 and 16.

Sites and dates for qualifying games will be determined by the conference committee of each group. Sites for quarterfinal state playoff games will be by the east-west geographic location as was used during last year's state playoffs. The MSHSL will determine sites for semifinal and championship games.

Qualifying games for the 1979 campaign will find the Suburban West champion meeting the West Central champion, with the winner facing the Central Gopher titlist in one upper bracket state playoff game. The other upper bracket qualifying game has the champion from the South Central conference meeting the champion of the Southwest conference with the winner meeting the Missota conference champion in a quarterfinal contest.

One lower bracket qualifying game sees champions of the Don Bosco and Rum River meeting, with the winner facing the Tri-Metro champion in a quarterfinal tussle. The other qualifying clash is between victors of the Iron Range Seaway and Mid-State conferences, with the winner facing the Northwest conference champion in quarterfinal play.

Class B

Fifteen conferences and five independent schools comprise the 119-member Class B football division. The 15 conference champions and one independent, or bye, will participate in the inter-conference championship games which will lead to the eight state playoff sports. Pairings in inter-conference title games have been determined on a geographical basis. For an independent school to be eligible for post-season play, that school must record seven wins of which five must be over teams with a Class B enrollment or larger.

Pairings for inter-conference championship games, which must be completed no later than October 30, are as follows:

Upper bracket — Arrowhead vs. North Star; Pine-to-Prairie vs. Heart O'Lakes; East Central vs. Central Minnesota; and West Lake vs. bye or independent.

Lower bracket — Wright County vs. Minnesota River; Little Sioux vs. Tomahawk; Gopher vs. Hiawatha Valley; and Wasioja vs. Mississippi Valley.

Host conference for the inter-conference championship games will be the conference which is located geographically east of the other participating school.

Quarterfinal state playoff games will be played at the school located geographically west of the other participating school.

Quarterfinal games must be completed no later than November 3. Semifinal and championship games are slated for November 9 and 16.

Class C

Like Class B, Class C will conduct inter-conference championship games leading

NOW THERE IS BARK-BUSTER
. . . the fastest, most efficient, most economical way to split your logs.

Splitting logs used to mean splitting headaches. First came the axe . . . slow and backbreaking. Then came the hydraulic log splitter . . . expensive and budget-splitting. New Bark-Buster introduces auger-type log splitting and the only thing it splits is the wood.
Instead of splitting logs from the end with a wedge, Bark-Buster penetrates from the side with an auger . . . neatly breaking up logs for firewood or kindling. It's simple. You just place the log against the auger and let Bark-Buster do the work . . . log after log in seconds. It's so fast, you can split a full cord of wood in less than an hour.

Picnic, Shoot Planned For Sportsmen Club

Annual membership picnic of the Pennington county sportsmen club will be held Sunday at the club picnic grounds north of Thief River Falls. Pot-luck supper will be served about 4:30 p.m. and will follow an open .22 caliber silhouette shoot.

Members attending the picnic are asked to bring a dish for the table and eating utensils for the family. Hamburgers, hotdogs and soft drinks will be furnished by the club.

The metallic silhouette shoot will start about 10 a.m. and will close about 3 p.m. It is not restricted to club members and anyone interested is invited to participate.

Shooters using rifles or pistols will compete on the same course at the same time. Targets include chickens at 25 yards, pigs at 50 yards, turkeys at 75 yards and rams at 100 yards. Entry fee will be $3 for initial entry of rifle and pistol and $1 for re-entry.

Cash awards will be based on single shot, revolver or auto loading pistols and on rifles with iron sights and glass sights. All rifles will be fired offhand and pistols will be shot in accordance with IHMSA rules.

Football Teams Open Seasons

to the eight spots for state playoffs. Dates and sites for games will follow the same guidelines as outlined in Class B.

There are 14 conferences and one independent school that comprise the 107-member Class C division.

Pairings for inter-conference championship games are as follows:

Upper bracket — Polar vs. bye; Top-of-State vs. Park Region; Prairie vs. 212; and Tri Valley vs. Circle Eight.

Lower bracket — Red Rock vs. bye or independent; Star vs. Middle Eight; Valley vs. Centennial; and River Falley vs. Maple Leaf.

Nine-Man

More than one fifth of the state's high school football teams will be playing nine-man football this season. An all-time high 100 schools will be engaged in the game. Last year 82 schools competed in this division. This season, 13 conferences and four independents comprise the division. Two new conferences are the Pheasant and Border leagues, who last year were involved in Class C and 11-man football.

As in Class B and Class C, nine-man playoff procedures relative to sites and dates will be followed. And, independents will be eligible for post-season play if they meet certain winning criteria.

Pairings for inter-conference championship games are as follows:

Upper bracket — Border vs. Southern Star; Mini vs. bye or independent; Pheasant vs. Little Eight; and Big Seven vs. bye or independent.

Lower bracket — Longbow vs. Heartland; St. Louis County vs. bye or independent; Aggasiz Valley South vs. Agassiz Valley North; and North Tri-County vs. Northern Lights (if Minnesota school is champion).

MSHSL Notes

Last November a record total 74,669 spectators watched the 35 state football playoff games. In the seven-year history of the state football playoffs, the games have been attended by 323,550 fans.

The 1978 state champions in addition to Edina West (AA) and Fridley Grace (A) were New Richland-Heartland (B), Alden-Conger (C) and Hoffman (nine-man). All were undefeated except Edina West, which lost one game.

Last season there were a total of 63 conferences and 503 schools competing. This upcoming campaign will include the same number of conferences and 449 schools.

Like last year, there are 11 schools without conference affiliation. They include Moorhead (AA); New Ulm Cathedral, St. Mary's of Sleepy Eye, Tracy, Wheaton and Long Prairie (B); Buffalo Lake (C); and Beardsley, Greenbush, Hills-Beaver Creek and Marietta (nine-man).

There is a new member school this year — St. Croix Lutheran — and one consolidation — Hoffman-Kesington.

Football, the most popular high school sport in terms of number of participants, is one of seven fall activities sponsored by the MSHSL. Others include boys soccer, boys and girls cross country, girls tennis, girls volleyball, boys gymnastics and girls swimming.

A good field windbreak can provide protection from soil erosion and provide wildlife habitat at the same time. Plant a multi-purpose windbreak and protect our natural resources. For tree planting information, contact your local soil conservation service office.

NORTH STAR TRANSPORT of Thief River Falls enjoyed post-season Class B men's fast pitch softball tournament success over the past three weekends with a championship performance in the District 7 event played here; a runner-up finish in the state meet at Hutchinson; and a fourth place effort in the Northern Region competition at Austin. Members of the team included, front row left to right, Darrell Stromlund, manager Maynard Moen, Nick Neibauer and Steve Daley; back row, Marty Brown, Kevin Sethre, Bruce Johnson, Al Jensen, Jim Hopper, Bruce Johnson, Tom Neibauer and Ron Ostby. Missing at the time of the picture were Howard Dalager, Mike Carriere, Dan Peterson and Henry Holte.

Texas Golf Tournament Is Played Here On Saturday

Bob Forberg, Bill Corliss, Deb Jacobson and Monty Markstrom teamed up for a nine under par 63 to win Saturday's Texas golf tournament at the Thief River Country Cub.

The winning squad was definitely a "championship" outfit. Forberg was the men's club champion in 1978. Jacobson won the 1979 women's club tourney.

A back nine 29 enabled Bob Fitzgerald, Jim Geatz, Dean Anderson and Elton Cummings to claim second-place honors at 64.

One shot back at 65 were Stewart Rugland, Arnie Johnson, Mike Anderson and Frank Womack.

Rest of the standings included Cal Wicklander, Harvey Ebbinghausen, Steve Easton, Bill Penning and Karl Gjernes, 66; Alex Moum, Art Welter, Ernie Padilla and Jon Onkka, 67; and Dave Geatz, Phyllis Moum, Frank Harger and Bob Evans, 67.

Tournament action will resume at the Country Club win the Sno-Ball men's shortstop September 9.

Are you cut out to finish a Capp Home yourself?
Come to our Open House and find out.

In 33 years, Capp has made quality custom-built housing affordable for over 60,000 families.

We don't build pre-fab or modular houses. We erect the home of your choice stick by stick, on your lot and the foundation you provide, using only top-quality materials.

By the time our carpenters leave, your house is fully enclosed and ready for you to finish.

We provide all the necessary materials you need to finish it yourself. Following our concise, step-by-step instructions, you can complete your dream home at an undreamed of price.

By finishing it themselves, many Capp customers save thousands of dollars compared to what they'd pay a general contractor to build the same home on the same lot.

You don't have to be a craftsman, either. Just crafty. You can act as your own general contractor, hiring local help, and still come out money ahead.

Either way, you'll get a home that's uniquely yours. A custom-built home, designed to your personal specifications.

One that will be worth far more than you paid for it the day you move in.

Capp Homes are such a good value they qualify for FHA, VA, Farm Home and conventional mortgages. What's more, Capp offers several financing programs for qualified buyers, including Equity loans, construction loans and long-term mortgages. With a small deposit, qualified customers can get Capp financing at competitive interest rates. So don't let tight money put a crimp in your building plans. Come to Capp's Open House. You'll have a chance to inspect a Capp Home that's partially completed and decide whether you're cut out to finish a Capp Home.

NIGHT and DAY

In mills and factories across the country, they never stop working. By night as well as by day, the wheels of commerce grind out the goods we need as a nation.

It's a twenty-four hour job, this business of production, and it's a vital job — to you, your family, your town, our whole country. Like most vital jobs, it can't be stopped.

Faith is a vital job, too. It isn't simply something that God gives you, free of charge, on Christmas and at Easter. You have to work for real faith. You have to earn it. You have to keep at it.

Fortunately, to help you gain and sustain this vital faith, you have the Church to guide you. Start attending every Sunday and there absorb the wonders of God's teachings.

He Muffed It

Following editorial is from the Redwood Gazette at Redwood Falls:

The Taft-Hartley Act became law in 1947, enacted over the veto of the President Harry S. Truman.

The house and senate thus demonstrated courage and concern for the American consumer on scales which rarely, if ever, have been evidenced since. Organized labor, then as now, was at the controls or directing the controller, with the power necessary in many states to cut short the political careers of those who went against its dictation.

Presidents, and perhaps Democratic presidents particularly, have been reluctant to invoke Taft-Hartley provisions even when thousands of persons were being affected adversely and a relative few, if any, stood to benefit.

The labor department's "there is no evidence at this time that the strike is affecting the entire industry or jeopardizing the national health or safety," a statement issued in response to Gov. Al Quie's request that the president act, is therefore quite typical.

The U.S. Department of Labor simply doesn't get the picture: This nation's balance of payments is in the sorriest of states, thanks in large part of OPEC; American commitments to grain-buying counties around the world; double-digit inflation and a recession upon us. Midwestern farmers would do a great deal to improve the picture if permitted to market their stored grain while the prices are somewhat near right, and thereby acquire storage for the new crop.

But all this falls short of Taft-Hartley requirements?

President Carter had a golden opportunity last week to send the grain millers and elevator operators back to work for an 80-cooling off period, a T-H act provision, and, by that stroke of the pen, make friends far and wide.

Need anyone be told that he muffed it?

The Times Are Changing

"The last few weeks the nation saved about 200,000 acres of western forest from the loggers' axe. Of course, it got all burned up, but at least it got saved from the loggers."

This wry comment from editor Bob Cary of the Ely Echo appeared in a recent issue of that publication. In the same issue was an editorial with Cary's comments on timber resources and their use which follows the definition of conservation as the wise use of recources. He writes as follows:

The name of the game is wood.

It is the stuff which is inside trees. And in the next few years it will become an increasingly more important item, even critically important in the U.S.

Right now, most of the citizens and the nation's press view trees from a recreational or scenic viewpoint. In that respect, trees must not be cut. People love good wood furniture. . . but will fight to the finish to prevent anyone from cutting down trees to make furniture. It is like those various individuals and organizations who froth at the mouth at the mere mention of anyone shooting a wild animal. . . but pride themselves on being able to turn out a gourmet steak over charcoal.

Certainly trees are some of the most majestic and inspiring plant species. There is something breathtaking in the grandeur of a standing forest. There is no question it strikes an almost religious note within the human soul. There is a misconception, however, that only those advocates of setting aside timber areas in untouchable shrines appreciate the forest. Not so. The professional foresters we have known, the men who study and understand the intricate plante relationships and the awesome dynamics of forest growth, have an even deeper feeling for trees, even though they are involved in the harvest of wood. In due course, the public will come to understand this.

Probably the big change in the attitude of the nation's press. Two things may change this attitude very rapidly: 1. The need for renewable resources in the face of rapid depletion of our finite mineral supplies; 2. The need for something upon which to print newspapers and magazines.

Like the Canadian oil, it is a good bet that the Canadians will not long continue to allow vast wilderness areas to be cut for U.S. newspring. . . paper for many of those publications which now wax so poetic about "saving the trees." Paper prices, in any event, will be going up. Fast. As this occurs, more and more editors will be inquiring as to why the U.S. cannot supply its own wood. Why indeed?

The lack of understanding of timber management is quite evident in much of today's press where logging is usually described in terms like "Total devastation," "clearcut disaster", "rape of the forest". . . etc. etc. When the paper crunch hits, many of those talented journalists with the lurid typewriters will discover that in so far as a "rape" of the forest occurred, there was indeed an assault, but rather than being very vocal witness, the press was the victim.

When the press changes, the nation will change. It may be a year-two years, five years. . . but the change will assuredly occur. The foresters know this. The timber people know this. Some of the environmental people sense this, and are frantically attempting to remove more and more timber from use, "preserve" it before the crunch hits. This, of course, will merely hasten the inevitable.

Fortunately, there is within the nation a trained cadre of professional timber managers, both government and private, who embarked on a genuine forest management program. Largely discredited by the press now as "tools of the timber barons," etc., they will suddenly become the prophets of the new religion.

It may be a year, two years, five years. . . but it is inevitable. It is unfortunate that the approaching trauma must occur before there can be repentence, baptism and conversion. It is unfortunate that as a nation, our spiritual timber rebirth will come some 70 years late.

Here We Go Again

Following editorial is from the Wadena Pioneer-Journal:

Here we go again!

The giant theatrical production staged every three years has now begun its new run. We're talking about the wage contract negotiations in the auto industry.

The talk of an impending strike against General Motors is loud and reverberating throughout the economy. We do have questions about the demands of United Auto Workers union representatives for a 20 per cent pay hike to workers in the auto industry.

Overtime aside, the UAW may already be the highest paid workers in the nation. The average pay for a 40-hour week is $300. That is coupled with the best in health care insurance and a general provision for paid and personal holidays.

One Michigan auto worker was quoted as saying a strike over pay is essential because of President Carter's failure to curb inflation and gasoline price increases.

Anyone with eyes to see would realize a pay increase in the auto industry over and above the seven per cent guideline, as set forth by the Carter administration, will only make our inflation go from bad to worse. It is a vicious circle.

For an average family, the price of a new car has already gone out of sight. It is a fact the Big Three auto makers have already experienced decreases in sales this year. Further increases in prices will only accelerate the rate of decrease.

Self-interest is a determining factor in any negotiations. It is only good business for management to reject as many union demands as it can. By the same token, it is only natural for the union to extract as much for the benefit of its membership.

Usually, all this is done without too much consideration for and concern over the national economy. This year, however, it is our belief the leaders must set aside their likes and dislikes. In the light of the current energy crisis, with its implications on the world balance of power and our own economy, it is time they sit down not as opponents, but as partners to reexamine the role and direction of industry as a whole. This is particularly true in terms of energy conservation, productivity and workmanship.

It is not a question of business as usual. We are facing a national crisis. Our fervent hope is that the leaders in both camps will rise above their narrow self-interest and act in a statesmanlike manner, together with other national leaders for a better and stronger America.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"In this restaurant," the waiter boasted, "we are superlative. If you order a fresh egg, you get the freshest egg in the world. If you order hot coffee, you get the hottest coffee in the world. If you order. . ."

"I believe you," the customer interrupted. "I ordered a small steak."

Accidents Most Common Danger For Children

One of Minnesota's biggest health problems isn't caused by a virus or a bacterium, or by the failure of some bodily organ. It strikes suddenly, with no early symptoms and no warning. Every year it claims the lives of nearly 200 Minnesota children under the age of 15, and it leaves even more children injured.

The problem is accidents. Health authorities in Minnesota and nationwide have been focusing attention on childhood accidents recently, in connection with the United Nations' international year of the child (IYC) observance.

Evelyn Van Allen, of the state health department's maternal and child health section, says accidents are the leading cause of death among children between the ages of one and 15.

Motor vehicles account for the largest single category of child accidents, according to Van Allen. Of 186 child accident deaths reported in Minnesota during 1977, nearly 44 per cent involved cars or trucks. The victims included bicyclists, pedestrians and motor vehicle passengers.

Other major categories of child accidents include drownings, which accounted for 16 per cent of all child accident deaths in the state during 1977, and fires, which accounted for 9 per cent. Falls and poisonings are also major child accident problems, and chokings are the most common form of accidental death nationwide among children between the ages of one month and one year.

A variety of efforts to deal with the child accident problem are currently underway, and health authorities are placing a special emphasis on preventing motor vehicle related accidents. The Minnesota safety council, under a contract with the state department of public safety, has been working through hospitals to teach parents of newborn children about child auto safety. The proper use of child seat restraint devices is an important theme of such efforts. Health authorities believe parents may be using such devices incorrectly in as many as three out of four cases.

Because so many child accidents involve collisions between motor vehicles and bicycles, bike safety has also been receiving special emphasis. Young riders are being encouraged to obey the same rules of the road that apply to motor vehicles, which means observing traffic signs and signals, using proper hand signals when turning or stopping, and riding in single file on the right side of the road, rather than against the flow of traffic. Cyclists are also being urged to keep their bikes in good mechanical condition, to be especially careful when entering intersections, to be alert for road hazards like potholes and loose gravel, and to make use of safety devices like lights, horns and reflectors.

The fight against child accidents is also proceeding in other areas, according to Jim Parker, of the state health department's emergency medical services section. He cited the impact of improved poison information services and child-resistant packaging on child poisonings. He noted that aspirin poisonings among children have been cut almost in half since 1973, when "child proof" containers were first required by law. He cautioned, however, that the best way to prevent poisonings is simply to keep poisons out of the reach of children.

Parker also suggested some ways parents can help prevent other types of child accidents:

+ Drownings: Don't leave very young children alone around water, whether it's the bathtub or the old swimming hole. Make sure your children learn to swim, and make sure they always swim in the company of others. Encourage them to swim in clean, familiar waters, preferably under the supervision of a lifeguard.

+ Choking: Keep pillows, plastic bags and small objects that might be inhaled away from infants or small children. Learn the proper way to clear food or mechanical objects from clogged air passages.

+ Falls: Never leave an infant or toddler alone, even for a moment. Very young children will try to explore everything, and they have no idea that mere gravity can harm them.

+ Burns: Again, avoid leaving very young children alone, especially in the bathtub or around a hot iron, fireplace, heating unit or steam vaporizer. Keep matches and candles out of reach, disconnect electrical appliances when they aren't being used, and install protective devices in electrical outlets and around heating units.

Parker acknowledged that there are serious limits to what public health officials can do about preventing accidents. Child accidents actually include a broad variety of problems, he noted, and each problem has a different cause and a different solution. He suggested that, ultimately, parental vigilence may be our most effective tool for dealing with child accidents.

Inflation Fighting Ideas

A fuel-efficient car is more than a reliable means of transportation. It's also an inflation fighter.

In addition to the performance advantages of an engine tune-up, you might get a mileage payoff. A badly out-of-tune engine could waste five percent of its gas. For an average driver, that would add up to about 35 gallons a year.

Here are some hints on increasing car mileage: accelerate gently, anticipate stops and take your foot off the pedal and let the car coast up to an intersection (but leave car in gear for safety), don't go too fast or too slow—most cars get their best mileage around 35 miles per hour.

Consolidate your trips. Making several short trips when the engine is warm (cars run more efficiently then) costs less gas than several widely spaced trips.

While radial tires may cost more than conventional bias-ply tires, they'll probably last longer and will provide better gas mileage.

For more information, ask for a copy of "The Gasoline Mileage Book," when you write: Answer Books, Shell Oil Co., P.O. Box 4315, Dept. N, Houston, Texas 77001.

EARN TWO PAYCHECKS FOR ONE JOB SKILL.

The Army Reserve urgently needs certain types of civilian job skills. If you qualify, you'll begin at a higher-than-usual pay grade and make over $1000 a year, to start. Not bad for the 16 hours a month (usually on a weekend) and two weeks yearly that you serve. For more details, call your local Army Representative, listed in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting."

Hints For Homeowners

Home Improvement, Safety & Economy

YOUR TOOLS

Well-designed tools should feel comfortable in your hand.

If caring for your home and craftmanship have become not home work but special sources of satisfaction, you're probably taking more pleasure and pride in your growing use and mastery of tools.

To do your home work, it's not necessary to own every item in the hardware catalogue. But selecting your basic tools with care will help ensure the job's well done. Essentials include hammer, saws, screwdrivers, wrenches, pliers, files and soldering equipment. Cutting corners here—or on your construction materials—will tell the tale on the finished product.

Quality hand tools make a job easier and safer. Before purchasing tools, get the feel of them in your hands. Those with good balance, weight and size, being more comfortable, allow you to work better.

A good grip often makes the difference between finishing a job with composure or finishing it with aching hands and skinned knuckles. The Cushion Grip on many Crescent pliers and wrenches helps prevent tools from slipping in your hands. And Crescent screwdrivers with oversize handles also give you more turning power.

Keep your work area accessible, clean and clutter-free to avoid irksome and untimely interruptions while you work. Pegboard provides an effective and simple storage system—and various fixtures are available that will let you hang almost any tool securely and within easy reach.

Keep all tools clean and cutting edges sharp. Remove nicks from screwdrivers with a file, and prevent damage to file teeth by keeping files in their plastic cases or other wrapping. Use a silicone or oil spray coating to deter rust.

Worcestered Brush-On For Grilled Fish

Seasoning fish is one of the fine arts of the kitchen—indoors or out—but it needn't be difficult or time consuming. Original Worcestershire is a handy all-seasoner for barbecued meats and poultry and fish is no exception. Here trout are brushed inside and out with a delicious mixture of Worcestershire, oil, lemon juice, and onion and garlic powder. Then they're grilled quickly, five minutes or so on each side. (Remember—overcooking makes fish dry.) If your cookout gets rained out, just bring the fish and sauce inside and use your kitchen broiler.

SAVORY GRILLED FISH

1/4 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon onion powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
2-1/2 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
4 teaspoons lemon juice
4 small fish (about 10 oz. each), cleaned (such as trout, perch, etc.)

In a small bowl combine oil, onion powder, salt, garlic powder, Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Brush fish inside and out with mixture. Place on an oiled grill 6 inches from hot coals. Grill 5 minutes; turn over and brush with remaining seasoned oil mixture. Grill until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 3 minutes. Or, preheat broiler to hot. Brush fish inside and out with oil mixture. Place on a foil-lined baking pan. Broil 6 inches from heat source for 5 minutes. Turn over, brush with remaining oil mixture. Broil until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 3 minutes. Place on a platter. Garnish with lemon wedges, if desired. Yield: 4 portions.

Need fast grain storage?
GT QUICK-BIN

The fastest bin in the West! 2 men can set it up anywhere in 1 hour. No cement pad needed.

Boxcars are becoming increasingly scarce and elevators are filling up. Avoid being forced to pile grain on the ground and incurring grain spoilage. QUICK-BIN protects 2,500 bushels (or 5,000 bu.) from snow, moisture, wind and insects.

Take QUICK-BIN wherever you're harvesting, even by car. Beats hauling grain if you fill directly from a combine. Unloads easily by auger/elevator. Then fold it up ready to relocate anywhere for the next crop.

Materials are steel and cross woven fabric that's tougher to tear than a phone book. QUICK-BIN folds when emptied to be used again. Replacement liners available.

QUICK-BIN is the least expensive, most convenient, and in so many respects the safest grain storage available for short-term or years long use. $895 complete with illustrated instructions and all materials. ($1,165 for 5,000 bu. size)

AUTO cents and safety

SAVE MONEY WHILE YOU DRIVE

There are many ways to save money while you drive. This was proven in a test using a car that had been deliberately "sabotaged" with mileage handicaps.

The ignition timing was retarded, the engine idled too rich and too fast, underinflated bias-ply tires were used instead of properly-inflated radials, wheels were out of line and the crankcase had 30-weight motor oil instead of 10W40.

Twenty-three drivers took the car over a 22-mile city and country course. They repeated the course with the handicaps removed, and got 14.6 percent better mileage on the average. Then, by using simple good-mileage driving tricks, they even averaged 8.9 percent more.

These simple tricks, suggested in "The Gasoline Mileage Book," are:

1. Accelerate gently. You don't have to creep away from a stop. Just take it easy.

2. Anticipate stops. Take your foot off the gas and let the car coast up to the intersection. (Keep it in gear, though, for safety.)

3. Don't go too fast or too slow. Most cars get their best mileage around 35 mph.

Accelerate your car gently.

4. Get into high gear quickly. If you have an automatic, lift your foot off the accelerator to make it shift earlier.

And there's another way to save gas. Don't pull up to a station every time your tank gets a few gallons down. Waiting in line burns gas unnecessarily. And often, when topping off the tank, gasoline can be spilled.

For more tips, get "The Gasoline Mileage Book." For your free copy, ask for it when you write: Answer Books, Shell Oil Co., P.O. Box 4315, Dept. N, Houston, Texas 77001.

United Way Sets Sept. Kick-Off

Kick-off for the 1979 United Way campaign in the Thief River Falls area will take place September 25 with a goal this year set at $75,000, according to Mrs. Gordon (Jan) Peterson, chairman of the United Way board. The goal is an increase from the $60,000 goal set and exceeded last year.

The 1979-80 campaign will include rural areas of Pennington county and the cities of St. Hilaire and Goodridge as well as Thief River Falls. The decision to include these areas was made at a meeting of the board last Monday evening.

Again this year there will be no residential door-to-door campaign in Thief River Falls and persons who would like to contribute but will not be contacted in the business area campaign may send their contributions directly to the United Way. Further information on this aspect of the drive will be published as the campaign gets underway later this month.

Orientation program for volunteers in the United Way effort will be held at a breakfast session September 24 at 7 a.m. at the Best Western Inn. A film will be shown and speakers from the local community will comment on the organization and its role in the community.

Campaign committee assignments include the following:

Publicity — Muriel Olin, chairman, Bruce Steiger and Dr. Phil Murray;

Brochure — Brad Powell, chairman, Nancy Tofte, Chuck Richards and Paul Ihle;

Downtown area campaign — Muriel Olin and Ron Nelson;

Residential — Nancy Tofte and Bruce Steiger;

Arctic non-union — Brad Powell;

Arctic union — Hazel Huot;

Hospital and nursing homes — Art Heinze;

Schools — Tippi Benson;

City, county, state and Forsberg's, Inc. — Chuck Richards;

Rural and St. Hilaire — Kurt Marben;

Mail-in Donations — Barb Drees;

Professional — Dr. Phil Murray;

Soo Line and Northwestern Bell — Chris Twomey;

Hydra-Mac — Paule Ihle.

Officers of the United Way board in addition to Mrs. Peterson as chairman are Chuck Richards, vice chairman; Barb Drees, executive secretary; and Barry Bergem, treasurer.

Records of the organization show that $57,697 has been alocated to date from funds raised in the 1978 campaign with 33 agencies benefitting from the allocation. Contributions ranged from $10,000 to the Girl scouts and $9,500 to the Boy scouts to $100 for the child protection council and senior citizen council and $150 to the Special Friends organization.

Schedule Change For Bookmobile Begins Sept. 4

Northwest regional library's bookmobile begins a slightly changed schedule beginning September 4. The library's traveling book collection houses approximately 3,500 volumes and travels throughout the five-county area. In addition to the books and other materials it holds, the following services are available:

(1) Access to the regional collection of 100,000 volumes and 185 magazine subscriptions;

(2) Request service (ask for something specific and the library staff will get it for you as soon as possible.);

(3) Interlibrary loan service (get materials from public libraries throughout Minnesota research centers);

(4) Convenience materials checked out from any bookmobile stop, and branch library or headquarters and mail-a-book catalogs may be returned to any bookmobile stop, to any branch library or headquarters, or by mail);

(5) Summer story programs and film programs for children and adults;

(6) Library cards are free and may be used anywhere in the counties of Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau, and in most public libraries in Minnesota. Bookmobile brings the library to the public.

For further information, contact the bookmobile librarian or call the nearest Northwest regional library facilities in Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Greenbush, Roseau, Warroad, Warren or Hallock.

Collette Thune Is Court Of Honor Member

Thirteen-year-old Collette Thune of Thief River Falls was one of six 4-H clothing project participants from throughout the state chosen recently for the Minnesota state fair court of honor. Selection for the court of honor, made by fellow 4-Hers, is on the basis of style and quality of the participants handcrafted outfits.

Collette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Thune, was a first-time participant in the state fair style review and one of the youngest court-of-honor members. Her clothing project was a four-piece wool suit which included a brown velveteen blazer, reversible v-neck vest, wool plaid A-line, mid-length skirt, and plaid straight-leg pants. Thune wore a sheer polyester blouse with a tie collar to finish the look of her outfit.

Thune has been a member of Happy Acres 4-H club in Pennington county for six years and has participated in sewing projects for five years.

Drivers Okay Organ Donation

Nearly 120,000 Minnesota drivers have joined the program which designates them as donors of vital organs for transplant purposes after death, according to statistics recently released by the Minnesota department of public safety.

ENTERTAINING FRIENDS and relatives with musical numbers, short one-act plays, dances and dramatics is what 4-H'ers call "share-the-fun". The Mavie 4-H club represented Pennington county at the Minnesota state fair last week with their share-the-fun act entitled "Dr. Hoiman's Flea Circus." While at the fair, participants have the opportunity to work with an experienced director and perform under professional conditions.

Orientation For NCC Re-Entry Students Set

Adult continuing education (ACE) club has scheduled a get together Thursday, September 6, in the Northland community college commons at 2 p.m.

This meeting will provide the re-entry and the older than average student an opportunity to meet with others who are enrolling in college; to gather information on study habits and testing; and to share experiences which can be helpful to the returning student.

Refreshments will be served. Current and future students are invited. For more information call Arlyne Forsberg at 681-2181.

NW Hospital Aux. To Honor 1st Members

Charter members of the Northwestern hospital auxiliary will be honored at that organization's fall membership luncheon Tuesday, September 11. Honorary life memberships will be granted to the charter members at the noon luncheon which will be held at the American Legion in Thief River Falls.

Of the original 108 charter members over 50 have been contacted to date. Among those the auxiliary has not been able to locate are: Mrs. Amos Aase, Mrs. Ed Bratrud, Mrs. Frank L. Bond, Mrs. Vivian C. Capp, Mrs. Vernon L. Carlson, Mrs. William Feigal, Mrs. Dan Greene, Mrs. Oscar Hoglin, Mrs. Earl D. Jensen, Mrs. Paul Lundgren, Mrs. Sid Lieberman, Mrs. Stan Larson, Mrs. Harold W. Peterson, Mrs. Sigward Quam, Mrs. Forrest R. Rowell, Mrs. D. M. Travnicek, Mrs. David Vaaler, Mrs. C. W. Vorachek, Mrs. Harry Winter and Mrs. Olaf Eide.

Anyone knowing the current address of any of these women is asked to contact Kay Marvin at 1819 Robin Hood Drive, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, telephone 681-3259.

Women on the current membership list of the hospital auxiliary should have received a newsletter, worksheet, membership application form and interest sheet.

The luncheon is open to all persons interested in volunteering their time to service programs at Northwestern hospital. Reservations should be made by September 4 with the Hospital Auxiliary, 120 LaBree Ave. S. Thief River Falls, MN 56701. Cost for the luncheon is $3 and membership dues are $2.

ARNT M. AUNE of Thief River Falls was honored Monday at the Minnesota state fair as outstanding school administrator from Pennington county. Recognition was part of education day activities at the state fair. Aune has served as administrator at the Thief River Falls AVTI for the past 20 years.

WET WEATHER has hampered harvest operations throughout the area, and the same condition exists on land operated by 1979 SWCD conservation farmer Clarence O. Swanson and his son Lyle. Clarence, Lyle and Lyle's younger brother Jim (left) check the swaths on a field near the Swanson farm yard. Part of the farm's dairy herd is shown in the background, along with the two silos used to maintain the herd on dry lot feeding year around.

Clarence Swansons Are '79 Conservation Farmers

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Not only does Clarence O. Swanson operate 1,640 acres of land in western Pennington county, he takes care of it. His long-standing conservation practices and attention to the land under his supervision has earned for him and his family the title of "1979 Conservation Farmer of the Year" from the Pennington soil and water conservation district.

Clarence and his children constitute the third and fourth generations of Swansons on the land with the home farm located eight and one-half miles west, two miles north and one-half mile west of St. Hilaire in Bray township.

"My grandfather, Charles Peter Swanson, homesteaded here in the very early 1880's," Clarence explained. "He was known around here as C. P. Swanson and was postmaster of the Bray post office for a number of years. We have a copy of the certificate of his appointment as postmaster, and it is dated Dec. 13, 1898."

The log cabin which served as the Bray post office under C. P. Swanson's direction is now a featured building in the Pennington pioneer village, having been donated to the county historical society by the Swanson family.

Although there are a number of Swanson families in the Pennington county area, Clarence is related to none of them. "You have to go a long way to find anyone from my family with the name of Swanson, except for the kids," he said. All eight of the Swanson children, ranging in age from 16 to 28 and four of whom are married, live in the Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire area. Three still live at home.

For many years the Swansons have operated a dairy herd in addition to their crop farming enterprises. Lyle, 23, the second eldest son, has some land of his own and farms in a partnership arrangement with his father, living at the farm home. Jim, 18, is also deeply involved in the farm operation. Among the three of them they handle the dairy herd in a manner which allows some free time to be spent away from the farm.

Clarence was one of the charter members of the Pennington dairy herd improvement association (DHIA) in 1957 and has been a member ever since. During that period of record keeping he has built his herd average from a 360-pound butterfat average to a current 681-pound average. The herd has been expanded to include 38 head of Holsteins in the milking string.

The Swansons have a stanchion barn with pipeline milker system, barn cleaner and manure holding tank which collects barn wastes for two to three months at a time. About five times a year they rent a spreader tank wagon and spend a day or two spreading the contents of the holding tank on about 30 acres of their land.

Clarence said he installed

CONSERVATION FARMER of the year for the Pennington soil and water conservation district, Clarence O. Swanson gets his new combine ready for the fall harvest season. A member of the Pennington district since 1958, he has applied a number of accepted conservation practices on his farm located about 11 miles northwest of St. Hilaire in Bray township.

MOUNTAINS OF BOOK WORK provide an additional duty for Norma Swanson, who with her husband Clarence has been named Pennington county conservation farm couple for the year. Keeping the farm account book is Mrs. Swanson's duty, and it is no small task for a farm with a 1,640 acre operation, large dairy herd and 1,200 acres in crop. The CB radio in the background at left is used extensively in the farm operation. The spun glass creation in the background at right is a souvenir of the 1979 Minnesota state fair — the first Mrs. Swanson has ever attended and the first Clarence has attended since he was a 4-H club member in 1938.

Wool Sewing Contest Slated Here Oct. 13

Plans were finalized for the District I "Make It Yourself with Wool" competition set for October 13 at a recent meeting of county directors at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls. The contest will again be at Northland community college in Thief River Falls.

Schedule for the day was revised slightly from former years. Contestants will register, get dressed in their outfits and have a snack between 8 and 9 a.m. Judging of the garments on the contestants will be done between 9 and 10 a.m. with each group to have a 15-minute practice session on the stage beginning with the pre-teen group. Contestants will be judged while they are practicing as well.

From 10 to 11 a.m., judges will look at the garments for construction. During this time a half-hour educational session on wool will be given to all contestants. At 11 a.m. judges will speak to their respective groups with some general comments about the garments. Lunch break will be at 11:30 a.m. with the contestants to be ready again by 12:45 p.m.

Public style revue will be at 1 p.m. in the college auditorium. Pictures of the first and second place winners in each group will be taken at 2 p.m.

It was also decided that preteens this year can make any type of garment desired since they do not go any further than district competition. They may enter as many pieces as desired and entry blanks should be filled out for each piece entered but the garment will be judged as a total outfit rather than individual piece.

Junior and seniors must make two separate outfits to constitute two entries. A jacket must have sleeves to be considered a jacket. It is emphasized that in the wool contest three-fourths of the points are on how the garment looks on the person and only one-fourth on construction.

Entry blanks can be obtained from county chairmen, county extension offices and local fabric stores which sell wool. County chairman for Pennington county is Janice Noreen. District I chairman is Gladys Hallstrom of Red Lake Falls.

Law Requires Insurance On All Vehicles

Under the provisions of the Minnesota no-fault insurance law, every owner of a motor vehicle must carry no-fault insurance and every owner of a motorcycle must carry liability insurance.

Conviction of the misdemeanor offense could mean a fine of up to $500 and/or a jail sentence of 90 days.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Mary Koop-John Wayne Marriage Vows Spoken

Miss Mary Helen Koop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koop, rural Thief River Falls, and John Allen Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wayne, rural Goodridge, exchanged marriage vows at a recent mid-afternoon ceremony at St. John Lutheran church in this city.

Rev. Roger E. Raebel, Red Lake Falls, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Elaine Idso, a friend of the bride's family, served as organist. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Kathy Shetler, a cousin of the bride, as she sang, "Wedding Song," "Lord's Prayer," and "Follow Me."

Arrangements of fresh flowers in pastel shades graced the altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white jersey with re-embroidered lace accenting the V-neckline and the long, fitted sleeves. Matching scalloped lace edged her A-line skirt and chapel-length train. A draped cummerbund created a diminative waistline. To complete her attire, she wore a lace-edged veil held by a Juliet headpiece. She carried a bouquet of silk roses in pastel pink, yellow and green, accented with babies' breath and greenery.

Mrs. Cathie Thompson of Mound was the bride's personal attendant.

Maid of honor was Sharon Koop, sister of the bride. She wore a spaghetti strapped gown of pink qiana topped by a long-sleeve jacket of floral sheet with lace trim at the neckline and cuffs. She carried an arm bouquet of long-stemmed pink roses with pink ribbon streamers, mating the rose pinned in her hair.

Other attendants were Sandee Rude, Patty Wilson and Sue Wing, friends of the couple. Their gowns and flowers, similar to the maid of honor's, were in pastel yellow, green and blue, respectively.

Serving as flower girl was Kimberly Wayne, Goodridge, a niece of the groom. She was attired in a white floor-length gown and carried a miniature replica of the bride's bouquet.

The rings were carried by Ross Koop, nephew of the groom. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a white tuxedo with a ruffled shirt and boutonniere matching the gown worn by their female attendants. He and the flower girl preceded the bride to the altar.

Like the bride, the groom was escorted to the altar by his parents. He was followed by his best man, Wally Rondorf, a friend of the couple, who escorted the maid of honor. Groomsmen escorting the bridesmaids were Jim Rude, Davie Wilson and Dave Johnson, friends of the couple. The ushers were Tom Koop, cousin of the bride, and Bob Wayne, rural Goodridge, a nephew of the groom.

The mother of the bride was attired in a peach and brown floor-length gown featuring a waist length float. Her corsage was of three silk peach roses accented with babies' breath. The mother of the groom wore a jacketed peach knit gown complemented by a corsage of green silk roses and babies' breath.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lamb, Chicago, Ill., godparents of the bride, and Jerry Wayne, brother and godfather of the groom.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed in the church parlors. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Koop, cousins of the bride. Marilyn Hoglo, cousin of the bride, registered the guests as Julie Wayne, a niece of the groom, and Claudia Simonson, a friend of the couple, ladled the punch.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake featuring a fountain with deep pink flowing water. To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the tiers were iced in pastel green, yellow, blue and pink with white trim and cascading peach roses. Topping the cake was a double bell ornament with ribbon streamers. The cake was cut and served by Karen Swanson, cousin of the bride, and Deb Yonke, a friend of the couple. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Linda Marec and Mrs. Marie Svendsgaard, aunts of the bride and groom.

Nancy and Jody Swanson and Lynette Hoard, cousins of the bride, and Kathy Englund, a friend of the couple, served as waitresses. At the gift table were Becky Brouse and Lori Berg, friends of the couple.

Relatives and friends attending were from Mendosa, Man., Canada; Chicago, Ill.; Grand Forks, N.D.; Hallock, Moorhead, Holt, the Twin Cities and the Goodridge and Thief River Falls area.

Following a wedding trip to Washington, Oregon, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev., the couple is now at home at 1216 Riverdale Drive, Thief River Falls. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed at Kmart. The groom, a graduate of Goodridge high school, is employed by Hydra Mac in the Parts and Service department. Photo, R. Patty Reed-Mike Liden Wed At St. Bernard's Miss Patty Reed became the bride of Mike Liden at a recent double-ring ceremony at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed of this city. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Liden, also of Thief River Falls.

Rev. James Bernauer officiated at the six o'clock ceremony. Kristi Gerardy was the organist and Steve Zachar, a friend of the bride, and Jeff Liden, a cousin of the groom, sang "Wedding Song," "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," and "Wings of Love."

Arrangements of pink carnations and babies' breath graced the altar. The pews along the center aisle were marked with pink and white bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a white qiana knit gown designed by Mori Lee of New York. The gown was styled with pearl-encrusted Alencon lace bodice with cap sleeves. Matching lace bordered her full, crystal pleated, floor-length skirt and cathedral train. Her walking-length veil, trimmed with lace, was held by a Juliet lace cap. She carriced a bouquet of pink carnations, forget-me-nots, orchids and rosebuds.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Tim Altepeter of Red Lake Falls.

Maid of honor was Bonnie Reed, a sister of the bride. Other attendants were Mrs. Richard Holen, a friend of the couple; Mrs. Byron Backen, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Steve Bjerken, sister of the groom. They wore rosebud pink gowns with pleated floor-length skirts. In their hair, they wore pink wreaths, corresponding with their bouquets of carnations, forget-me-nots and babies' breath. Their gold bracelets were gifts from the bride.

Dan Reed, a brother of the bride, was best man. Groomsmen were Larry Liden, a cousin of the groom. The guests were ushered by Brian Liden, Moorhead, a cousin of the groom; and Rod Wentzel, Bemidji, a friend of the couple. All the men of the wedding party wore light grey tuxedos with pink ruffled shirts and pink carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a pink pleated floor-length gown accented with silver accessories. Similar accessories complemented the teal blue gown worn by the groom's mother. Their identical corsages were of pink carnations and rosebuds.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs. Caroline Brunelle, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Matzske, grandparents of the groom; and Mrs. Florida Kuld and Henry Brunelle of Red Lake Falls, godparents of the bride.

Approximately 250 relatives and friends attended the reception that followed at the Country Club. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Liden, godparents of the groom. Lori Roy, Columbus, Neb., a cousin of the bride, was at the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Timm, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, ladled the punch, and Julie Hanson and Linda Mattson, friends of the bride, arranged the gifts.

Centering the serving table was a Lady Windemere wedding cake supported by a central pedestal. Surrounding the base were four smaller cakes supported by extending arms. Garlands and pink roses decorated the cake, topped with angels and a ceramic bride and groom ornament. The cake, baked by Syvonnes, was cut and served by Mrs. Larry Roy, Columbus, Neb., aunt of the bride, and Mary Liden, a cousin of the groom. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Bill Reed and Mrs. Don Liden, aunts of the couple.

Waitresses were Kim Liden and Cindy Liden, cousin and sister of the groom. Serving as flower hostesses were Janice Kotok and Mrs. Mary Ann Stark, friends of the couple.

For traveling on the wedding trip to points in Wisconsin and along the North Shore drive, the bride wore a green three-piece ensemble with a corsage of orchids and pink carnations.

The couple is now at home at 1630 24th Avenue south, Grand Forks, where the groom is employed by the Soo Line railroad. Prior to her marriage, the bride was employed in this city at Corner Drug. Both are graduates of Lincoln high school. Photo, Chuck Agnew, Mahnomen.

WCTU August Meet Stresses Communication

August meeting of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the ongren home.

The meeting began with the singing of the hymn, "Christ for the World We Sing." Mrs. Earle Ripley was in charge of the devotional meditation. She read Eph. 4:29-32, stressing, "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." She stated that the Apostle Paul urged the offering of petitions, prayers, intercessions and thanksgiving on behalf of all men; and that the channel of communication must be open to God, through prayer, at all times. Although the early Christians suffered many setbacks and disappointments, they survived due to their deep faith in God. The Christians of today, by following Christ's example while on earth, are able to communicate cheerfulness during difficulties, patience when the way seems impossible, and the determination to press onward towards the goal when it would be easier to "stop and stand still." She concluded by saying that everyone is endowed with an individual personality and a definite purpose. Whether that purpose is fulfilled and the goal reached, is a personal decision. "Bible study will help distinguish between right and wrong and will establish faith in God and perfection in His sight."

During the program, Mrs. Ruth Haugen read the article, "The Ten Commandments of Liberty," comparing the Bill of Rights to the 10 commandments. Also read were the quotes, radio releases and an article revealing the findings of a recent study made by Calspan corporation for the National highway traffic safety administration of the U.S. Department of transportation. The study showed that "from 90 to 95 per cent of drinking drivers initially cause the highway accidents in which they are involved."

Communications read included a letter from the editor-in-chief of the Readers Digest in reply to a letter objecting to liquor advertising in the magazine. He stated that although they are carrying ads for alcoholic beverages, The Digest does not advocate alcohol abuse or alcoholism and that the Digest's editorial position, warning against alcohol abuse, will remain the same.

The meeting conluded with individual prayers by the members.

Booze and Bloodshed

A McMaster University report says that a clear and consistent relationship exists between the rate of violent crime in Hamilton and the rate of alcohol consumption at licensed drinking establishments.

The report states that areas with the highest alcohol consumption also have the highest rate of violent crime, and those with the lowest consumption have the lowest crime rates.

The report further states that alcohol was involved in one third of violent or aggressive crimes investigated by police, and that more than half of the sixteen homicides in the city last year involved alcohol.

Alcohol also was related to sixty percent of all rapes, forty-five percent of assaults causing injury, twenty percent of sexual assaults other than rape, and thirty-four percent of common assaults.

It is said that the more physical damage is involved in the crime, the more likely it is that alcohol was involved.

The report said that aggression related to drinking builds up gradually to a weekend peak and is at its lowest on Sunday when bars are closed.

Statistics showed that alcohol-related violent crimes rose from 27.2 percent on Sunday to 45.5 percent on Friday and 43 percent on Saturday.

Such a report needs little comment from us, but it surely is a confirmation of Scripture: "Wine and new wine take away the heart" —that is, destroy a person's intelligence and will.

Marriage Vows Said By Marilyn Koop-Gary Hoglo

Marriage vows were exahanged recently at St. John Lutheran church in this city by Miss Marilyn K. Koop and Gary L. Hoglo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Koop, route 5. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoglo, St. Hilaire.

Rev. Barrie Henke officiated at the double ring ceremony witnessed by approximately 300 relatives and friends. Mrs. Elaine Idso was the organist and Kathy Shetler, a friend of the couple, sang, "Wedding Song," and "The Lord's Prayer."

For the three o'clock ceremony, bouquets of yellow roses and white daisies graced the altar. Yellow silk bows marked the pews reserved for close relatives.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in floor-length gown fashioned by her sister. It was styled with a fitted bodice with a shaped standing collar, bishop sleeves gathered into wide cuffs, and a contour waistline. A chapel-length train added back interest. Lace appliques trimmed the gown and the profile headpiece that held her elbow-length veil edged with daisy trim. She carried a cascade of yellow silk roses and white daisies. Interspersed with stephanotis.

Serving as the bride's personal attendant was Jodi Hoglo, a sister of the groom.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Karen Swanson. Bridesmaids were friends of the couple: Tammy Hallstrom, Red Lake Falls and Terri Drury and Kristi Kruse, both of St. Hilaire. They wore yellow qiana sun dresses topped with jackets of coordinating floral sheer. In their hair, they wore two white daisies. They carried bouquets of white silk daisies and yellow roses with yellow ribbon streamers.

Wearing a yellow floral halter dress with matching cape was the flower girl, Lynn Kasprowicz, friend of the bride. The rings were carried by Mike Lane, a friend of the couple. He wore a tan suit and tie with beige shirt and a yellow rosebud boutonniere.

Attending the groom as best man was Garfield Boman, Rock Springs, Wyo., a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Don Fanfulek, Richard Rux and Richard Scott. The ushers were Ross Walseth of St. Hilaire and Jim Opdahl. All are friends of the couple and all wore champagne colored Lord West tuxedos with brown vests, and yellow ruffled shirts. The groom wore a similar tuxedo with a white shirt and vest. Their boutonnieres were yellow rose buds.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Koop selected a baby blue polyester gown with long chiffon sleeves and an accordion pleated skirt. The groom's mother wore a pink sleeveless gown with rhinestone and pearl trim at the high neckline. Topping the gown was a long-sleeve jacket. Their identical corsages were of yellow roses and white daisies.

Honor guests were Mrs. Fred Koop of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Santl, Roseau, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Marie Hoglo, grandmother of the groom.

Host and hostess at the reception that followed in the church parlors were Mr. and Mrs. Thorton Stark, friends of the bride's family.

Highlighting the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake with a slowing water fountain at the base. The cake was decorated with yellow daisies and topped with a wedding bell ornament. On either side were candles with hurricane globes. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Ken Santl, Roseau, and Mrs. Marvin Olson, aunts of the bride and groom. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Walter Mostrom, New Hope and Mrs. Wally Lamb, Warren, also aunts of the couple.

At the guest book was Annette Pearson. Tom Koop, Joe Hoglo, Linda Hoglo and Julie Santl served the punch; Natalie Johnson and Darcy Olson were waitresses, and Jim Hoglo, Roger Santl and Sharon Koop arranged the gifts.

Guests attending the wedding were from Grand Forks, N.D., East Grand Forks, Warroad, Roseau, Minneapolis, Gonvick, Trail, Grygla, Badger, Hallock, Red Lake Falls and the Thief River Falls area.

For traveling to the Black Hills of South Dakota, the bride wore a lilac colored pantsuit with a floral halter top. The couple is now at home in this community where the groom, a graduate of Lincoln high school, is engaged in farming. The bride, a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Thief River Falls AVTI, is employed at Kmart. Photo, R. Nieland studio, Thief River Falls.

First Rehearsal For Community Band Scheduled

Northland community band, which was founded in 1972, will hold its first rehearsal for the upcoming musical year Monday, September 10 at 7 p.m. in the Northland community college auditorium.

All past members and persons interested in becoming members of this musical organization are encouraged to be at the first rehearsal.

Directing this group of northwestern Minnesota musicians for this coming year will be Doug Engstrom, director of instrumental music at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. Engstrom will be replacing Les Torgerson who is on a sabbatical leave from Northland while attending Arizona state university for further graduate work. Engstrom will be a most able replacement because of his proven record as director of instrumental groups. His musical groups at Lincoln high school have been judged outstanding wherever they have performed.

The purpose for founding the community band was to offer the opportunity of creative expression through performance in a top grade musical organization for gifted high school students, college and AVTI students and adults from throughout Northwest Minnesota.

This purpose has been more than fulfilled with the bands growth from an original ensemble of eight to over 60 active members today.

As in the past, the Northland community band will perform at least two concerts this year and perform in some nearby communities.

The band will also go on a special concert tour to a large metropolitan city as a culmination of their yearly efforts and enjoyment.

"The band encourages all people who enjoy music to participate in this fine musical organization and experience the presence of adults making music and the living inspiration given the younger musicians", said Engstrom.

David Glauque Given $1,000 Scholarship

An H & R Block Foundation scholarship of $1,000 has been awarded to David Glauque of Thief River Falls for the 1979-80 academic year. Glauque, a graduate of Lincoln high school and the son of Myrna Glauque who is employed as a tax preparer at the H & R Block office in Thief River Falls, will attend school this fall as a senior at Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Indiana.

He was chosen for the scholarship from more than 330 applicants with selection based on overall scholastic ability and school contributions and activities.

The H & R Block Foundation, funded by H & R Block, Inc., awards 15 scholarships annually to children of company employees.

Henry Block, president of H & R Block, said, "David has an outstanding record of achievements. We are proud to be able to assist him in his education by awarding him this scholarship. The quality of scholarship applicants was outstanding and the judges had a difficult time in selecting the winners from a group of superior students."

Public Group Reviews Local School Problem

First public committee meeting for review of School District 564 facilities in Thief River Falls was held Monday at 8 p.m. in the School district service center with school board chairman Larry McDowell presiding.

Members of the committee include Mrs. Ev Ault, Linda Benson, Tom Goddard, Earl Hoefer, Eileen Hoefer, Marv Lundin, Buzz Marvin, Sylvia Olson, Diane Paulson, Larry Poole, Dr. John Seaverson and Jeanette Walseth.

The agenda included introductions, a presentation of the purpose of citizen involvement and reasons for establishing the committee, a 20-mintue slide presentation of local school building conditions, review of the five alternatives developed by architects employed by the district and an open discussion of the needs and options.

Committee members raised a number of questions for which the school administration and architects are to seek answers. The committee was charged with the task of reviewing alternatives, assisting the board in reducing the alternatives to one or two and raising questions concerning needs.

Next meeting is set for 8 p.m. September 10 in the school district service center.

Plan Cub Scout Night Monday, September 10

Third, fourth and fifth grade boys in the Thief River Falls elementary schools are invited to join or rejoin cub scouts Monday, September 10. Cub scout night is being sponsored by the local schools and the four cub scout packs in Thief River Falls.

An information sheet on cub scouts will be distributed to students during the week of September 4th. Interested boys will be asked to bring the sheet home to obtain their parent's permission to join and to return the sheet to their school.

Then, Monday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m., all third, fourth and fifth graders who wish to become a cub scout or to rejoin are asked to come with their parents to one of the pack meeting places listed below to receive information on joining, paying their dues and officially registering or re-registering in the pack of their choice.

Registration locations are: pack 57, St. Bernard's church; pack 59, Zion Lutheran church; pack 60, Trinity Lutheran church; and pack 199, St. John Lutheran church.

The cub scout program uses a variety of activities to meet the goals of the program which are to teach scouts respect for God, their country, their home and their fellowman. The ideals and activities of the cub scout program contribute toward the boy's development and fullest appreciation of American citizenship.

A boy scout troop rally for boys in the sixth grade and up who want to join a boy scout troop will be held later in September.

Urge President To Approve Pipeline Plan

Rapid approval by President Carter of the Northern tier pipeline proposal is the only way for farmers and consumers in the northern states to be assured of a constant supply of American oil, according to the Minnesota farmers union.

The organization's board of directors sent a resolution to President Carter, requesting his full support for the construction of the pipeline.

Northern tier pipeline, if it is approved, would bring crude oil from Alaska's north slope into the states of Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota, hooking up to existing pipelines at Clearbrook. Result would be the connection of the largest area of agricultural production in the United States with the largest available supply of U.S. crude oil.

Farmers union leaders from 85 Minnesota counties told the President that farmers must have adequate petroleum products for them to produce food for this country and for export.

President Carter is due to make a decision on the pipeline in October, following completion of an inter-agency report being coordinated by secretary of the interior Cecil Andrus. Other pipeline plans to bring Alaska oil to the Midwest all include a section of pipeline running through Canada, which would mean the Canadian government would also have to approve construction.

In writing the President, the farmers emphasized the need for beginning construction of the pipeline soon, because the Canadian government is gradually reducing its petroleum exports to refineries in northern states.

Group Warns Against Early Seed Ordering

"Should you order seed this early?" This question is the subject of a new brochure which offers some words of caution about early-ordering.

The brochure is published by Minnesota seed production association (MSP), an organization of independent seedsmen who produce, process and market seeds.

Ordering seed too early can be risky, the brochure cautions, especially since much essential information is unknown at this time. For example, new yield and other performance results from University of Minnesota varietal trials will be released in January. It may be wise to postpone ordering seed until then.

The brochure identifies three things to look for when ordering seed at any time: Known variety performance and quality, positive value and a dependable seller.

Information about seed quality is contained on certification and analysis tags. Certification tags provide information on the seed's source and verifies variety. Analysis tags yield important facts on purity and germination percentage, percentage of weed seed and much more.

Known quality helps determine positive value — getting your money's worth. Pin down all the facts before early ordering — certification, source, purity, germination, yield trial results, price. And avoid signing a "blank" order that doesn't specify price.

A dependable seller is not just an order-taker. He's a real seedsman — a local businessman who knows this area, maybe even grows seed on farmland nearby. And he knows, although some people hint at it, there's rarely a shortage of good seed of acceptable varieties and numbers. He offers valuable seed-buying advice and information.

For more information or a copy of the brochure "Should you order seed this early?" write MSPPA Information Office, Room 112, 2675 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55114.

Mrs. Marion Hoglo accompanied grandchildren, Michelle, Michael, Shawn, Nancy, Kathy and John Lamb of Warren to the Marvin Olson home in Rocksbury Thursday forenoon, where they brought birthday anniversary greetings to Steve and were dinner guests.

Swansons Are Conservation Farm Family

the barn cleaner in 1958 and "I never bought a piece of machinery that did so much work and gave so little trouble." The cleaner was modified when the 10x34 concrete holding tank was built to deposit manure into the pit rather than elevate it to a spreader.

Cattle are not pastured at the Swanson farm but fed in the barn or on an adjoining outdoor lot. Feeding is done three times a day to encourage the cattle to eat more. "The more they eat, the better they milk," Swanson said.

The grain ration of rolled oats, barley and corn also contains a small amount of baking soda (200 pounds of baking soda is used each month). "It makes the cows burp," Clarence explained. "When they burp, they eat more, and that means more production. We have been using it for the past three years and it seems to work."

Indeed the feeding program must work. The Swansons had one cow in 1976 which completed her lactation with 20,341 pounds of milk and 1,021 pounds of butterfat. Other top producers have had production of 945 and 898 pounds of butterfat. Another animal which produced 24,962 pounds of milk and 851 pounds of butterfat in only her second testing year was lost to the herd because of inability to reproduce. The Swansons raise their own replacement heifers, use a computer mating service and Lyle serves as the herd technician.

The farm operation on 1,640 acres typically will include about 400 acres of barley, 360 of wheat, 400 of sunflowers, 40 of corn, 70 of alfalfa and 230 of summer fallow. Chisel plow is used in place of a moldboard plow on some of the lighter soils to reduce wind erosion, especially on Lyle's farm. The system works well but the Swansons believe the practice is not as effective for weed control.

Other conservation practices include placement of three stock water pits, some field drainage, planting of clover for plowdown as green manure crop, soil testing, fertilizer, herbicides and tree planting. There are a number of one-row field shelterbelts on the farm, some of them 15 or more years old, and a number of trees have been planted for farmstead windbreaks.

Clarence is currently vice president of the Pennington chapter of the Minnesota American Dairy association and chairman of the Bray township board of supervisors. In prior years he has served on church, creamery and school boards and for a number of years was Bray township assessor.

Norma Hanson of Plummer became Clarence's bride in 1948 at Plummer and their eight children are the third generation born on the farm. Clarence's father, John O. Swanson, was born there and farmed for a number of years before Clarence took over the operation.

Norma draws the duties of bookkeeper and accountant for the farm operation and serves as chief dispatcher for the CB radio that links tractors, trucks and combines on the farm. She is a member of the Lutheran church women's group at Black River Lutheran church and a past member of the community garden club. Other activities include sewing, baking, flower and vegetable gardening and babysitting her four grandchildren.

The eight Swanson children include Curtis, 28, married to Marilyn Norberg of Crookston and living in Thief River Falls; Mrs. Godfred (Gloria) Svir Jr., 26, rural Thief River Falls; Mrs. Dale (Betty) Schantzen, 24, Thief River Falls; Lyle, 23, farming with his father; Mark, 22, married to Virginia Knutson of Thief River Falls; Larry, 20, Thief River Falls; Jim, 18 and Pam, 16, at home.

With the fall harvest season completed each year, Clarence turns his attention to the November deer hunting season and a chance to pursue his favorite hobby.

While dairy farming keeps a dairyman close to home, Clarence and Norma slipped away for four days to attend the Minnesota state fair last week. For Mrs. Swanson it was her first trip to the state exposition. Clarence had been there before — as a 4-H club member in 1938 when he served as an usher in the hippodrome. He figured it was about time to go and see the fair again.

Conservation of soil and water resources is encouraged and supported by the government as a means of preserving and improving the nation's resources. With four generations of family members living off the same land for nearly 100 years, the Swansons recognize the necessity of wise and prudent conservation practices. The plaque they will receive from the Pennington SWCD at its annual meeting next spring will bear testimony that their efforts have not gone unrecognized.

10-YEAR CLASS REUNION BANQUET for the Lincoln high school class of 1969 was held recently with approximately 130 class members in attendance. Services Held At Zion For Thora Tveit, 97

Mrs. Thora Tveit, 97, of Thief River Falls died Wednesday evening at the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Thora Tveit were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church. Rev. Richard Larson officiated. Mrs. Phyllis Dalager was the soloist and Jerry Joringdal, the organist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Harold Buck, Carl Berggren, Lloyd Arhart, Odin Hanson, Louis Mathson and Harold Waale.

Mrs. Tveit, the former Thora Neset, was born Dec. 10, 1881 in Satesdal, Norway to Jon and Jorunn Skomedal Neset. She attended school in Norway and received her nurses training at Bergen. Following the completion of the course, she worked for a number of years as a Public Parish Nurse.

She immigrated to the United States in 1906, settling at Grand Forks, N.D. She was employed there as a nurse and also worked in her profession in several other places in North Dakota.

On May 10, 1910, she was married in North Dakota to Gunstein Tveit. The couple lived in North Dakota until 1912, when they moved to Tveit's homestead in Mayfield township, Pennington county. While living in Mayfield, she was active in community affairs and in the work of the Ebenezer Lutheran church, where she was a charter member. Since 1933, when she came to the Thief River Falls area with her husband, she had been a member of Zion Lutheran church. Her husband died in 1954. Later she made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, living with them until she became a resident of the CNC unit a number of years ago.

Surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Raymond (Thelma) Peterson, Winona; Mrs. Charles (Gudrun) Toombes, Reno, Nev.; Mrs. Auston (Alice) Brager, East Grand Forks; Mrs. Glen (Jeanette) Arhart, Thief River Falls; and Mrs. Alva J. (Gladys) Rasmussen, Castro Valley, Calif.; 10 grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Gunhild Ose, Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by two sisters and six brothers.

Mel Simon, 70, Dies Thursday; Rites Sunday

Melville Simon, 70, of this city, who resided at 816 Arnold Avenue north, died Friday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Melville Simon were held Sunday, September 2, at 2 p.m., at the United Methodist church with Rev. Jonathan Law officiating. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will be published in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Rites Held At Oklee For Mrs. Wm. Singer, 71

Mrs. William (Helen) Singer, 71, died Wednesday at her home in Oklee.

Mass of the Resurrection for Mrs. William Singer were held Saturday, September 1, at 10 a.m., at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church at Oklee with Rev. Keough Patnode officiating. Interment was in the St. Vincent dePaul Catholic cemetery at Plummer. The Petterson Funeral home Oklee, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Jeffrey, David, Scott and Alan McLaughlin and George and John Singer.

Mrs. Singer, the former Helen Wroblewski, was born Oct. 16, 1907 in Poland. She came to the United States at the age of 12 years and lived in Chicago, Ill., until 1949. Since then, she had lived in the Oklee area.

She was married at Red Lake Falls in 1949 to William Singer. He survives, together with one son, Edward McLaughlin, Chicago, Ill., and six grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters: Mrs. Carl (Lillian) Simeone, California, and Mrs. Joseph (Florence) Smoucha, Chicago, Ill., and one brother, Walter Wroblewski, Cicero, Ill.

Harry Hawkins Services Held At NW Angle

Harry Hawkins, 71, retired resort operator at Oak Island, died Wednesday at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services for Harry Hawkins were held Saturday, September 1, at 2 p.m., at the Northwest Angle church with Paul Stoll officiating. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Harry Hawkins, a son of the late Albert and Nellie Hawkins, was born Jan. 13, 1908 at Metcalf, Ill. At the age of six weeks, he moved with the family to Deshler, Ohio, where he grew to manhood. He was graduated from Bowling Green university, Bowling Green, Ohio and received his master's degree in physical education from the University of Minnesota. He taught school and coached in Ohio, Iowa and South Dakota. In 1951, he bought the Oak Island resort, which he operated in addition to teaching school at Perry, Ohio. He retired from teaching in 1964 and moved to Oak Island, where he had since resided. In 1976, he retired as resort operator and sold the business to his son, Jack.

He was married on Aug. 31, 1933 at Elyria, Ohio to Marie Menz. She survives together with his son, Jack of Oak Island; a daughter, Mrs. Gerald (Jean) Thrap, Fairfax, Iowa; four grandchildren, a great-grandson, and one brother, Karl Hawkins, New Orleans, La.

The first state unemployment insurance law was in Wisconsin in 1932, according to the Department of Labor booklet "Labor Firsts in America."

Older Worker Advocate Now Located Here

An older worker advocate is now located in the Crookston and Thief River Falls CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) center office. The advocate is to coordinate efforts in assisting older workers in finding suitable employment opportunities and act as a liaison between "Green Thumb" and CETA.

The older worker advocate works closely with CETA job developers and "Green Thumb" area supervisors, exchanging information on openings and status of applicants and participants in the various employment and training programs.

Green Thumb is a public service and training program sponsored by national farmers union under contract and grant with the U.S. department of labor. It began in 1966 in the important field of supplementing the low income of older, rural people by providing opportunities for them to use their skills and experience.

To qualify for employment a person must be at least 55 years of age, have an annual income below the federal low income guidelines and pass a general medical examination. There is also an on-the-job training program for eligible "Green Thumb" people.

Jobs are filled as they are available. Even if there are no present jobs available, CETA works very closely with "Green Thumb" to try to place people on one of their many CETA programs, such as work experience, on-the-job training and public employment.

When an applicant applies at the CETA center the CETA and green thumb programs are explained. Applicants complete the process which includes obtaining the information necessary to determine the eligibility for green thumb and CETA and identifying the types of work the person is interested in obtaining.

The following morning the application is brought to the attention of the entire CETA staff, when the application is reviewed and determination made on which program the person is eligible to serve. CETA then sends a notification letter as to the decision.

People interested in applying for "Green Thumb" and CETA should come to the office located at 1904 East Greenwood Drive, Thief River Falls. Should it be inconvenient to visit the center, the staff from the center has itinerant locations throughout the seven counties of region I. Please call the center for information on location, dates and time of the itinerant sites. Call 681-7350 in Thief River Falls.

Okay Hedlund At EGF AVTI

Ronda Hedlund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hedlund, of Thief River Falls, was recently accepted for enrollment in the secretary-shorthand training program at the East Grand Forks area vocational technical institute. Ronda is a 1979 graduate of Lincoln high school.

USDA Extends Comment Time On Food Sales

The public has been given 30 additional days to comment on the U.S. department of agriculture's proposal to limit the sale of "competitive" foods in schools. Competitive foods are those which are sold in competition with federally subsidized meals in the nation's schools.

"We extended the deadline from September 6 to October 6 to permit all interested parties to submit comments based on a thorough understanding of this complex issue," said assistant secretary Carol Tucker Foreman.

The proposal was developed in response to a 1977 amendment to the national school lunch act, authorizing the secretary of agriculture to regulate the sale of foods which compete with school meals for student's appetites.

An earlier proposal was withdrawn in December because department officials believed there were significant scientific issues which needed further study. Current proposal would limit the sale of any food which does not have at least five per cent of the U.S. recommended daily allowance or any one of the specified nutritents. "This provides a scientific standard to distinguish among foods," Foreman said.

Under the proposed rule, carbonated beverages, water ices, chewing gum and some candies could not be sold until after the end of the last school lunch period each day. Foods containing five per cent or more per serving or per 100 calories of any of 8 nutrients — protein, vitamin A, ascorbic acid, niacin, riboflavin, thiamin, calcium and iron — could be sold at any time during the school day.

Comments on the proposal should be sent to Margaret O'K. Glavin, Director of the school Programs Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. The notice is to be published in the August 24 Federal Register.

Republicans To Plan Search For Candidates

To organize a candidate search committee in preparation for coming elections, Independent-Republican party members from Minnesota Senate District I will meet Tuesday, September 4, for a dinner meeting at 5 p.m. at the Rex Cafe in Thief River Falls.

In attendance will be the state I-R chairman and chairwoman and a representative of the Republican national committee. Arrangements for the meeting are being made by Ev Ault of Thief River Falls and he may be contacted for further information.

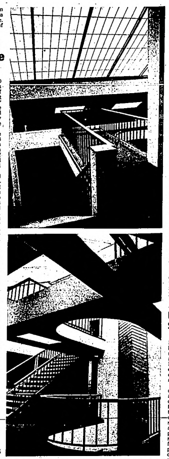
Applications are to be in writing to Dr. William S. Corliss, Superintendent of Schools, Box 160, Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701, and are to be received by 4:00 P.M. September 11, 1979. Upon receipt of written application the formal application blank and other related material will be forwarded to you. Please indicate specifically in your letter of application your willingness to participate in the extra-curricular program of our school which involves girls and boys extra-murals, athletics, music, dramatics, etc. Please mark envelope in lower left corner "Special Education."



INTERESTING PATTERNS are created by architectural design of the newly-created Falls Mall in the former Falls Theatre building on LaBree avenue in Thief River Falls. A number of shops have been opened in the mall and their operators are planning a grand opening observance later in September. A portion of the building, which has been completely remodeled, is not occupied at the present time. A number of business places on the west side of LaBree avenue have added to the convenience of shoppers by opening doorways into their stores through adjoining walls. It is now possible to move from store to store in the mall area without going outdoors. Photos above show the top floor in the upper photo and second floor in the bottom photo.

Truck Permits Available From Iowa Center

Many truckers who do not usually travel in Minnesota believe they have a predicament when they must use Minnesota highways, if it is after normal working hours or a holiday, and they have not purchased a trip permit or a temporary truck license ahead of time.

They know if they arrive after 8 a.m. or before 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, a permit can be quickly purchased at any deputy registrar's office across the state.

Ninety-six hour trip permits are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, from the regional permit center, Des Moines, Iowa, announces the Minnesota department of public safety (DPS).

"By calling the center at (515) 281-5827, a permit can be relayed to any Transceiver or Instacom location in the United States or Canada," said Ken Dirkzwager, the permit can be relayed in minutes, or a trucker can call ahead of his arrival and permit will be waiting for him at the designated Transceiver or Intracom station. If a trucker does not know the location of such a station, he can receive this information by calling the Transceiver toll-free number of (800) 527-6160 or the Instacom toll-free number of (800) 527-4545.

The regional permit center has been in operation for three years issuing truck travel permits and fuel permits for Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin.

"DPS wants to promote the availability of truck permits to make traveling easier, less cumbersome and safer for all truckers using Minnesota highways," Dirkzwager said.

36 Paratransit Projects Under Contract In MN.

Thirty-six paratransit projects totaling $3.3 million are under contract statewide, and eight more at a cost of $800,000 will start soon, according to commissioner Richard P. Braun, Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT).

Paratransit includes any alternative to fixed-route bus service and the private automobile. It uses cars, taxis, buses and vans to transport handicapped and elderly people, students and, in many cases, anyone who wants to use the service.

Of the $3.3 million in paratransit projects, $1.95 million have been allocated to 17 urban projects; $900,000 to nine small urban projects, $400,000 to eight rural projects and $50,000 for two regional planning projects.

About two-thirds of the contracts for projects are with public agencies and the rest are with the private sector. Paratransit funds are used for statewide projects based in communities as small as Upsala, population 300, or as large as Minneapolis, population 400,000.

Confusion On Discrimination Law Cleared

New law designed to prevent discrimination against handicapped people in gasoline prices reportedly has caused some confusion to handicapped motorists and gas station attendants.

The law, chapter 160 which was enacted August 1, says that "all gasoline service stations which offer both full service and self-gasoline dispensing operations shall provide an attendant to dispense gasoline at the self-service price into vehicles bearing handicapped plates or a handicapped parking certificate."

Misunderstandings apparently occur when disabled drivers ask for the special service at gas stations that do not offer both self-service and full service operations, or when they do not have the proper identification on their vehicle.

According to the new law, attendants are not obligated to dispense gasoline at self-service prices to handicapped motorists who do not display the handicapped certificate or plates, or when the station provides only a self-service operation.

Minnesota State council for the handicapped advises consumers to be certain that the station you patronize offers both operations before you request this privilege.

Area Students Receive UND Scholarships

Students at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks have been awarded 780 scholarships for the 1979-80 academic year, according to Dr. Gerald F. Hamerlik, dean of enrollment services and director of student financial aids.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic ability, with the amount based on financial need. To qualify for scholarships processed by the student financial aids office, returning and transfer students must have attained at least a 3.5 cumulative grade point average (4.0 equals straight A). In most cases, freshmen ranked in the top 10 per cent of their graduating classes and had commensurate test scores.

Following scholarship recipients are listed by county and hometown, with the names of scholarships in parentheses.

Marshall county, Middle River, David Thompson (Larimore Mathews); Oslo, Wendy Rustad, (Larimore Mathews); Pennington County, Goodridge, Rebecca Nelson, Paul W. Larsen, St. Hilaire, Pamela Matheny (Larimore Mathews); Thief River Falls, Timothy Dahlstrom (Lakehead Pipeline), Robert Eriksson (Paul W. Larsen), Mark Forsberg (J.F.T. O'Connor), Kraig Lerud (Paul W. Larsen), Jay Narverud (Larimore Mathews), Pamela Prichard (J.F.T. O'Connor) and Bruce Storhaug (Larimore Mathews).

ASC Activities Summarized By Director

Farmers participating in the 1979 set-aside program are eligible for immediate loans on harvested grain. Loan rates are as follows: wheat, $2.42; barley, $1.57; oats, $.93; corn, $1.89; and rye, $1.60. Interest is at nine per cent, and the loans are for nine months.

Farmers should make an accurate measurement of bins before they come in to the county ASC office. The ASC office can make a loan up to 90 per cent of the grain in the bin, and if the farmer pays a measurement fee, he is entitled to a 100 per cent loan.

Farm facility loans are available for storage structures as well as grain handling and drying equipment. ASC can also finance the cost of solar drying equipment if farmers want to try something new, according to Phillip Bergland, county executive director.

Facility loans now have an annual interest rate of 10.5 per cent, and can be repaid in seven installments over an eight-year period. Commodity credit corporation will finance up to 85 per cent of the cost of the facility, and the maximum loan is $50,000. If you have any questions, call on Ruth at the county office.

All producers in the county who are enrolled in the set-aside program are automatically covered for disaster protection. If yields of wheat, barley or corn are less than 60 per cent of normal, the farmer may be entitled to a low-yield payment. In some cases producers are authorized to plow the fields at this time and the yield is declared as zero. Farmers with questions may call Kathy I at the county office.

Compliance section had a flurry of activity during July and early August. Otis Syverson and Randy Kottke performed as our air crew again, and took nearly 5,200 pictures from the airplane in northwestern Minnesota, including every section of land in Pennington county. Lorna Johnson, Emmy Lawrence and Vicky Olson did all the acreage measurements, and Kathy I put the information together and sent out the notices to participating farmers.

Senior Citizens Recognized At MN. State Fair

Eleanore Adelmeyer, St. Cloud, and Richard Frofand, Hanska, were named Minnesota's outstanding senior citizens Thursday, August 30, in recognition ceremonies at the Minnesota state fair.

Mrs. Gladys Odegaard and Joe Rinowski, Thief River Falls, represented Pennington county at the state fair as outstanding senior citizen selections for this county.

4-H News

Steiner

The Steiner 4-H club held its monthly meeting on August 13 at the Steiner Hall. Roll call was "What ideas about the fair did you like?"

Special business was the hayride on August 15, Daycamp, and the State Fair. Records are due by September 1st to our 4-H leaders. A visiting club is coming in October. Avoiding Misunderstandings

Following editorial is from the Montevideo American:

People shouldn't jump to conclusions unless they have all the facts.

For instance, it appears that some folks got angry at a letter to the editor two weeks ago which, they thought, favored a windfall profits tax on farmers. The writer posed a comparison between oil and food profits, and the advantage — or disadvantage — of involving the government to control prices.

If these angry folks had bothered to read the last paragraph, they would have realized that the writer was not proposing that such a tax become law; rather, he opposed such a tax on both oil and food industries because it interfered with the free enterprise system.

Had the letter not been clearly written, one might understand a dispute arising. However, it's annoying to have to put up with people who read only headlines and the first few sentences of stories and then jump to bug-eyed conclusions, using their coffee table knowledge to support their charges.

It's also frustrating to listen to some people bringing their first complaint to a government body such as the Montevideo city council.

For instance a public hearing was held August 6 to get public opinion on whether to proceed with several street construction projects. Several people obviously had the impression that the hearing was being held merely as a legal requirement, and that the council wasn't going to pay any attention to what the people thought but was going to ram through the projects anyway.

The impression that even a local city council or school board or county board is "out to get us" must be corrected to avoid such misunderstanding. True, most citizens don't attend enough local decision-making meetings to know how such decisions are reached. Rather than seriously trying to find out the facts by asking knowledgeable people, they will jump to conclusions that charge conspiracy or otherwise throw the blame onto a council.

In this case, the council obviously did listen to the people because some proposals were changed when objections were explained by the citizens. There is rarely any need to feel that "the council isn't going to listen to us anyway" and thereby expose oneself as an ignoramus.

The only time to be wary of a governing board is when it does not hold public meetings or bother to explain its actions. That's why Minnesota has a strong open meetings law, so there there will be no underhanded, closed session decisions made to the public's detriment. Unfortunately, the same hot-headed people are never around to criticize the holding of closed meetings — unless an issue affects their own pocketbook.

We have been lucky in Montevideo, I think, that our local representatives for the school, city and council are quite willing to discuss any issue, and to listen to any citizen with an open mind. They deserve respect, not sarcasm, for that.

Adding Fuel To The Fire

Disbelief, shock and anger were reactions felt by most Americans about the report of the sale of $47,040,000 worth of diesel fuel and kerosene to Iran with approval of President Carter and the commerce department.

The news came while the President was campaign cruising down the mighty Mississippi, preaching the sermon of energy conservation and emphasizing the "thou shalt not waste" commandment. Now it would seem that the sermon of sanctity on the ship was being made hypocritical by sinners at the seaport.

Congressman Arlan Stangeland, who has been doing the best he can to keep diesel fuel flowing to this area for the planting, cultivating and harvesting season and has expressed caution on supplies of heating oil for the winter, didn't take too kindly to the report. "Sending oil to Iran," he said, "seems to be the equivalent of sending oranges to Florida."

After the initial outrage diminished somewhat, we were able to take a more objective look at the situation. Perhaps we can rationalize that doing a small (relatively) favor for religious butcher Ayatollah Khomeini will somehow entice him to return the favor to us. That likelihood is small, given the past attitude of Khomeini who advocated killing Americans or cutting off their hands, but with a million and a half barrels of oil coming our way from Iran a day, it was probably worth the gamble.

It is especially irksome, however, that the sale of the refined product was made at approximately 12 cents per gallon cheaper than the same product is sold for at home.

"This is incredible," Congressman Stangeland said. "The very nation that has caused our prices to rise has now asked to sell back to them, at reduced prices, the oil we have bought from OPEC at inflated prices."

It's not only incredible that Iran made the request, congressman, it is incredible that our nation went along with it. If our government traded horses in the 1800's like we make deals with other nations now, it's a wonder our cavalry had anything to ride.

President Carter defended the sale on humanitarian grounds, saying the fuel was needed by the poor of Iran. We doubt that the poor of Iran bought the fuel or will have benefit of the use of much of it. Likely it will be put to military or political use or profitably re-sold — perhaps diverted without ever getting to Iranian ports. So much for out humantarian effort.

But even if it would be a legitimate use, how can our government — and whatever companies made the sale — ignore the plight of our own people with a cold winter ahead and only 70 per cent of the anticiapted necessary supply on hand? Doesnt's humantarianism apply at home?

The President's involvement in approval of the sale adds a little more fuel to the fire that is gradually consuming what popularity he has left among the nation's people.

To Stimulate The Economy

Following editorial is from the Grundy Register in Grundy Center, Ia.:

Most economists now believe that we need a cut in taxes if we are to sustain the current economic recovery.

Increased taxes have placed a tremendous burden on the economy. For example, according to Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors under President Kennedy and Johnson, new Social Security taxes will cost the public $40-billion by 1979. Furthermore, inflation has continued to drive people into high tax brackets in which their income, although remaining the same in "real" terms, is taxed at a higher rate.

Also, there is a general recognition that economic growth and the expansion of jobs in the private sector cannot be sustained without investment and that means cutting corporate taxes.

With a projected federal deficit of $60-billion next year, this is a legitimate concern. However, the loss of revenue through tax cuts may be made up by increased tax revenues, if the tax cut creates an expanding economy.

Charles E. Walker, former undersecretary of the treasury and chairman of the Council For Capital Formation points out that "every single business tax cut since World War II has been expected to decrease revenues, but they acutally increased. What is important, therefore, is not so much the size of tax cut but the kind of tax cut."

Perhaps the most successful tax cut in recent history was the Kennedy tax cut of 1962, which was followed by additional cuts by President Johnson in 1964. Taxes were cut across the board. The result: investment almost doubled in five years.

Although we have more serious problems in the economy now than we had in the 1960's, broadbased tax cuts could provide a healthy, non-inflationary boost to the economy.

The reason is simple: rising taxes have eroded the incentive to work, to save and to invest. Not even including state and local taxes, the $20,000-a-year worker will soon be in the 51 per cent tax bracket. This means that of any additional income he earns, the government will take over half. In addition, why should he risk investing his money is he will receive only half of the proceeds?

Similarly, high taxes make businesses less willing to run the risk of expanding their enterprises. And for small and developing businesses, which are necessarily more risky than larger established firms, the high taxes have made it extremely difficult to raise capital for investment.

In effect, we have been taxing most heavily the most productive people in society. But a broadly based tax cut does not constitute a subsidy for the middle and upper income groups at the expense of the poor. The economic growth provided by such a tax cut creates more jobs and higher wages, and as we saw during the 1960's, greatly increases the well being of all.

1979 MISS BROOKS candidate, Vicky Berberich, is one of six girls competing for the title by selling promotional buttons for the annual "Blast to Brooks" celebration. Contestant who sells the most buttons will be crowned Miss Brooks at the community's September 8 celebration. Vicky, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Berberich of Erskine, is sponsored in the competition by Third Base in Brooks where she works as a waitress. Vicky begins her senior year at Oklee public school this year. Her hobbies include bike riding, reading, swimming and listening to music.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The Issue is Common Interests, Not Special Interests

During his final sprint for the presidency, candidate Carter was a confident man with a passion for populist themes. For example, he was fond of telling Americans: "It is time we had a president who will lead our nation and who will work with harmony with Congress for a change. . . so the working families of this country can be represented as well as the rich and powerful and the special interest groups."

Those, of course, were the good old days. Lately, the President has been having a difficult time and he's not quite so confident. Inflation is going up; his public polls and support in Congress are going down, and his legislative proposals are going nowhere. Yet for all his problems, the President has not changed a bit in one key respect: He still lashes out at all the so-called narrow, greedy, sinister, special interests. Indeed, he now seems determined to blame them for almost all the problems of his Administration. . . and our nation.

His attitude is disturbing. If the list on my desk were no so long, I might share with you all the names of unions and corporations (including oil companies!) from whom Mr. Carter accepted so many thousands of dollars while running for President. So there is more than a tinge of hypocrisy in all his rhetoric.

But understand, I am not one of those people who believe a President must totally divorce himself from outside advice, influence and legitimate campaign contributions. For one thing, all the talk about the excessive influence of the PACs (Political Action Committees) has been overdone. During the 1978 Congressional campaign, two-thirds of all campaign contributions were donated by individual Americans, mostly in small contributions of less than $100. That kind of participation should be considered healthy.

By contrast, all business and labor PACs combined contributed about 16 per cent. Corporation PACs alone gave only four per cent. In no way can that level of contributions be called excessive or corrupting. In fact, as a percentage of overall campaign spending, the PACs actually spent less in 1978 than they did in 1976.

But there is a more important point to be made here. When Mr. Carter speaks so disparagingly about narrow special interests, he is really talking about business and labor — in other words, the overwhelming majority of Americans, be they blue and white-collar working people or managers. Unions alone represent 20 million working Americans; and business investment and production not only create jobs, but generate the revenue to pay wages and salaries and provide taxes to run the government as well. These are not special interests, but common interests. It is precisely this failure to distinguish between the two that explains the President's dismal legislative record. Let me cite three examples.

The President tells us his energy program is being stymied by the oil industry. Not so. The program is unpopular because it is not an energy bill but a tax bill. Members of business and labor, and all of us as consumers are being asked to swallow huge new tax increases. . . but for what? We know . the federal bureaucracy, hardly a source of expertise, will get the money. What happens then is anyone's guess. A proposal like that is bound to attract more enemies than friends.

In return for campaign support, the President backed a measure called the Oil Cargo Preference Bill, which could have added up to $610 million to our national energy bill. The bill went down to humiliating defeat, since so many people — including Ralph Nader's representatives, who helped the Chamber fight it — recignized it would only subsidize one small interest at the expense of the commo interest.

Pre President scored one of his few successes when Congress passed the Multilateral Trade Negotiations agreement. As I noted in a prior column, this agreement has the potential of creating 100,000 jobs and billions of dollars in new foreign orders. It will be good for America. It obviously corresponds to many common interests. And that's why the National Chamber worked so hard to help the White House by mobilizing support and neutralizing opposition.

We were effective then. If the President wants to satisfy other common interests — ucting taxes, spending and regulations — we'll help again.

Prowlers Figure to Rebound

A year ago the Lincoln high school football team bounced back from a 30-18 season-opening loss at the hands of Grand Forks Red River to sweep Mid-State Conference foes Detroit Lakes 12-7, Crosby-Ironton 28-27 and Staples 26-12. After a 30-8 loss at Red River Thursday, the Prowlers and their fans are hoping history repeats itself in 1979.

And it might. On paper the Lakers, Rangers and Cardinals do not appear to be as strong as they were a year ago when Detroit Lakes won the Mid-State title, Crosby-Ironton came at you with star runningbacks Mark Selisker and Mark Davies and Staples featured top notch backs of their own in Dan Pipek and Tony Spandl.

Both Thief River Falls and Red River took a physical beating in Thursday's hard-hitting opener, but coach Gene Jurgens of the Prowlers says, "If your injuries aren't too bad, I think we can come back and go after them."

Park Rapids, blessed with great quickness, has been tabbed as Mid-State favorite in 1979. Detroit Lakes, because of the 1978 pennant, and Crosby-Ironton, because of tradition, are mentioned as title possibilities. But both the Lakers and Rangers, along with Staples, face rebuilding seasons.

Detroit Lakes will be here for Thief River Falls' 1979 home opener Friday. The Lakers lost heavily through graduation from last year's championship team, although head coach Dick Riedberger said his team "should be very adequate offensively" behind 160-pound slotback Rick Melbye and 185-pound quarterback Dave Riedberger.

Crosby-Ironton will make its first-ever visit to Thief River Falls Fri., Sept. 14. Rangers coach John Davies says, "We'll be very young — we have 18 sophomores among our 38 varsity candidates. But we may be a pretty good ball club toward the end of the season. Davies predicted the Rangers" will be locking our wounds" after opening the season at Bemidji.

Thief River Falls will be at Staples Fri., Sept. 21. "I'd say that we will be young and scrappy on defense," guessed Cardinals coach Mike O'Donnell whose nine lettermen have been complemented by the addition of brothers Craig and Mark Mitschke, transfer students from California.

After the Mid-State section of their schedule the Prowlers complete their nonconference assignments when Moorhead comes here Fri., Sept. 28. As usual, Thief River Falls ends the year against Northwest Athletic Conference foes Bemidji, Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston. In 1978 the Prowlers lost three of those four NWAC outings, beating only East Grand Forks 14-10.

Bemidji has been picking up more support as Northwest Conference favorite again this fall. Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes Tribune says, "If there is one team in northwestern Minnesota that is a legitimate contender for a Minnesota state high school playoff championship this fall, it has to be the Bemidji Lumberjacks. Coach Ray Kavanagh of Bemidji had a formidable unit last fall that won a pair of post-season playoff games and many of those players return for the 1979."

Cliff Morlan of the Bemidji Pioneer writes, "After watching the Lumberjacks go through polishing drills, I'd have to say this will be one of the most explosive teams we've had in some time."

Bemidji's offense features speedy runningbacks Dale Leonard, Craig Erhart and Nelson Rotto.

"The one team in the Northwest Conference with a chance to halt the Lumberjacks appears to be coach Les Dreschel's Crookston Pirates," added Anderson. "Crookston is blessed with an exceptional junior class this fall and I understand that the Pirates also have a fine transfer student."

Fergus Falls, 8-1 a year ago when the Otters lost only to Bemidji, returns just two starters this fall in end Monte Fredrickson and guard John Mielke. "We have some hard running backs, but we don't have the speed of the past few years," reported Fergus Falls coach Don Stueve.

Miscellaneous

+ Two former Lumberjacks stars, Bob Whelan and Ricky Lee, will be heading the Bemidji high school wrestling program this winter. Whelan, a 1971 Bemidji graduate and later a national champion at Bemidji State, was named to succeed Howie Schultz as head coach and Lee, a 1969 Bemidji graduate and a state high school champion, will be his top assistant. Schultz moved up in mid-season a year ago to handle the varsity when Ted Soular suddenly resigned.

Red River Beats TRF 30-8 In Football Opener

Thief River Falls gave up four touchdowns and a field goal Thursday in its 1979 high school football season opener against Grand Forks Red River, but it was a penalty that struck in the mind of coach Gene Jurgens after his prowlers lost a 30-8 game on Cushman field in Grand Forks.

After playing poorly and falling behind 16-0 in the first half, Thief River Falls came on strong in the third quarter to cut that deficit in half on a 30-yard Jeff Ulrich touchdown pass to Jim Thompson and a two-point conversion run by Ulrich.

That could have swung the momentum to the Prowlers, but instead that's when "The Penalty" came into play. On Red River's first scrimmage snap after Thief River Falls' touchdown, the Roughriders came up with a 25-yard advance when halfback Chris Hoversten's 10-yard sprint around left end was accompanied by a 15-yard personal foul infraction whistled on the Prowlers.

Set up in business at midfield, the Roughriders called on fullback Tom Homstad, actually a third stringer behind injured Jim Jackson and Randy Beasley, to carry the ball seven straight times. The no-nonsense offense took the ball to the Thief River Falls nine. Homstad got a three-play break before carrying the ball into the end zone from the one. Tim Gabrielsen's kick made it 23-8 with 8:43 remaining in the game.

"We gave up that big penalty that cost us," Jurgens explained. "If we could have held them there, we would have scored another touchdown."

An 18-yard burst off the left side by reserve halfback Jeff Bye on the first play after Thief River Falls gave up the ball on downs with one minute left finished the scoring, save for Gabrielsen's conversion.

Final statistics told the uninformed it was the season opener for both teams: 12 fumbles and 15 penalties. The Prowlers lost three of nine fumbles while the Roughriders were slapped with nine penalties for 65 yards.

"We made some unbelieveably stupid mistakes," acknowledged Red River coach Dallas Koop. "We've got to be more intense."

However, it was a Thief River Falls mistake — a first series pass interception thrown by quarterback Tom Bjorkman to Homstad — that produced a quick Red River score. Two plays after he picked off the pass at the Prowlers 21 and returned it to the eight, Homstad scored from the three with just 1:13 elapsed.

Another Thief River Falls blunder, this time a fumbled handoff, was turned into a 13-0 lead — again in two plays. Following Homstad's lead, Greg Herndon recovered the Thief River Falls fumble at the Prowlers 13, carried twice and scored on the second try as he broke tackles on a 10-yard charge in the middle with 2:51 remaining in the first quarter.

A 23-yard seeing-eye field goal by the strong-legged Gabrielsen made it 16-0 in the final 17 seconds of the first half. A 13-play, 49-yard drive — kept alive when Thief River Falls defensive back Bill Jury was called for fourth down pass interference in the end zone — set up Gabrielsen at the 13. Defensive end Jim Nyland had himself a sure block on the kick, but the ball slipped through his arms and sailed through the uprights.

"We should have played better in the first half," said Jurgens. "We did come out and play better in the second half. Those last two touchdowns didn't mean anything; what difference does it make if you get beat 16-8 or 30-8."

Thief River Falls' scoring play was a dandy as Ulrich, who started the second half at quarterback, hit Thompson in full stride deep down the middle. Thompson, moved from a runningback to an end this season, nearly had himself another long gainer on the same play in the second quarter, but that time he wasn't able to hold on to Bjorkman's pass.

A HARD TACKLE by Grand Forks Red River linebacker Greg Herndon lifted Thief River Falls ball carrier Bill Jury off the ground on the first play of Thursday's high school football season opener and set the tone for the hard-hitting contest played at Cushman Field in Grand Forks. Chris Hoversten (23) of the Roughriders and Dave Odegaard (22) of the Prowlers looked on as Herndon nailed Jury for a four yard loss and sidelined him briefly with the hit. Red River won the game 30-8.

Name Winners In 1979 TRF Ladies' Golf

Thune-Upham & Associates and Bergan Travel were named league champions as the 1979 Thief River Falls ladies golf club season came to a close last week.

In the B League, Bergan Travel finished with a 1,565, First Federal Savings & Loan Association had a 1,573, Simplot Soil Builders 1,594, Gordon's Hallmark & Gifts 1,640, Lee Plumbing & Heating Co. 1,659 and Evans Seed, Wool & Fur 1,687.

Dwight's Hartz Golf Tourney Results Listed

Thief River golfers Marv Carlson and Bob Forberg carded par 36's under cool, windy conditions to take low gross honors in Dwight's Hartz annual golf tournament played recently at the Thief River Country Club.

Carlson hit 8 of 9 greens in the nine hole contest, which was played in conjunction with regulation men's league action, while the key to Forberg's low score was his smooth putting stroke.

Capturing low net honors among the 70 competing golfers was Jeff Bentell of Fargo, with an 11 under par 25. Right behind Bentell was Bill Goocht, also from Fargo, at 26.

In a three-way tie for third place at 29 were Arnie Lee and Arnie Johnson from Thief River Falls and Dutch Hendrickson from Fargo.

Dulka, Oklee Run Past Clearbrook 34-2 Friday

Oklee handled Clearbrook 34-2 in a North Tri County Conference mis-match Friday, but five other Times area teams lost their 1979 high school football season openers as McIntosh-Winger blanked Goodridge 28-0, Erskine beat Grygla 26-18, Gonvick stopped Middle River 22-6, Mentor shut down Plummer 12-2 and Stephen defeated Marshall County Central 20-6.

Senior runningback John Dulka paced the Bobcats with a 160-yard rushing performance that included two touchdown runs.

Darrell Sandeen also scored twice for the winners who built an 8-2 first quarter lead, made it 14-2 at halftime and doubled that to 28-2 in the third quarter.

Final Oklee touchdown was scored by Jon LaJambe.

"We wore them down with our size," explained Oklee coach Dale Svaren.

Dulka and Sandeen picked up the slack for injured Oklee runningback Mike Kirkpatrick who missed most of the second half with a leg injury.

Top Oklee defensive players included Sandeen at middle linebacker, Joel Stolaas at tackle and Richard Broken in the secondary.

Gonvick—Middle River

Doug Faldett scored on a pair of six-yard runs in the second quarter to produce a 14-0 halftime lead and a 22-0 Gonvick victory over Middle River in North Tri County Conference play.

The defending conference champion Bulldogs added a five-yard fourth quarter run by Ron Erickson, a score matched by Middle River's Scott McKeever who returned a punt 60 yards for a touchdown.

Mentor—Plummer

Mentor held Plummer to just a second quarter safety en route to a 12-2 North Tri County Conference triumph.

The Trojans scoring included a two-yard first quarter run by Gary Kolb and a 40-yard fourth quarter dash by Charlie Kittleson.

Erskine—Grygla

Quarterbacks Jerry Lidseth of Erskine and John Nordby of Grygla matched scoring feats in a North Tri County Conference game won by the Comets 26-18.

Lidseth scored two touchdowns on runs of 20 and 18 yards and then threw touchdown passes covering 24 yards to Greg Caster and 15 yards to Rick Nordheim.

Nordby threw three touchdown passes — 12 yards to Gary Polansky, 60 yards to Dale Lillevold and 26 yards to Gerald Verbout.

Erskine led 12-6 at halftime.

McIntosh-Winger—Goodridge

Clint Nelson and Colby Burslie both scored twice as McIntosh-Winger shut out Goodridge 28-0.

Nelson scored on runs of 8 and 14 yards while Bursile ran five and 12 yards for his scores. The Scots led 14-0 at halftime and doubled that to 28-0 in the third quarter.

Stephen — MCC

A 14-point second quarter spelled the difference as Stephen knocked off Marshall County Central 20-6 in a Top of the State Conference game at Newfolden.

Bill Sczepanski scored on runs of three and 29 yards for the Tigers and Troy Bazey added a three-yard touchdown run.

Outside of the Tigers' second quarter points, the only other scoring was done in the fourth quarter when the Nordics matched a Stephen touchdown with an eight-yard touchdown pass from Kerry Hodne to Scott Lindquist.

Tennis Season Open Tuesday

Lots of new faces — including the coach — will be in the line-up Tuesday when the Lincoln high school girls tennis team opens its 1979 season with a 4 p.m. match at Roseau.

Gone from last year's squad are such familiar varsity performers as Pam Kotschevar, Julie Easton, Kelly Storhaug and Shari Idso, along with coach Mary Andrus.

Whitey Olson, the Lincoln boys tennis coach, has taken charge of the girls program this fall. He'll probably center the Prowlers around senior Patty Langlie and junior Cindy Liden, both of whom were regulars a year ago, along with juniors Pam Wassink and Lesli Williamson and sophomore Nancy Swanson, three part-time varsity players in 1978. Langlie is the only senior on the 16-member team.

"I think it's a good group," said Olson. "They're learning. We hope to be respectable."

Rest of the squad members include juniors Jamie Hanson and Karen Kloety; sophomores Marsha Erickson, Tammy Sherlan, Christy LaCoursiere and Lisa Nelson; freshmen Renell Twistol, Christy Peterson and Lisa Glass; eighth grader Kim Lawrenz; and seventh grader Michelle Olson.

Olson doesn't know what to expect this fall from the opposition. "I don't know how we compare," he mentioned. "We'll have to go around the circuit once before we know where we're at."

Thief River Falls, home opener is scheduled Thursday, a 3:30 p.m. match against Mahnomen.

AIRBORNE AFTER BEING tripped up by Thief River Falls defensive back Jim Thompson, Grand Forks Red River halfback Chris Hoversten was held to a two yard gain on this second quarter play in Thursday's high school football game played in Grand Forks. The Prowlers' Brian Ranum (62) watched Hoversten's flight. Red River beat Thief River Falls 30-8 in the 1979 season opener for both teams.

Northland Has Large, Talented Football Team Ready For 1979

It might not be all home grown, but there's talent aplenty this year as Northland community college readies for the 1979 football season which gets underway Saturday for the Northmen who will play Mesabi in a 1:30 Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) game at Virginia.

A 61-player roster that features 24 Miami, Fla. area ball players promises to make Northland an instant Northern Division contender. A year ago a team half that size won two of eight games, which was an improvement over a winless 1977 season.

"I don't know what the conference is like this year," mentioned Northland coach Irv Smith. "There's so much turnover in this league I don't know what's going to happen. But if the league is anything like it was last year, we'll be competitive. We're going to play good, hard-hitting football."

Aggressive defensive play could put Northland on par this fall with the likes of Vermilion, Golden Valley Lutheran, Crookston and Mesabi, teams that out-scored the Northmen 131-7 in 1978.

"We are strong on defense," stressed Smith, emphasizing the word strong. "Those days of 40-0 wins over Northland community college are over. We can fumble the ball a hundred times and it won't be 40-0 because we've got talented people playing defense."

Northland's defense is so good, says Smith, that his offense has a tough time moving the football in practice. And he thinks he has the makings of a pretty fair offense.

The Northland defensive line includes the likes of 205-pound Tom Buell (Michigan City, Ind.), 215-pound Jon Sipe (Baudette), 228-pound Jeff Reese (Hallock) and 245-pound Kelly Turgeon (Warren), all potentially outstanding ball players. Sipe was an honorable mention MJCAA all-state selection a year ago when he was Northland's MVP award winner on defense. Buell, Smith says simply, "Is a good one."

Top linebacking should come from people like 180-pound sophomore Joe Ranum (TRF) and 195-pound Jose Cabera (Hialeah, Fla.), with speedy Paul Wilcox headlining a defensive backfield that includes 1978 starter Brian Thomsa (Inkster, Mich.).

Offensive success will be spearheaded by a wealth of 200-pound-plus linemen, headed by 200-pound center John Swan (Miami Springs, Fla.) whom Smith calls a "very, very outstanding player. He's got perfect blocking technique."

Chris Brown (North Miami, Fla.), Scott Brown (Goulds, Fla.), Allen Lowy (Hialeah, Fla.) and Jeff Schmitz (TRF) all supply top-notch guard play and 5-11, 215-pound Mariano Bautista (Carol City, Fla.) is called the best tackle in camp.

"Any of these offensive linemen are equal to the best we had last year," boasted Smith.

There's talent at the receiver posts, too, including 6-6, 220-pound Chris Kneen (White Bear Lake), "a great athlete," according to Smith, at tight end after playing in the interior line as a freshman. "We expect great things from Chris this year," said Smith.

Slot back Joe Karska (Lancaster), an honorable mention MJCAA all-state pick in 1978, and split end Jeff Olson (Warren) are both adept at catching the ball.

Directing the Northland veer offense will be either 185-pound Jose Blanco (Miami), a fine passer, or 165-pound Tony Smith (Inkster, Mich.) a top runner.

If there is an area of concern for Smith it's in the offensive backfield where there are only five ball carriers: sophomore letterman Morice Hendricks (Inkster, Mich.), Howard Beito (Hallock), Mike Borgen (Badger), Maruice Knight (Miami) and Derrick McElliott (Opa-Loka, Fla.). But the holes should be there.

"We have depth," noted Smith. "We're going to wear people down."

Despite the vast differences in background, Smith says, "We seem to have pretty good team unity. I'm especially pleased with the way the Minnesota kids have blended in and have competed."

Wildlife Group Lists 25 Species As Endangered

Several gazelles and deer, some from the People Republic of China, and the rednecked Amazon parrot are among the 25 foreign species that have been classified as endangered by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The rule, listing the species from numerous countries in Asia, Africa and South America, was published in the June 25, 1979, Federal Register.

Habitat destruction and subsistence or uncontrolled killing are the primary causes for most of the species' decline. All are considered endangered by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources.

Listing the wildlife under the endangered species act will aid in their conservation by prohibiting all interstate or foreign commerce of these species without a permit and by requiring federal agencies to refrain from funding, authorizing or carrying out any activities in the affected foreign countries, that would jeopardize the species' continued existence. Federal agencies must also utilize their authorities to promote the conservation of these species. As a result of the listings, foreign currencies and U.S. personnel also become available to assist the countries in developing management and conservation programs.

The newly classified endangered species and their countries of origin are:

Iriomote cat, Iriomote Island, Ryukyu Islands; Malabar large spotted civet, India; Bactrian deen, USSR, Afghanistan; Barbary deer, Tunisia, Algeria, Morocco; Corsican deer, Corsica, Sardinia; Yarkand deer, Chinese Turkestan; Jentinks duiker, Liberia, Sierra Leone, Ivory Coast; Western eland, Sengal to Ivory Coast. Simian fox, Ethiopia; Arabian gazelle, Arabian Peninsula, including Isreal; Pelzein's gazelle, Somalia Sand gazelle, Arabian Penisula, Jordan; Saudi gazelle, Isreal, Iraq, Jordan, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait;

Also, Swayne's hartebeest, Somalia — Ethiopia; Tora Hartebeest, Ethiopia, Sudan, Egypt; Fen's mutjac, Burma, Thailand; Ryukyu rabbit, Ryukyu Islands; Formosan sika, Taiwan; North China sika, Shansi, China; Ryukyu kika, Ryukyu Islands; Shansi sika, Shansi, China; South China sika, Yangtze Valley, China; Zanzibar suni, Zanzibar Island, Tanzania). Arabian tahr, Oman; and rednecked Amazon parrot, Dominica.

The majority of pedestraians killed in traffic violated a traffic law or committed an obviously unsafe act.

TRF Banks Sell Potato Bowl Family Tickets

Athletic department of the University of North Dakota is offering a family plan football ticket — priced at $5 — for the feature attraction of the 14th annual Potato Bowl U.S.A., the Sat., Sept. 15 football contest between the UND Fighting Sioux and California State University — Sacramento. Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m. in UND Memorial Stadium in Grand Forks.

Family football tickets are now on sale at the First Northwestern State Bank and Northern State Bank in Thief River Falls.

Dr. Carl Miller, UND athletic director, said a $5 family ticket will admit an entire family — mom, dad and all the kids — to general admission seating at the September 15 game.

Potato Bowl U.S.A., spotlighting the huge Red River Valley Potato industry, begins Wed., Sept. 12, with a talk by famous trial attorney F. Lee Bailey at the UND Chester Fritz auditorium at 8:15 p.m. The "Hop to Hoople" smoker takes place the following evening. Friday's events include selection of the Potato Bowl Queen.

Sat., Sept. 15, events include a huge parade beginning at 10 a.m. through downtown East Grand Forks and Grand Forks, the 1:30 p.m. football game between the Fighting Sioux and Cal State—Sacramento followed by 7:30 and 10 p.m. concerts at the Chester Fritz auditorium by world-famous singer Ray Charles. Bowl festivities conclude Saturday at 1 p.m. at a tractor pulling contest at the Grand Forks county fairgrounds.

Thief Lake WMA Reservations

Sept. 25 Deadline For Goose Blinds

Department of Natural Resources reminded hunters that pre-registration will be required for the 1979 controlled goose hunts at the Thief Lake and wildlife management area.

Hunters may apply to reserve one of the stations within the controlled area. Applications must be made on a standard 3¼-inch by 5½-inch post card bearing the applicant's full name and address and listing first, second and third choice of dates. Applicant should indicate whether they will accept any other date if none of their choices are available.

Applications should be sent to Controlled Hunt, Thief Lake WMA, NE Star Route, Box 17, Middle River, Minnesota 56737.

Only one post card per hunter will be accepted and only successful applicants will be notified. Applications will be accepted on the basis of the earliest postmark. Applications postmarked before Sept. 1 or after Sept. 25 will not be accepted.

At Thief Lake, the reservation system will be in effect through October 22 but after that date stations will be available on a first-come basis.

Hunters with a reservation will be assigned shooting stations by lottery on the morning of the hunt. Hunters without reservations will be assigned stations in drawings to be held daily at 6 a.m. and 9 a.m.

Successful applicants may be accompanied by one or two guests. Hunters at Thief Lake will be limited to one hunt in the controlled hunting zone for the season, either as a guest or as a successful applicant. However, if all hunters have been accommodated before the season ends, a second trip will be permitted.

Some Stations at Thief Lake will be designated for use by handicapped persons with walking disabilities. These applicants must apply in the same manner as other hunters. Successful applicants will receive priority to hunt in the blinds designated for the handicapped which will be assigned on the morning of the hunt.

EGF Motocross Bicycle Races Slated Sept. 8

East Grand Forks Optimist Club will sponsor bicycle motocross races Sat., Sept. 8. Registration will be held from 9:30 to 10 a.m. on race day at the East Grand Forks civic center arena. Entry fee is $1.

Ribbons will be awarded to the top five places in each age division. Merchandise prices will be awarded to the top finisher in each age division. Separate races will be held for boys and girls.

The divisions start with the 4-6-year-olds who will complete one lap around the multi-curve course, which features water hazards and jumps, at 10 a.m. Other age divisions and race time include 6-7, 10:30 a.m.; 8-9, 11 a.m.; 10-11, 11:30 a.m.; 12-13, 12 noon; 14-15, 12:30 p.m.; and 15-over, 1 p.m.

Required equipment includes helmet, gloves, shoes, long sleeve shirt and full length pants. Recommended equipment includes goggles, face guard, elbow pads, athletic cup supporter and trouser leg bands.

Any 20-inch wheel bike in good condition can be used for the race, although handlebars must be equipped with grips, kickstands must be removed or taped in the up positions, all bikes must have brakes and all bikes must have number plates.

Entry fee checks should be made payable to the East Grand Forks Optimist Club and should be mailed to Mike Schend, Box 321, East Grand Forks, MN 56721.

Prowlers Win In Volleyball

Lincoln high school volleyball team opened its 1979 season with a win Friday, outlasting first-time foe Detroit Lakes 2-1 through 80 minutes of evenly matched competition.

Thief River Falls opened with an 18-15 first game victory, overcoming a 10-7 deficit behind five straight service points by senior Paula Kertz. That lead lasted until Detroit Lakes sophomore Julie Johnston's service brought the Lakers from behind, giving the visitors a 15-14 edge.

But when the Prowlers broke serve, and got their hands on the ball they never surrendered it as senior Kathy Walker closed out the game with four service points.

Detroit Lakes took the momentum away in the second game, dominating play from the outset to win 18-9.

"After winning that first game, we should have won the second one, too," noted Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss. "We lost our momentum, and that's not the way to play this game."

Both teams staged fine rallies in the third game that went into overtime before the Prowlers claimed a 19-17 decision.

Thief River Falls carried play at the start of the match-deciding third game, building leads of 5-1 and 9-2 before the Lakers' Teresa Geer served five straight points in narrowing the gap to 12-11.

Detroit Lakes then came ever-to-close to taking the match when Dana Berend served to a 17-13 lead. But Thief River Falls' Stacy Ehrenstrom came up with a crucial block at the net then turned server, finishing out the night at the service line.

"We were pretty evenly matched, said Stauss. "But I think our kids were able to generate a little more offense."

Thief River Falls was a 2-0 winner in the junior varsity match, winning 18-16 and 18-9.

Warren will visit the Lincoln gym Tuesday for a 7:30 p.m. match, followed by Alvarado on Thursday. Junior varsity play starts at 6:30 both nights.

COMPLETING A SCORING play for the Prowlers, Thief River Falls quarterback Jeff Ulrich eluded Grand Forks Red River defender Chad Sanderson and stepped into the end zone for a two-point conversion in the third quarter of the 1979 high school football season opener played at Grand Forks Thursday. Moments earlier Ulrich threw a 30-yard touchdown pass to Jim Thompson. The scoring plays brought the Prowlers to within 16-8, but the Roughriders pulled away for a 30-8 victory.

Bass Contest

Each year this column conducts a bass fishing contest with a jackpot of prizes for the fisherman who catches the largest bass in Minnesota. The contest ends October 31.

Last year a 14-year-old fisherman, Fritz Allen of Albany, won the contest with a bass weighing nine-pounds, four-ounces from Lake Washington near Madison.

Here is a list of the top five bass caught so far this year:

1. Joel Kalton, Prior Lake, eight-pound, 10-ounce bass caught in Prior Lake near the city of Prior Lake.
2. Robert T. Sarna, Alexandria, eight-pound, four-ounce bass caught in Rabbit Lake near Crosby.
3. Mike Thompson, Pine City, seven-pound, 12-ounce bass caught in Devils Lake near Pine City.
4. Thomas J. Pennay, seven-pound, five-ounce bass caught in Reno Lake near Alexandria.
5. Raymond Knish, Waterville, seven-pound, four-ounce bass caught in Tetonka Lake near Waterville.

Fishing Board

Waterville area is enjoying some of the best fishing in the past 20 years. Best catch recently featured 209 bullheads from a pontoon boat about 200 yards off Kapan's Point on Lake Elysian. Bullheads are hitting on Sakatah and Tetonka. Limits of crappies are coming in from Antel's Bay.

Sandusky Sport Center in Nashwauk reports some big walleyes. Chet Sumek of Nashwauk caught a walleye weighing 11-pounds in Swan Lake using a minnow for bait. Ernest Svara of Nashwauk won the Jaycee fishing contest with a 10-pound walleye caught in Swan Lake. Matt Bauer caught a 24-pound northern in Swan Lake.

Walker Contest

There will be two fishing contests on Leech Lake in September.

September 7-8-9 "Muskies, Inc." holds a contest vs. the Hayward, Wisconsin area. The winner will be determined by the most fish in total weight and total inches in length.

From September 13 through September 30 the Leech Lake area perch contest will be conducted.

For more information on either of these events write to the Leech Lake Chamber of Commerce, Box G, Walker, MN 56484.

Endangered Species Guidelines Are Set

New, comprehensive regulations for amending the U.S. list of endangered and threatened wildlife and plants have been proposed by the Departments of the Interior and Commerce.

"These proposed rules are virtually a 'how-to' manual that the public and other agencies can follow in either petitioning the departments to list a species or in participating in our decision making process," Lynn A. Greenwalt, Director of Interior's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said.

"When adopted, the rules will give everyone a much clearer understanding of how species get on or off the endangered list, what 'critical habitat' means, how it is designated and how such designations may affect a given locality," Greenwalt said of the proposed rulemaking.

The proposal, published in the August 15, 1979 Federal Register, spells out the criteria for deciding whether a species qualifies for listing or reclassification, the procedures for submitting and acting on petitions, emergency listings and the content of proposed and final regulations. Periodic review of the list and the procedures the service will follow in considering economic and other impacts associated with critical habitat designations are also outlined.

Greenwalt said the proposed rules "take into account the competing interests — social, economic and recreational — that come into play when federal actions to conserve endangered species are needed. On the one hand," he said, "species threatened with extinction must be given prompt protection to increase their chance of survival. But at the same time, interested and knowledgeable parties must be consulted before federal actions of potentially broad impact are taken."

The proposed regulations formalize the process the Interior agency has followed in the past in listing species and their critical habitats and also increase opportunities for public participation. These provisions include publishing notices of proposed actions in local newspapers and scientific journals; notifying local officials, interested parties, and other government agencies; and holding public meetings in or near the affected area. State governors and foreign gogernments are also consulted on species that occur under their respective jurisdictions.

"Endangered" means that a species is threatened with extinction throughout all or a significant portion of its range. "Threatened" means that the species is likely to become endangered in the foreseeable future.

In order to qualify for listing under the proposed rules, a species must be threatened by one or a combination of the following factors: loss or destruction of suitable habitat; disease or predation; commercial, sporting, scientific, or educational activities; inadequate protective laws; or other natural or man-made factors.

Ciritcal habitat designations would be based on the biology and conservation needs of the species, such as space for individual and population growth, cover, shelter, food, water, air, light and other nutritional needs, and sites for breeding, reproduction and rearing of offspring. In the case of plants, this also would include the necessary sites for germination and seed dispersal. Critical habitat proposals would include an economic anaylsis, indicate activities that might have an adverse effect on the species, and would consider the impact that such designations might have on the local area involved.

After a species is listed, it is illegal for anyone under the jurisdiction of the United States to take wildlife (but not plants) and to import, export, ship, sell or offer wildlife or plants for sale in interstate or foreign commerce. In addition, federal agencies are required to consult with the service to ensure that actions they authorize, fund, or carry out do not jeopardize the species' continued existence or destroy or adversely modify its critical habitat. The consultation requirement applies whether or not critical habitat has been designated.

Interested parties are invited to comment on these proposed rules.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all relatives and friends for expression of kindness and sympathy shown us during our recent bereavement.

A special thanks to Green Funeral home, Pastor Jay Borchert for his comforting words, Mrs. Arnold Hammer for the beautiful songs, the pallbearers, for the Martha circle for serving lunch and for all the memorials and flowers in memory of our husband and father.

God bless you all.

The family of Lars Ring

Budget Hearing On General Revenue Sharing

The City of St. Hilaire will hold a public hearing at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 10, 1979 in the City Hall, St. Hilaire, Minn., for the purpose of hearing written and oral comment from the public concerning the proposed annual budget for fiscal year 1980 and the use of revenue sharing funds as contained in that proposed budget, summarized below.

General revenue sharing (GRS) is a program of general fiscal support from the federal government to state and local governments with only limited federal requirements about how the money should be spent. Decisions on the use of these funds are made at the local level, by the government and people closest to local problems. The revenue sharing regulations require a hearing on the proposed use of these funds in relation to the overall budget before the budget is adopted each year.

All interested citizens, groups, senior citizens and organizations representing the interests of senior citizens are encouraged to attend and to submit comments.

Following is important planning information for the Proposed Use Hearing:

Amount of unappropriated revenue sharing funds in the local trust fund, $00.00; Amount of revenue-sharing funds expected to be received during the upcoming fiscal year, $1,800.00. ($1,700.00-$1,800.00)

Police Report 22 New Cases

Law enforcement report dated August 29 listed a total of 22 new cases including three accidents, 15 thefts, two cases of vandalism and one case of attempted burglary. Individual cases were given below by reporting date.

August 17 — Kathy Timmee of Rocksbury township reported the theft of a lawn mower and bicycle from her residence. Value of the lawn mower was given at $45.

August 18 — Gene Frazer of Goodridge reported that the Hamms beer sign in front of the Goodridge liquor store had been broken. Damages were estimated at $30.

August 21 — A break-in at the Orten Ekwall residence in Star Township was reported. An undisclosed amount of money and other articles were reported missing. The incident is under investigation.

August 21, 3:22 p.m., 4th St. & Knight Ave.: A car driven by Lesley Domrose of Thief River Falls was proceeding north on Knight Ave. while a second car, driven by Pamela Dusing of Thief River Falls, was headed east on 4th St. when the two vehicles collided in the intersection. The Domrose vehicle was totaled with the Dusing vehicle sustaining damages totaling approximately $300.

August 22 — Ralph Klein reported that rocks had been thrown through the windows in the telephone booth in Goodridge. Damages are unknown at this time.

August 22 — Spare tire was stolen from a vehicle owned by Dale Sletten of Newfolden while the vehicle was parked in the Countryside trailer court. Theft loss was given at $60.

August 23 — Kurt Nelson of Thief River Falls reported the theft of his 1974 Chevrolet pickup from Kife's parking lot. The vehicle, valued at $2,400, also had tapes and a tape player worth approximately $100 inside. At approximately 1:58 p.m. the vehicle was found three miles east of the Smiley bridge in the ditch. Damage estimate has not been made. The theft is under investigation.

August 23 — Linda Evenson of Greendale Manor reported the theft of $220 in jewelry from her trailer home. After investigation, a 15 year old juvenile female was charged with the burglary and the jewelry was returned.

August 23, 7:30 p.m., Kendall Ave. & Anne St.: A car driven by Calvin Neumann of Thief River Falls was traveling east on Anne St. while a second car, driven by Margaret Portnier of Thief River Falls, was proceeding north on Kendall Ave. The two vehicles collided in the intersection with the Neumann vehicle sustaining damages of approximately $3,000 and the Portnier vehicle, damages totaling $1,000.

August 24 — Arlen Brekke of Greendale Manor reported that he saw two persons attempt to break into a trailer home on lot 26 owned by Arthur Paulson. The persons involved broke a window and screen but did not gain entry. Damages were estimated at $30.

August 25 — Oliver Haugen of St. Hilaire reported the theft of his RCA CB from his vehicle while it was parked on the north side of the liquor store in St. Hilaire. Value of the CB was estimated at $70.

August 25 — A 1972 Ford Gran Torino owned by Terry Knutson of Plummer was reported stolen from where it had been parked along highway 59 in Smiley township. Knutson left the car there because he had car trouble and when he returned to get it the vehicle was gone. The car, valued at $1,000, was later recovered in Marshall county and had damages totaling approximately $900.

August 25 — Two bicycles, one Holiday three-speed and one JC Penney's 10-speed, were stolen from the Harvey Delage yard at 727 S. Crocker. Both bikes were later recovered from behind Dr. Helm's office.

August 25 — Leon Ralter of 714 S. Tindolph reported the theft of his Arctic 10-speed bicycle from his yard. The $120 bicycle was later found behind Dr. Helm's office.

August 26, 4:08 a.m., 7th St. & Knight Ave.: Grant Reed of Thief River Falls was driving north on Knight Ave., swerved and drove up into the Marvin Anderson yard at 713 N. Knight and collided into the Anderson house. The vehicle sustained approximately $500 damage with an unknown amount of damage to the house. Reed was taken to the hospital by ambulance, treated and released.

August 26 — Art Anderson of 702 S. Kendall reported the attempted theft of two bikes in the Anderson yard by two unindentified males. Mike Anderson chased the thieves on foot but was unable to catch them. The bikes were abandoned near D & H Market.

August 26 — A 10-speed Sears bicycle owned by Carol McGann of 719 S. Kendall was stolen from the McTann yard. The Free Spirit bike was light blue in color and has not yet been recovered.

August 26 — Mary Geatz of Thief River Falls reported that her Marco 10-speed bike was stolen while parked at the Carol McGann residence at 719 S. Kendall. It was later recovered at 204 S. Conley where the thief stole another bike and left Geatz's in its place.

August 26 — Winton Dahlin of 204 S. Conley reported that someone had stolen his AMC gold and silver three-speed bike from his yard and left a Marco 10-speed in its place. The Marco 10-speed was returned to Mary Geatz and the Dahlin bike was later recovered by Curtis Lemky of 829 S. Kendall who found it in an old coal box on the south end of the old Soo Line freight house.

August 27 — Mrs. Kermit Malberg of 607 E. 8th St. reported that someone had stolen three bicycles from her yard, a brown 10-speed Arctic bike, a blue 10-speed Montgomery Wards bike and a orange 10-speed Montgomery Wards bike. Total theft loss is estimated at $240.

August 27 — Felipe Gonzales of Thief River Falls reported that someone had borrowed his 1968 Chevy and had not returned it. The vehicle is light blue in color with license No. EHT204. Value of the vehicle is $100.

August 27 — A 13-year-old male juvenile was apprehended in the Pamida discount store for attempting to shoplift an item valued at 27 cents.

CORRECTION: August 27 issue of the Times listed an accident involving vehicles driven by Marcia Kallnowski and Helmer Myhrer, both of Thief River Falls. The report should have indicated that the Kalinowski vehicle collided into the rear of the Myhrer vehicle with the impact of the collision pushing the Myhrer vehicle over the curb and into a house on Tindolph Ave.

More than one half of all pedestrian traffic fatalities occur during hours of darkness, although pedestrian and vehicle traffic is significantly less at night.

G. Broughton's Dairy Herd Is Top In DHIA

Gary Broughton's dairy herd led the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association on average test in June according to Jerry Hamre, supervisor. Broughton's herd averaged 60.4 pounds of milk and 2.15 pounds of butterfat a day during the month.

Second place herd in June was the Merle Lundeen herd with an average of 54.0 pounds of milk and 1.90 pounds of butterfat. Other herds in the top ten for June are given below with the daily milk and butterfat production listed respectively: Pearson Bros. farm 52.8 and 1.97; Knute Nesland, 52.0 and 2.03; Orlan Stolaas, 50.5 and 1.76; Robert Rausch, 50.1 and 1.82; Warren & Lowell Hamrick, 49.7 and 1.96; Darrow Lundeen & Sons, 48.8 and 1.68; Marvin Kopp, 47.2 and 1.80; and Myron Erickson, 47.2 and 1.80.

Hamre points out that herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since the amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of his herd's earning power for the month. If many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low even if cows in production are high volume producers.

There are 28 DHIA herds on test and four O.S. in June. Elven cows completed 305-day records of more than 600 pounds of butterfat during the month.

Arctic Joins In Mpls. Job Fair

Semi-annual career job fair, a unique job mart which matches employee prospects with leading regional and national companies, will be held September 10 and 11 at Metropolitan sports center in Bloomington. Participating from Thief River Falls is Arctic Enterprises.

Firms represented at the career job fair will be seeking personnel in two basic categories, engineering and technical plus sales, office and supervisory personnel. Promoters believe it is the first time a non-employment agency has put so many companies and potential employees under one roof for matchmaking purposes.

Quin-County '80-'81 Health Plan Completed

Summaries of this proposed plan have been made available to interested people and-or agencies. If there are others who desire a copy of this summary please contact Patricia Doro, Box 2, Remer, Mn 56672, phone 566-1297.

There will be a public meeting in Pennington county at the county courthouse first floor meeting room, September 18 at 9:30 a.m. to obtain final community input on the proposed 1980-81 CHS plan for Quin county.

The first recorded traffic fatality in the United States occurred in 1899 in New York City — the victim was a pedestrian.

DNR Ruling Covers Flood Plain Dikes

Commissioner of natural resources, Joseph Alexander, announced that he has approved rules governing the issuance of permits for the construction and reconstruction of agricultural dikes located within the 100 year flood plain of the Red River of the North and its tributaries.

Alexander said that the rules were adopted following lengthy discussion and negotiation between the governors of North Dakota and Minnesota, local governments, farmer organizations, individuals, the North Dakota state water commission and the Minnesota DNR.

He said the rules will provide for reasonable flexibility in locations and elevation for future dikes as well as for disposition of existing unauthorized dikes. He added that North Dakota is currently proceeding with adoption of similar regulations.

Applications for permits to construct or reconstruct agricultural dikes within year flood plain of the Red River of the North and its tributaries will now be accepted.

Requests must be made on forms provided by the DNR and filed with the regional hydrolgist located at the DNR headquarters in Bemidji. Copies of the applications must also be given to the affected watershed district and local soil and water conservation district and the county.

Applications will be reviewed consistent with the adopted rules. The rules governing issuance of these permits allow for a 30 day review by local and state agencies.

"Prospective applicants should consider early coordination with local authorities, since their recommendations will be given serious consideration by the DNR," said Alexander.

The regulations allow a great deal of local flexibility in determining dike location and height. Dikes set back from the river at the floodway limit can be high enough to provide 100-year flood protection, whereas dikes located closer to the river must be lower in order to avoid unreasonable increases in flood stages on other lands in either or both states.

Joint or corporate applications for extensive dike work will be encouraged, rather than requiring each individual farmer to apply. In this way, and with local direction from the watershed district or other local authority, it is anticipated that uniform dike setbacks or heights can be agreed upon, thus, reducing need for tie-back levees.

Furhter information can be obtained from the DNR division of waters regional office in Bemidji (218-755-3973; or the DNR division of waters central office (612-296-4803).

NW Hospital Auxiliary To Hear LaSalle

"The Commitment of Volunteers" will be the topic of the talk to be given by Mrs. Barb LaSalle of Thief River Falls, District A president of the Minnesota hospital auxiliary, at the fall membership luncheon of the Northwestern hospital auxiliary. The luncheon will be held Tuesday noon at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. LaSalle, a past president of the local auxiliary, is also a member of the state organization's board of directors. Charter members of the Northwestern hospital auxiliary will be honored at the luncheon and all past members or those interested in becoming members have been encouraged to attend.

Annual membership dues to the organization which provides volunteer service to the hospital are $2. Volunteers are needed in the areas of patient care, magazines and books, hospitality cart, information desk, escort service and convalescent and nursing care unit.

Members may distribute magazines and books to patients, donate magazines, assist with patients' personal grooming, care for flowers in patient rooms, entertain pediatrics patients, bring the hospitality cart to rooms so patients can select items they may need and have forgotten and escorting patients to laboratory, x-ray, emergency room, physical therapy or occupational therapy departments.

Other volunteers serve at the information desk, greeting patients and taking them to their rooms after being admitted and taking them down to the desk when they are discharged. In the CNC unit volunteers can help with monthly birthday parties, work on a one-to-one basis with patients in craft projects, lead songfests, play musical instruments, help with picnics and outings and play games with the residents.

"There are a variety of needs available to be filled by the volunteer who wants to be of service to people less fortunate," states Mrs. Kay Marvin, president of the local auxiliary unit.

Renee Tunheim Gives Address At Graduation

St. Cloud state university awarded 427 degrees at summer commencement exercises August 16. Commencement address was presented by Renee Tunheim, a graduating senior from Thief River Falls. A marketing major, Tunheim has been active in student government, serving as president of the 1978-79 student senate.

Also a graduate from the area during the summer session was Kermit R. Krohn, Thief River Falls, who received a BA degree.

Charlotte And Joseph Weiland Die In Accident

Charlotte Marie Weiland, 13, and Joseph Gregory Weiland, six months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Weiland, Jr., rural Thief River Falls, were killed early Monday afternoon, when the pickup truck they were riding in collided with a tandem farm truck 2½ miles north of East Grand Forks.

Injured in the accident and hospitalized at United Hospital in Grand Forks are the parents and another son, Paul, 2. A third son, Daniel, 3, was treated and released. The driver of the truck was not injured.

Joint funeral services for Charlotte and Joseph are scheduled for Monday at 10 a.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church with Rev. James Bernauer officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

A Prayer service will be held Sunday at 8 p.m., at the Belmont Funeral home where friends and relatives may call during the afternoon. Recitation of the Rosary is scheduled for 9:30 a.m., Monday at the Belmont Chapel.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

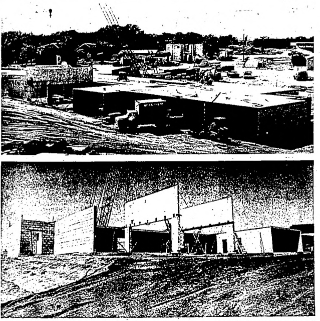
Expect Frosh Class Increase At Northland

With applications for entering freshmen up from 180 last year to 250 this fall, Northland community college at Thief River Falls will hold its freshman orientation Monday beginning at 9 a.m. at the college theatre. All entering freshmen are urged to be in attendance.

Classes for freshmen and sophomores will start on Tuesday. Registrar Dennis Benidekson said that the applications for entering freshmen is a comparative figure with last year at this time, but definite numbers will not be known until registrations are completed. Enrollment in the sophomore class is an unknown at this time.

Orientation activities Monday will include information being presented at the morning session by Dr. Alex Easton, college president; Ken Wiebolt, dean of students; and faculty activity advisors. A picnic is scheduled at the Northland campus at 6 p.m. and free movies are offered at the Galaxy theatre at 7 and 9 p.m. Northland student association assists with the orientation events.

In connection with the start of college classes, instrumental music instructor Douglas Engstrom has issued a call for the first rehearsal of the Thief River Falls community band. All persons interested in playing in the band are encouraged to report at the first rehearsal to be held Monday at 7 p.m. in the college auditorium.



RIVERSIDE TERRACE is the name given to the new six-story senior citizen housing project now under construction off Main and LaBree avenues in Thief River Falls. Site of the project is where the former Burlington Northern depot was located, just south of the medical office building addition to Northwestern Hospital services. Pre-cast concrete sections are being used in the construction with Twin City construction company of Fargo, N.D., as the general contractor and developer. It is expected that the building will be erected in about five weeks and completion is projected for May 1, 1980. The 60x180 building will have 66 rental units. Top view taken from the roof of the hospital's CNC unit shows the location of the building. Bottom photo indicates the elevation of the structure which will front off LaBree avenue behind the hospital.

Construction Starts On Riverside Terrace Project

With construction underway for just over a week on Riverside Terrace apartments just south of the medical office building in Thief River Falls, much of the first floor structure has been erected and pre-cast concrete slabs for the second floor are being put in place.

Riverside Terrace is the name given to the senior citizen housing project on the site formerly occupied by the Burlington Northern depot between Main and LaBree avenues. Twin City Construction company of Fargo, N.D., is the general contractor and developer on the project which has been issued a building permit for $1,666,882.

Site of the complex was purchased by the city of Thief River Falls with grant funds received from the federal housing and urban development authority (HUD) and has been referred to in city planning as "Site C". It was sold by the city to the developer at an approximate cost of $33,000 under a formula developed by HUD for new construction of senior citizen rent subsidy housing.

Mike Brown, superintendent for Twin City Construction company, said that actual construction on the building began last Tuesday following site preparation. It is expected that the six-story building will be erected by the middle of October and completion has been scheduled for May 1, 1980. When complete, it will be the tallest building in Thief River Falls.

Riverside Terrace will have 66 single bedroom apartment units including three units on the main floor equipped specifically for handicapped people. Each unit will be approximately 24x24 feet in size and include a bedroom, kitchen, living room and bathroom plus a large storage closet. All will have outside windows in the living room and bedroom, Brown said.

Construction of the 60x180 building will be primarily of pre-cast concrete with a brick facing exterior on all six stories. Pre-cast concrete slabs are 3x24 feet in size for the floors and 10x24 for the walls with the larger sections weighing 24,600 pounds. They are made in Osseo near the Twin Cities and trucked to the site where they are hoisted into place with a crane. The crane presently being used has a 140-foot boom and it is expected another 20 feet will have to be added to put the last sections in place on the top story. Brown said that 22 semi-trailer loads of pre-cast concrete sections will be required for each floor. Up to 35 people will be working on the project at peak construction.

In addition to the individual apartment units, the complex will include a ground floor community room, arts and crafts room and kitchen. Each floor will have a lounge and laundry area and a trash chute for garbage collection. An elevator will serve all floors. An asphalt parking area for 41 cars is to be provided as well as grass patio

Family Farm, Land Use Are Newfolden Hearing Topics

by Kim Blaeser
Times Reporter

"At the present time it is almost impossible for young farmers to enter agriculture. Land values have been inflated beyond all reason," commented Fr. Duane Pribula, rural life director for the Crookston Catholic diocese. "This is kind of an artificial inflation because certain people who have access to money are investing in land and through their own bidding are boosting the price of land beyond the reach of most people. So there is motivation for farmers to simply sell out at high prices to these large enterprises.

"With this being the social situation we can see it is possible that our rural communities will simply dry up, a wave of refuges will hit the metropolitan areas. Then there is the attitude toward the land: Is the land going to be considered simply an investment or is it going to be a way of life?"

With concerns such as these for the family farm system and land use concepts in the Midwest, a group of Catholic rural life directors decided to band together and put out a position statement on the use of land, taking a bend toward the family farm system as one that should be encouraged. A draft statement has been prepared and a series of hearings are scheduled in 12 midwestern states to discuss the proposed statement and how it should be changed to reflect the concerns of the people.

First of four meetings scheduled in the Crookston diocese was held Saturday in Newfolden. A group of approximately 20 persons turned out to discuss the draft and hear the comments of a four-member panel made up of Norma Hanson of Goodridge, president of Minnesota Women for Agriculture; Leroy Stumpf of Plummer who is involved in beef production; Terry Courneya of Thief River Falls, Pennington county extension agent; and Bob Fincher of Viking, president of the tri-county Pork Producers Association. Also participating in the meeting were Bishop Victor Balke, Sr. Mary Mark Tachney of St. Paul, and Fr. Pribula from Middle River.

Estate tax law, absentee landlords, escalating land prices, corporate farming, inflation, diversification, graduated land tax and collective bargaining were among the topics covered in the four-hour session.

Villian in the decline of the family farm and the escalating land prices was thought by most to be the corporate and expansion buying of farm lands. However extension agent Terry Courneya presented data which indicated that although Minnesota had one of the highest land price increases in the 1970's its farm numbers remained constant during the past five years and the average farm earnings increased relative to the national average in the 1970's.

But testimony by individuals in regards to their experiences with large investment corporations may have overridden the statistics in the matter. Leroy Stumpf reported large purchases of land in Red Lake county by a corporation. "This maybe alright," he said, "but what is a little disheartening to me is that they come and burn the building sites — the farms, the barns, the homes — the whole works, and then come in with a bulldozer and level them out."

"It is this kind of callousness toward the land," Pribula explains, "that we are trying to prevent. Our concern is that there be some kind of a consciousness that some moral principles have to be a part of decision making. We want to remember we are only stewards of the land."

Norma Hanson pointed out another matter to consider when dealing with absentee landlords or investment agencies seeking land and offering "a fancy price." "We have to stop and think," Hanson commented, "what would they be contributing to my community if I were to sell them this land? If all the money went out what would they be contributing to my church, my school and my community businesses?"

The need to do away with estate taxes when farms are being passed from generation to generation was another of the areas about which those attending the Saturday hearing held strong convictions and diversification as an alternative to expansion was looked at as a viable means of keeping family farmers out of the red.

In terms of attendance the Newfolden meeting was not a huge success but taking into consideration the sharing of ideas that transpired it did accomplish its purpose.

Pribula comments, "We feel a big part of this project is happening now through the sensitizing of people, through the education that is going on in our distribution of the land use statement, in our bringing

Plante and Kalinowski Vows Spoken at Gentilly

Marcia Kay Plante, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Plante, Crookston, became the bride of Gene Thomas Kalinowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aulie Kalinowski of Greenbush, at a recent ceremony at St. Peters Catholic church in gentilly.

Monsignor Victor Cardin officiated at the double ring ceremony. Carolyn Brule was the organist. Janice Nyflot sang "You Light up my Life," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Prayer of St. Francis;" and Steve Sorvig sang, "Sunrise, Sunset," and "Where 'ere You Go." Together they sang "Wedding Song."

Arrangements of garden flowers, featuring flocks, monkshood and marigolds, graced the altars.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in an ivory satin gown which she had designed and made. The sleeveless empire bodice with a V-neckline was topped by an over-the shoulder cape edged with lace. Her gathered skirt slowed back into a modified train, also trimmed with lace. Matching lace edged her double-tiered veil of bridal illusion, made by her mother. Her satin and lace headpiece, made by the bride, featured silk ivory roses and tiger lilies. She carried an ivory satin covered Prayer Book, edged with scalloped lace. Topping the Prayer Book was a cluster of silk ivory roses, beige tiger lilies and babies' breath, accented with peach colored leaves and streamers. Her only jewelry was a gold cross, a gift from the groom.

Maid of honor was the bride's cousin Dainne Plante of White Bear Lake. Bridesmaids were Dee Sperling, Crookston; Theresa Blazejewski, Thief River Falls, and Debbie Engebretson, Climax, friends of the bride. Mollie Duckworth, Ekdred, godchild of the bride, served as flower girl. Bearing the monetary gifts to the altar were the bride's brother and sister, Kyle and Beth Plante.

All the attendants wore halter styled gowns of beige taffeta topped with sheer flocked jackets, accented with ruffles at the waistline; V neckline and at the wrists. Parasols matching their jackets completed the bridesmaids' attire. The flowergirl carried a basket of silk flowers, matching those carried by the bride. Their gifts from the bride were their gold heart necklaces and the ivory silk roses which they wore in their hair.

The groom wore a tan tuxedo with dark brown velvet trim, a white ruffled shirt, edged in brown, and a boutonniere of two silk roses, matching the bride's roses.

Dark brown tuxedos, white shirts and peach carnation boutonnieres were worn by his attendants: Tim Kalinowski, the groom's brother who served as best man; Kirby McFarlane, Thief River Falls; Lee Brekke, Greenbush, and Dale Bergeron, Thief River Falls, the groom's friends, who served as groomsmen. Ringbearer was Michael Kalinowski, Carlos, a nephew of the groom.

Serving as usherettes were Diane Montreuil and Sheree Johnson, Crookston, friends of the bride. They wore peach street-length sundresses with handkerchief hemlines. To accent their attire, they wore floral shawls and wrist corsages featuring yellow and white daisies.

Ushers were Jeff Olson and Bob Sorenson, Thief River Falls, friends of the groom. Their attire included dark brown tuxedos, peach ruffled shirts and peach carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a sheer blue floral, floor-length gown with an attached cape and a white carnation corsage. The mother of the groom wore a brown floral street-length dress with a peach carnation corsage. Corresponding boutonnieres were worn by the fathers, who were attired in dark brown tuxedos.

Reception host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Plante, White Bear Lake. Registering approximately 250 guests were Jackie and Jill Plante, cousins of the bride. Punch was served by Bev and Vick Colson, Crookston, Marci Gustafson, Thief River Falls, friends of the bride, and Randy Plante, Crookston, brother of the bride.

The couple's godmothers: Marion Normandin and Helen Kalinowski, cut and served the wedding cake. Pouring coffee were Audrey Merschman, Bemidji, and Monica Baird, White Bear Lake, aunts of the bride.

At the gift table were Rhonda and Michelle Plante, cousins of the bride. Julie Hanson, Thief River Falls, a friend of the couple, was flower attendant, and Millie Regimbal served as kitchen hostess and also made the corsages. Waitresses were Kathy, Shelly and Pauline Plante, and Wendy Merschman, cousins of the bride.

The silk flowers were made by Carolyn Schmitz, who together with Sylvia Morinville, Thief River Falls, were the bride's personal attendants.

The newly-weds are at home in Thief River Falls at 1204 Greenwood street. The bride is full-time stylist at The Barbers. The groom is a carpenter for Woodland Construction.

Cheryl Ann Felling Weds John Rosten at Brooks

Miss Cheryl Ann Felling and John Dennis Rosten, both of Plummer, exchanged marriage vows recently at an afternoon ceremony at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Felling of Brooks. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rosten of Plummer.

Rev. Larry Wiesler officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Betty Johnson was the organist and Rolfe Erickson sang, "Ave Maria," "Wedding Song," and "Follow Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown made by her sister, Mrs. Ken Waldal. The gown was styled of white cotton and featured an empire bodice with sweetheart neckline and long bishop sleeves with wide cuffs. Lace trim accented the bodice, sleeves and triple-tiered skirt. A lace headpiece etched with pearls held her finger-tip veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of roses in yellow, peach, blue and green, interspersed with yellow daisies and babies' breath.

Mrs. Ann Rewertz of Plummer was the bride's personal attendant.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charee Paulson of Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride. She was attired in a yellow crepe floral print gown, designed like the bride's except with elbow-length sleeves. To accent the gown, she wore a white hat with a yellow ribbon secured in back by a daisy. She carried gold buttercups with yellow roses and babies' breath.

Other attendants were Mrs. Delyne Waldal, Plummer, sister of the bride; Mrs. Anita Mattson, Stanley, N.D., a friend; and Sandra Rosten, Plummer, a sister of the groom. Their gowns were similar to the matron of honor's only in pastel blue, peach and green. Matching ribbons accented their white hats. They carried bouquets of gold buttercups with roses corresponding to the colors of their gowns. The bridesmaids fashioned their own gowns.

Attending the groom as best man was Randy Pahlen, a friend. Groomsmen were Byron Rosten, a cousin of the groom, Steve Rosen, a brother, and Brent Hemly, a friend. All reside at Plummer. Serving as ushers were Kenneth Felling, Fargo, N.D., brother of the bride, and Orvis Mossestad, Plummer, a friend of the groom. They wore rust-brown tuxedos with dark brown trim, ruffled shirts matching the gowns of their female attendants, and corresponding carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere featured four minature yellow roses.

The mother of the bride wore a cream colored gown featuring a minature floral print in pink, green and yellow. The groom's mother wore a light blue dress topped by a vest of blue floral sheer. Their identical corsages were a combination of roses and daisies.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rubidoux, Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Felling Sr., Sauk Centre, grandparents of the bride; and Mrs. Lovior Barsewess, Oklee, grandmother of the groom.

A reception and wedding supper for 220 guests was hosted in the church parlors by the parents of the bride. Serving as reception host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Walters, friends of the couple. Mrs. Gladys Rosten, aunt of the groom, presided at the guest book as Barb Lessud, friend of the bride, and Brad Rosten, brother of the groom, ladled the punch.

Highlighting the serving table was a four tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow, peach, blue and green daisies. Topping the cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Edna Hyde of Plummer, was a floral ornament featuring two doves. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Gloria Mapes and Mrs. Linda Hemly, friends of the couple. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Rita Kruse, friend of the couple; and Mrs. Joyce Carlson, aunt of the groom.

Jodi Pahlen, Mary and Connie Westlake and Kim Felling served as waitresses and Roseann Feragen, a friend of the bride, served the ice cream.

Relatives and friends attending were from Fargo and Stanley, N.D.; Bloomington, Circle Pines, Sauk Centre, Duluth, Mentor, Fertile, Red Lake Falls, Strandquist and Thief River Falls.

The couple is now at home in Plummer. The bride is employed by Arctic Enterprises and the groom by Loeffler, Engstrom construction. Both are graduates of the Plummer high school. Photo, Hofstad Photo, Plummer

UMC Offers Adult Class In Drawing

Drawing for fun is one of 26 courses offered this fall through the office of continuing education at the University of Minnesota—Crookston (UMC).

Drawing for fun is an introduction to the elements of drawing and design. It is a basic drawing class which will include figure, landscape and still-life drawing.

"We will try different things," said Pat Kuznik, instructor for the course. "It will be an introduction to the different types of drawing."

Students will use a variety of media to create special effects with pencil, charcoal, India ink and watercolors.

"The approach is not mechanical. It is more of a hand-eye coordination thing. We try to teach people to see what is around them and then to be able to draw what they see," said Kuznik.

The course is open to persons who have never drawn before, but it is also for the experts. Each student will work at his or her own pace, under Kuznik's instruction.

Drawing for fun will be held on Mondays, beginning September 10, from 7 to 9 p.m. in Owen hall 210. Registration is $22.50 for one credit. Class size is limited, so space will be permitted on a "first come-first served" basis. To register, or for more information about other continuing education classes, interested persons may call UMC, telephone 281-6510, extension 241.

Kathy Charlson New Officer In State Patrol

Minnesota has its seventh female officer of the state patrol following the graduation Friday of Kathy Charlson of Thief River Falls from the 16-week state patrol course in New Brighton.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Charlson of Thief River Falls and a graduate of Lincoln high school, Kathy is also a graduate of the University of Minnesota at Duluth. She will join six other women in the state patrol in Minnesota and after temporary duty in the Twin Cities is being assigned to Redwood Falls in mid-October.

There are 23 members of the class receiving graduation certificates from Col. James Crawford, chief of the Minnesota state patrol. Mr. and Mrs. Charlson and Kathy's sister Kirsten of Minneapolis were among those attending the graduation ceremonies at the Minnesota department of transportation training center at New Brighton. Also attending was Capt. Lloyd Rudd of the Thief River Falls patrol headquarters.

SBA Officer To Be In Bemidji September 13

Donald J. Wallgoski, a loan officer with the small business administration, will be in Bemidji September 13, to talk to small business men and women about SBA loans. An appointment to see him can be made by calling or writing the Bemidji Chamber of Commerce, Bemidji Avenue and Third Street, telephone 751-3540. According to district director Paul W. Jansen, an SBA representative will be in Bemidji on the second Thursday of each month for this purpose.

Jasen urges small business people to visit their bankers first to see if they will make the loan, either directly or with SBA's participation, and bring the following items with them to the appointment.

(1) Current financial statements consisting of a balance sheet and earnings (profit and loss) statement;

(2) A list of collateral to be offered as security for the loan with an estimate of present market value of each item;

(3) Amount of loan requested and for what purpose it will be used.

A booklet "SBA Business Loans", as well as other free publications, can be recieved by writing to the Minneapolis SBA District Office, 12 South Sixth Street, Minneapolis, MN 55402.

Auto Insurance Premiums Vary By Area, Class

Two factors — where you live and your "class-rating" — significantly influence the premiums you pay on your auto insurance.

For insurance purposes, most states are divided into territories. Each territory has its own rating based on its loss-experience record.

Also, drivers are "class-rated" according to statistical guidelines with other policyholders who share similar characteristics. These guidelines recognize that not every driver or every car is an equal risk. They group cars and drivers subject to similar hazards.

Before it can establish rates, in insurer projects the total income it will need from premiums to cover claims and other costs in that state during the period the rates will be effective. An average rate is then determined for a particular coverage. This average, in turn, is adjusted up or down on the basis of relative risks for each rating territory and classification of car and driver.

"Insurance companies classify drivers by age, sex, marital status, mileage driven, use of car and accident and violation history," says spokesperson for a major auto insurance company.

"This classification plan aids both insurance companies and policyholders. For example, policyholders with good driving records pay fewer premium dollars under this classification system than they would if there was no reflection of accident and violation history in the rate structure. Insurance companies are able to more equitably distribute the cost of insurance among their policyholders under a classification system."

The use of factors in the rating system that are beyond a person's control (such as age, gender, and marital status) has been questioned by some. But statistical evidence has shown that these classifications do predict, to a reliable degree, the future accident risk of drivers.

A more efficient method to classify drivers has not been developed. Also, polls, indicate that people feel it would be unfair for everyone to pay the same price for auto insurance.

Using the "territorial-rating" method, a car is rated or classified according to the location in which it is normally garaged or parked overnight.

Location is a good predictor of potential insurance losses because cars from a specific territory are like to share exposure to similar risks. Most driving is done relatively close to a car's garage or parking site. In fact, more than half of all auto trips are for distances of less than five miles and more than 87 per cent for less than 15 miles.

As a group, urban drivers generally pay more for equivalent insurance coverage than do drivers in small towns or rural areas. More property-damage accidents, injuries and fatalities occur per mile of urban roads than per mile of rural roads.

Moreover, repair costs, wages, hospital and medical expenses and jury awards tend to be higher in metropolitan areas, so accidents involving urban dwellers not only happen more frequently but also tend to be more costly per accident.

Thefts and vandalism tend also to be concentrated in the areas of highest population density.

When a car is involved in a mishap, regardless of where the incident occurs, any insurance loss is "charged back" to the car's home territory. For example, if a suburbanite drives into the central city area and causes with another suburbanite from different rating territory, the accident is charged against the two suburban areas, not against the city, for rating purposes. This helps keep the loss experiences of "outside" drivers from unfairly forcing up rates in territories other than their own.

B. Blazejewski Services Held At Florian

Felix Ben Blazejewski, 75, of Florian, son of the late Casimir and Margaret Blazejewski, died at the Good Samaritan nursing home in Warren on Sunday afternoon, August 26.

Funeral services for Felix Blazejewski were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, August 29, at the Assumption Catholic church in Florian with Rev. Frank Kulhawik offering the Mass. Interment was in the church cemetery, with the Collins Funeral home of Karlstad in charge. Pallbearers were: Walter, Lambert, and Leonard Kostrzewski, Jeffrey and Robert Sylskar, and Donald Blazejewski.

Felix Blazejewski was born April 23, 1904, in Kittson Co., near Orleans. In 1915, he moved with his family to the Florian community, where he attended school and grew to manhood. On April 14, 1931, he was united in marriage to Violet Chrzanowski, at Leo, near Greenbush. Following their marriage, the couple farmed in Nelson Park Township of Marshall Co., near Strandquist, for several years, before moving to their farm in Wright township, near Florian. There they farmed for 44 years.

Blazewski was a member of the Assumption Catholic church of Florian.

He is survived by his wife; two sons: Albert and Richard Blazejewski, both of Strandquist; two daughters: Mrs. Rose Sylskar, Karlstad, and Mrs. Stanley (Angeline) Kostrzewski, of Argyle; 10 grandchildren; one great-grandson; a sister: Mrs. Pauline Demski, Milwaukee, Wis.; five brothers: Leo Blazejewski, Greenbush; Ludwig and Casmier, both of Newfolden; and Edward and Florian, both of Strandquist; in addition to several nieces, nephews, and other relatives.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two brothers, two sisters, and one grandson.

Mrs. Thelma Wetterlund Of Karlstad Dies

Mrs. Thelma Elizabeth Wetterlund, 72, of Karlstad, died at the Kittson County Memorial hospital in Hallock on Saturday evening, August 25. She had been in failing health for the past several years.

Funeral services for Mrs. Thelma Wetterlund were held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, August 28, at the Community Covenant church in Lake Bronson with Pastor Keith E. Carlson officiating. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery, with the Collins Funeral home of Karlstad in charge of arrangements. Miss Faith Bogestad sang and Miss Cindy Nyflot served as organist.

Pallbearers were: Bennie Bengtson, Ralph Mattson, Gussie Swanson, Forrest Hams, Gordon Wetterlund, and Gordy Wetterlund.

Mrs. Wetterlund, the former Thelma Elizabeth Middleton, was born May 2, 1907 at Pontiac, Mich., to Thomas and Carrie Middleton. She attended school and grew to womanhood there. She was united in marriage to Charles Hawley. They made their home in Pontiac until his death in 1939.

On June 19, 1946, she was united in marriage to David T. Wetterlund at Humbolt. They farmed in Percy Township of Kittson, Co., near Lake Bronson, until 1964, when they retired and moved to Karlstad. Her husband died in March of 1972. After his death Mrs. Wetterlund continued to make her home at Karlstad.

She is survived by one son: Donald Hawley, of Charlotte, N.D.; one granddaughter, Merrie; two sisters: Lully and Gladys, both in Michigan; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by both husbands, her parents, and five brothers and sisters.

SPARSE ATTENDANCE at the September 1 hearing in Newfolden on the family farm concept and a proposed land use statement was compensated for by lively discussion among the panel and audience members. The Newfolden meeting, which drew approximately 20 persons, was the first of four such hearings to be held in the Crookston Catholic diocese on the development of a land use statement.

CINDI RUSSELL gave a demonstration entitled "Button, Button Missing a Button," at the Minnesota state fair August 24 on how to sew on buttons. This was Cindi's first year in 4-H. She is 12 years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Russell.

Melville Simon Services Held Here Sunday

Funeral services for Melville F. Simon, 70, of Thief River Falls, were held Sunday at 2 p.m., at the United Methodist church in this city. Simon died Friday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Jonathan Law officiated at the services. Special music included a selection by the church choir with Jeanne Harger as organist. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Ed DeLap, Ed Simon, Randall Noper, Chris Saustad, Dennis Wegge and Ronald Anderson.

Melville F. Simon was born Aug. 10, 1909 at Duluth to Charles and Mildred Simon. He attended school in Duluth and grew to manhood there working for Stone, Ordean and Wells Wholesale Grocery in the fruit department.

On June 21, 1934, he was married at Duluth to Catherine Vondenberg. The couple lived in Duluth. In 1941, they moved to this city, where they resided at 816 Arnold Avenue North.

While living here, Simon was employed by Hartz Wholesale, in the fruit department, until his retirement in 1975.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Lyle Simon, Minneapolis; two daughters: Mrs. Jerald (Phyllis) Quam, East Grand Forks and Mrs. Charles (Catherine) Anderson, Excelsior; five grandsons and two sisters, Mrs. George (Hazel) Anderson, Duluth, and Mrs. Ronald D. (Marlene) Swanson, Bloomington.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother.

Jacob Kenner Of Gatzke Dies In Grand Forks

Jacob Raymond Kenner, 57, of Gatzke, died unexpectedly at the United Hospital in Grand Forks on Thursday morning, August 30.

Funeral services for Ray Kenner were held at 11 a.m. Saturday, September 1, at the United Lutheran church in Gatzke, with pastor Robert Amundson officiating. Interment was in the Landstad cemetery near Gatzke. Military honors were accorded by the Middle River American Legion Post. Collins funeral home of Middle River was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Ralph Hagen, Bill Bernstein, Harold Klamar, Gene Peterson, Reuben Brawley, and Tom Frederich. Vocal selections were by The Boy's Quartet, Mrs. Howard Lunsetter, and the congregation. Mrs. Glenn Larson was the organist.

Jacob Kenner, the son of the late James and Grace Kenner, was born Aug. 15, 1922, near Walsenburg, Colo. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Walsenburg community, where he was baptized in the Church of Christ. He served with the U.S. Marine Corps in China during WW II; and following his discharge in 1946, he returned to ranching in Colorado. On Jan. 7, 1950, he was united in marriage to Frieda Hoernicke at Denver. Following their marriage, the couple engaged in ranching in southern Colorado until 1971, when they moved to their present farm in Rollis Township of Marshall Co., near Gatzke. There they have since resided.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Bart Kenner, at home, two daughters, Miss Cindy Kenner of Abilene, Texas, and Mrs. Carl (Jamie) Clark of Gatzke; one grandson, Joshua; four brothers, Elmer Kenner, Ignacio, Colo., Loren Kenner, LaJunta, Colo., Homer Kenner of Wannaska and Ralph Kenner of Oraville, Wash.; seven sisters, Mrs. Helen Wookey, Fowler, Colo.; Mrs. Louis (Gladys) Nolan, Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Clara Reid, Kremmeling, Colo., Mrs. Dale (Edna) Wookey, Fowler, Colo., Mrs. Charles (Leora) Bowdino, Corvallis, Mont., Mrs. Charles (Irene) Lewis, LaJunta, Colo., and Mrs. David (Ruth) Zorman, Colorado Springs, Colo.; in addition to several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother.

Agassiz HSA Plans Monthly Meets Sept. 6

Standing committees of Agassiz health systems agency will have their monthly meetings Thursday at the American Inn in East Grand Forks.

At 9:30 a.m. the project review committee will meet in a work session to discuss review criteria. No grants or certificate-of-need applications will be reviewed.

Implementation and education committee will also meet at 9:30 a.m. Their agenda deals with agency community involvement strategies and progress made on the 1979 annual implementation plan.

At 1 p.m. a special task force of the plan development committee will discuss the national guidelines which must be addressed in the agency's planning process.

All Agassiz HSA meetings are open to the public. For more detailed information on any of the committee meetings or the functions of the agency, please contact Mary Ellen Preston at: Agassiz Health Systems Agency, 124 DeMers Avenue, East Grand Forks, MN 56721.

Blood Pressure Testing Set At County Sites

Blood pressure testing conducted by the Inter-County nursing service for Pennington and Red Lake counties will be held several times this month at three separate county sites.

Blood pressure tests will be taken at the nursing office in the courthouse in Thief River Falls from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) and on Wednesday, September 19; from 1 to 3 p.m. on Monday, September 24, at the Skylite apartments in Thief River Falls; and from 12:30 to 2 p.m. on Monday, September 10, at Faith Lutheran church in Goodridge.

Staff members of the Inter-County nursing service note that about one person in six has high blood pressure and that those who do should talk to their physicians to get specific answers to their questions.

In general, however, the nursing service notes that blood pressure can be controlled but rarely cured. Persons placed on a prescription by their doctor should take their medications as scheduled, not assume they have been cured because blood pressure returns to normal.

High blood pressure has no symptoms and does not affect only those who are nervous or tense. Hypertension, — another term for high blood pressure — should not be confused with nervous tension. Staying calm won't control high blood pressure.

"If your doctor has prescribed medicine for you, he or she may advise other things such as losing weight or reducing the amount of salt in the diet to help the medication work better," the nursing office reports.

"Sometimes this may reduce the amount of medication needed and on occasion even allow a person to stop taking medicine. The plan the doctor recommends is designed especially for the individual. Discuss the plan with him or her and follow the advice given."

Business Hall Of Fame Seeks New Inductees

Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry, host sponsor for the 1979 Minnesota business hall of fame, announces that nominations of outstanding Minnesota business people for induction into the hall of fame will close at 5 p.m., Friday, September 14.

Inductees are selected each year on the following basis:

(1) Demonstrated qualities of entrepreneurship — having assumed the risks, successfully organized and managed a business enterprise in Minnesota;

(2) Applied creativity and innovation to the organization and development of a successful business;

(3) Contributed to the competitive private enterprise system through the creation of quality jobs and provided employees with development opportunities;

(4) Demonstrated business and personal ethical qualities, including dedication to competitive private enterprise, environment, community and family.

Four outstanding Minnesota business people will be inducted into the hall of fame at ceremonies to be held at Atwood Center, St. Cloud state university on Tuesday, October 16.

An independent panel of judges selects the four outstanding nominees for induction.

Nominations may be made through local chambers of commerce. For further information contact Mark S. Anderson, Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry, 480 Cedar Street, Saint Paul, Minnesota 55101, phone (612) 227-9591.

Child Screening At Methodist Church Sept. 10

Thief River Falls schools will offer screening for all children that are four as of Sept. 1, 1979 who have not been screened. Screening will be September 10 at the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls. Screening consists of two parts: Educational - developmental (gross motor, fine motor, concepts and communication) and health (vision, hearing, lab-blood and urine, nutritional review, dental review, health history review and physical assessment).

Purposes of this screening are to provide the school with a complete health history on every child and to identify children who may have health or developmental problems, so they may receive educational services or be referred to health sources prior to kindergarten attendance. Any child found to have a need will receive services this fall.

If your child has not been screened or you have not received a letter with an appointment for screening, please call 874-8770 (toll free).

MN. July Bond Purchases Up From Last Year

Series E Bond purchases in Minnesota through the month of July totaled $9,647,593. This reflects an increase of five per cent over purchases for the same period last year-to-date of $9,187,275.

While cumulative sales are down approximately 10 per cent year-to-date, $77,216,855 through July of 1979 as compared with $87,324,232 for July of 1978, we anticipate an increase in purchases because of the increase in interest rate to 6½ per cent as of June 1, 1979.

Nationally, July sales, down by only four per cent from last July's sales represented the smallest monthly percentage decrease since November, 1978. Redemptions, totaling $911 million, were for the third month in a row on the decline, bringing the monthly average below $1 billion for the first time this year.

July sales of $600 million increased year-to-date sales to $4.4 billion. The seven month total, down 11 per cent from sales of $4.9 billion for the same period last year, was surpassed during the 34 years since 1945 only by the three similar seven month periods in 1976 through 1978.

Upper Midwest Hiway Funding Conference Set

To investigate new alternative solutions to highway funding problems, the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) and Minnesota association of counties have initiated an upper Midwest conference to bring together states and county associations in those states with common highway revenue problems, Commissioner Richard Braun, Mn-DOT, announced today.

"Our highway funds just can't buy the same value per dollar that they could in the past," he said. "Construction costs are up 21 per cent for 1978 over 1977. Reduced fuel consumption also has the potential of greatly limiting the revenues we receive since the majority of the revenues are based on fuel tax. These factors will limit highway maintenance and development unless new alternatives for funding sources are found. This is not a problem unique to Minnesota, but is a nationwide problem affecting all states to varying degrees."

Upper Midwest highway funding conference will be held September 11 and 12 at the Twins motor lodge in St. Paul. Northern states from the midwest expected to be represented include Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. Representatives from two states with variable fuel taxes, Washington and Texas, will share their experience with conference participants.

First day activities will include working sessions where participants can share information and identify common needs and problems. On the second day, possible approaches to those needs and problems will be developed with highway funding alternatives identified, Braun said. This information will be made available to the legislature, he said.

It is anticipated that a management team will be hired by the developer to handle rental and maintenance of the building when it is completed. In anticipation of the building's completion, however, the city's housing and redevelopment authority has received 152 requests for applications for rentals. Requests date back to 1977 so that circumstances may have changed for some applicants, but there is no duplication among the 152 applicants.

Sprinkler system is being installed throughout the building for fire safety, according to Thief River Falls fire chief Dunne Noel, who says he also believes the city must be looking to acquire an aerial device for the fire department in the not too distant future. A device capable of fighting fire and providing rescue to the height of the new apartment complex currently lists between $200,000 and $250,000, he said.

"I have the greatest of confidence in sprinkler systems to put out a fire," he said, "but rescue is a concern in the event of a fire. Although buildings may be very fireproof, many contents are not and toxic fumes from furniture and other interior materials can be an extreme danger."

Family Farm, Land Use Are Meeting Topics

the people together that have the same kinds of concerns. After the statement is finalized it will become a kind of public policy statement. In a sense it will become a reaching device for us."

The church itself does not intend to become involved in the political arena but, as Bishop Balke indicated in his closing comments Saturday, it does intend to speak out in a strong voice for the preservation of the small and medium sized farm systems and therefore for the preservation of the American rural life.

Meetings similar to that held in Newfolden are scheduled in Roseau, September 8 at Sacred Heart church; in Shooks parish hall, September 22; and in Mahnomen at St. Michael's church, October 22. The meeting will run from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and are open to persons of all denominations concerned about land use.

A final land use statement is expected to be released in early 1980 by the U.S. conference of Catholic bishops and all comments solicited through the regional hearings will be used in formulating that final statement.

In the meantime, as one of Saturday's panelists quipped, "Pray for a good harvest, but keep on hoeing."

It will be among approximately 40 garments shown in the "Fashion Reflections" style show to be presented by The Mercantile Company Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls. The show is free and the public is invited to view the fall fashions old and new modeled by Sheila, Lori Green, Marilyn Nelson, Mary Anderson, Mary Evans, Jodie Williamson, Andrea Lia and Jess McCabe.

RRV History Society Given Hartz Grant

L.B. Hartz foundation of Thief River Falls recently awarded the Red River Valley historical society a grand total of $12,000 over a four-year period beginning in 1980 to be used for general operating expenses of the society.

The society is a regional umbrella association of heritage groups, individuals and businesses in the Red River valley portions of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Manitoba, Canada. Purpose is to preserve and interpret the heritage of the valley through publications and educational programs and the construction of a network of heritage inperpretive centers throughout the valley.

In 1976 the society awarded L.B. Hartz its "Excellence in Life Award" for his commercial and philanthropic contributions to the quality of life in the valley. Hartz has been a "Sod Buster" member of the society for several years.

Norman Brown Participates In Naval Exercise

Navy fire control technician 2nd class Norman L. Brown, whose wife, Shirley, is the daughter of John A. and Donna Taylor of Saint Hilaire, recently participated in the U.S. 6th fleet operation "National Week 79" in the central Mediterranean sea.

Brown, a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Albany, operating from Italy, took part in the week-long exercise which involved 20 ships and 200 aircraft. Almost 15,000 sailors and Marines participated. "National Week" was designed to test naval warfare techniques and proficiency in a simulated multi-threat air, surface ship and submarine warfare environment.

A 1971 graduate of Lincoln High school, Thief River Falls, and a 1973 graduate of Northland Community College, with an Associate of Arts degree, Brown joined the Navy in October 1974.

Seek Driver Evaluator Applicants

Kenneth Dirkzwager, director of the driver and vehicle services division of the Minnesota department of public safety, has announced that applicants are being sought for driver evaluator until Sept. 10, 1979. Testing and evaluating a person's ability to operate a motor vehicle is the major responsibility of driver evaluators.

"There are opportunities statewide and a complete training program is provided for those selected. Selection is made without regard to color, creed, race, religion or sex, and women and minotiries are encouraged to apply," Dirkzwager said.

In order to apply applicants must possess or be able to obtain a Minnesota driver license, pass a physical exam, background check and have corrected vision of 20-40. Civil service examination used will involve a written test covering reading comprehension and a specially designed "assessment exercise" simulating an evaluator's work.

Applications and further information may be obtained from any area office of state job services or the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, Office of Personnel, 210 Transportation building, St. Paul, MN 55155. Completed form should be sent to the department of personnel, Third Floor Space Center Building, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55101, and received no later than September 10, 1979.

"CREPES FOR CREEPS" was the title of Collette Thune and Gretchen McEwen's 4-H demonstration at the Minnesota state fair August 24. Together they made dinner and desert crepes. Fourteen-year-old Collette (left) is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Thune of Thief River Falls and has been in 4-H for six years. Gretchen (right), 14, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McEwen of Thief River Falls and has been a 4-H participant one year.

St. John Will Change Back To Old Schedule

On September 9 the worship hour will revert back to the winter scheduling of 1 :30 a.m. at St. John Lutheran church — Missouri synod in Thief River Falls.

In connection with this, the Sunday school will begin at 9:15 a.m. with a opening assembly in the church sanctuary. Sunday school is for all ages from three years old through adult and is supervised by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Froschheiser.

Following the 10:30 a.m. worship there will be a noon potluck dinner held in the basement. Hosting the dinner will be the following families of the congregation: Ed and Ben Timm, Lloyd Taylor, Cyril Stensrud, Jerome Skjerping, Mrs. Karen Swanson, Miss Hulda Stock and Mrs. Ellen Spray, with Thorton Stark and Dick Turner families supervising.

Trunk Highways Unaffected By Rule Change

A Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) rule has been suspended by the legislative commission to review administrative rules. This means that diagonal parking can be established on city streets classified as county state-aid highways or municipal state-aid streets, Mn-DOT commissioner Richard P. Braun said.

A state newspaper carried a news service article reporting that the suspended rule applied to both trunk highways and county highways. It applies only to state-aid roads. According to Braun, this action by the legislative committee in no way affects the commissioner's authority to control parking on the state highway system.

Braun also pointed out that Minnesota statute 169.35 subdivision 1, requires parallel parking except where angle parking is permitted by local ordinance.

WHY DO YOU GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL?

Sometimes Sunday school becomes a family habit. Parents bring their children to Sunday school and when these children grow up and become married, they bring their children to Sunday school. The Sunday school habit is a good one, but a good habit is not necessarily a good reason for attending Sunday school. Sometimes children and adults attend Sunday school to learn more about the Bible. This is good as we all need to know the Bible better. But is knowledge of the Bible all we want out of Sunday school? "Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth." (II Tim. 3:7)

The finest reason for attending Sunday school is that we may come to know Christ and learn about living a Christian life. It is vital that people come to know Christ or be eternally lost.

Heat, Safety Important In Curing Wood

Looking ahead to the long nights and chilling winds of winter, many people think about warm toasty fireplace or wood stove fires. One basic guideline for effective use of wood as a heat source is to make sure the wood is "seasoned."

No eager wood burner should cut wood NOW for burning this winter. Seasoning or drying our process is a lengthy one and cannot effectively be rushed between now and the first cold day.

Two primary factors make wood drying important — heat and safety.

Wood does not automatically begin to burn when a log is tossed onto the fire. In fact, heat is robbed from the existing fire to get the new log burning and producing heat. Robbery occurs while heat from the existing fire turns excess water in the new log to steam. Still absorbing heat, the wood begins to break down into flammable gasses and charcoal. In the third stage, these gases begin to burn and produce some heat. In the fourth and final stage the charcoal residue burns and gives off significant heat, the point at which you begin to benefit from a wood fire.

Cut wood that is given adequate chance to season substantially reduces the heat-robbing stage of turning water in the log to steam. When wood moisture is high, heat output is low. So, it becomes a matter of basic economics to avoid burning green (or wet) wood which produces mostly steam instead of useful heat.

Burning green wood is more than an energy drain. It also raises the question of safety. Steam from a fire contains many wood by-products which collect on the inner surfaces of the chimney. This substance is called creosote. It attacks metal and mortar. If allowed to collect, creosote can seriously weaken a chimney, and may be responsible for chimney fires endangering the house and its occupants. Risk of chimney weakening and fire is significantly lowered by using dry or seasoned wood which creates little creosote.

If wood is not already cut, stored and well-seasoned, don't cut it now for consumption this winter. Instead, locate reputable log suppliers. Anticipate the amount of wood necessary to satisfy winter needs, locate a supplier who has cut wood with low moisture content, and find out when the wood was cut.

Test sample logs for dryness by inspecting the butt ends. Radial cracks, running from the log's center outward to the bark are keys to dryness. The wider and deeper the cracks, the dryer the wood.

If you don't yet have a winter wood supply and to avoid spending valuable time in the messy effort of cleaning a creosote-encrusted chimney created by burning green wood, buy well-seasoned wood from a reputable dealer.

For more information on wood selection and burning, call the Minnesota energy information center at 296-5175 or toll-free 800-652-9747.

Planetarium At MSU Schedules Show Series

Astrology vs. science, the possibilities of life in outer space, the Christmas star and the brilliance of Albert Einstein will be examined in a series of five shows scheduled at Moorhead state university's planetarium this school year.

The planetarium, located in Bridges hall 153 on campus (near the intersection of South 11th street and 8th avenue), seats 60 and offers striking lifelike images of space projected on a suspended 30-foot wide aluminum dome. Admission is open to the public: $1.50 for adults, $1.25 for students and one dollar for senior citizens and children under 12.

The first feature of the season is "Footsteps," a documentary tracing fact and fancy about the moon that commemorates the 10th anniversary of man's first step on the lunar surface. "Footsteps" has been showing at the planetarium this summer and will continue from Sept. 4-21. Shows are Thursdays and Fridays at 7:30 p.m.

Other planetarium shows at Moorhead state this season, expected to run weekday evenings and some weekend afternoons:

"The Universe and Dr. Einstein" Sept. 26-Nov. 16 profiles Dr. Albert Einstein's life and his contributions to science and humanity. It is part of an Einsten centennial celebration at Moorhead state this fall.

"The Star of Bethlehem" Nov. 26-Dec. 24 takes the planetarium back nearly 2,000 years in search of the wise men and a scientific explanation for the Christmas star. Was it a comet, supernova or planetary conjunction?

"Little Green Men and Big-Eyed Monsters" Jan. 14-March 21 peers into the possibility of other intelligent life in our galaxy. The show examines the social consequences of contact and techniques of communicating with extraterrestrial beings and looks at how people throughout history have pictured creatures from outer space.

"The Age of Aquarius" March 31-June 26 traces the intimate connection between astronomy and astrology from ancient Mesopotamia to renaissance Europe. The show explains how horoscopes are put together and used to map out the future and presents arguments for and against this resurging form of forecasting.

Check with the university's physics department for exact times and dates of these shows. They will change throughout the year.

Private group showings at a reduced rate may also be arranged by calling the physics department at 236-2141.

In addition to the regular season shows, the university will present a group of special children's features during the year. Children under five years old will not be admitted to the regular season shows but will during the children's features.

The Moorhead State planetarium is under the direction of Denis Mudderman, who produced the last three shows in the season's series. The other programs — "Footsteps" and "Einstein" — were put together by the Hansen planetarium in Salt Lake City with a grant from Rockwell international.

Demonstrate New Organs At St. John Church

Music committee of St. John Lutheran church-Missouri synod in Thief River Falls has set Sunday, September 9, for a demonstration within the church sanctuary of two electronic organs being considered for purchase by the congregation. The demonstration is meant to help in the final selection.

The organs will be used during the 10:30 a.m. congregational worship, with a special demonstration at 7:30 p.m. During the 7:30 p.m. demonstration, representatives of each company will explain their specific product.

Members of the organ committee are Mrs. Elaine Idso, Mrs. Ruth Jensen, Ken Kohler, Mike Lehrer, Bruno Beiswenger, Mrs. Wayne Olson and Rev. and Mrs. Barrie Henke.

Highway Dep't. Builds Houses In Minneapolis

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) is building houses these days as well as roads, according to commissioner Richard Braun.

Houses, built in conjunction with the Minneapolis housing and redevelopment authority (MHRA), replace low cost housing units removed for I-94 construction through north Minneapolis.

MN-DOT makes every effort to relocate people to safe, sound housing similar to what they had before, Braun said. But the people in a housing project along Olson Memorial highway and the I-94 corridor had no place to go.

Residents could not be relocated to similar housing that they could afford. Low cost housing projects were no longer being built by MHRA, he said.

Gene Ofstead, Mn-DOT assistant district engineer, district 5, Golden Valley, and Earl Howe, Mn-DOT right of way engineer, Golden Valley, came up with a solution. Mn-DOT would finance the construction of new homes for these families. That would keep relocation of the residents and the projected I-94 construction on schedule, Braun said.

Federal and state laws provide for such construction, but this is the first time they were applied to a low-rent housing project, according to Howe.

Ten buildings had to be removed to allow for construction of earth berms to provide noise control. The 10 buildings consist of 44 living units of from one to five-bedroom apartments, Howe said.

Mn-DOT agreed to build 40 new housing units in Minneapolis — 28 single-family and six duplexes. Construction began last fall. One duplex is now completed. Finishing touches are being applied to five three-bedroom homes.

All new homes, built by Mn-DOT with MHRA as the agent, should be completed by July 1980, Braun said. MHRA will be responsible for resident assignment.

"We are sometimes accused of being insensitive and unimaginative when it comes to routing roads through residential areas," Braun said. "I feel that this unique solution to relocating people displaced by I-94 disproves that."

Eckstein's To Open New Store In Moorhead

Roger Eckstein, Red Lake Falls businessman, announced recently that his company will open a store in the Moorhead Center Mall in April of 1980. The Moorhead operation with 26,000 square feet of floor space will be slightly larger than the Red Lake Falls store which is a 22,000 square foot facility.

"Eckstein's" was founded by Roger Eckstein in February of 1959 when he opened a 1,200 square foot hardware store. A year later the business moved to a larger facility and Roger's father, Fred, joined the company. The business expanded further in 1972, 1975 and again in 1976 when it moved to its present location in the Peppermint Square shopping center.

During this time Fred Eckstein retired and Roger's sons, Terry and Scott, joined the business and Eckstein's began handling a wider variety of merchandise including ready-to-wear apparel.

In making the announcement of the upcoming expansion, Roger Eckstein stated, "The management in the Red Lake Falls store has grown to the point where we are able to handle a second store." The Moorhead facility will employ 50 people on a full and part-time basis. Three employees are expected to be transferred to the new store and five hired for the Red Lake Falls operation.

Four Pipelines Seek To Serve Northern Tier

A final environmental statement (FES) on four competing applications for crude oil transportation systems to supply Alaskan and foreign crude oil to the northern tier and inland states is available to the public, assistant secretary Guy R. Martin announced today.

Martin said public comment would be accepted on the FES until the end of September 1979. This procedure recognizes new legislation and changed circumstances since the draft environmental statement was published in January 1979.

The draft environmental statement considered only one application submitted by the Northern Tier Pipeline company, but the final ES analyzes the three additional applicants that came into the picture with passage of the public utility regulatory policies act of 1978 (PURPA). They are Northwest Energy company, Kitimat Pipe Line, Ltd., and Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line corporation.

Applicant in the draft ES was the Northern Tier Pipeline company whose application on April 18, 1977, for a right-of-way across public land caused BLM to prepare and issue the draft environmental statement. However, before the DES was issued Jan. 11, 1979, the public utility regulatory policies act of 1978 (PURPA) was enacted on November 9, 1978. This act permitted multiple applications and established a Presidential decision process to determine which, if any, system should be approved.

Northern Tier Pipeline company proposes port and onshore storage facilities at Port Angeles, Wash., and a 1,491-mile pipeline system extending to Clearbrook.

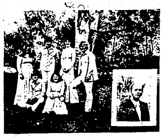
Northwest Energy company proposes port and onshore storage facilities at Skagway, Alaska, and a 710-mile pipeline system extending to Keg River, Alberta, Canada. From Keg River, crude oil would be delivered through existing systems to the northern tier states.

Kitimat Pipe Line, Ltd., proposes port and onshore storage facilities at Kitimat, British Columbia, and a 753-mile pipeline, extending to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. From Edmonton, crude oil would be delivered through existing systems to the northern tier states.

Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line corporation proposes port and onshore storage facilities at Low Point near Port Angeles, Wash., and an 823-mile pipeline system extending to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. From Edmonton crude oil would be delivered through existing systems to northern tier states.

Single copies of the FES, "Crude Oil Transportation Systems," are available from the Bureau of Land Management, Northern Tier Project Office, Room 1250, Lloyd Building, 700 N.E. Multnomah Avenue, Portland, Oregon 97232 or the Bureau of Land Management, Office of Public Affairs (130), Main Interior Building, 18th and C Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20240.

Comments on the FES should be sent to the Oregon State Director, Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 2965, Portland, Oregon 97208.



SANDLAND FAMILY of Roseau will be featured this Sunday at the Faith Lutheran Brethren Church. Special program for Sunday school rally day will be presented by the family. Sunday school will begin at 10 a.m. and worship services at 11 a.m.

Volleyball Skills Improve

Crowds, although still far from being large, are picking up at Lincoln high school girls volleyball matches. And as the quality of play improves, fans are becoming more and more appreciative of the player performances.

Spectators are becoming more knowledgeable about the sport, and as a result are enjoying the game more.

"The object of volleyball is to put the ball on your opponent's floor," is a simple explaination of the game given by Jon Stanley, player-coach of the Denver Comets of the International Volleyball Association. Stanley, in talking with former Olympian Bruce Jenner for an article in the Minneapolis Star, continued by saying, "The most efficient way of doing that is by setting up an attacker near the net."

Spiking is hardly an individual effort. Teams will always try to use the three touches they're allowed every time the ball comes to their side of the net in an effort to get the spiker into position.

"If at all possible, use your three touches," mentioned Stanley. "There are going to be times when it's not necessary or possible, but for the most part, your offense will work more efficiently when you do. You never see an IVA team or an Olympic team return the ball from the backcourt. Volleyball is more enjoyable when it's played right. By using all three touches you involve more members of your team, and that makes everyone feel useful. Three touches should be the rule, not the exception."

The three-touch system obviously requires great teamwork as you receive the opposition's serve or shot, get the ball to the setter and then in turn move the ball to the spiker; ideally high enough so the attacker is hitting down on the ball.

"Setting is a real skill," said Stanley. "The good setter can fool the defense and keep the offense moving. He's the quarterback of the team. The idea is to deceive the defense so the attacker will only have to face one blocker at the net. If there is no deception or if the timing is poor, the attacker may find himself facing two or sometimes three blockers at the net."

"An attacker, however, can not afford to be stubborn," offered Stanley. "If the defense has read the play, it is up to the attacker to adjust, even if he is already in the air. An attacker should be prepared to exercise his options. You can throw a change-up by dinking the ball over the heads of the blockers, or instead of going for the kill you may have to settle for the deep crosscourt shot."

"The attacker naturally wants to go straight down with the ball," Stanley said. "If there is only one blocker at the net, the attacker should get the kill 80 per cent of the time. But if there are two blockers, the attacker can fake one way and go another."

One of the best attackers in northwestern Minnesota is Thief River Falls Stacy Ehrenstrom whose smashes at the net always bring the biggest fan response.

Carrying a 1-1 record for the year after a 2-1 victory over Detroit Lakes and a 2-0 loss to a fine Warren team Tuesday, the Prowlers will host Alvarado Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln gym.

Ponies Blank Prowlers 2-0 In Volleyball

It was 45 minutes late getting started, but once Tuesday's Thief River Falls-Warren volleyball match got underway it didn't take long to complete as the Ponies brushed off the Prowlers 2-0 in 25 minutes.

Warren came back from a 7-2 deficit to win the opener 18-10. A Stacy Ehrenstrom spike set the Prowlers up with a 10-9 edge, but the Ponies rattled off the next nine points to win easily.

Another slow Warren start in the second game had things knotted at 5-5, but with Jill Carlson serving eight points, the Ponies scored 13 unanswered points for an 18-5 landslide.

"That one server (Carlson) killed us," said Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss. "We couldn't get rid of her. If you can't receive the serves, you can't win the game."

And on the other side of the net, the Thief River Falls servers had trouble finding the range. "We didn't get our serves over," admitted Stauss. And when the Prowlers did put the ball in play, "Warren had some nice offense," she pointed.

Thief River Falls, 1-1 for the year, will complete a season-opening three-match homestand Thursday when the Prowlers host Alvarado at 7:30 p.m.

Lincoln junior varsity, scheduled to face Alvarado at 6:30, improved its record to 2-0 with a 2-1 victory over Warren that featured an exciting 18-14 third game decision.

Prowlers Edge Rams 3-2 In Girls Tennis

Lincoln high school girls tennis team opened its 1979 season Tuesday with a 3-2 win at Roseau.

The Rams' Nancy Harris and Colleen Folley were winners at first and second singles, but the Prowlers came up with a key point from Nancy Swanson who beat Stephene Ryken 6-0, 6-3 at third singles and then swept the doubles matches.

Thief River Falls will host Mahnomen Thursday at 3 p.m. in the Prowlers' home opener.

Sports Boosters Meet Thursday

Gene Jurgens, Lincoln high school head football coach, will be the guest speaker Thursday at the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club meeting.

The 12 noon luncheon meeting, open to the public, will be held in the Rex Cafe.

A BLOCK ATTEMPT by Warren defender Pam Edgar (left) wasn't needed as Thief River Falls' Stacy Ehrenstrom put her shot into the net during Tuesday's volleyball match played in the Lincoln high school gym. The Ponies beat the Prowlers 18-10, 18-5. Thief River Falls, 1-1 for the year, will host Alvarado Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Prowlers Play Lakers In Friday Night Home Opener

Thief River Falls and Detroit Lakes, two teams who were out-scored by a combined 66-8 margin in their 1979 high school football season openers, are hoping to regroup this week in time for the Prowlers' 7:30 p.m. home opener Friday on the Thief River Falls athletic field.

The Prowlers began the season last Thursday with a 30-8 loss at Grand Forks Red River while the Lakers absorbed a 36-0 setback at the hands of Fergus Falls Friday at Detroit Lakes.

"We'll both be looking to putting it together Friday," anticipated Thief River Falls coach Gene Jurgens who scouted the Lakers-Otters match. "Fergus Falls was tough and Detroit Lakes had some trouble," he noted, "but they'll probably match up a lot better against us."

Detroit Lakes coach Dick Riedberger isn't so sure. "Defensively I think we can match up, but offensively Thief River has more weapons than we have," he said by telephone Tuesday. "We just don't have the offensive power to move the football. Potentially, Thief River has an outstanding offense. I was really impressed with (Jon) Pinkerton and (Jim) Thompson at the ends and the way (Bill) Jury can run with the football."

Detroit Lakes' slot-I offense, with both Scott Santwire and Dave Riedberger trying their hand at quarterback, could not put points on the board against Fergus Falls even though the Lakers, by capitalizing on the Otters' penchant for fumbling away punts, ran 15 more plays and had the ball inside Fergus Falls' 20 yard line four times.

"We were satisfied with our running game, but not our passing," acknowledged Riedberger who started Neil Sonnenberg at fullback and Gerry Seim at tailback where Dave Riedberger also saw action.

Inconsistency hurt the Lakers on defense, reported Jurgens, although he was impressed with the play of tackles Steve Dorff, a 235-pounder, and Tom Olson, who did not start but saw extensive duty. "They have good size tackles that we'll have to handle," he noted.

"We had trouble with our defense," admitted Reidberger who said inexperience played a big role in the Laker's problems.

Both teams were physically damaged in their openers, but the Prowlers will apparently recover from the injuries that at one time or another struck down nearly the entire offensive backfield.

"We think they're all going to be ready," mentioned Jurgens who did not practice the team Friday but did run the Prowlers through Labor Day drills Monday. "We didn't have anybody to do anything with Friday," he quipped. "They were there Monday; not 100 per cent yet, but we hope by Friday they will be. We don't plan to do a lot of head-knocking in practice this week."

"We're a battered up football team," reported Riedberger who lost the services of Larry Boomgaarden, an offensive guard and a nose guard on defense, and Jeff Nelson, the Lakers' starting slot back.

Jeff Ulrich, who started the second half Thursday for the injured Tom Bjorkman and threw a 30-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Jim Thompson, is the likely starter at quarterback against Detroit Lakes. Bjorkman, in addition to his role in the defensive secondary, may split offensive time at three positions — halfback, wide receiver and quarterback.

Thompson, said Jurgens, "was one of the few shining lights" in the opener. "We felt he played just an excellent game — offensively, defensively and on special teams. Unfortunately he's probably the most banged up player we have at this point."

In addition to Friday's Thief River Falls-Detroit Lakes contest, the Lincoln sophomore-junior varsity team will open its 1979 season Thursday with a 4 p.m. sophomore game at Grand Forks Red River.

Shetler Is MVP In Fast Pitch Softball

Melvies pitcher Tom Shetler was named winner of the Dale Thomsen most valuable player award Friday at the annual Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league banquet at the American Legion.

Rookie of the year honors went to Tom Drury of Coca-Cola and most improved player award went to Bob Tunheim of Schmidts.

Other individual honors went to Roger Cota of Coca-Cola who won the league's triple crown with a .479 batting average, 12 runs-batted-in and four home runs; Del Beito of Melvies who shared the RBI leadership with Cota; and Wayne Smith of Action Realty who shared the home run title with Cota.

A special award went to manager Maynard Moen whose North Star Transport ball club won the 1979 Class B District 7 tournament, finished second in the state tournament and competed in the Northern Region tournament.

Coca-Cola earned the 1979 league championship trophy with a 15-1 regular season Thief River Falls league record.

Howard Dalager was elected president of the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league for the 1980 season. Bill Dormady was chosen vice-president and Richard Bjerken was reelected secretary-treasurer.

City Class Championships

Pat Fischer Top Shooter

Pat Fischer, Marc Horien, Jay Moum, Karl Helm and Vern Anseby were winners Tuesday as the Thief River Falls trap league conducted its annual city class championship shoot at the Marshallton Gun Club.

Fischer won the prestigious Class AA title with the night's only straight in the 50-bird competition.

Horien earned the Class A crown with a 23x25 shoot-off effort against Paul Vogt who had a 20x25 shoot-off after tying Horien at 48 in regulation rounds.

Moum claimed the Class B championship with a 46, a score matched by Terry Dahl who wasn't on hand for the shoot-off.

It required two rounds of shoot-offs before Helm emerged with the Class C trophy when Helm, Rick Skelm, Sylvia Sjoberg, Harley Lambert and Don Nygaard all shot a regulation round 40. In the shoot-offs, Helm was 21x25 and 24x25; Nygaard 21x25 and 14x25; Skelm 20x25; Sjoberg 19x25; and Lambert 15x25.

A 40 made Anseby the Class D winner.

According to league figures, Lloyd Melby was the top Thief River Falls trap league shooter this summer with an average score of 24.83 in the weekly 25-bird round. Jim Heckroth finished with a 24.56 average, Howard Thorson 24.05, Fran Johnson 24.00, Fischer 23.76, Sandy Wilson 23.58, Peter Tri 23.47, Tony Dorn, Jr. 23.43, Bill Moreau 23.35 and Ike Ellingson 23.29.

1:30 Season Opener At Virginia . . .

Northmen Go On Display Saturday Against Mesabi

Irv Smith knows he has a better football team than a year ago when the first-year Northland community college coach finished with a 2-6 record. But he's also the first to admit that he doesn't know how much better the Northmen will be this year. He'll find out Saturday when Northland begins the 1979 season with a 1:30 p.m. MJCAA Northern Division game against Mesabi at Virginia.

"We really don't know how good we are," acknowledged Smith. "And we won't know until we get into a game situation. But we feel that if we play up to our potential, we'll be really tough."

Smith will take 60 players to Virginia, twice as many bodies as he had in 1978, but isn't sure about his team's first day line-up.

"We really can't list a starting line-up at this point because everybody is so even," reported Smith. "All I can say is that we will play a lot of people. Everybody is going to play."

Only sure starter at this time is freshman quarterback Tony Smith, a 6-0, 160-pounder from Inkster, Mich. Smith was battling freshman Jose Blanco of Miami, Fla. for the starting job until Blanco suffered a dislocated elbow in practice Friday and will be sidelined for the season.

"Blanco will be sorely missed," noted Smith. But he has plenty of confidence in his namesake who was considered a better runner than Blanco, but not as strong when it comes to passing.

Jim Sethre, a freshman from Newfolden, will serve as back-up quarterback. "We're really impressed with the way he's progressed," said Smith. "He's going to be a fine quarterback."

"Mesabi," said Smith, "will be a good test. If we can play with them, we except that we'll have a very fine year."

Northland's home opener will be a Sat., Sept. 15, contest against Vermilion.

LHS Cross Country Season Is Underway

It is said that a big part of successful athletic competition is desire. Based upon that precept, Thief River Falls should have a successful cross country season this fall after an effort by team members and their parents rescued the sport when it was shelved by School District 564 officials in a budget-trimming move last spring.

"I'm glad to see there was enough interest to get it going again," said Bill McGann who will return as coach of the combined boys and girls program. "It shows that the kids have the desire to run."

Forming the nucleus of this year's born-again squad will be letter winners Bob Fitzgerald, Todd Bergland, Greg Ness and Mark Broadwell for the boys and LeAnn Peterson, Pam Swanson and Margaret White for the girls. They're all seniors except for Bergland, a junior, and White, a sophomore.

Fitzgerald and Ness will serve as co-captains of the boys team. Peterson captains the girls.

Sophomores Rob Blankenfeld, Paul Wennberg, Jeff Moser and Bruce Johnson will be joining the four lettermen to form a competitive boys squad for the Prowlers who are still looking for more girls to compete in the fall sport.

"We expect good years out of Bob Fitzgerald and Greg Ness," mentioned McGann. "They were our top runners last year and we expect them to be better this year. The others have the potential to make us a decent team."

Thief River Falls begins the 1979 season Thursday with a 4:30 p.m. boys meet at Roseau that features varsity, junior varsity and junior high school competition.

Fergus Falls	0	0	1	0

Northwest Athletic Conference football teams, 4-1 in season-opening nonconference games last week, will be given a change to duplicate or better that effort Friday when all five NWAC members appear before home town fans.

Friday's menu will find Little Falls at Bemidji, Grand Forks Central at Crookston, Grand Forks Red River at East Grand Forks, Alexandria at Fergus Falls and Detroit Lakes at Thief River Falls.

Defending NWAC champion Bemidji was the most impressive opening game winner with a 52-6 rout of a young Crosby-Ironton team that featured 17 sophomores and only nine seniors. Speedy Dale Leonard, playing just half a game, scored four touchdowns for the Lumberjacks on runs of 21, 19 and 20 yards and a 40-yard punt return. He gained 80 yards on just six carries as Bemidji racked up 457 yards on offense while limiting the Rangers to 117.

Elsewhere, Crookston outlasted West Fargo 14-12 in overtime, East Grand Forks beat Grand Forks Central 16-6, Fergus Falls shut out Detroit Lakes 36-0 and Thief River Falls was a 30-8 loser to Grand Forks Red River.

Plummer Defense Looks For Offensive Support

A solid defensive effort in a 12-2 season-opening loss at Mentor will need offensive support this week when Plummer opens the home port of its 1979 high school football schedule against McIntosh-Winger Friday at 8 p.m.

Only scoring against the Plummer defense at Mentor was done in the first and last minutes of the game. The Trojans scored just three plays into the contest when Ron Fladhammer broke loose for a 40-yard spring and then iced the game on a short touchdown plunge in the final moments.

"Defnesively we played well, except for that one touchdown — our only mental lapse on defense," explained Plummer coach Gary Brantl who had special praise for 5-11, 185-pound senior defensive end Jon Swanson who was credited with 10 unassisted tackles, 11 assists, a fumble recovery and a blocked punt which resulted in a safety and the Cardinals' lone points. "Jon played a super game," noted Brantl.

In other season-opening North Tri County Conference games last week, Gonvick beat Middle River 22-6, Erskine got by Grygla 26-18, McIntosh-Winger blanked Goodridge 28-0 and Oklee handled Clearbrook 34-2.

A key early season North Tri County Conference game will be featured Friday when defending champion Gonvick visits Oklee, considered to be a top threat to the Bulldogs in the nine-man league this fall.

Elsewhere, Middle River visits Goodridge, Clearbrook drives to Grygla and Mentor plays at Erskine.

Marshall County Central will be looking for its first Top of the State Conference win Friday when the Nordics, beaten 20-6 by highly regarded Stephen in its opener, hosts Argyle at 8 p.m.

In other Friday matches, Warroad visits Hallock and Stephen faces Lake of the Woods at Baudette, with Roseau going to Warren for a nonconference test. East Grand Forks Sacred Heart will be at Karlstad Saturday.

Lake of the Woods pulled off a major opening weekend surprise by beating defending conference champion Sacred Heart 6-0. Elsewhere, Argyle shut out Hallock 13-0, Karlstad beat Roseau 28-18 and Bagley blanked Warroad 14-0 in nonconference action.

12 Teams Will Compete Monday For Trap Title

Twelve squads will compete Monday in the 1979 Thief River Falls trap league team championship shoot at the Marshallton Gun Club. The 12 earned post-season berths by a top six finish in either the first or second half season point standings.

Second half season qualifiers, named Tuesday at the close of regular season competition, include L.B. Hartz Wholesale, Peterson-Biddick Co., Arctic Spirit, Service Master, Hible's Standard and Wilson Brothers Co. First half season entries will be Northern State Bank, Sjoberg's, The Times, Auto Body Repair, Triple J Trap Co. and Sethre's Hartz.

L.B. Hartz Wholesale wrapped up an unbeaten second half season showing with a 120-116 victory over Pepsi-Cola Tuesday while Marshallton Gun Club edged Peterson-Biddick Co. 109-108, Arctic Spirit stopped Wilson Brothers Co. 122-110, Service Master defeated the American Legion 104-93, The Times got by Sjoberg's 117-116, Auto Body Repair tripped Hydra-Mac 119-118, Soo Line Hot Shots downed First Northwestern State Bank Southside 98-86, Pizza Hut shaded H & B Oil 115-113, Sethre's Hartz upended Northern State Bank 117-114, Viking Varmints out-shot Arctic No. 3 122-120, Bjorkman's handled the Cat Busters 117-102 and Triple J Trap Co. earned a forfeit win over Noreen Development while shooting a 91. Hible's Standard and Northland Realty shot to a 120-120 tie.

Twenty-five straights were recorded by Pat Fisheer, L.B. Hartz Wholesale; Jim Heckroth, Marshallton Gun Club; Gerry Paulson, Bruce Johnson, Arctic Spirit; and Rick Sovde, Roger Van Horn, Viking Varmints.

Teams competing in Monday's post-season event are asked to have shooters report by 6 p.m. to register for the 6:30 competition. Practice traps will be open that night for those individuals participating in the team shoot.

Brothers Find A Record 186 4-Leaf Clovers

If you've always wanted to break a world's record, here's one to try your luck at: find more than 186 four-leaf clovers in only ten minutes.

That's the record set by Rob and Tom Culp, ages 11 and 9, of Denver, Colo., according to the current issue of Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine for children. The two readers of the National Wildlife Federation's children's monthly stumbled upon a whole patch of four-leaf clovers at the Hugh M. Danahy city park in North Glenn, Colo.

The Culp brothers have notified the Guiness Book of World Records of their astonishing find and hope their record will be made "official" by that British publication.

It is unusual but not unheard-of for four-leaf clovers to grow in clumps, according to Ranger Rick's magazine. No one knows for sure why some normal three-leafed clover plants grow four leaves. But some scientists speculate that poor, dry soil, too much shade, or cold nights in spring may produce the four-leafed variety.

Of the 300 kinds of clover in the world, the common white clover is the most frequent producer of four-leaf plants, says Ranger Rick.

How did the idea originate that good fortune befalls the finder of a four-leaf clover? The Culp brothers don't know, but figure that if there is any truth to the rumor, they're in for a lifetime of good luck.

Ekeren Drug Golf Titlist

Sparked by strong rounds from its entire team, Ekeren Drug scored an impressive net score of 166, 14 under par, to win the 1979 men's golf league playoff title at the Thief River Country Club.

The veteran Ekeren team, led by Lincoln high school golf coach Jack Boyer, shot rounds of par or better over the Country Club course. Wally DuChamp came in with the low net score of 31, followed by Monty Markstrom with a 32, Boyer 33, Arnie Lee 34 and Jerry Imgrund 39.

Placing second, five strokes back of Ekeren, was the Elks Club with a 171. Elks golfers include Frank Womack, Gary Flynn, Art Welter, Jim Solsten and Myrle Carlson.

Remainder of the ten-team field included Blue Cross 177, Arctic Swingers 180, Hartz Wholesale 181, Wennbergs 181, Paint and Glass 186, Miracle Water 187, Pepsi-Cola 191 and Home Box Office 200.

Tom Williams of Blue Cross shot the tournament low gross of 36. Low net score was DuChamp's 31. Each member of the winning Ekeren team will receive a dozen golf balls and a $25 certificate from the Country Club Pro Shop. Sponsoring Ekeren Drug will be given a trophy.

Ralph Foster Is President Cup Golf Champion

Ralph Foster defeated Arnie Narverud in a nine-hole playoff to win the annual President's Cup golf tournament played last week at the Thief River Country Club.

Both Foster and Narverud finished the nine-hole handicap tournament at 6-under-par 30. Foster defeated Narverud by two strokes in the playoff.

In a tie for third place, Wally DuChamp and Jim Solsten shot 31's. Tom Williams shot the low net round with a 36.

For his victory, Foster wins a new golf bag and the President Cup, a traveling trophy.

In other golf news, local golfers again placed well in area tournaments over the Labor Day weekend.

Playing in the Labor Day shortstop at Grafton, N.D., Jay Moum placed third in the championship flight with a three round total of 110, two over par.

Dick Skay finished four strokes back at 114, tieing for sixth place on the tight Fair Oaks golf course.

Thief River Golfer Art Welter was the seventh flight runnerup in the annual three day Vandersluis memorial golf tournament at the Bemidji Town and Country Club.

Steel Shot Rules Same As Last Year

Regulations requiring the use of steel shot for waterfowl hunting will be the same as last season, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources announced.

This means that it will be illegal to take ducks, geese or coot while possessing 12 gauge shotshells loaded with any metal other than steel in the following areas:

1—All waters within the boundaries of all state wildlife management areas and all federal waterfowl production areas, and within a 150 yard zone adjacent to the margins of these waters.

This includes lakes, ponds, marshes, swamps, rivers, streams and seasonally flooded areas of all types. Drainage ditches and temporary sheet water more than 150 yards from the water areas described above are excluded from the steel shot requirement.

Except for the Roseau wildlife management area, controlled hunting zones for goose management areas are exempt from the steel shot requirement.

2—Steel shot will also be required in 12 gauge guns on the following lakes and within a 150 yard margin of the lakes: Swan and Middle lakes in Nicollet county; North and South Heron lakes in Jackson county; Pelican lake in Wright county; Bear lake in Freeborn county; Lake Christina in Douglas and Grant counties.

3—Steel shot in 12 gauge guns will also be required on the Mississippi river bottoms between Hastings and the Iowa border. (This area is bounded on the west by U.S. Highway 61, U.S. Highway 16 and State Trunk Highway 26.)

Steel shot will be required in shotguns of all gauges when hunting waterfowl on the Tamarac national wildlife refuge in Becker county and the Sherburne national wildlife refuge in Sherburne county.

State wildlife officials noted that the steel shot regulations are also being printed in the 1979 waterfowl hunting synopsis which will be available soon from county auditors and license agents.

They pointed out that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced that beginning in 1980 there will no longer be a gauge exemption. This means that next season anyone hunting waterfowl in a steel shot zone will have to use steel shotshells.

Steel is widely available only in 12 gauge at the present time.

DNR has also announced intent to require steel shot for all waterfowl hunting in the Lac qui Parle goose zone beginning with the 1980 season.

Studies show that Canada geese and mallards are ingesting lead pellets from stubble fields in the heavily hunted Lac qui Parle area.

Butterflies Are Combative Says NWF Magazine

Butterfly looks like one of nature's most helpless creatures. But its fragile appearance is deceiving. Actually, it is a tough, combative little winged insect with some amazing powers, according to the current issue of National Wildlife magazine.

In defending their home territory, butterflies can be "astonishingly aggressive," says the bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation. An angry butterfly, for example, may pursue a trespasser for 500 years to repel him.

Adult butterflies can't bite, but some of the more pugnacious species — such as the pearl crescent and the American copper — will dart out at anything that ventures into their "turf," whether it is a cat, a dog, a human, a Frisbee of even the shadow of an airplane.

Some butterflies brawl vigorously among themselves over territorial rights, says National Wildlife. Three or four buckeye butterflies will rise into the air together and attempt to batter one another to earth. The males of the Minor's swallowtail are so belligerent that their fights often result in shredded wings, lost legs and broken antennae.

Butterfly assaults are often accompanied by a "battle cry" — a series of sharp clicks, audible for more than 1000 feet and made by snapping two body segments together while moving both pairs of wings at a peculiar, alternating beat.

Butterflies possess "remarkably acute" senses, says the National Wildlife report. They are thought to have the broadest visual spectrum of any animal on earth. Their senses of smell and taste are extremely sharp and vital to their feeding and mating. Monarch butterflies, for example, have a taste sensitivity about 2,400 times greater than humans.

Considering their powerful senses and their belligerence, the magazine concludes, it's fortunate for humans that butterflies are "all bluster and no bite."

Anterless Deer Permit Ends September 14

Minnesota deer hunters were reminded by the Department of Natural Resources that they have only until September 14 to get their applications for antlerless permits into the DNR.

Roger Holmes, chief of the department's wildlife section, emphasized that applications received postmarked after September 14 will not be eligible for the computerized drawing that will select the successful applicants for the antlerless permits.

And he urged those seeking antlerless permits not to wait until the last day to send in their applications "to avoid the extra costs and delays resulting from a huge last day rush."

Big game hunting regulations and permit applications are available from county auditors and license agents. Holmes urged hunters to read the regulations carefully before submitting their application for an antlerless permit.

"Failure to comply with instructions will make an application invalid and it will be rejected from the drawing," he said.

Camp Ripley Deer Season Dates Are Set

Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Military Affairs announced that an archery deer season will be held in Camp Ripley November 17 to December 2.

DNR will conduct a random drawing to select 2,000 archers to hunt each of three weekends. There will be no limitations on the number of archers on weekdays.

To enter the drawing, archers must submit a stamped, self-addressed postcard (3½x5½) in an evelope to: Camp Ripley Hunt, Department of Natural Resources, 1102 Willow Street, Brainerd, Minnesota 56401.

Archers must indicate first and second choices of the three weekends available. Those wishing to apply in parties of two or more must submit one postcard per archer but should mail all the postcards in the same envelope.

All applications must be postmarked, or hand delivered, to the Brainerd DNR office no later than Oct. 1.

Under no circumstances can any archer submit more than one postcard, whether the hunter applies singly or in a party.

Successful applicants will receive their validated postcards back no later than Oct. 26. Returned postcards will be validated as: "Valid either sex" or "valid bucks only". Postcards not selected in the random drawing will not be returned.

To insure that the deer herd does not decline, said wildlife officials, a quota of antlerless permits has been established. For the weekend of Nov. 17-18, a total of 1,700 buck-only and 300 either-sex permits will be issued. For Nov. 24-25, 1,600 bucks-only permits and 400 either-sex permits will be issued. On the final weekend of Dec. 1-2, 1,500 bucks-only permits, and 500 either-sex permits will be issued.

Officials explained that under this procedure a group of hunters who are hunting as a party could be comprised of licensed hunters with buck-only permits, licensed hunters with either-sex permits, or a combination thereof.

Anyone who kills or tags an antlerless deer must have an either-sex permit for Camp Ripley.

Archers wishing to hunt on weekdays will not have to preregister but will draw their permits at the DNR checkpoint in Camp Ripley upon arrival.

Most weekday permits will be bucks-only, but some either-sex permits will be drawn also. Should the number of does harvested reach 75, the hunt will change to bucks-only for the duration of the season. If that occurs, all hunters, including holders of either-sex permits, will be restricted to bucks-only.

As in the past years, archers must enter and leave Camp Ripley via the Railroad Gate only and proceed directly to the DNR checkpoint. At the checkpoint they will be given maps and copies of all regulations.

The gates will open at noon Friday, Nov. 16 to allow archers to enter the campground and line up at the checkpoint. All vehicles must be occupied while in line and no one will be allowed into the hunting area until the season opens.

Headstones to mark the graves of 225,435 eligible beneficiaries were furnished last year by the Veterans Administration's Department of Memorial Affairs. This included over 2,800 which were shipped outside the continental United States.

A $10,000 MERCHANDISE trap shoot held Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Marshallton Gun Club featured four Arctic Cat Jag snowmobiles as the top prizes in the Sunday and Monday handicap yardage events. Two of the winners included Roger Vollmers (left) of Oslo who shot a 95x100 Sunday and Bob Wehe (right) of Grand Forks who shot a 95x100 Monday. Milo Martinson of Perham and Harold Vollan of Bemidji were also snowmobile winners in the shoot, advertised as one of the largest merchandise events in the state.

Tips On Saving Fuel Offered For Boat Owners By DNR Staff

High price and restricted supply of fuel affects boat owners, too. Today, the Department of Natural Resources offered some tips to boaters on how to conserve:

+ The outboard, or lower unit on a stern-drive, should be set at the proper tilt angle for the most efficient cruising or trolling.

+ Plan cruises in company with others, but don't overload the boat.

+ Outboard motors warm up almost instantly so it is not necessary to let them idle for a time before starting out.

+ For a long trip plan as straight a course as possible.

+ Once the boat is up on "plane" throttle back as far as possible while still maintaining a planing position.

+ Check fuel lines for leakage.

+ Keep the hull clean — obstructions and marine growth will reduce preformance and efficiency.

+ Turn off the motor if you will be idling for more than 30 seconds.

+ Use the correct propeller and make sure it is free of nicks and bends.

Kim Elverum, DNR boat and water safety coordinator, said that boaters who follow the above advice will stretch their fuel — and their fuel dollar.

Duck Flight Size Increase Is Expected

With the young of many early-nesting waterfowl species already able to give their wings a try, officials of Ducks Unlimited, North America's largest waterfowl conservation organization, feel the 1979 waterfowl hatch through Saskatchewan and Manitoba has progressed sufficiently to draw some conclusions as to how successful production has really been.

According to Ducks Unlimited executive vice president Dale E. Whitesell, waterfowl production in Manitoba looks to be excellent thanks to the availability of plenty of water all summer long. "Nesting efforts began later than usual in many areas of the province," said Whitesell, "but once underway those efforts were aided by good water conditions which stretched from the prairie, through to the parklands of south-central Manitoba, on up into the northern deciduous forest fringe. Put simply, you don't come across that combination of good water conditions every year."

Whitesell said that the favorable nesting habitat water levels were responsible for a late but outstanding hatch of blue-winged teal through the northern parklands and deciduous forest fringe. Of particular interest to waterfowl conservationists is a report from DU (Canada) biologists which noted that canvasback broods (a species whose numbers has dwindled in recent years) in that area "are more abundant than usual this year.

"Late-hatching broods are still appearing in Saskatchewan," said Whitesell, "but the production effort is finally beginning to taper off. Frankly, looking back on excellent spring water conditions, we had hoped to see a stronger showing by mallard and pintail re-nesters.

"Stir all the observations we've gathered together," said Whitesell, "and you come up with a waterfowl population for the Central and Mississippi Flyways which is encouraging. In fact, our DU (Canada) staff has concluded that conservationists can look forward to an overall increase this fall in the size of our North American waterfowl flight."

Racquet Sport Eye Injuries Mounting

Eye injuries suffered in racquet sports have more than doubled over the past five years. Tennis, squash and racquetball were responsible for some 4,000 ocular injuries last year, up from less than 2,000 in 1973, according to the national society to prevent blindness (NSPB).

To prevent such injuries, the national society urges all players — whether or not they normally wear eyeglasses — to use special protective eyewear.

"As the popularity of these non-contact sports continues to rise, so does the threat of eye damage among players," reported Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of the society. "A tennis ball that feels relatively soft becomes a hard missile at speeds which can exceed 100 mph. The smaller the ball, the greater the potential to injure eyes. Unprotected eyes are left open to injury and possible vision impairment, most of which could be prevented," Mrs. Boyce added.

Eye safety is as important for the seasoned player as it is for the casual beginner. Recognition of this fact is underscored by a recent Canadian racquetball association regulation making eye protection mandatory for all tournament participants.

"Safety eyewear can absorb the impact of the ball or racquet — and spare the eye," Mrs. Boyce advised. "The added protection can also help players overcome the subconscious fear of being hit in the eye, making for more competent play. All in all, such protection can only be a plus to your game," she asserted.

Mrs. Boyce recommends that players protect their eyesight by wearing either sports eyeguards or industrial-strength safety glasses with a frame designed for heavy-duty use.

Those who don't normally wear spectacles — or who do wear contact lenses — can purchase lensless safety eyeguards at sporting goods stores or racquetball pro shops. Eyeguards with corrective lenses have recently been developed for eyeglass-wearers.

Safety glasses with plano (non-corrective) lenses are available for about $5.00 from indistrial safety suppliers. Those who need prescription lenses can order corrective safety glasses from an optician. Cable temples which fit snugly around the ears are advised, to keep the eye protection in place during action play. Any kind of lens can be tinted for outdoor use.

"Selecting safety eyewear depends on individual needs and tastes. While the variety is growing, these devices can only prevent ocular damage if players realize the need for eye protection and use it regularly," Mrs. Boyce said.

Mrs. Boyce concluded, "For a safe and successful game, remember: Keep your eye on the ball, but away from danger, by using special protective eyewear. There is no better way to prevent painful, vision-threatening injuries."

Reduce Tillage To Cut Costs Of Production

Today's farmers believe they are in a tough spot. Prices for many of their products are down, while costs for fuel, labor and equipment are up. Equally upsetting to them is the fact that this price-cost squeeze is not likely to improve soon.

"The farmer's best bet to improve profits is to cut costs. Research shows that one way a farmer can do this is to reduce tillage," said Leonard Skaar, chairman of the board of supervisors of the Pennington soil and water conservation district.

Conservationists with the USDA soil conservation service call reduced tillage the system of the future.

"The fact is, many farmers plow too much. A lot of this has to do with tradition. These farmers are afraid or unwilling to change. But reduced tillage methods can be the out they're looking for," said Allan Gustafson, district conservationist with the SCS in Thief River Falls.

Chisel plowing and-or disking may not be the answer for everyone. On the sandier soils many farmers are presently using a reduced tillage system.

Reduced tillage can be a real money-saver when it comes to fuel and labor costs. Conventional land preparation and planting may take five to seven gallons of fuel per acre. But when tillage trips are reduced, fuel use is cut substantially. Fewer tractor trips mean less labor and the time and money saved by shifting to reduced tillage systems can be used for other improvements.

Leaving the residue of corn, sunflowers and small grains on the soil surface is an effective conservation measure. "Reduce tillage and you reduce erosion. It's that simple," Gustafson said. "And residues on the soil surface have side benefits like providing food and cover for wildlife.

"So if you're looking for a way to beat the price-cost squeeze, here's a tip from the SCS. During the year, list all tractor trips across your land prior to harvest of your major crop. Estimate your costs. Decide whether each trip was made to increase production or if it was made because of habit. By eliminating all the habit trips, you will develop a more efficient operation. You will likely find that it's better to switch than fight higher operating costs."

PRP Helps With Persistent IRS Difficulties

Often it seems as though modern life is full of problems. We have problems getting the car repaired; problems getting service in a restaurant. One of the biggest problems seems to be cutting through the red tape to find someone to handle your problem.

But there's at least one bright spot. If you have a persistent problem with the Internal revenue service and can't get satisfaction through normal channels, there is someone who can handle your difficulty in the IRS problem resolution office, (PRP).

PRP is designed to handle the difficulties that a taxpayer has not been able to get resolved through normal channels. These can run the gamut from problems with late or lost refunds and incorrect billings, to questions on the status of an audit or a collection action.

Last year, over 55,000 taxpayers nationwide received help from PRP. One type of case involved taxpayers who were repeatedly billed for taxes owed, even after they had presented proof of payment. They turned to PRP after being unable to resolve the difficulty through regular IRS procedures.

In another type of case, a taxpayer filed a return expecting a refund but received a bill instead. The taxpayer checked with the IRS and, as instructed, filed an amended return. Months later — still no refund. PRP provided assistance.

PRP gives personalized attention to each problem in the sense that a taxpayer usually will deal with one person and also may find the problem resolved within five days. If not, PRP will give the taxpayer a status report and a projected completion date.

Of course, there are limits on the types of problems PRP can handle. For instance, it is not a substitute for normal taxpayer assistance, and the IRS stresses that no one should call PRP unless normal channels prove futile. Obviously, if every type of problem were first directed to the PRP office, that system would quickly bog down and become useless. Do not go thrugh PRP on such matters as decisions made during an audit, freedom of information requests, privacy act inquiries, and complaints about IRS hiring practices. These are handled by other offices. A call to the IRS toll-free number will be referred to the right place.

From the IRS point of view, there's an important added dimension to PRP. By keeping track of recurring difficulties reaching the problem resolution office, IRS managers can often identify and remedy quirks in the system. In essence, then, PRP benefits not only the taxpayer but the IRS as well.

Now how do you reach PRP? Simple enough. Just call IRS taxpayer assistance and ask for PRP.

Less Traffic Contributes To Less Fatalities

Apparent decrease in the number of cars on Minnesota roads may be a factor in the reduction in traffic fatalities, according to Minnesota department of public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic.

Traffic deaths are down almost 13 per cent over the same period last year.

Commissioner Sopsic said indicators from traffic safety management center of the Minnesota department of transportation show a marked decrease over last year in the number of vehicles traveling on two interstate freeways in the metropolitan area.

The center monitors both I-94 and I-35W during rush hours, at midday, in the evenings and on weekends.

Sopsic said that, even though the statistics are compiled in the metro area, the weekend figures are indicative of outstate travel.

For example the commissioner pointed out, during the week of August 6-12, traffic was down 10 per cent during the rush hour; down 14 per cent at midday and down 16 per cent in evening hours; down five per cent Friday afternoon and early evening; down 14 per cent on Saturday and down 17 per cent on Sunday.

"We like to think that people are becoming more aware of safety measures," Sopsic said. "But there is little doubt that the reduction in traffic probably is a major cause of reduction in fatalities over last year."

Preliminary reports as of August 22, 1979, showed 502 people had been killed on Minnesota roads. Last year, August 22, preliminary reports showed 576 persons had died in traffic accidents.

Some $30 billion in Veterans Administration educational assistance has been paid to 7.4 million participants in the current GI Bill. World War II GI Bill trainees received $14.5 billion nd Korean Conflict trainees, $4.5 billion.

RIVER VALLEY . . .

Amanda Hegtvedth, Dora Lovaas, Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Mrs. Dellas Disrud of Fosston and Mrs. Lyle Mandt brought birthday greetings to Otto Magnell at the Darrow Lundeen home Friday, Aug. 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Schneider of Marshall, Wis., visited at the Lyle Mandt home Wednesday through Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hofstad and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jensen and family spent last weekend at the Valley fair and enjoyed sights at the Apple Valley zoo in the Cities. Sunday they attended church at Apple Valley with Pastor Behrens and were overnight guests at Pastor and Mrs. Behrens' home. Labor day weekend Mrs. Glen Hofstad and family attended a family get together at Babbitt with all her sisters and brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Stucy returned home Wednesday after visiting with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Salvorson and were overnight guests at their daughters and family, the Gene Teiglands of Minneapolis. From there, they visited at Opal's cousin, Vivian Mock at Redwing and were overnight guests. They visited with Mac's cousin at Waseca, Mr. and Mrs. Enil Myer, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Glyn, sister Margret and with Mr. and Mrs. John Conway. They motored to Greenbay, Wis., and visited with Mac's uncle, who is 94 years-old and also with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Simon. They reported a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mostrom, Ernie Mostrom of Washington visited at the Elmer Rustan and Ole Hofstad homes after attending their mother's funeral, Ida Mostrom, at Nazareth Lutheran church Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nelson, Kari and Kristi of Goodridge were visitors at the Brad Nelson home Sunday.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Stolaas, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vad, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Arveson attended the threshing bee at Rollag.

Sunday evening company at Olaf Stolaas's were Mr. and Mrs. Mac Stucy.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Orlan Stolaas, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lundeen, Jody Stolaas attended the wedding for Monte Haugen and Sue Prigge at Babbitt and were overnight guests at the Joe Fazio home in Hoyt Lakes. They also visited at the Gunda Myrum home in Chisholm.

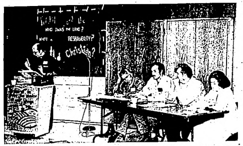
ORIGINAL ARTISTRY is reflected in this friendship quilt created by Mrs. Norman Johnson of 932 Knight av. N. in Thief River Falls. She cut and sent the quilt squares to descendants of her late grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil McFarlane, with instructions to complete them with family information. The relatives responded with embroidery, applique and textile painting in a number of original ways. Mrs. Johnson and friends hand sewed the squares in place and completed the project this week. The quilt will be on display Sunday at the Northland threshing bee to be held at the Melroy Wiskow farm northeast of Strathcona.



WHO OWNS THE LAND?
RESPONSIBILITY?
Christian?

FAMILY FARM CONCEPT and land use were the major topics of discussion at a hearing held Saturday in Newfolden under the sponsorship of the Catholic church. A panel of four area persons gave their reactions to a draft land use statement authorized by the bishops in the central United States and the approximately 20 audience members also expressed their opinions about the proposed statement. Pictured are (left to right) Fr. Duane Pribula, Crookston rural life director; Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension agent; Leroy Stumpf, area farmer; Bob Fincher, president of the tri-county pork producers association; and Norma Hanson, president of Minnesota Women for Agriculture.

When do both parents need life insurance?

Most couples make sure the primary wage earner is adequately covered by their life insurance policy. But what would happen if the homemaker died prematurely? With our Dual Protector Plan from MSI, if one (or both) of you dies, your family's completely protected. And if you've purchased the permanent life plan, your policy becomes an ever-increasing cash reserve fund that you can withdraw anytime, or convert to a fully paid-up Dual Protector life policy, or monthly income for life.

The MSI Dual Protector Plan. Protection for two, in one life insurance policy. Ask me for details.

Looking For A Church?

COME LOOK US OVER

We believe you will find us an exciting, friendly, growing fellowship.

WHAT'S OUT WORSHIP SERVICE LIKE?

Here's a letter we received recently.

Dear Pastor,

When visiting my mother-in-law recently, we attended your Sunday morning service and I wanted to express to you and your congregation my feeling.

I have lived in many areas of the United States and have attended services of many denominations. I can't remember a morning when I enjoyed the warm experience of fellowship I sensed in your church.

The informality of the architecture lends itself to the informaility of the service . . . participation of the lay people adds a new dimension . . . the ministry of the music was outstanding . . your contribution of the sermon left us all with something to digest.

It was a morning I will long remember.

Sincerely,
J. M.

WORSHIP SERVICE — 9:45 A.M.
Coffee time follows each service.

What's Our Christian Education Like?

We offer Sunday morning classes for everyone from age three to retired persons. Six different subjects are offered for adults: discussions on the Bible (for beginners as well as for experts), how to pray and meditate, what you'd like to know about the United Methodist Church, to name a few.

And on weekdays we offer even more for adults — from self-improvement concerns, classes for people wanting to know what Christianity is all about, and in-depth studies of current books and contemporary issues.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHEDULE

BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 9th

3 years through 3rd grade: 10:15

Card of Thanks

"Illness, surgery and a prolonged hospitalization can be a blessing in disguise!"

I am thankful to the Lord for the opportunity to experience the pain of illness, and the medical attention and care of compassionate, loving doctors, nurses and technicians.

I want to acknowledge the countless healing prayers of the Christian people living here in northwestern Minnesota. The special prayers and comforting visits of Lutheran and Catholic pastors were moments when I felt close to the disciples of Jesus. I am also grateful for the caring visits, phone calls, cards and special gifts of so many persons.

Illness was a blessing because we experienced the faithful love of God in each other!

Grace and Peace,
Fr. Duane Pribula

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our dear friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our brother George.

We thank you for the many cards of comfort and sympathy and for the prayers offered in behalf of our brother.

Especially do we thank Pastor Heroff, Mary Martha Circle for serving us a delicious supper and all you dear people who came to the burial services at St. Hilaire.

May God's blessing rest on you all.

Dinner guests Sunday at the Lloyd Ranum home were Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Ranum, Kevin, Mark and Wayne of Webster, Lorri Ranum of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Ranum, Jared, Micah and Craig of Newfolden.

A week ago Saturday Mrs. Bonieta Fulton of Goodridge and Mrs. Russel Floberg were afternoon visitors and luncheon guests at the Chester Johnston home of rural Warren.

Nelder Broten, Stevie, Robert and Kent Broten and Donald Bjorgaard attended the threshing bee held Sunday at Rolaag.

Mrs. Russel Floberg was a Sunday afternoon visitor and supper guest at the Curtiss Halvorson home of rural Thief River Falls.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Olson of Newfolden spent the evening and were luncheon guests at the LeRoy Susatd home.

Home Test Can Save Eyesight Of Youngsters

One in every 20 preschoolers — nearly half a million throughout the country — has an eye disorder. Many of these defects are most effectively treated in the early years, and some, such as amblyopia ("lazy eye"), may lead to permanent vision loss if not discovered and treated before the age of six. To help identify children with such problems early, the national society to prevent plindness (NSPB) has developed the home eye test for preschoolers.

Beamed at the parents of the nearly 9½ million children in the United States ages three through five, the "test" is a do-it-yourself way to check a child's sight in the home setting. It is designed as a simple game for children too young to read. Home eye test kit consists of an eye chart, instructions for playing the "game" and interpreting the results.

"Children usually don't complain about vision problems since they don't know how well they should see. Like any other screening," pointed out Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of NSPB, "this test does not take the place of a professional eye examination, but it can tip off parents that a problem may exist."

Since its introduction in 1972, almost seven million copies of the home eye test have been distributed, dramatically increasing the number of children whose eyes are being checked in the crucial early years. The society credits the test's success to three factors. "It is accessible to everyone, providing a means to test vision at home, it motivates parents to perform this service for their children and it educates the family to the need for early eye attention," Mrs. Boyce said.

"With some three million more children reaching their third birthday each year, the challenge of finding those with vision problems continues to be a formidable one. The home eye test serves as a direct introduction for a child and adult to a youngster's eye care needs," Mrs. Boyce concluded.

For a free copy of the home eye test for preschoolers, available in English or Spanish, write: National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10016.

Happier than other children most of the time.
Sadder than other children some of the time.
Kathy's emotions always seem gigantic to us.
Because she is ours!
That's why we're giving her a Truth to live by.
A Faith to fall back on — and go ahead again.
A church that is home on Sundays,
A cherished center of life every day.

Food Additives Used Often In American Diet

Food additives are so much a part of the American way of eating today that it would be hard to put together a meal that did not include some additive. Even such a "natural" food as homemade bread contains the additive yeast to make it rise and give it a light texture and salt to bring out the flavor, according to the Twin Cities office of the food and drug administration.

And yet additives are often very controversial, with some consumer advocates claiming that our foods are sprinkled with unnecessary chemicals just to aid in processing and selling. It is the role of the food and drug administration to ascertain the safety of all food additives, a role it practices daily.

A number of additives have been banned from the dinner table in recent years (probably the best known and most controversial is the sugar substitute saccharin, for which a limited ban has been proposed). Nevertheless, some 2,800 substances are intentionally added to the foods to produce a desired effect.

Another 10,000 substances find their way into foods during production and processing. These include infinitesimal residues of pesticides used to treat crops, chemicals that migrate from plastic packaging materials, and other items. It is also FDA's job to see that these substances are kept to infinitesimal amounts.

Those 2,800 substances that are intentionally added to foods are put in there for one of four purposes. The purposes are designed to meet the eating demands of a largely urban society that lives, for the most part, long distances from its food supplies. Today's eaters may also want their food to be conveniently packaged and prepared and available year around. All of which requires additives.

Controversy and convenience aside, here's a quick review of food additives broken down to the four purposes they serve:

—To maintain or improve nutritional value. Many foods are fortified with vitamins and minerals that might otherwise be lacking in a person's diet. Examples: Vitamin D in milk, vitamin A in margarine, iodine in table salt.

—To maintain freshness. Foods last as long as they do on the shelf or in the refrigerator today because of additives that retard spoilage, preserve natural color and flavor, and keep fats and oils from turning rancid. Examples: Nitrites used to protect cured meats, fish, and poultry from contamination; ascorbic acid (vitamin C) to keep uncooked peaches from turning brown, and antioxidants such as BHA and BHT used to help prevent changes in color, flavor or texture that occur when some foods are exposed to air.

—To help in processing or preparation. These compounds give body and texture to foods, evenly distribute particles of one liquid in another, affect cooking or baking results, control acidity or alkalinity, and retain moisture. Examples: Emulsifiers (mixers to give peanut butter and mayonnaise consistent texture and prevent them from separating into an oily layer at the top of the jar and a dry layer at the bottom; thickeners to prevent ice crystals from forming in frozen foods such as ice cream, and leavening agents such as yeast and baking powder.

—To make food more appealing. These are for looks and taste. They include coloring agents, natural and synthetic flavors, flavor enhancers such as monosodium glutamate and sweeteners.

For more information about food additives, contact your nearest FDA office at 240 Hennepin Avenue, Minneapolis, MN 55401.

Workshops On Quilting To Be Near Bemidji

Quilting buffs will have an opportunity to hear Ione McIntyer of Bemidji present "American History in Patchwork Patterns" at the Tuesday evening program of the north country arts and crafts workshop at Concordia language village near Bemidji Tuesday and Wednesday, September 25 and 26.

In addition, two workshops on quilting will be offered. Mrs. McIntyre will teach applique quilting and Edith Salvevold will teach the cathedral window quilt.

"American Patchwork" has been referred to as history through women's eyes. Names given their quilting patterns illustrate the whole spectrum of women's interests, from things in the immediate environment to people, places, and events of national scope and often a lasting importance. This program deals with those patterns that refer to people, places or events in American history from "Priscilla" and "Tea Leaves" right on down to "Space Ships" and "Watergate".

Mrs. McIntyre has made over 100 quilts including piecing by hand and machine. She has taught quilting classes for nine years. She developed her program on American patchwork in Ketchikan, Alaska where she was a teacher for three years and has given many talks to homemaker groups and church groups and demonstrated at local arts and crafts shows. She worked with the Alaska state council on the arts and the national endowment for the arts in setting up a museum exhibit and touring southeast Alaska with her program.

Fourteen other arts and crafts will be offered at the north country workshop. Advanced registration is due by September 7. Registration forms with details of the workshop are available at the Pennington county extension office. The workshop is sponsored by the county extension offices of Hubbard, Beltrami, Clearwater and East Polk and the University of Minnesota.

Crime Level Rises Across Entire Nation

Crime reported to lawn enforcement agencies in the United States rose 11 per cent during the first quarter of 1979 when compared with the same period of 1978, attorney general Griffin B. Bell has announced.

Increases in both the violent and property crime categories that make up the crime index were noted in uniform crime reports' statistics released today by William H. Webster, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"There have been indications in recent quarters that the level of crime was rising, and this significant upswing is very disturbing," Bell said. "The need for vigorous efforts at all levels of law enforcement to reduce the volume of crime — especially violent crime — is evident."

Collectively, the number of violent index crimes was up 17 per cent. All offenses within that category increased. Murder rose nine per cent, forcible rape 11 per cent, robbery 19 per cent, and aggravated assault 17 per cent.

As a group, the index's property crimes increased 11 per cent in volume. Burglary was up eight per cent; larceny-theft increased 11 per cent; and motor vehicle theft rose 15 per cent.

A collection of statistics regarding arson, a newly established index crime, has begun, but data on this offense are not yet available.

In cities with populations over 50,000, reported crime was up 11 per cent. The suburban and rural areas also experienced increases, 13 and six per cent, respectively. In cities outside metropolitan areas, the recorded rise was 12 per cent.

Geographically, all regions reported upswings in the volume of index crimes. The increases were 15 per cent in the Southern states, 13 per cent in the Northeastern states, eight per cent in the Western states, and six per cent in the North Central states.

Handicapped Have Privileges In Car Parking

"Designated handicapped parking spaces on either private or public property are reserved for physically handicapped persons and violations by those who are not disabled could mean fines of up to $100," warned Minnesota department of public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic.

"Parking spaces are set aside for those who have sustained an amputation or the loss of function of an arm or leg, or persons disabled so that it is difficult or burdensome for them to walk," said Sopsic.

"However, even before a disabled person is allowed to park in a designated space the vehicle must display special handicapped license plates or a handicapped parking certificate obtained from driver and vehicle services, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety," advised Sopsic.

"Vehicles displaying the special license plates or parking certificate are also allowed to park at public parking meters or in time zones without having to return to feed the meter or to move the car before the limit expires," said Sopsic.

The privilege was extended to those with the license plates by the 1979 legislature. Legislators also extended the parking privileges to out-of-state residents who visit Minnesota providing their vehicles display special license plates or certificate from their state similar to Minnesota's.

"The certificates or license plates do not permit the vehicle to be parked in a no-parking zone, in front of fire hydrants, at yellow painted curbs or in rush-hour no-parking zones," said Sopsic. "Where parking is permitted, the vehicle may be parked by the handicapped person as a driver or by another driver transporting the disabled person."

Ozone Harmful To Humans And Plants

To most Minnesotans, summer is a time for swimming, sailing, camping and generally spending as much time as possible outdoors, letting the warmth of the sun take away the memories of a long, cold winter.

Summer is also the season for an outdoor phenomenon that is anything but idyllic: ozone, or smog, as it is often called. The sunshine and warm temperatures which are part of summer are also the ingredients which combine with manmade pollutants to produce ozone.

Ozone is a colorless, usually odorless gas which causes eye irritation, chest discomfort, shortness of breath, and headaches. It also aggravates heart and lung disease in the elderly and other susceptible persons.

Ozone can also harm plant life – scientists are studying its effect in reducing soybean yields — and hastens deterioration of buildings and roadways.

In May, the Minnesota pollution control agency began its most extensive effort to measure the ozone problem in the Twin Cities area, and determine what measures will be needed to reduce ozone levels enough to meet standards set by the U.S. environmental portection agency.

After Congress amended the clean air act in 1977 and set a Dec. 31, 1982 deadline for states to reduce air pollutants, the PCA and similar agencies in other states began developing compliance strategies.

Based on earlier monitoring, the PCA and EPA designated the Twin Cities as a non-compliance area for ozone. Then, last January, the EPA relaxed its standard for ozone from .08 to .12 parts per million (ppm). The decision was based on "careful re-evaluation of medical and scientific evidence," according to EPA administrator Douglas Costle.

New monitoring effort is intended to determine whether the Twin Cities will achieve compliance with the new ozone standard, and if not, what reduction of hydrocarbon and nitrogen oxide emissions will be needed.

PCA has set up devices to measure and record ozone levels at five locations in the Twin Cities, and in Duluth, Rochester and Ely.

Since ozone is produced by a chemical reaction that can occur far from the original emission sources, ozone levels in one area may be raised by hydrocarbon and nitrogen oxide emissions which were carried by the wind from hundreds of miles away. Ozone concentrations in Minnesota are believed to be partially caused by pollutants to the south and east of the Twin Cities, such as Chicago and St. Louis.

PCA has placed its monitoring instruments to allow for the effect of the wind in carrying pollutants. One device is located south of the metropolitan area in Hastings, to measure pollutants carried from other states. Another monitor is located north of the St. Paul and Minneapolis business districts, at the PCA offices in Roseville.

Other monitors are located outside the metropolitan area at the Anoka county airport, at the University of Minnesota's Cedar Creek natural history area near Bethel, and at Orrock, in Sherburne County.

None of the PCA's monitors are located in the downtown areas because, contrary to earlier belief, ozone levels are not at their peak in the central cities. That is because when a cloud of ozone enters a city and combines with higher levels of nitrogen oxide produced by motor vehicles, a chemical reaction causes the ozone to disperse. Ironically, the same nitrogen oxide later reacts with sunlight and hydrocarbons to create higher levels of ozone outside the city.

During the past few years, ozone monitoring devices recorded numerous levels which exceeded the old standard, but only on a few occasions were violations of the .12 ppm standard, but only on a few occasions were violations of the .12 ppm standard recorded. On comparatively "high" ozone days this year, according to the PCA, ozone concentrations in the Twin Cities ranged from .08 to .11 ppm. On July 11 of this year, a level of .12 ppm was recorded at Cedar Creek.

Whether ozone levels reach that figure again or exceed it will depend on the weather during the rest of summer, according to Brad Beckham, deputy director of the PCA's air quality division. Several sunny days with high temperatures and humidity would mean elevated ozone levels, Beckham said, and "the fact that we have recorded readings above .12 in the past means we could have them again."

The PCA uses two types of devices to test ozone levels. One instrument emits a small amount of untraviolet light and measures how much of the light is absorbed by the ozone. The other type of monitor releases ethylene gas into a dark chamber and records the amount of light produced from the reaction of the gas with ozone.

The Hastings and Roseville monitors are linked to a computer at the agency, which would allow minute-to-minute monitoring in an "ozone alert" situation — which would be declared by the PCA if levels exceeded .20 ppm.

The ozone monitoring study will be conducted over the next three years — results will be evaluated after one year — at a cost of about $150,000. The metropolitan council is providing a $60,000 grant to finance part of the cost.

The results of the study will be used to determine whether a mandatory annual vehicle inspection and maintenance program will be needed in the Twin Cities as part of the state implementation plan to clean up the air. Motor vehicles are the chief source of both nitrogen dioxide and hydrocarbons.

PCA officials hope the end result of the monitoring and planning process will be to take some of the "haze" out of the "Hazy days of summer."

HOW DID IT START?

Mopeds

The idea of adding a helper motor to a bicycle captured the imagination of the world almost immediately after the invention of the car at the turn of the century. But it wasn't till the end of World War II that Europe, faced with fuel shortages and high production costs, turned widely to motorized bicycles. Soon, gas-thrifty mopeds (a word developed by combining MOtor and PEDals) were tooling their way all across Europe.

By 1971, Western Europe's moped population had reached 16 million, with more than seven million in France alone. Americans who had seen the value of mopeds while traveling began using them in the U.S. By 1975, six states recognized the moped as a unique instrument which, with its gas economy low speed and added safety features, warranted favorable legal status on U.S. roads. Today, 44 states have "liberated" the moped legally from either the bike or the motorcycle.

Currently, just under a million mopeds are operational in the U.S., according to the Moped Association of America, compared with just 50,000 in 1975! Today's modern mopeds, made both in this country and abroad, average 135 miles-per-gallon at speeds up to 30 miles an hour, depending upon the state. U.S. transportation experts predict that several million mopeds will become a permanent part of the U.S. transportation scene in the Eighties.

And it all started because a handy bicyclist was jealous of the "horseless carriage"!

DID YOU KNOW?

That in the U.S., most of the "easy" oil and gas has already been found? What's left will be much more difficult and expensive to recover.

That carpooling is recommended as one of the best ways to save gas, and a good way to save motorists money? Carpooling not only saves gas but also reduces traffic and cuts down on vehicular pollution. It may eliminate a family's need for a second car.

That paying close attention to the "little" things can add extra miles to your tank of gas? Like tune-ups? A badly out-of-tune engine could waste five percent of its gas. And under-inflated tires not only produce poorer mileage, but also excessive wear and tear on the tread.

That "topping off" a car—making a trip to the gas station every time you need a few gallons—costs you time and money and wastes valuable gas while you wait in line for your turn at the pump? And when you fill your tank, be careful that no gasoline backs up and overflows your tank. That's fuel and money down the drain.

For more information about energy, carpooling and fuel economy, you can get copies of the "Energy Book," the "Rush Hour Book" and the "Gasoline Mileage Book" by asking for them when you write Answer Books, Shell Oil Co., P.O. Box 4315, Dept. N, Houston, Texas 77001.

The Bottle Ban

Following editorial is from the Christian Science Monitor:

Remember when a favorite summer pasttime of youngsters was to roam the neighborhood in search of discarded soft drink bottles, which were immediately returned to the local grocer for a little spending money?

In Oregon, the first state to ban throw-away bottles in 1972, industrious youngsters have again rediscovered that forgotten "gold mine" in backyards and alleys. In addition to producing smiling youngsters, Oregon's bottle bill also has saved vitally needed energy that would have gone into making more throw-aways, increased the number of jobs primarily in the transportation and bottle-handling industries, and has reduced by almost 90 per cent the cans and bottles that used to litter Oregon's highways.

Oregon officials say they found that the incentive not to throw away a beverage can or bottle also spilled over to affect other litter as well. People aren't throwing away candy wrappers and other trash as much as they did before. And despite the loud protests from bottle and can manufacturers, who have spent heavily in Oregon and elsewhere to fight anti-throw-away bills, a recent survey indicated that 93 per cent of Oregon's residents are pleased with the bill and its results.

Sen. Robert Packwood of Oregon, who is sponsoring a bill that would ban the use of throw-aways all across the United States and require a five-cent refundable deposit on all beverage containers, has just received important new ammunition which, in effect, says that the beneficial effects of Oregon's bottle bill would be repeated nationally if Congress enacted the proposed legislation.

A study by the General Accounting Office, the investigating agency of Congress, indicates a national throw-away ban could save up to 80,000 barrels of oil a day, would conserve millions of tons of glass, aluminum, and steel used in producing containers, and would reduce U.S. dependency on bauzite imports which go into manufacturing aluminum. It would also reduce soft drink and other beverage prices by more than $1.8-billion a year. Feared job losses in the container industry would be more than offset by increased employment in beverage production and distribution.

Four states have or are in the process, of putting into effect throw-away bans, and some 40 states in all have wrestled with the proposition. The new GAO study appears to squelch the arguments most frequently put forward by opponents — i.e., that loss of jobs would wreck economic havoc and that the five-cent deposit would not be incentive enough for returning reusable containers. The opposite has proved true in Vermont and Oregon. Likewise the state-by-state approach advocated by some opponents appears to have little merit; a national uniform law would be easier, more convenient, and more economical for beverage manufacturers in the long run.

Clearly the beauty of uncluttered landscapes and the urgent need to conserve energy wherever possible are reason enough for Congress to ban throw-aways — not to mention all those smiling youngsters in Oregon with change in their pockets.

Potholes And Evolution

Following comments are provided by R. G. Elmendorf of Bairdsford, Pa., and reprinted in the "Morning Glory" publication from the "Bible & Science Newsletter":

If you believe in potholes, you can't believe in evolution. The two phenomena are absolutely irreconcilable. One or the other has got to be wrong.

Here's why: Evolution says that over a long period of time, the universe wound itself up — from simple to complex, from lower to higher, from molecules to man. In other words, evolution says the natural tendency of the universe is to go uphill.

On the other hand, potholes are an example of the Second Law of Thermodynamics, the universally confirmed law of deterioration and decay which says that the natural tendency of everything in the universe is to go downhill.

Now which is true on the roads you travel every day? Do these highways and byways tend to improve themselves? NO! They get potholes!

Some people say that since the earth is an "open system" and receiving energy from the sun, it can evolve uphill while the rest of the universe is going downhill. Potholes are an "open system." Do some of the potholes improve themselves while others are getting worse? NO! They all get worse!

Evolution has hit a gigantic pothole in the Second Law of Thermodynamics and it looks like it is permamently "disabled" as far as any claims to be scientific are concerned. The jarring truth is that in the real world cars rust, teeth decay, clocks run down, bridges deteriorate — and highways get potholes.

That's just the way it is, folks. Evolutionists can dream their evolutionary dreams from now till doomsday — but it won't change the way the world is! Especially not potholes!

National Health Insurance

Following editorial appeared recently in the Wheaton Gazette:

National health insurance. . .is it coming? Every indication today points to the conclusion that in the near future there will be such a thing in this country. Good or bad — and there are a multitude of arguments voiced in opposing camps — it does appear that national health insurance is on its way.

From this writer's point of view, the outcome will be both good and bad — but mostly bad.

It goes without saying that the high cost of medical care has become something of a disaster for a great mass of people. These costs have put many deeply into debt. They have forced others into situations where even in advanced years couples have found the only economically feasible thing to do is to get divorced so that one partner can obtain aid to meet medical bills of staggering proportion.

The high cost of medical care is reflected in health insurance rates, too. A family was able to buy a reasonably decent medical coverage program for about $15 per month 20 years ago. Today that coverage will cost closer to $100 per month.

These prices are simply more than the average. American can or is willing to cope with. So he has sent up a cry for help — and that help appears to be coming in the form of national health insurance.

But will it be beneficial? Initially, it may appear to be so. In the long run, however, it will undoubtedly lead to total socialized medicine — and that would be a disaster of the first magnitude.

National health insurance, like any insurance premium, will not come without cost. While the premium on any such policy may seem cheaper, the total cost will be put upon the American people. And that total cost is going to reflect not only a much more widely used medical care program, but also the added burden of mountains of paperwork which are going to be part and parcel of any such program.

Those who speak critically of socialized medicine, or of greatly expended national health insurance programs, maintain that as government involvement in medicine grows, so also grows the total cost of dispensing medicine. It's a simple fact of life that government does not make things come for a lesser cost — and certainly not in the field of medical care.

It is also a fact apparently certain that as the availability of clinical examination and care becomes more readily available to more people at a no-pay level, medical facilities will become overrun with people who should not be there — people who willingly turn up in the doctor's office for every little ache and pain.

Nonetheless, this whole area does provide a complex problem which needs to be addressed. Certainly medical care should be available for those who need it — whether or not they can pay. If they cannot pay, then government must have its place in the provision of medical care.

But government intervention should be held to a minimum. The greatest assurance for the best medical care at the most reasonable price still rests in the hands of private practitioners and medical facilities which are not under the direct supervision and rule of government.

Thefts Of Bee Colonies Noted In Minnesota

Confirming the theft of at least 105 colonies of bees this summer in west central and northwestern Minnesota, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin urges that beekeepers step up vigilance and report any thefts or suspicious "beenapper" activities near their colonies to local law enforcement authorities.

"North Dakota agriculture authorities also report numerous thefts of honey bee colonies this summer in the Red River valley area adjoining Minnesota. Scope of the thefts and the equipment required to move the colonies suggests that the thief or thieves have a good or even a professional knowledge of handling bees," commissioner Seetin said.

Thefts confirmed in Minnesota's Becker, Otter Tail and Norman counties this summer represent an estimated loss of $17,000 to $20,000 in bees, hives, honey and beeswax to the two owners, Johnson bee farms of Callaway and Ivo Leiting of Fertile. Loss included an estimated five million honey bees and some 13,000 pounds of honey.

Each colony during the honey gathering season averages between 40,000 and 50,000 bees, housed with the stored honey in wooden frame hive units stacked five and six feet high. Colonies are maintained in agricultiral areas where there are blooming crops such as alfalfa, clovers, sunflowers, vegetables and fruits. Honey bees serve two purposes, providing pollination services that enhance crop production and the collection of nectar from the blossoms which the bees manufacture into honey in the hives.

Richard Hyser, state apiarist for the Minnesota department of agriculture, said that during the growing season a bee colony will produce from 100 to 150 pounds of honey. At this point in the season, Hyser estimates that the stolen colonies weighed nearly 300 pounds each. Hijacking of 105 colonies in just three locations would be a backbreaking and time-consuming chore even for professional bee handlers unless they had mobile, mechanical equipment for loading the more than 13 tons that the 105 colonies aggregated, he said.

Fuel Switching Can Hurt Car, People

Gas prices are rising, and unleaded gas is sometimes difficult to find. The result for some motirists is a strong temptation to put leaded gas in cars requiring unleaded. It's a temptation that should be resisted, according to Barbara Blum, deputy administrator of the U.S. environmental protection agency.

True, leaded gas is less expensive — usually four cents per gallon less — than unleaded. But pennies saved at the pump by "fuel switching" may later lead to additional dollars in repair bills.

For example, most drivers of cars requiring unleaded gas may not realize that the use of leaded gas necessitates changing oil and spark plugs twice as often as the manufacturer recommends for lead-free fuel. Failure to "double-up" on this maintenance may result in mechanical problems and accelerated engine wear.

Similarly, other car parts, especially the carburetor and exhaust system, may deteriorate more quickly with leaded gas. Tests by the Amoco Oil company in 1972 on a fleet of vehicles showed that lifetime repair costs associated with leaded fuel amounted to 4.5 center per gallon more (at least seven cents in today's dollars) than for unleaded.

In addition, fuel switching may void a car's warranty coverage for emission components damaged by lead deposits from leaded fuel. Switching also may increase the difficulty of maintaining warranty coverage for other engine parts susceptible to failure from leaded gas.

Certainly these economic considerations are important. But another compelling reason exists for sticking with unleaded gas if that's what your car requires. This reason is your and your neighbor's health.

A car whose catalyst has been poisoned with two or three tankfuls of leaded gas emits at least twice, and perhaps as much as eight times, the amount of lung-damaging, eye-stinging pollution as a car whose catalyst is working properly. Obviously, additional pollution further complicates the job of achieving clean air in many urban areas still struggling to meet health-protecting standards. These same areas will receive added bursts of airborne lead from leaded gas that may aggravate undesirably high levels of this toxic metal in the blood of city children. In short, fuel switching, whatever it may do to your pocketbook, is an extremely bad bargain for your health, Blum said.

One frequently heard argument in favor of switching is that leaded gas will improve the miles per gallon of unleaded cars. However, as arguments go, this one is strictly low-octane.

Fuel economy is a function of a gasoline's "heat of combustion," that is the amount of energy is releases when burned. The heat of combustion of unleaded gas is higher than leaded, so logically one would expect better m.p.g. from the unleaded fuel. Some tests have shown this.

For example, last year the Exxon company tested eight major gas brands and found that unleaded gas gave slightly better miles per gallon than leaded gas — 14.9 versus 14.7. EPA knows of no scientific support for the contention that unleaded gas inhibits a car's miles per gallon.

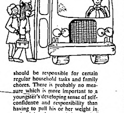
Federal rules under the clean air act make it illegal for service station attendants to put leaded fuel in unleaded cars. They may be fined up to $10,000 for doing so. Federal law doesn't penalize the individual car owner or driver, but EPA is of the opinion that 34 state rules do prohibit fuel switching by individual drivers or bar them from operating cars with poisoned catalysts.

One exception to these prohibitions is the emergency use of a small amount of leaded in a catalyst car whose tank is nearly empty in an area without unleaded gas nearby.

In any case, legal sanctions may matter little when the driver of an unleaded vehicle (perhaps after a long wair) faces a pump of leaded gas a nickel per gallon cheaper than the required fuel. Here the right choice depends upon his or her conscience and common sense. Switching is short-sighted economics and a blow to breathable air.

HOW TO BEAT THE BACK TO SCHOOL BLUES

By Genovieve Millet Landau
Director, Hasbro Center for Child Development and Education



Youngsters who have had a wonderful time enjoying the freedom that summer brings — at camp, on holidays with their parents, or just roaming around with their friends — are likely to be more or less uneasy about going back to school, elementary-age youngsters often even more than high-schoolers. And the reason is not that they don't want to work in a structured setting. On the contrary, young children, like the rest of us, need and welcome structure and accomplishment. Their uneasiness comes from not having had much experience at making the switch from freedom to routine, and feeling worried therefore that they won't be able to function well at school tasks. That they'll have forgotten what they learned last year. That the new teacher will be mean or won't like them.

You can help make this transition easier for your child — and yourself — by responding to the real cause of your child's anxiety, the youngster's fears about fitting himself or herself into a structured school routine.

So don't wait until the last day before school to start the child on his or her Fall-time habits and schedules. At least a week before school starts, set rules about such things as going-to-bed and getting-up times. Set standards, too, perhaps in a family council, in which everyone can say what he or she thinks is right about homework and when it is to be done (before TV-viewing takes place), and about how much television shall be viewed, and which programs will be permitted.

Standards should be set to determine how much time should be spent with friends, at parties, will sleep-overs be permitted during the week, and so on. Most important of all, rules for sharing household chores should be established — who shall do what and when. During summer schedules, housekeeping is usually more relaxed and everyone's chores may be quite different, less demanding than they are during the year. No matter what the circumstances of the family, or how full the child's day is, every child should be responsible for certain regular household tasks and family chores. There is probably no measure which is more important to a youngster's developing sense of self-confidence and responsibility than having to pull his or her weight in maintaining the smooth functioning of the family and household. You'll want to decide, too, before school, what allowance you are going to set for the coming year. Should the child's carfare and school expenses come out of his allowance, and if so, how much should reasonably be anticipated?

Tending to all these matters in a friendly, but no-nonsense way, will provide the child with the framework he or she needs to adapt comfortably to the return to school and its more structured existence.

During this time, of course, the fun part of going back to school also takes place and helps to prepare the child for a happy re-entry. This part of school preparation for the child is, of course, shopping — for shiny new school supplies, for new school clothing. And perhaps, too, for something school-connected and very special, say, a microscope for a child who's interested in science, an Atlas or globe for another youngster, an easel and new paints to sharpen a budding artist's interest in developing his or her talents — even a new ball or bat for the athlete in the family.

With advance planning and encouragement, going back to school for most children should — and really does — mean getting back into the swing of real, active and exciting life.

1.24 Million Mn. Acres Regulated By Corporations

Corporations control nearly 1.24 million acres of agricultural land in Minnesota, according to a summary of 1979 annual registrations reported recently by the field accounting and statistics division of the Minnesota department of agriculture. That is an increase of 46,375 acres or four per cent above the 1978 signup total.

Commissioner Mark Seetin noted than 822 family farm corporations reported owning and leasing a total of 975,273 acres or almost 79 per cent of the total controlled by all of the 1,184 corporations that filed reports.

Family farm corporations now own 368,518 acres and lease an additional 606,755 acres. These represented increases during the past year of 7,469 acres purchased and 38,912 acres leased — almost 96 per cent of the net increase for all corporations.

Although general business corporations increased their Minnesota agricultural land owned and leased during the past year by 761 acres to a total of 161,146 acres controlled, that total remains nearly 27,400 acres below the holdings of that class of corporations in 1973. The number of general business corporations filing this year dropped to 234, down by 16 from the 1978 registration.

Commissioner Seetin said that one general business corporation reported the purchase of six poultry farms totaling in excess of 4,000 acres in west central Minnesota. Legislature in 1978 removed the production of poultry and poultry products from the definition of farming, thus exempting that area from corporate farm restrictions.

Ninety-nine authorized farm corporations reported owning 56,574 acres and leasing an additional 34,652 acres. Total controlled is 1,188 acres above last year.

Non-profit corporations filing dropped to 18, one less than a year ago, and reduced their holdings by a total of 434 acres to 4,759 acres owned and 763 acres leased.

Five corporations previously registered with a combined total of 2,480 acres of farm land owned and leased have not filed 1979 reports required by law.

Green Thumb Group Promotes Older Workers

"Year after year, average retirement ages go down and the number of older people goes up, and before you know it, more people will be collecting social security than working," Paul Anderson, state director of Minnesota Farmers Union Green Thumb stated.

Green Thumb is a non-profit organization dedicated to the employment of low-income senior citizens in rural areas. It is sponsored by Farmers Union and funded by the department of Labor. In Minnesota there are approximately 800 workers in 53 counties.

"It is time people began to realize that just because someone reaches 65 years of age, it doesn't mean he or she suddenly becomes useless. Senior citizens are still very capable.

"We have them working on weatherization crews, as library assistants, as nutrition supervisors, as museum guides and on a wide vareity of other jobs. And they all doa great job," Anderson said.

"We have to stop wasting the talent, energy and experience of older workers before it's too late — before there are too few people working and producing to support those of us too young and too old to work. People over 65 years of age make up the fastest growing part of our population. And the social security administration estimates," the Green Thumb state director continues, "that within 50 years there will be only two workers for each social security recipient.

"That means that everyone at work will have to pay in enough social security to pay half the benefits of someone receiving payments. We'll really have a tax revolt on our hands then," Anderson said.

The only solution, he said, is for American companies to start raising their retirement ages. He pointed to the examples of companies that have already begun to experiment with ways of allowing older people to continue working.

A number of companies, Anderson said, are trying out flexi-time or part-time arrangements where their older employees are allowed to make their own hours, and often work a shorter work week for less pay.

Two very different companies, he said, Bankers Life and Casualty in Chicago, the Tektronix in Oregon with 16,000 employees, both allow their workers to pick their own retirement ages. And at least one company, Texas Refinery in Fort Worth, Texas, has a policy of hiring people other companies have retired.

"What these companies have done, and what organizations like Green Thumb do," Anderson stated, in only a start. "We have to keep finding new ways to allow our senior citizens to continue working if that is their choice. That is the only way to preserve the vitality of our country. Every week is older worker week and we must start thinking in this direction."

Fast Family Food: The 'Super Sandwich' Supper

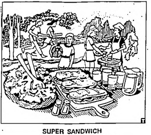
Here's a lovely evening menu guaranteed to please the family palate—and to get the cook out of the kitchen in record time.

This entree is really a Super Sandwich created around that all-time flavor favorite, the Great American Hamburger. This one even includes the vegetables. Thus, the meal is both low in preparation time and high in nutritive value—a terrific combination.

Ground chuck is mixed with a medley of carrots, onion, and celery. For more summertime flavor, add one can of Contadina tomato sauce plus crumbs, dill, and other seasonings. A quick mix, and the Super Sandwich is ready to pop onto the barbeque or under the broiler. Before removing from heat, spoon on a little more of the zesty tomato sauce and add a sprinkle of Parmesan cheese.

Serve on long French rolls à la hero sandwich—and you will be the hero of the evening.

Accompany the Super Sandwich with a simple green salad, then finish the meal with a touch of elegance. A toss-and-serve dessert of sherbet and fruit looks elaborate, but it's fantastically easy. In a glass or crystal bowl place scoops of sherbet and fruit of the same color, such as strawberry ice cream mixed with fresh red berries, orange sherbet with sliced mandarin oranges, or lime sherbet with green grapes. Family Food can be Fast—and Fun!



SUPER SANDWICH

(Makes 6 sandwiches)

- 1 1/2 pounds ground chuck
- 1/2 cup Contadina seasoned bread crumbs
- 1 cup (8-ounce can) Contadina tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup shredded carrot
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1 egg
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon dill weed
- Parmesan cheese
- Six 6-inch long French rolls

Combine chuck, bread crumbs, 1/2 cup tomato sauce, carrot, onion, celery, egg, salt, and pepper in medium bowl. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Divide into six equal portions. Shape into oval patties (about 6 x 3 x 3/4-inch each). Place on broiler pan. Broil 6 inches from heat 10 minutes. Turn and broil additional 5 minutes. Remove from broiler. Combine dill weed and remaining 1/2 cup tomato sauce. Spoon on top of burgers. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over sauce. Return to broiler; broil additional 3-5 minutes. Cut rolls in half; toast. Place burgers on bottom halves. Top with remaining halves. Serve at once.

Need fast grain storage?
GT QUICK-BIN
The fastest bin in the West! 2 men can set it up anywhere in 1 hour. No cement pad needed.
Boxcars are becoming increasingly scarce and elevators are filling up. Avoid being forced to pile grain on the ground and incurring grain spoilage. QUICK-BIN protects 7,500 bushels (or 5,000 bu.) from snow, moisture, wind and insects.
Take QUICK-BIN wherever you're harvesting, even by car. Beats hauling grain if you fill directly from a combine. Unloads easily by auger/elevator. Then fold it up ready to relocate anywhere for the next crop.
Materials are steel and cross woven fabric that's tougher to tear than a phone book. QUICK-BIN folds when emptied to be used again. Replacement liners available.
QUICK-BIN is the least expensive, most convenient, and in so many respects the safest grain storage available for short-term or years-long use. $695 complete with illustrated instructions and all materials. ($1,165 for 5,000 bu. size)

Insects, Chemicals Join In Pest Control

It's spring of 1978. Three people in a lush, southeastern Minnesota alfalfa field are granting freedom to 4,000 alfalfa-hungry weevils while a local newspaper photographer takes pictures. The field's owner, who depends on alfalfa to feed his cattle, is nowhere to be seen. An uninformed observer would probably wonder, are these trespassers crazy?

University of Minnesota entomologist Edward Radcliffe would quickly set one's mind at ease. As one of those workers, he would tell you that the weevils' days are numbered by the parasites they carry. He has introduced a biological pest control agent into Roland Deters' alfalfa field near Caledonia.

"We were a bit nervous about the press coverage," Radcliffe says later. "The chances for success were about one in ten, but we have been successful so far."

This spring, Radcliffe collected a sample of the field's native weevil population. After one year in a dense stand of uncut alfalfa, the wasps had parasitized about ten per cent of the field's multitude of weevils. Parasitism should be about 25 per cent next spring, and weevils should be showing up in surrounding fields by 1981.

"Deters did not harvest this three-acre field last year or this summer," Radcliffe reports. "His contribution may greatly benefit farmers in this area since the alfalfa weevil is the most destructive insect in alfalfa."

Radcliffe's efforts to introduce natural parasites is only one way of controlling agricultural pests biologically. It's often a rewarding effort. "Millions of dollars have been saved in states where alfalfa weevil parasites have been successfully introduced," he says. "Back in 1966, the weevil caused losses estimated at $56 million in the U.S., with an additional $14 million spent on chemical control that year. Since then, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania have cut their losses greatly by introducing various predators and parasites."

Another Minnesota effort uses a weevil to control a plant pest! Agronomist Oliver Strand and entomologist John Lofgren released weevils into a pasture four years ago.

"This particular insect feeds on the seedheads of the musk thistle," Lofgren explains. "Musk thistle can make a good pasture unusable, since its spiny structure discourages livestock from feeding on grass infested with it."

Parasitic weevils were released in a southeastern Minnesota pasture in 1975. Two years later, a sample of thistles showed a 20 per cent rate of weevil infestation. Since then, Stand and Lofgren have lost most of the parasites, probably due to extreme winter weather, but they plan to keep trying.

As a university extension specialist working directly with farmers, Lofgren often stresses another approach to biological pest control. "The best bet at this time is wise management of naturally occurring control measures — the parasites and predators already living in the field," he says. "Take small grain aphids for example. A farmer will often get a build-up of these pests, but seldom will it turn into an economically damaging outbreak. Weather conditions usually allow the aphid's natural enemies to develop into an overwhelming force."

Lofgren regularly advises small grain farmers to hold back on using chemicals to kill aphids. "If the daytime temperatures average above 60 degrees F and predators such a ladybugs, lacewings or tiny wasps seem abundant, I advise the grower to watch the field closely rather than spraying," Lofgren says. "At that temperature, the aphid enemies should be active enough to control the pests, and could save the farmer money otherwise spent on chemical pesticides."

Using chemical controls can sometimes worsen the problem. Insecticides knock out the pest's enemies while a few pests escape. Escapees have developed resistance to the chemical, and can now reproduce unchecked by natural or man-made controls.

"Its highly possible to get 100,000 times as many green peach aphids after heavy spraying in potatoes as you had before you sprayed," Radcliffe says. "I've seen accumulations of these tiny pests an inch thick under potatoes in a commercial field that had been sprayed several times.

"Nearly all our crops harbor naturally occurring biological controls," he adds. "Growers should rely on these controls and learn how to manage them, rather than relying so heavily on chemical pesticides."

The researcher says his advice is usually regarded as highly controversial. "When I say that at a growers meeting, I quickly become the center of attention," he says. "And my regular students tell me it's not because I'm such a fine orator."

Controversy presents no problem, Radcliffe points out, when he can readily demonstrate that many spray schedules are detrimental to the crop and that the grower is losing money by spraying. "I've often seen very injurious levels of pests after spraying, both in the growers' fields and in my own test plots."

Lofgren agrees that most crops can benefit from naturally occurring controls. Corn, the state's most valuable crop, can suffer damage from armyworm infestations. This pest would be much more threatening if not held in check by various diseases and insect parasites. "Growers will often find white, cottony masses in a cornfield," he reports. "Each of those masses is the cocoon of a wasp situated where there once was an armyworm. The wasp has destroyed the pest."

A third type of biological control is use of a "biorational pesticide." These agents include viruses, bacteria, protozoa, fungi and other biological materials that retard or destroy insect pests. They interfere with the life processes of the pests by stuting their growth, confusing their reproductive drives or sickening them rather than instantly killing them.

Most biorationals and other biological controls have one major advantage over chemicals; they are specific. Caledonia farmer Deters explained how this works in his alfalfa field: "The parasite only goes after the weevil for its livelihood. You're not destroying anything else by using it." Chemicals, on the other hand, are capable of eliminating honey bees and other beneficial plants and animals.

Few people believe that biological controls can completely protect this country's crop production. Predators and parasites seldom act as quickly as chemicals. Natural and chemical control can often be used together, however.

"There are certain things farmers can do to enhance biological control while using chemicals when necessary," he says. "Spraying can be timed so it is done during the beneficial agent's least vulnerable life stage, for example."

Scientists are working with farmers to determine optimum pest management practices. Economic thresholds — levels of infestation that economically justify spraying — are being developed taking into account various crops, weather conditions, naturally occurring controls and the costs of chemical treatment.

Traineed scouts, employed by farmers through the University of Minnesota crop pest management program, regularly check fields for various problems. They count pests and monitor the strength of their natural enemies.

Future direction of pest control will ultimately be decided by economics, Radcliffe says. He believes that for this reason, management methods that integrate biological with chemical control will become increasingly popular. "If a scout saves the farmer three sprayings out of his normal five-spraying schedule, that farmer will pay for the service again. We can produce food more cheaply but cutting down on pesticide use."

WHAT INVESTMENT FEATURES ARE FOR YOU?

These days, investors can choose from a range of investments. There are thousands of stocks, bonds and mutual funds. How do you know what investment is best for you?

A big part of your answer will depend upon your financial goals. Are you aiming to keep your investment safe, or get extra income, or build up your capital for the future? Investigate the investment's goals before buying.

It's also important to find out what other features the investment offers. How much do you have to put down? Can you withdraw parts of your investment regularly? Can you cash it in quickly? Can you sell part of it? Must you sell all of it at once? If you want a special feature, you may have to give up another.

Recently, the Investment Company Institute asked 1000 women what investment features appealed to them. Here's what the women told the Institute:

1. More than anything else, they want an investment that pays a rate higher than available on passbook savings. But the investment has to be relatively safe and be able to be cashed in at any time without penalty.

2. Investments that offer regular status reports are highly regarded.

3. The women also are attracted to something that allows them to shift their money from one type of investment to another as their needs change.

4. They want to be able to invest a moderate sum at first, and then add small amounts later on.

Some of these features are found in one type of investment and not in others. Mutual funds offer most of these features. Also check bank accounts and stocks.

If you'd like free information about mutual fund features, write to the Investment Company Institute, Dept. B, 1775 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

GET INTO A PLUM JAM

If feasting on Plum Jam year 'round appeals to you, it's easy enough to ensure the eating enjoyment. On your next market trip, select fully colored ripe plums, making sure they are firm, except for a slightly soft tip end — a good indication of ripeness. Tuck a package of Sure-Jell fruit pectin into the shopping cart, too. Remember, commercial pectin supplements natural fruit pectin to be sure of a successful "set." Try making a batch of Spiced Plum Jam another time. You have your choice of adding spices to this same basic recipe for another year 'round jam treat.

PLUM PERFECT JAM

6 cups prepared fruit (about 4 lb. fully ripe plums and 1/2 cup water)
8 cups (3-1/2 lb.) sugar
1 box (1-3/4 oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Pit (do not peel) about 4 pounds plums. Cut in small pieces and chop. Add 1/2 cup water; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Measure 6 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Mix fruit pectin into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately add all sugar and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Ladle quickly into jars, filling to within 1/8 inch of top. Wipe tops and threads of jars with clean damp cloth. Cover with two-piece lids. Process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes, timing when water returns to a boil. Cool, test for seal and store. Makes 11 cups or 11 (8 fl. oz.) glasses.

Note: Italian prune plums may be used in this recipe.

Spiced Plum Jam. Prepare Plum Jam as directed, adding 1/4 to 1 teaspoon each ground cloves, cinnamon and allspice, or any desired combination of spices, to prepared fruit.

Senior Citizens

Thursday, August 23, was a rainy and cool day when the senior citizens met at the hangout. Made you feel autumn is here.

There were 18 that registered in our record book. Father Duane Pribula from Middle River was a visitor.

We were all happy to have Bertha Holmstrom with us Thursday afternoon. Her granddaughter Jean Kleinvachter went to the nursing home to bring her here. Bertha brought the sofa pillow top she made for us. It is lovely, as is everything Bertha makes. Next week we will put the back on and fill it, then it will be up for sale.

Five door prizes were given away on Thursday. Mabel gave two prizes that Amanda and Mildred won, Ella received the prize Ruth Anderson gave. Polly received the prize Ida gave and Mabel received the one Irene gave.

Mildred paid a 50 cents fine for failure to sign her name in the register book. It is a good thing to sign as you come in the door, then you have no worry about paying a fine, but don't let this scare you — we don't enforce that ruling. Now and then we have some fun and fine someone. It happened to be Mildred Thursday. She was a good sport and paid the fine.

Please remember to bring some bingo prizes next Thursday if you expect to play.

Amanda Johnson served the lunch Thursday.

Visitors at the Andrew Stalock home this past week and Sunday have been Dale Aasand and boys of Drayton, Father Duane Pribula of Middle River, Mrs. Anna Stusynski, Mrs. Bernard Stusynski, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stalock, Mr. and Mrs. Franky Borowicz, Louis Stalock, Leonard Borsvold, Gust Johnson, Rudy Lindgren, Laurel Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Eskildsen, Conrad and Jerry Stalock.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Koland and family visited Sunday with the Doug Walker family. The Walkers have moved here from Idaho and are settled on the former Walter Hoskin farm.

Ida Bruce visited Mildred Nelson Wednesday evening.

Roger Holmstrom was a Thursday supper guest at the Alvin Holmstrom's.

Gladys Chwialkowski, Carol Hugg and boys and Myrna Johnson stopped for coffee Sunday at the Terry Sollund home in Karlstad.

Inflation Fighting Ideas

Consumers' New Weapon Against Rising Food Costs

Even if conservation isn't your bag, new plastic mesh packaging will challenge and reward your ingenuity.

An unexpected technique for holding down rising food prices is in the bag: a bag that helps keep the food inside fresh, and then — presto chango — can be recycled for a host of household uses.

The new plastic netting bags let shoppers see what they're buying and keep produce fresher than conventional plastic wraps.

The plastic net provides the ventilation needed by such produce as onions, potatoes, and apples. The bags hug the produce without blocking the flow of air. This material, Du Pont's "Vexar" plastic netting, is also being used to provide a protective merchandising wrap on frozen premium turkeys.

Because these bags help protect food from spoiling from inadequate ventilation or a buildup of humidity, both the consumer and the supermarket get some relief from the cost that food spoilage might otherwise entail.

Unlike most food packages that wind up in the trash, "Vexar" bags are usable. They can be turned into good scouring pads, safe on non-stick or "Teflon" finishes, or can be recycled as tote bags for just about anything. They can be used to hold small items together in the washing machine and are convenient in the bathroom for hanging loose items, like children's bath toys, to dry.

The plastic netting bags are also helpful in organizing the freezer. You can bag orange juice cans, hamburger patties or extra ice cubes for a party. And they're handy for wrapping foil-covered steaks because they prevent the foil from being torn.

If you want to bag some savings, keep in mind that plastic mesh bags can help keep food fresh longer — and may net you a handy helper in the household!

Hospital Annual Report To Be Presented Tonight

Members of Northwestern hospital association of Thief River Falls will hear financial reports of a year which produced $6,642,016 in patient service revenue when the annual meeting of the association is held tonight (Monday at 8 p.m. at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls).

Patient service revenue showed an increase of nearly $300,000 from the previous year during the period ending April 30, 1979. Total operating expenses showed a corresponding increase from $5,618,877 last year to $5,929,408 in the year just ended.

Together with the financial report, information will be presented to members on nursing service picture and educational programs. Speakers will include Ronald Norby of the American Hospital association, Julie Eszlinger of the Minnesota department of education and Mary Mergens of Inver Hills and Lakewood community colleges in the Twin Cities.

Election of trustees will be held with nominees including Curtis L. Charlson, present chairman of the board, Terry Courneya, Roy Lee and Duane Walton nominating by the nominating committee and Dr. G.B. Martin and Dr. William Ramsay appointed by the medical staff. Only one of the two medical staff appointees is to be elected.

Under by-laws of the organization which provide for advance nomination of trustee candidates by the membership, no nominations will be accepted at the annual meeting. All trustees elected will be elected to serve three-year terms.

Annual audit report of the association shows that as of April 30 there were total current assets of $1,861,195, other assets of $888,989 and land buildings and equipment valued at $5,529,840 after allowance for accumulated depreciation of $2,887,909. Prior to depreciation adjustments, the report lists land and improvements at $396,356, buildings and fixed equipment at $6,401,130 and major moveable equipment at $1,620,263.

Current liabilities of the association were $816,194 and included $132,328 in current maturities of long-term debt, $243,815 in accounts payable, $259,320 for accrued liabilities for compensation, $49,629 for taxes and $131,102 for interest and other accruals. Long-term debt of the association of $3,447,607 had been reduced from $3,579,936. Fund balance of $4,016,223 was up from $3,767,149 the previous year.

Operating revenues for the year ended April 30, 1979, included $3,226,184 from routine patient care and convalescent and nursing care and $3,415,832 from the sale of ancillary services. Among the major ancillary services were laboratory, $741,560; radiology, $487,877, drugs and intravenous solutions, $547,696, operating and recovery room, $368,920; physical therapy, $135,920; central supply, $151,420; inhalation therapy, $158,969; anesthesiology, $146,501; intensive care, $136,421; and day-night psychiatric unit, $154,091.

Julie Eszlinger

Other ancillary services producing revenue were cardiac monitor, $70,601; electrocardiology, $82,908; emergency room, $80,200; ambulance, $48,363; delivery room, $42,353; ultra sound, $20,397; blood, $24,349; electroencephalography, $11,745; occupational therapy, $3,482; and other, $2,059.

Other opeating revenues included $115,879 in rents, $34,883 from the cafeteria and $66,303 in other income.

Expenditures for professional care of patients totaled $3,713,592 — an increase of about $204,000 over 1978. Salaries and wages totaled $2,435,269, professional fees $244,469, food, drugs and supplies $568,067, employee benefits $250,901, purchased services $182,233, travel and entertainment $4,888 and other $27,625.

Other expenditures for operation included general and administrative expense of $674,558, dietary $408,582 and depreciation $381,011.

County Board Acts On Varied Items Tuesday

Pennington county board members acted on varied agenda items in a regular meeting held Tuesday, September 4, accepting low bid of $25,524.64 for a new motor grader shed in Goodridge and calling for an October 30 special election in the county to determine whether or not the township residents would like to adopt a building code as proposed by the state.

Fahrlander Construction Co. of Bagley was the lowest of three bidders for the motor grader shed project. That company's $25,000 bid can be compared to a high bid of $46,618.68.

In relation to the Goodridge project, the board also heard a proposal from Neil Liedberg of Goodridge who would like to purchase a portion of the site where the present motor grader shed is located. He was instructed to contact the city of Goodridge to seek its cooperation in the proposal which would involve multiple land transactions.

In setting the October 30 special election date on the building code referendum, the board was reconsidering earlier action in which it voted to let the vote wait for a regular election. The state originally passed a law which would require the adoption of the building code by all counties but later revised the law to allow the township residents to vote on the

Commissioner, Truckers Will Meet Sept. 19

Mn-DOT Commissioner, Richard Braun, will be in Thief River Falls on September 19, 1979 to meet with all persons affected by the movement of grain and timber products, and discuss Mn-DOT policy in regard to 10-ton routes in northwestern Minnesota.

The meeting, sponsored by the regional development commission and chaired by Joe Bovette, will be held at the Northland community college at 7:30 p.m. The college is located one mile east of T.H. 32 on T.H. 1.

This meeting has been prompted by the eminent settlement of the grain handlers strike in Duluth-Superior and the crucial need to move a great volume of grain to these port facilities as rapidly as possible.

Currently, northwestern Minnesota has a network of seasonally restricted 10-ton routes established on an experimental basis. Although these roads are not all built to 10-ton design specifications, it is hoped that with adherance to these routes by truckers, there will be a minimum of damage resulting from the heavy loads anticipated this fall. Also highway substructures are at their strongest in the fall and winter.

Another item of concern is the recent construction program cutbacks. These cutbacks will seriously hamper Mn-DOT's efforts to provide a continuous network of 10-ton routes in our area according to District Engineer, Bob Wolfe. It is possible that if the public's concern over these construction program cutbacks is substantial, Mn-DOT's priorities will be re-examined and some deferred projects may be rescheduled.

Return $81,000 To School Plans

Reinstatement of approximately $81,000 into the budget of School District 564 was made by the board of education meeting in special session last week. The action was taken following the annual audit of district funds which showed operations of the previous year had resulted in a surplus greater than expected.

Action on distribution of funds at the elementary level was deferred pending review and re-submittal to the board at a meeting to be held tonight. The board did decide, however, to reinstitute the half-day, every day kindergarten program for the entire year.

Previously the kindergarten was scheduled to meet full days every other day during the second half of the year to save the cost of noon time transportation. The kindergarten situation had been the topic of extensive discussion and debate within the district as a group of parents and others sought continuation of the half-day every day schedule.

Reinstated on a district-wide basis was the provision of free meals for members of the school patrol and two hours per day of additional labor in food service at Lincoln school if deemed necessary.

About $25,000 of the budget reinstatement was allocated to Lincoln high school, including funding of some extra-curricular expense. Cross country, girls' softball and boys' softball were put back into the program and $500 restored to the Prowlins dance team for a total estimated cost of $10,760. Travel allowance was budgeted at a more realistic 25 cents per mile and increased to provide an additional $6,400 being available.

Also provided was $1,000 for textbooks, $2,000 in general instructional supplies and about $5,300 in general budget items. The latter is a partial restoration of $8,000 cut from the general budget earlier.

At Franklin middle school the bulk of restored funds is to be used to reactivate a part of the extra-curricular program which had been virtually eliminated previously. The money will provide for the program which had been agreed to between the school

New Assessor For Red Lake County Named

Leo Perisian has been appointed as the new assessor for Red Lake county, filling a vacancy caused by the death of the former assessor, Jesse DuChamp earlier this year.

Perisian is originally from Aldrich, attended high school in Staples and was in business in Wadena for 25 years after military service in World War II. He was deputy assessor in Wadena and Ottertail county and city assessor in Wadena prior to moving to Grand Marais where he served as Cook county assessor for the past two years.

His wife Carol will be joining him in Red Lake Falls later. They have a son, Jon, attending Anoka vocational technical institute and a daughter Cheri who is a senior in Deer Creek high school. Perisian started his Red Lake county duties August 27.

BERBERICH GALS from Brooks, a softball team made up of the 11 daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Berberich, drew considerable interest at the Blast to Brooks women's slow pitch softball tournament Saturday. It was the first time the sisters had played together as a team and they won their first two games before losing the championship contest. Left to right in the photo above are Rita-Berberich, Bemidji; Kay Berberich, Brooks; Mrs. Larry (Loretta) Pittman, St. Hilaire; Mrs. Harold (Alice) Balstad Jr., Winger; Mrs. Gene (Sue) Olson, Fosston; and Jan Berberich, Brooks; back row, Betty Berberich, Bemidji; Mrs. Leander (Mamie) Berberich; Mrs. Kenneth (Frances) Liebl, Mahnomen; Mrs. Tim (Marge) Miller, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Don (Carol) Harbott, Thief River Falls; Connie Berberich, Brooks; and Leander Berberich. Also present to watch their sisters play and to assist with the coaching were the five Berberich sons, LeRoy, Linus, Lawrence, Claire and John, all of the Brooks area.

MN-DOT BUDGET DEFICIENCY was the topic of a two-hour meeting held in Thief River Falls Thursday with highway department personnel and area legislators in attendance. With an 80 per cent cut in the state highway projects and a 90 per cent cut in the northern Minnesota projects for 1980-81, MN-DOT personnel spoke out in favor of an increase in the gas tax. Pledging their support for a one or two-cent increase in the gas tax with revenues going to the highway department were Representatives John Corbid and Myron Nysether and Senator Marvin Hanson. Pictured during the course of Thursday's meeting are (background, left to right) Mayor Bob Carlson of Thief River Falls, Mayor Vaughn Thorfinnson of Red Lake Falls, Bob Wolfe, MN-DOT district engineer for Northern Minnesota located at Bemidji, Representative John Corbid, now of Park Rapids, and Representative Myron Nysether of Ross. Also recognizable in the foreground are Thief River Falls city attorney Bob Wurst, Jerry Wedul, Bob Dondelinger, Thief River Falls engineer Doug Stewart, city planner Jack Quinlivan and Cliff Larson, engineer for the state highway department located in Thief River Falls.

Mn/DOT Backs Increase In Gas Tax; Asks Support

"No multi-lane facilities or by-passes are being considered in this area at all. All we are trying to do now is to maintain what we have and move some produce."

These comments from Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) district engineer for northwestern Minnesota, Bob Wolfe of Bemidji, were made to a group of approximately 30 area persons who met Thursday in Thief River Falls to discuss the budget deficiency in the state highway department. With area legislators, city personnel, hospital and school representatives all present, Wolfe continued, "If we have a problem in this state moving products, everyone of your programs is going to feel it."

Mn-DOT earlier announced an 80 per cent state cutback of projects scheduled for 1980-81 including a 90 per cent reduction in projects in the northern Minnesota area. This is a statewide cut of $122.5 million and a local reduction of over $20 million worth of projects.

Firmly programmed projects in our area which, as a result of the cutbacks, are no longer scheduled include: grading, resurfacing and installation of surfaced shoulders on highway 32 from St. Hilaire to Thief River Falls; initial upgrading of highway 59 between Thief River Falls and the south Polk county line to a 10-ton route; and overlay surfacing on highway 11 from Pelland to Greenbush.

In addition, four area projects scheduled for 1982-1985 are now in an unscheduled status. They are: resurfacing and widening of the eastbound lane of highway 2 between Marcoux corner and Erskine; regarding of highway 32 between highway 2 and Red Lake Falls; final upgrading of highway 59 to a 10-ton route between Thief River Falls and Mahnomen; and upgrading of highway 219 and 89 to 10-ton routes between Goodridge and Grygla.

"The state is in trouble as far as money for transportation is concerned," Wolfe stated candidly. "They are $122 million short to do what they had planned in the biennium."

Mn-DOT commissioner Richard Braun has been quoted as stating that "skyrocketing inflation and declining revenues" are responsible for the state's deficit. Wolfe indicated that costs have tripled. Actual inflation is 21 per cent. And gas useage is down nine per cent over what was projected reducing the department's expected revenues from the present gas tax.

Speaking for the highway department, Wolfe urged legislators and area citizens to get behind a gas tax increase with the resulting revenues to be used to ease the highway department's budget crunch. If there is no increase in funding, Wolfe indicated that only maintenance work could be done and, with over 400 miles of road that currently needs a bituminous overlay,

PEDESTRIAN SAFETY CITATION was presented to the city of Thief River Falls Tuesday by Glenn Krenz, right, district manager for the Minnesota American Automobile association. Accepting for the city were police chief Ken Froschheiser and mayor Bob Carlson. The city received the award for five years without a pedestrian fatality and for conducting "an excellent pedestrian protection program", according to Julian O. Newhouse, chairman of the Minnesota AAA board.

Suggestions Made On Grain Storage

Farmers faced with providing short term emergency grain storage due to the slow down of grain shipments this summer and fall are encouraged to follow some basic rules to minimize storage losses, according to Pennington county extension director Terry Courneya.

Alternatives include concrete stave silos, utility buildings, barns and machine sheds or simply piling grain on the ground. All of these can provide reasonable save temporary storage if proper care is taken in preparation, Courneya said.

Concrete stave silos can be used if (1) the silo is in good physical condition with sound staves and adequate hooping to withstand the pressures of dry grain; (2) the silo roof and staves are reasonably weather tight; (3) no stored grain is below ground level; (4) there is a moisture barrier (plastic sheet, etc.) below the grain; and (5) aeration is provided.

The use of concrete stave silos for long-term dry grain storage (beyond the following spring) is not recommended without further treatment of the walls to make them completely weatherproof. This would require lining the inside, with plastic sheeting or a moisture tight lining of some kind.

In the case of utility buildings, barns and machine sheds, the walls are not designed to withstand the lateral pressures developed by stored grain. Grain depths of over two to three feet on the side walls of these buildings may require extra reinforcement to withstand the additional pressures. Self-supporting portable bin walls can be built and placed within these buildings to adapt them to grain storage. Plans for these are available at the county extension office.

A major concern when using this type of building for grain storage is the upward movement of moisture through the floor into the grain. These buildings generally are not constructed with a vapor barrier beneath the floor and may allow this moisture movement to occur. A heavy plastic sheet (6 to 10 mil polyethylene) laid on the floor will help eliminate this problem. Rodents and birds also can be a severe problem in this type of emergency storage.

Aeration is recommended for grain stored under these conditions. If dry shelled corn (below 14 per cent moisture content) is delivered to these storages at temperatures below 50 degrees Farenheit, aeration may not be absolutely required. However, a single aeration duct down the center of a pile of grain which is delivered to the center of the building and allowed to flow outward to the a walls will provide a substantial measure of safety and is highly recommended. A one-third to one-half horsepower aeration fan connected to this aeration duct will adequately aerate up to 8,000 to 10,000 bushels of grain.

"As a last resort, emergency storage of dry grain can be provided by piling on the ground," Courneya said, "if everything possible is done to protect it from the elements, ground moisture, etc." The grain should be protected from ground moisture by a 6 to 10 mil polyethylene sheet underneath the pile. An aeration duct running lengthwise underneath the pile will provide substantial added safety.

If the pile is properly cooled with aeration, it can be covered with another sheet of plastic to protect it from the elements. However, if a pile of grain is not properly cooled by aeration, a plastic covering sheet can cause severe

Senior Citizen Passes Given At Northland

Northland community college is again offering senior citizen passes good for admission to all of the college athletic contests for the coming year, according to Dr. Alex Easton, college president.

Persons 62 years of age and older may receive the passes by calling at the college office, writing to Northland community college at Thief River Falls or calling Jean Matt at the college office, 681-2181.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Earl G. Marquis, II, To Reside at Goodridge

Mr. and Mrs. Earl George Marquis, II, are at home in Goodridge following an exchange of marriage vows at Calvary Lutheran church, St. Hilaire, and a wedding trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota.

The bride, the former Jean Ann Nelson, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nelson, rural Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marquis, Sr., of Goodridge.

Rev. Gene Broughton officiated at the double ring ceremony. Organist was Patricia Nelson, who played the traditional wedding march as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

Bouquets of white daisies, pink, blue and yellow carnations and babies' breath graced the altar. Ribbon bows in corresponding colors marked the pews.

The bride was attired in a qiana knit gown with Venice lace flowers and scallops tracing the Queen Ann neckline, cap sleeves and raised waistline. Creating back interest was in insertion of English net, enhanced by Venice lace motifs and a flowing Watteau train. To correspond with her gown, the bride wore a lace headpiece, which she had made and embroidered with pearls, and a fingertip veil, edged with lace. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and yellow carnations, centered with a rose.

Marla Marquis of Houston, Tex., a sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Denise Nelson, a sister of the bride. Their gowns of blue and pink qiana, respectively, were styled in princess fashion with capes of a coordinating chiffon print, trimmed with lace. In their hair, they wore a white carnation. They carried baskets of pink and yellow and blue carnations, accented with trailing ivy.

Attending the groom were his brothers: Meade Marquis, as best man; and Monte Marquis, as groomsman. The ushers were Roger Johnsrud, a friend of the groom, and Brian Solberg, a brother-in-law. All reside at Goodridge. They wore blue tuxedos with the groom, his attendants and ushers wearing boutonnieres in yellow, blue, pink and white.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink princess styled gown. The groom's mother wore a rust-colored, floor-length gown. Their corsages were yellow roses.

Honor guests at the ceremony were Mrs. Evelyn Nelson, Mrs. Mae Mackereth, grandmothers of the bride, and Patricia Nelson, the bride's sister who served as personal attendant.

A reception in the church parlors followed for approximately 100 relatives and friends. Centering the serving table was a tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink, blue and yellow flowers. Topping the cake were a miniature bride and groom.

The cake was cut and served by Willia Prestegaard, aunt of the groom, and Alice Dommann, aunt of the bride. Lori Bjorgaard, a friend of the bride, poured the coffee as Diane Holen and Evon Hamilton, friends of the bride, ladled the punch.

A wedding dance followed at Goodridge with the Lee Furuseth band providing the music.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed by First Northwestern State bank. The groom, a graduate of the Goodridge high school, is engaged in farming.

Johnson-Stocker Vows Said In E. Grand Forks

Miss Janet Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Johnson, Karlstad, and Scott Stocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stocker, East Grand Forks, exchanged marriage vows recently at an afternoon ceremony at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in East Grand Forks.

Rev. Stanley Bourassa, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Sister Marquerite Streifel, a friend of the couple, who served as organist, played the "Wedding March Nupital." Vocalist was Janice Nyflot, a friend of the couple. She sang "Take my Hand Wherever you Go" and "You are Near." Clark Dyrud, a friend of the couple, played various flute selections before the ceremony. He also played the violin solo "Lord's Prayer" during the service and accompanied the soloists.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a white nylon organza gown. The empire bodice was of sheer rose print featuring a lace yoke, in cape effect with a stand up collar and a satin sash. A lace edging outlined the bottom of the yoke and matching scalloped lace edged her A-line skirt and train. To complete her attire, the bride wore a Juliet headpiece of roseprint lace. Her fingertip veil was edged in lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and babies breath accented with greenery.

JoAnne Pietruszewski, friend of the couple, was the bride's personal attendant.

Miss Sherry Lott, Largo, Florida, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a baby blue floor length gown with a scoop neckline which was accented with pleated ruffles. Her headpiece was an arrangement of daisies and babies breath. She carried a bouquet of daisies and carnations with blue, pink and white ribbon streamers.

Other attendants were Corrine Johnson, Fridley, the bride's sister; Peggy Philer, Largo, Florida, also a sister of the bride; and Karen Larson, Thief River Falls, a friend of the couple. Their gowns and flowers matched those of the maid of honor's.

Serving as flower girl was Nicole Stocker, East Grand Forks, the groom's niece. She wore a floor length gown of blue dotted Swiss with lace accents. Her bouquet matched the other attendants'. The rings were carried by Matthew Phifer, Largo, Florida, the brides' nephew.

The groom's best man was his brother, David Stocker, Thief River Falls. Groomsmen escorting the bridesmaids were Greg Stocker, East Grand Forks, brother of the groom; Tim Stocker, Dillon, Colo., also a brother of the groom, and Larry Stortroen, Thief River Falls, a friend of the couple. Couple ushers were Mic and Carol Gjovik, Thief River Falls, friends of the couple, and Monica Stocker and Jim Lemoine, East Grand Forks, the groom's sister and the couple's friend.

The mothers of the bride and groom were attired in blue floorlength gowns. Their corsages were three pink roses accented with blue ribbons and greenery.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs. Martin Anderson, the bride's grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stocker and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bridgeford, grandparents of the groom.

A reception for 225 guests, hosted by the bride's parents, followed in the church parlors. Host and hostess were Alan and Darlene Frank, Maple Grove, the bride's uncle and aunt, and Joellen and Galen Cariveau, East Grand Forks, the groom's sister and brother-in-law. Sally Stocker, East Grand Forks, sister-in-law of the groom, registered the guests, as Virginia Peltruszewski, and Lonnie Nyflot, friends of the couple, ladled the punch.

Centering the table was a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with cascading blue roses and white trim. Topping the cake was a blue double-bell ornament. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Elnar Strandquist, the bride's aunt, and LaVerne Bjerk, a friend of the couple. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Lloyd Johnson and Mrs. Stan Hoff, aunts of the couple.

A wedding dance at the Townhouse Motor Inn in Grand Forks followed. It was hosted by the groom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg and Minneapolis, the couple is now at home at 1110 East Greenwood St., in this city. The bride is employed as an LPN at Northwestern Hospital; and the groom is part-owner of Woodland Construction Co. in Thief River Falls. Photo, Behl's Photography, Grand Forks.

Custard Rhubarb Pie

3 cups rhubarb cut into small pieces
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter

Method: Mix sugar, eggs, flour and lemon juice. Spread rhubarb in an unbaked shell. Pour mixture over rhubarb. Dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until custard is set, about 45 minutes.

Mrs. Vanderport stated that either a single or double crust may be used.

The Vanderports have resided in Viking for the past three years, moving there from Wisconsin. Vanderport is station chief for Lakehead Pipe Lines. Since his association with the company, the family has lived in several areas and at one time, lived for several years at Clearbrook.

They have three children, all married, and six grandchildren. None live in this area.

Since moving to Viking, the Vanderports have attended services at the Viking Covenant church.

Lefse Baked by Residents at Oakland Park

Lefse bake, father-son fish fry, Happy hour, birthday parties, Sunday dinners, and a gathering of nursing home residents were among the activities in which Oakland Park residents participated during the month of August.

The lefse bake was held in the residents' kitchen with a number of residents demonstrating their skill in producing lefse. Julia Hveen, 94, was the professional roller followed by Mildred Ofstedahl, 86. The women made enough lefse for afternoon lunch for all the residents and staff.

The Home's seventh annual father-son fish fry was held August 11. Fish for the event was donated by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The beer was provided by Pete Sullivan.

Frozen daiquiris, made by Mrs. Elba Collins, highlighted the Happy Hour. The daiquiris were served with chips and dip. Old-time music for the event was provided by Barb Geer, Kaydell Super, Cathy Erickson and daughter Sheila, and Sue Maijala. All had rosy cheeks and wore bib costumes, accented by ribbons in their hair. Several of the residents and staff danced and others participated in the wheelchair parade.

Seven residents observed their birthdays in August. They were Kathryn Duis, whose birthday was August 1; Nels Johnson, who was born Aug. 7, 1898; Jennie Sande, Aug. 11, 1884; Gertie Lien, August 13, 1895; Ludvek Hruby, Aug. 25, 1895; Clara Erickson, Aug. 26, 1885 and Constance Ruud, Aug. 29, 1891.

Gertie Lien, Clara Erickson and Constance Ruud were honored additionally by family and friends as they gathered at the home for parties on their birthdays. All served cake and ice cream to residents and staff.

Several residents from Oakland Park attended the hymn-sing-along held August 29 at Trinity Lutheran church with approximately 60 area nursing home residents participating. Gloria Swanson led the singing. Other residents attending were from Skylite apartments, CNC units at Northwestern hospital, Valley Home, and the Senior Meals program. Lunch was served together with juice donated by McDonald's. Transportation was provided by the Pioneer bus service.

Only three residents hosted Sunday dinners during August. They were Julia Hveem with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Solberg of Goodridge as guests; Elin Larson with Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Jorgenson and Clair Larson as guests; and Allie Rambeck with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Josephson, guests.

Devotional services and programs given during the month were by Rev. Keith Prekker of Redeemer Lutheran church, Rev. Berton Hushagen of Trinity Lutheran church who also served Holy Communion; Rev. James Bernauer of St. Bernard's Catholic church, the Lois circle of Trinity Lutheran with Mrs. Marvin Ode in charge, and the Martha unit of Redeemer Lutheran. The two circles served lunch following their programs.

Other events included entertainment provided by Cindy Poissant and Ruth Ferber, contestants at the Miss Thief River Falls pageant; two afternoons of bingo with the Eagles auxiliary assisting the residents; an afternoon of readings and hymn singing led by Janice McCollum, activities aide, and Sena Amundson, nurse aide; an afternoon of old-time music by Cathy Erickson and her daughter, Sheila, with residents and staff dancing and a special treat featuring orange slush from McDonald's; slides of the United States shown by Janice McCollum; and two mornings of bowling against the Valley Home team. Oakland Park bowlers were Annie Jensen, Ray Welch, Bea Erickson and Andrew Hendrickson.

Star 4-H Club Is Community Pride Winner

Pennington county 4-H clubs recently completed community pride projects. Project reports were turned in to the extension office in August and judged by SCS personnel.

Selected as this year's community pride winner is Star 4-H. Leann Holen of that club will now represent Star at the community pride conference September 17-19 in St. Paul. Silverton 4-H took second place in the judging with Black River 4-H taking third.

Star 4-H activities included: presentation of a skit to Goodridge senior citizens, member families cleaning trash in the road ditches for ½ mile on both sides of the road, planting and keeping up flower beds at Star townhall and Highlanding canoe canoe landing, presentation of a Share-the-Fun act at Valley Home and Oakland Park home at Art-in-the-Park, painting of telephone spools at the Falls Day Activity Center for playground use, holding an old fashioned ice cream parlor at Goodridge's July 4 celebration, and holding a muscular dystrophy carnival in August where $54.00 was raised.

Other clubs that participated in community pride were New Solum, Happy Acres, Papa Bear, Smiley, Kratka, Mavie, Steiner, and City View.

Jaycee Women Plan Meeting For Tonight

Valley Home Events Include A Crazy Day

Special activities at Valley Home during the month of August included a Crazy Day featuring crazy costumes, skits and contests. Members of the staff who didn't wear costumes participated in the frivolities by participating in skits and contests. In charge of the activities were Tammy Rude, activity director, and Olive Lunke, craft director.

Following the Crazy Day program July and August birthdays were observed. Residents noting birthdays were presented with a birthday card and a cash gift. They also received birthday cards from the Catholic Daughters. Noting birthdays in July were Regina Kveno, Annie Cuno, Mabel Johnson, Carl Olson and Sena Swenson. Residents celebrating their birthdays in August were Amma Westby, August 1; Ethel Johnson, August 3; Minnie Hellquist, August 6; Hazel Hirst, August 8; Julia Alexander, August 14; Myrtle Visted, August 20; and Olga Hulme, August 24. The afternoon lunch featured ice cream sandwiches. A residents' rummage sale completed the day's activities.

Residents observing their birthdays by serving ice cream to residents and staff were Ethel Johnson and Myrtle Vistad. Olga Hulme noted her birthdate by serving birthday cake and Dixie cups.

Devotional meditations given during the month were by Rev. Mark Johaningsmeir of the United Methodist church; Rev. George DeWall of the Bible Baptist church, Rev. Jim Mattson of Zion Lutheran church, Rev. Marden Wickman of the Evangelical Covenant church, Rev. Berton Hushagen of Trinity Lutheran church, who has services every Wednesday afternoon, and Rev. J. Hovland, Trinity, who is in charge of the communion services the last Wednesday of the month.

Also in charge of devotional programs were two representatives from the Miracle House; the Norris and Lowell Trochmann families from Faith Lutheran Brethren church, Dave Crawser, Dean Paskewitz and the Don Johnson family.

Groups presenting programs and serving lunch to the residents were the ALCW of the Zion Lutheran church of Oklee; the Hannah circle of Trinity Lutheran church, Sarah circle of Zion Lutheran church of Oklee; and a cricle from the Viking Covenant church, who served cupcakes in honor of former member, Mrs. Millie Hellquist, who celebrated her birthday during the month.

Group outings included a picnic dinner at the Hartz park, a trip to St. Hilaire to view the Gaven flower gardens, where they were served coffee and cookies; shopping trips for wheelchair residents to down-town Thief River Falls and the 59 Shopping Center; a bowling trip to Oakland Park Nursing home with the Valley Home team having the winning score, 260; and an afternoon outing for about 30 residents to the Dairy Queen for ice cream and sundaes, which ended with the paratrasit bus rescuing the residents from a sudden rain storm.

Other outings included a potluck supper at the Hartz Park for staff and administrators and their families; a hymn-sing at Trinity Lutheran church, followed by cookies and bars with McDonald's supplying the orange drink; a fishing trip with Tammy Rude in charge; a trip to Belle Erickson's home to get rhubarb with Tammy Rude in charge. She was accompanied by Belle Erickson, Hilda Johnson, Mildred Fritzinger, Olga Christianson and Ella Overum.

A group of residents also travel by bus to tour the Marshall County Historical Settlers' Square at the fairgrounds at Warren. While there, they had a picnic dinner in the park and attended church services at the historical Alma church with Rev. Theodore Carlson in charge.

Among the many visitors at the home during the month were Reynold and Margaret Grothe and their children, Paul and Lynn of Silver Bay, who camped at the Tourist park while visiting with Mrs. Olga Grothe and other relatives and friends.

Also visiting at the home were Terri Cuppett, who played the guitar and sang for the residents; and Sarah and Rachael Grayson of Anoka, who sang to the group and played several organ and piano duets. They were accompanied by their grandmother, Mrs. Arnold Berg, and Gloria Swanson.

During Vietnam Veterans Week, May 28 through June 3, the American people will get a one-time opportunity to put aside their convictions about the war itself and pay tribute to the people who were called upon to fight it, said Max Cleland, the head of the Veterans Administration and a Vietnam veteran.

Country Music Matriarch

Twenty years ago, country music was a regional music form with a small following. Today, it is a national phenomenon that attracts millions of fans from cities throughout the country.

Much of the credit for the exceptional popularity and growth of country music can be attributed to one woman who never sang, played an instrument or set foot on stage as a performer. She is Jo Walker, executive director of the Country Music Association, a group that has been called "the world's most active trade association."

Twenty-one years ago, Mrs. Walker came to the newly-formed Country Music Association as office manager after a stint doing public relations work for a Tennessee gubernatorial candidate. She spent four years as the only full-time staff person, doing everything from typing to making policy decisions for the fledgling organization of 230 members. In 1961, Walker was named executive director but her biggest challenge lay ahead.

The CMA set as its goal winning new fans for country music and showing that it could be commercially successful on a large scale.

Advertisers in the early sixties were reluctant to spend money on the few existing country music radio stations. From 1963 to 1970, Walker made presentations to advertising agencies and sales organizations, mixing statistics and entertainers, to prove that country music was a viable advertising medium. Still fighting resistance from major advertisers, Walker commissioned research studies to prove that country audiences have the same buying habits as the rest of the nation.

Her perserverance and hard work helped to boost the number of full-time country music radio stations from 81 in 1961 to 1,434 in 1979. The CMA now boasts a membership of more than 5,000.

Walker has been instrumental in establishing programs such as Fan Fair week, boosting October as Country Music Month and organizing the prestigious Country Music Association Awards, which Kraft will present on CBS-Television October 8 (9:30-11:00 PM ET).

Modest about her successes, the "matriarch of country music" says, "I feel we have made great strides in the direction of our goal, but I feel we have much more to do on a worldwide basis. I'm proud of the heights country music has attained and the things the CMA has done."

Gerry Wood, senior editor of Billboard Magazine, one of the major news organs of the music industry, summed up best the relationship between Walker and the CMA. "The merger reaches the ultimate compatibility: some people can't imagine Jo Walker without the CMA, while others can't imagine the CMA without Jo Walker."

Suggest Label Saying Protein Not Necessary

After more than four years of hearings, the federal trade commission (FTC) staff has recommended that consumer information labels be required on all protein supplements sold in this country.

A staff-recommended regulation would require that protein supplyments bear this notice: "Warning: Do not use for infants under one year of age. Do not use without checking with your doctor if you have severe kidney or liver trouble."

The regulation would require this disclosure in advertising and on labels: "A fact you should know: very few Americans need extra protein. Almost all of us get all we need from the food we eat."

In addition, claims that extra protein promotes good health, would be prohibited.

The public may comment on this proposed regulation, according to Mary Darling, University of Minnesota extension nutritionist. Darling said comments may be sent to the office of secretary, FTC, 6th St. and Pennsylvania Av. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580, until September 24.

"Some people have no appetite due to various illnesses, so protein supplyments may be therapeutic for them," Darling says. "But most of us get twice the amount of protein we need if we eat a variety of meat, poultry, fish, dairy products and cereals."

Darling believes the rapid growth of the protein supplement industry can be attributed to a liquid protein diet regime made popular in the Robert Linn book, "The Last Chance Diet," other powdered protein meal replacement products and "body beautiful" consciousness.

"That protein builds muscles or makes the body firm is a misconception," Darling says. "Exercise builds muscles. If I consume tons of protein supplement and sit around, my body won't become fit or strong."

Darling stresses that the mark-up in price on the protein supplements makes the product expensive in view of what the consumer is actually getting.

"Basically, these protein supplements are derived from milk, egg and soy," she said. "Those who wish to supplement their protein intake may add non-fat dry skim milk to foods such as casseroles or beverages

Search Groups For Candidates Formed By I-R

Chairmen of Independent-Republican search committees to recruit candidates for District 1 senate and District 1-B representative positions were named at a meeting held recently in Thief River Falls.

Dr. Arnold Berg of Thief River Falls was named chairman of the state representative search committee and Mrs. Harold (Vangie) Myhre of Warren was named to head the District 1 senate search group.

A number of potential candidates were suggested at the meeting held here and contacts are being made by the committees. Any persons interested in being considered or who have suggestions for I-R candidates for either of the two positions are asked to contact chairmen of the respective committees.

AMPI Members Will Receive $7.6 Million

AMPI (Associated Milk Producers, Inc.) members in 22 states will be receiving nearly $7.6 million in patronage allocations in September. According to Don Gregg, AMPI north central region manager, "This year's allocation is the ninth consecutive equity allocation for the 27,000 member cooperative."

"Members of the north central region will be receiving 40 per cent of their allocation in cash," Gregg expalined. "This will amount to over $1.8 million or an equivalent of 5.5 cents per hundredweight."

Also scheduled for payment later this fall will be the first revolvement of the AMPI capital retain program. "We will be able to begin distributing these checks," Gregg said, "at our upcoming district meetings scheduled for later this fall. Any producer who marked his or his milk through AMPI from July 1, 1974 through December 31, 1974, can be looking for his additional payment."

"In keeping with out commitment made by the founders of AMPI," he added, "an additional $1.5 million of past predecessor equities will be scheduled for payment later this fall."

"If we consider our fall bonus in December of 1978, north central region members will have earned a total of nearly $6.2 million of which over $3.4 million will have been paid in cash."

U.S. Chamber Seeks To Curb Federal Forms

Someone once said that everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it. Ever since people have been saying the same thing about many of our everyday problems — government paperwork, for example.

Beginning in the 1880's at least seven major government studies have been made of the paperwork problem but it has grown phenomenally rather than diminished.

In more innocent days we used to dismiss it as government red tape. But today it is no longer a joking matter; it's an awesome, incredible burden that costs the nation upwards of $100 billion a year in time and other expense.

Among other things, one of the most exhaustive studies ever made of the problem arrived at the estimate as part of a two-year study from 1975 to 1977. That $10 million study also produced over 600 different recommendations but the commission itself went out of business.

But unlike our attitude toward the weather, some people are determined today to do something about eliminating unnecessary government forms and reports. They want to keep the problem before the public eye, pursue the commission's recommendations and support new laws that will eliminate or reduce paperwork.

In the forefront of this effort will be a new organization sponsored by the chamber of commerce of the United States — the council to reduce government paperwork, which estimates business must spend $32 billion a year on paperwork. Business must either absorb these costs under pressure of competition or pass them along to consumers as part of the expense of doing business.

William A. Klopman, chairman of the new council, says: "We believe the chief causes and alarming scope of the problem have been carefully documented, most recently by the commission on federal paperwork. Now we believe the time has come to work for laws, regulations and other action by government agencies to eliminate or reduce paperwork. Our concern is to follow through wherever we can to help bring the many ideas, reforms and recommendations into manageable actions and decisions."

Rep. Frank Horton, who served as chairman of the commission on federal paperwork, is not going to let people forget about its work either.

"Time and time again," he said recently, "I have had business people come into my office and confess they simply can't comply with all the forms the government wants. They can't and many of them just don't."

Rep. Horton has lent a sympathetic ear to business people around the country. In Memphis, he met a man who ran his business on the basis of three different fiscal years — to accommodate federal, state and local government reporting requirements.

No wonder he calls paperwork "strangulation by regulation."

Everything Is On The Rise

Things Are Better Than They Seem!
In the past 10 years, the cost of electricity has risen dramatically, but no faster and in many cases slower than other energy sources. In Minnesota for example, since 1969 Natural Gas has increased over 250%; Fuel Oil has risen at least 350%; Propane Gas has jumped by nearly 400% and the price of coal is about 400% greater than 10 years ago.
When you compare other sources of energy, electricity is STILL a good buy, and has added greatly to the convenience, comfort and productivity of our changing world. Because Minnesota's Electric Cooperatives are non-profit corporations, increasing rates are the direct result of higher cost to supply power. We will continue to do everything we can to provide you with adequate electricity at the lowest possible cost!

Chinese Wheat Buyers Visit In Area Last Week

"They saw things they've never seen before," was how Western wheat associates Taiwan director Fred Schneiter summarized the tour of five Chinese flour milling executives. That September 5 tour included stops in Thief River Falls, Hallock, Stephen and Warren.

Farmers, elevator managers and county extension directors served as both interested audience and capable tour guides for the Chinese visitors. C. K. "Dick" Hwang, team manager and president of P.C.K. Trading company, told one group of farmers, "We appreciate very much the kindness you have shown us, and all the helpful information you have given us. Our trip to Minnesota has been the highlight of our entire trip to the United States." The trip was sponsored by the Minnesota association of wheat growers.

In Thief River Falls, a large group of farmers had breakfast with the Taiwan team. Schneiter, who also serves as WWA's vice president for Asian communications, explained the WWA overseas market development program to the group.

Lunch with another group of farmers in Hallock was next on the agenda, and it was in Hallock that the group was treated to a tour of the Hallock elevator's new office facilities.

Earl Glidden, Hallock, gave the Chinese a first-hand look at harvesting operations, as did Minnesota wheat council member Art Howard, Warren.

In Stephen, Mayor Lawrence Sunsdahl presented each member of the Taiwan team with a plate commemorating that town's centennial. The Chinese group also stopped at the Stephen seedhouse, where they observed quality seed preparation.

WWA and the Minnesota wheat council are actively involved in overseas market development. Before market development activities began in Taiwan, the United States' share of that market was less than two per cent. This year, 96 per cent of all Taiwan's wheat imports will be U.S. wheat; 30 per cent of that will be dark northern spring wheat, the kind grown in Minnesota.

After leaving northwest Minnesota, the Taiwan team flew to Washington, D.C., to meet with foreign agriculture service officials.

Mn/DOT Backs Increase In Gasoline Taxes

he felt the funding wouldn't be adequate even for maintenance.

While Minnesota is not the only state facing a crisis in maintaining and upgrading its transportation system, according to Representative John Corbid who was in attendance at Thursday's meeting, "Other states have revenues to turn to. Minnesota's tax cut ($700 million) was too large and we have no other funds to get money from." Although it has been suggested that the state could simply transfer monies from the general fund to the highway department, Corbid reports that there is only $21 million left in the general fund and the highway department is facing a deficit of $122.5 million.

Both Corbid and Representative Myron Nysether, who was also in attendance, indicated they would support a flat increase in the gas tax of one or two cents. Senator Marvin Hanson, who also attended Thursday's session, likewise pledged his support to a gas tax increase but raised questions about its effectiveness. A one cent increase in the gas tax can be expected to result in an additional $20 million dollars a year for the highway department which is actually only a drop in the bucket when considering the highway department's needs.

Tieing the gas tax to the consumer price index and transferring sales tax revenues from the sale of vehicles in the state to the highway department were also looked at as possible alternatives. Development of a special 10-ton road fund such as was done with the interstate fund was also considered.

Major drawback in any of the proposed strategies for increasing the highway department budget is to convince the urban population that there is a need and to get a bill passed. Suggestion by city attorney Bob Wurst was that the urban representatives be approached on wider terms, making them realize that the money invested would help move the state's products faster, eventually benefiting all its residents. Banding together of rural legislators from throughout the state was also seen as viable strategy.

Thief River Falls' resident Bob Dondelinger voiced the sentiment of many area persons in attendance at Thursday's meeting when he stated, "You keep talking about putting more dollars into the budget — we aren't getting our share of the money that's there."

Questions were raised about the 90 per cent cut the northern Minnesota district took in the recent project cutbacks, about the criteria used in programming projects, and about where the project restorations would be if additional money was put into the transportation budget.

Wolfe stated, "Mn-DOT made decisions about where cuts were made and I can't say that I agree with all of them, but we came up with criteria we thought was fair to everyone."

Criteria used in the deprogramming (cutbacks) included: traffic count, condition of the road, cost effectiveness of the road system, classification of the road, how much was already invested and safety factors.

One of the projects that was retained despite cutbacks, Wolfe admitted, was the interstate work near the Twin Cities. Justification for the retention of the project was that 90 per cent of the work is federally funded as long as the project is completed by 1986. The leadline carried a lot of weight.

If the highway department got a budget increase, Wolfe explained, all projects would go back in for consideration with new criteria to be established for prioritorizing the work. The critieria will not be established until late fall, but it will likely include consideration for spreading the monies available equally between the regions in the state as well as considering amount of mileage in each region, needs of a region, and the vehicle miles traveled in a region including a variable for weight carried. Citizen input will be solicited in the establishment of the criteria, Wolfe stated.

Commissioner of the department of transportation, Richard Braun, will be in Thief River Falls September 19 to meet with local citizens concerned about the moving of grain and road restrictions. A 7:30 p.m. meeting is scheduled but the site has not yet been determined. Commissioner Braun is also expected to be in the area October 9 although no meeting has been scheduled as yet.

Decker Resigns As President Of Bemidji State

Dr. Robert D. Decker has announced his resignation from the presidency at Bemidji state university at a convocation of BSU faculty and staff Wednesday. He told the gathered academic community that he had mixed emotions about leaving the presidency.

"However, I feel that it is time for a change after eleven years," he said. "Also, I feel that it is in the best interests of Bemidji state university for me to resign now so that a new president can be selected in time to be personally involved in the process of selecting his or her own administrative team with hopes that it will last for the long- long, time."

Bemidji state university is currently involved in reexamining administrative and academic procedures and programs in order to steamline the university for the students of the 1980's.

Dr. Garry D. Hays, chancellor of the state university system, told the BSU faculty and staff that Dr. Decker's service to the university and to the community has been significant and lasting.

Hays, and state university board chairman Arnold Anderson, indicated that Dr. Decker will be recommended for a distinguished professorship at Bemidji state. The state board will meet September 18 to authorize a search for a new president for Bemidji state and to act on the distintuished professorship recommendation.

Decker indicated that he would like to stay in the Bemidji area, teach and work actively with community organizations.

Chancellor Hays said that the tentative time-frame for a presidential search will hopefully see final selection by Jan. 15, 1980 with the new president taking office soon after. The Chancellor has asked Decker to continue leadership until the new president is named.

Decker came to Minnesota from Texas. He was born near Kyle, Texas in 1922 and attended Kyle high school. He received his undergraduate, Masters and Doctorage degrees from Texas A and M at college station.

He came to Minnesota in 1966 as assistant chancellor for the state college system and was acting chancellor from 1967-68. In April of 1968 he was named president-elect at Bemidji state.

$7,299,550 In Loans Approved For Companies

Paul W. Jansen, district director of the Minneapolis district office of the small business administration, announced recently that $7,299,550 in SBA loans have been approved for 50 Minnesota companies in August. This included four loans, amounting to $256,000, which were loans to minority owned firms, making the minority component of the August loan portfolio eight per cent of total loans and 3.5 per cent of total loan dollars. Projected additional employment created as a result of these loans is 856 jobs.

Direct management assistance counseling was provided to 359 Minnesota firms through the small business administration's in-house counselors or through support groups like the service corps of retired executives and the 10 colleges participating in the small business institute program. In August, 209 business persons or potential business persons participated in SBA sponsored training programs.

Lung Ass'n. Cites Activity In Its Report

To cope with the crippling problem of lung disease, the Minnesota Lung association conducted a year-long program of health education, smoking deterrence, breathing capacity testing and research, according to the association's just released 1978-79 annual report.

Lung association volunteers and staff "share a commitment to shaping a future free from the tragedy of lung disease, a future filled with more smiling," says association president R. Paul Marvin.

Free breathing capacity tests are offered to the people of the state in order to detect chronic lung disease (chiefly emphysema and chronic bronchitis) before permanent damage had been done.

Professional seminars and conferences were presented to update physicians, nurses, respiratory therapists and school personnel about lung diseases which afflict children and babies, as well as adults.

In cooperation with its affiliates in Hennepin and Ramsey counties, the Minnesota Lung association provided camperships to 132 boys and girls suffering with asthma which enabled them to attend Camp Superkids, the Minnesota camp for kids with astham.

In an effort to deter youngsters from smoking, the state lung association supported the training of teachers and the purchase of materials relevant to new comprehensive school health curriculums which began in elementary schools around the state. These curriculums relate the matter of health to the whole child and involve many aspects of his world.

The Association for Non-Smokers' Rights (ANSR), a program of the lung associations, was active in promoting a cleaner indoor environment in Minnesota and compliance with the Minnesota clean indoor air act.

The state lung association was co-sponsor of D-day, the statewide health project intended to reduce the number of smokers in Minnesota.

For the year ending March 31, 1979, the annual report reveals the Minnesota Lung association expenditures included $177,451 for anti-smoking education; $151,005 for programs in adult lung disease ($40,000 of which was awarded to support lung disease research); $69,096 for programs in child lung disease; $54,724 for community health services; $34,506 for non-smokers' rights programs; and $23,860 for environmental health services.

Proceeds from the annual Christmas seal campaign and memorial contributions made possible all the lung association's programs directed at the prevention and control of lung disease in this state.

Copies of the 1978-79 annual report may be obtained by writing to the Minnesota Lung Association, 614 Portland Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102.

New Look In Geriatric Care For Veterans

New nationwide look at the medical care of aging veterans may have important and far-reaching effects on the lives of millions of older Americans.

Geriatric medicine's new look stems from a veterans administration project aimed at promoting innovations in treating the problems of the growing army of older veterans. Sparked by modest grants to selected VA medical centers, the agency's National Education Project on Aging is training both VA and community health care specialists in this field.

VA said the need is apparent from the fact that the average age of nearly half of all U.S. veterans is just over 57 years and that more than 2.3 million veterans are already 65 years of age or older.

To meet the future increases in this older veteran population, VA is training interdisciplinary teams from selected agency medical centers in an integrated, comprehensive approach to geriatric medicine. The teams then return home to set up training programs at their local hospitals. In this way more than 3,000 VA and community health care personnel already have been trained in the special needs of the elderly.

Because many VA medical care facilities are affiliated with medical schools, and since community health care personnel are being trained in the new approach to geriatric medicine, the VA program is expected to influence care for the aged far beyond the confines of the agency's medical system.

Job Situation Improves For Young People

Job sitaution for young people has been better this summer than last, reports the bureau of labor statistics of the U.S. department of labor.

The number of 16 to 21-year-olds with jobs increased slightly, reaching a record 15.8 million, and the number of unemployed youth was about 200,000 lower than a year earlier. As a result, the youth unemployment rate was down over the year from 14.5 to 13.4 per cent, the lowest rate for July since 1973. The reduction in unemployment was particularly pronounced among black youth, primarily young black women.

Each summer the 16 to 21-year-old labor force expands sharply, as large numbers of youth enter the job market in search of summer jobs, and as high school and college graduates, many of whom were nonparticipants in the labor force while attending school, take or look for permanent jobs.

Between April and July of 1979, the youth labor force increased by 3.6 million, slightly less than the summertime expansions of recent years. Furhtermore, 2.0 million youth switched from part-time to full-time work. The youth labor force of 18.3 million in July of 1979 was slightly below the record level of a year earlier.

Youth employment edged up by 100,000 from the year earlier level to an all-time high of 15.8 million. In 1978 and 1977, there had been much larger over-the-year job increases — 600,000 and 360,000, respecitvely. When put in the perspective of the declining youth population this year, however, the 100,000 increase in employment takes on significance. This year's employment pickup was shared evenly among black and white workers; in the past, white youth had accounted for larger proportions of the job gains.

The slight growth in employment, when coupled with the decline in the youth population, led to an increase in the employment-population ratio — the proportion of their noninstitutional population that is employed — to a record 62.8 per cent, up from the previous high of 62.2 per cent last summer.

As in previous summers youth employment this July was concentrated in the retail trade, services and manufacturing industries. Occupational categories where sizable numbers of youths were employed included service workers, clerical workers and nonfarm laborers.

The number of unemployed 16 to 21-year-olds was 2.5 million in July of 1979, a decline of about 200,000 from last July. The youth unemployment rate was 13.4 per cent, down from the year-earlier level of 14.5 per cent and at its lowest point since July 1973. Their summer jobless rate has been as high as 18.3 per cent in July of 1975.

A substantial part of the July 1978-79 decline in the number of unemployed youth took place among women (155,000). Unemployment of white youth declined slightly (70,000) over the year (almost entirely among women), and the unemployment rate for white youth edged down from 11.8 to 11.4 per cent. There was a much larger decrease among employed black youth — 145,000 — with two-thirds of it taking place among young women. The black youth unemployment rate fell from 33.0 to 28.1 per cent over the year with a particularly sharp drop (eight percentage points) occurring among women.

How's Your Head For Business?

How much do you know about business? This quiz can help you tell.

1. Most of the workers in America produce (a) goods (b) services (c) food?

2. Automation is causing openings for office workers to (a) increase (b) decrease (c) stay the same?

3. Business computer prices are at least (a) four figures (b) five figures (c) six figures?

4. What percentage of America's labor force is unionized? (a) five (b) 20 (c) 50?

ANSWERS: 1. (b) More than half of the U.S. work force today is producing services. 2. (a) Automation in the office has sharply increased the demand for workers ranging from business machine operators and copy machine repair people to computer programmers and tape librarians. 3. (a) The new TRS-80 Model II Systems from Radio Shack at $3,450 to about $7,800 work as well, many say, as computers costing 2 or 3 times as much. 4. (b) About a fifth of the work force belongs to some union.

States To Get $60,000 For Food Program

U.S. department of agriculture recently announced plans to allocate an additional $60,000 to each state for administering the child care food program and the commodity distribution program. Under the new regulation, the department would allocate:

— A minimum of $30,000, plus a prorated share of remaining funds, to each state to administer the commodity distribution program. Currently a state may use its funds for administering this program, but no funds are earmarked for that purpose.

— An additional $30,000 per state for child care food program administration.

About $31 million will be distributed by the department to states this year in administrative expense funds. These funds are federal payments to states to administer child nutrition programs, including the school lunch and breakfast programs, and special milk program, the child care food program, commodity distribution and food service equipment assistance.

"In some cases, states could not afford the staff required to monitor food contracts and to make sure donated foods are used properly," assistant secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said. "These extra funds will help states achieve better control. Also, efforts to make child care food assistance available to more family and group day care homes have created new administrative burdens. Our regulation responds to this special need as well."

Family Support Council To Be At Brainerd

Increasing effective methods in child support collections and how to reduce welfare fraud will be discussed at Madden's, Brainerd, when the Minnesota family support and recovery council has its seventh annual conference September 9-12.

Scheduled to address the approximately 300 conference attendees are county and state officials, including Arthur E. Noot, commissioner, Minnesota department of public welfare; and James P. Manek, project director, child support enforcement, with the national district attorneys' association.

Also participating will be judges, county attorneys, county commissioners, investigators and child support collection specialists from most counties throughout Minnesota, and interested parties from neighboring states. These individuals comprise the Minnesota family support and recovery council, whose goal is to assist the Minnesota department of public welfare in strengthening statewide child support and fraud prevention programs as set forth by the federal government.

In 1978 Minnesota IV-D child support collections were in excess of 17 million dollars. Results of this program effort have been a positive and direct benefit to the many children and families involved as well as to the taxpayers of each county.

Conference agenda includes a special fraud prevention institute headed by A.C. "Nick" Novick from Orange County, California, a national leader in the areas of fraud prevention, detection, and prosecution. Other workshop topics include new state legislation affecting child support and fraud, absent parent location techniques, and data privacy issues.

For additional information about the council or the 1979 conference agenda and program, please contact your local child support collection agency.

MFT President Gives Views On New Bargaining

Richard Mans, president of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers (MFT), urges teachers and school districts to let the process of collective bargaining work. "While we agree that the process of inflation is damaging to all workers", Mans said, "the only valid way to gauge the merit of employees' wage proposals is through the collective bargaining process.

"Settlements will come as teachers and school districts participate in good faith bargaining. In those rare cases where agreements cannot be reached at the bargaining table, strikes may take place, but only as a last resort. No one wants a strike. It is only valid when both parties find the pain of a strike less severe than compromising on unsettled contract issues.

"President Hill, MEA, is attempting to use teacher contracts to gain personal publicity. He is not a part of any district's contract negotiations and, in fact, has virtually no experience under the state's public employee labor relations act," the president of the competing teacher union said.

"He preaches that teachers need more money (with which the MFT doesn't disagree) but seems unwilling to practice what he preaches for his own professional staff, who are on strike today for more money and benefits."

Mans charges Hill with grossly misleading figures. "For example," Mans states, "the South St. Paul settlement (MFT is the bargaining agent) of 14 per cent with an average of $2,900 new money for each teacher was belittled by Hill, yet the MEA leader forgets to mention the Hastings EA settlement which was 13.39 per cent and $2,500 new money.

"Minnesota's public employee bargaining law is working well. We do not need a prophet of doom interrupting the bargaining process with his own self aggrandizement," said Mans. "Mr. Hill is well known for his intemperate and inaccurate statements to the media when leadership not rhetoric is needed."

Exams Required To Register All Mn. Sanitarians

State health department authorities have announced that persons who work as "environmental health specialists" or "sanitarians" in Minnesota will have to be formally registered by the department's manpower division from now on. The registration system has already been set up, and the first registration examinations are set for October 27.

Environmental health specialists and sanitarians are usually employed by regulatory agencies in state and local government. Their duties typically include the inspection of food and beverage establishments, the regulation of water supply and sewage treatment facilities, and other tasks relating to health and the environment. Under the new regulatory system, all such persons will be known as "environmental health specialist-sanitarians."

To be registered, an environmental health specialist or sanitarian must have completed 30 semester hours or 45 quarter hours of college level work in the physical or biological sciences, and one year of supervised work experience, in addition to passing the registration examination.

Until Feb. 1, 1980, persons already working in the environmental health field can also be registered on the basis of "relevant experience." A person seeking registration on the basis of experience must have at least five years of work experience and be able to provide supervisors' references, and must have passed a civil service or merit system examination for environmental health specialist, sanitarian or an equivalent job classification.

Department officials said the new registration policy was necessary because of the "increasing size and scope" of the environmental health field. They said the "growing industrialization" of society has made protection of the environment a "more complex and demanding" task, giving rise to a growing body of environmental health regulations and a corresponding growth in regulatory activity.

Noting that "Sanitarian" is still the most common job title in regulatory agencies dealing with environmental health, they argued that the traditional definition of that job "no longer conveys the skill and background required for protecting the modern environment."

Registration examinations for environmental health specialist-sanitarians will be held quarterly. The application deadline for the October 27 examination is September 14. Interested persons should contact the Division of Manpower, Minnesota Department of Health, 717 Delaware St. S.E., Minneapolis 55440.

Thermostat Follies

Following editorial is from the Wall Street Journal:

A while ago one of our staff went out for dinner in a hometown family restaurant. The air was stifling, but a complaint to a profusely sweating waiter drew the response that they couldn't turn up the air conditioner because of the government's thermostat regulations. Furthermore, said the waiter, "The restaurant across the street was already fined $5,000" for disregarding the rules.

We were intrigued by the report, especially when a Department of Energy spokesman told us that no federal agent had gone out in the field yet to do any thermostat checking and wouldn't do so until the fall. Our calls to "the restaurant across the street" drew a blank, so we seem to have come across one of those apocryphal energy stories like the tank trucks dumping gasoline in the Mojave desert sands.

But we did learn a bit about the thermostat regulations. When the federal agents (or state agents where the states adopt their own conservations plans) start prowling restaurants, they will check, not the thermostat setting, but the "ambient room temperature," to allow for the heat from all those warm bodies eating pasta. Or, if the restaurant owner chooses, they could measure his compliance with munidity standards instead, namely a dew point of 65 degrees. In fact, says the DOE spokesman, the restaurant could meet the requirement by setting its air conditioning to attain a 78 degree temperature in the kitchen. The eateries that are driving away customers with hot dining rooms, he says, just don't understand the regulations.

To tell the truth, we're a bit confused ourselves. It seems that the original purpose of energy conservation is vanishing behind a welter of thermostat regulations (which incidentally were authorized twice by Congress). The temperature settings seem to have saved us little imported oil, especially in Midwestern cities where electricity for air conditioning is generated by American coal. Since some businesses, like restaurants, obviously need to operate in lower temperatures than others, the sensible approach would seem to be the free market, rationing lower temperatures to those willing to pay the electric bills.

Instead, government regulators find themselves creating outrageous loopholes in the attempt to fit their rules to reality. And the federal government has taken control of one more area of our lives.

Juggling The Law

It is strange indeed that even the most seemingly clear statements of law are subject to interpretation in the judicial process — interpretation which can change after two centuries of existing without question.

One of these statements from the U.S. Constitution which has been often mentioned in these editorial columns is the right of American citizens to own and use firearms. To us it seems there is no question that this right is constitutionally guaranteed, but interpretations have challenged the right over the years.

Another of the constitutional statements is now being tossed around by the judiciary. The sixth amendment to the U.S. Constitution states that, "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial." Now the U.S. supreme court has said that in some cases court proceedings may be closed.

In a July 2 decision this year, the supreme court made the following interpretation: "The guarantee of a public trial is for the benefit of the defendant alone. . .To safeguard the due process rights of the accused, a trial judge has an affirmative constitutional duty to minimize the effects of prejudicial pretrial publicity, and he may take protective measures even when they are not strictly and inescapably necessary."

In our opinion, and the opinion of many others, that is stretching the law beyond the limits of intent. Chief Justice Warren Burger of the supreme court has declared that the order applies only to pretrial hearings. But Justice Harry Blackmun contends that it authorizes the closing of full trials. Three other supreme court justices joined him in that opinion.

The legal profession is strongly tied to precedent in opinions as a general rule, but the judiciary is not beyond ignoring precedent in some areas. This would seem to be one of those areas, for ample precedent exists where open court trials have been upheld.

In 1966, in the supreme court case involving Sheppard vs. Maxwell, the court ruled that ". . .justice cannot survive behind walls of silence" and that publicity ". . .guards against the miscarriage of justice by subjecting the police, prosecutors and judicial processes to extensive public scrutiny and criticism."

In 1975 on the case of Cox Broadcasting corporation vs. Cohn, the supreme court ruling noted that publicity ". . .serves to guarantee the fairness of trials and to bring to bear the beneficial effects of public scrutiny upon the administration of justice."

Elsewhere in the same case the court noted, "The commission of crime, prosecutions resulting from it, and judicial proceedings arising from the prosecutions . . .are without question events of legitimate concern to the public."

The Sheppard vs. Maxwell case in 1965 also produced the statement that publicity of judicial proceedings ". . has always been regarded as the handmaiden of effective judicial administration, especially in the criminal field."

"The public has the right to be informed as to what occurs in its courts," state the supreme court in Estes vs. Texas in 1965.

More pointedly, the court recognized a condition when it stated in the 1978 case of the United States vs. Cianfrani: "Secret hearings — though they be scrupulously fair in reality — are suspect by nature. Public confidence cannot long be maintained where important judicial decisions are made behind closed doors and then announced in conclusive terms to the public, with the record supporting the court's decisions sealed from public view."

It should not be difficult for the supreme court to understand and to rule according to what the constitution states. Way back in 1677 the Concessions and Agreements of West New Jersey said it as follows:

"That in all public courts of justice for tryals of causes, civil or criminal, any person or person, inhabitants of the said Province may freely come into, and attend the said courts, and hear and be present, that all or any such tryals shall be there had or passed, that justice may not be done in a corner nor in any covert manner."

Airlines And Fuel

With national concern about getting the most value out of the use of petroleum products, each special interest group involved in such use is trying to make its best case for the public.

Because of such effort, it may be natural that "Trailer Life" magazine recently carried comment on airline fuel use. Airlines, it may be assumed, are not involved in towing trailers. Special interest aside, it is of interest to note what the magazine has to say:

"Some little known facts and figures from the Department of Transportation about consumption of oil in 1975 reveal some startling, if not appalling, statistics. And as a result of the escalating economy and usage during the last four years, a conservative 10 per cent can be added to the following statistics:

In 1975 only 12 per cent of the U.S. population traveled via commercial airlines, consuming 47 per cent of the total U.S. oil supply. That's the price we have to pay for speed! The military consumed 35 per cent of the nation's oil, while industry, utilities, trucking and commercial bus operations and construction used approximately 7.5 per cent. Only 0.9 per cent of our total oil supply was consumed by automobiles (including all recreational vehicles).

It appears that emphasis should be directed to reduction of consumption of airlines rather than a curtailment of the automobile, especially when you consider that 97 per cent of our country's gross national product is produced by all the small consumers who use their vehicles to travel to and from their place of employment."

Borrowed Nonsense:

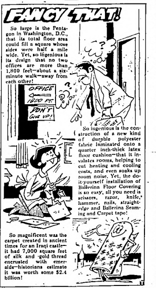
Deep in the jungle a missionary walking between villages was confronted by a huge lion. With the ferocious beast in pursuit he ran until exhausted. As he sank to his knees in anticipation of his fate, he cried out, "O Lord, let this lion be a Christian!" Miraculously, the lion knelt beside the missionary and prayed, "O Lord, bless this food which I am about to receive. Amen."

Interesting Opinions:

"The trouble with being a leader these days is that you can't be sure whether people are following you or chasing you."

—Bits & Pieces

In business and politics, indifference is fatal. — William Feather.



FANCY THAT!

So large is the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., that its total floor area could fill a square whose sides were half a mile wide. Yet, so ingenious is its design that no two offices are more than 1,800 feet—about a six-minute walk—away from each other!

So ingenious is the construction of a new kind of durable polyester fabric laminated onto a quarter inch-thick latex floor cushion—that it insulates rooms, helping to cut heating and cooling costs, and even soaks up room noise. Yet, the do-it-yourself installation of Ballerina Floor Covering is so easy, all you need is scissors, razor, knife, hammer, nails, straight-edge and Ballerina Seaming and Carpet tape!

So magnificent was the carpet created in ancient times for an Iraqi castle—it had 7,000 square feet of silk and gold thread encrusted with emeralds—historians estimate it was worth some $2.4 billion!

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

"Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free, the wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me. . ." These words, on a bronze tablet at the base of the Statue of Liberty, were written by an American poetess, Emma Lazarus, around the turn of the century. They remind us we are a nation of immigrants seeking freedom. Is the message still timely today?

I hope so.

The aftermath of the tragic end to the Vietnam war presents a compelling challenge to free people everywhere. The Communist regimes that seized power in Vietnam and Cambodia have eliminated most remaining freedoms and done just about everything possible to make life more miserable for their people. Countless thousands of Indochinese have tried, and are still trying, to take advantage of the only option left — escape. Most dramatic are the "boat people," barely alive on small craft, praying for rescue, a home and freedom.

I believe the United States has acted properly in directing the U.S. Navy to rescue refugees at sea, and in mobilizing our allies to help accelerate and participate in their ultimate resettlement. But government, however decent its intentions, is always hampered by bureaucratic delays. Government can lead, assist and point the way; in the end, however, it is usually motivated individuals, working through their families, communities and businesses who exercise leadership and move decisively to solve problems.

As a member of the business community, I see more and more examples of that kind of leadership being applied to the refugee problem. Granted, you don't hear much about it — no one is doing any bragging — but business people everywhere, from Washington to the Eastern Shore of Maryland, to Iowa, Texas and California are working to find solutions to this very complex, difficult problem.

If you're looking for a person who epitomizes take-charge leadership in modern-day American, look at Ed Daily, president of World Airways of Oakland, Calif. In 1975, at the moment of utmost peril, Daly took his planes into Danang and personally flew (and diapered!) orphans out of danger within hours of South Vietnam's collapse. Today, World Airways is still airlifting refugees, both in private humanitarian efforts, and as a government contractor. And Daly has never stopped his efforts. He is now recognized internationally as a leader in refugee rescue and resettlement.

One of the places World Airways has flown refugees is Dallas, Texas, headquarters of Airlines Instruments Company. Dale Ireland, the company's president, is resettling about 75 Cambodian refugees — entire families — and employing the adults in his Mineral Wells, Texas facility. Ireland told us that within 48 hours after the first refugees arrived they were asking him when they could start work. "They wanted to make some money," he said.

In Showell, Maryland, Showell Farms, Inc., a total poultry processing firm, has offered a home and jobs to about 50 unmarried refugees during the past year. The company built a dormitory with modest studio apartments and pays the refugees the prevailing wage with full benefits. The experiment seems to be working beautifully.

And in California, two young men, Llewellyn Werner of Sacramento and Richard Walden of Los Angeles, have just completed what they called "a modest effort" — the collection and delivery of six tons of food and medicine to refugees in Southeast Asia. The men are not businessmen, but simply two individuals with initiative and obvious entrepreneurial skills. Why did they solicit contributions from all over the country? Explained Werner: "We are amateurs. Our point was to dramatize the fact that individuals can get involved."

If you think you too would like to get involved — or your family, organization, business, or state or local government, a good place to start is to write or call The American Council of Volunteer Agencies, 200 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10003; telephone: (212) 777-8210.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Regarding your recent editorial concerning that shipment of kerosene to Iran, and the ravings of our ultra conservative Congressman Stangeland on this item:

Supposing that President Carter would have refused to allow this one sale, and then Iran would have stopped all sales of oil to this country which at the present time amounts to well over one million barrels a day, can you imagine the hue and cry we would have heard then?

It seems that the press and the Republican party are bent on deliberately destroying this president no matter what he does.

The real problem as I see it is not President Carter but the congress, a do nothing congress that not only votes down every proposal presented to them but fails to come up with one of their own.

It's a sad commentary on this great nation when we have to depend on the whims of an unstable nation to provide us with our essential energy needs, and yet the congress has wasted more than two years now and has completely failed to provide this nation with a solution. It's time the people of this nation started placing the blame where it rightly belongs — on the congress.

Steiner 4-H Club To Meet

Due to leaders council meeting Monday evening, September 10, the Steiner 4-H club meeting will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 11, at 8 p.m. at the Steiner hall. Roll call response will be the answer to "what are your personal goals for 4-H?" Special business is awards night in October and election of officers. Make-up demonstrations are scheduled. Lunch will be served by the Ben Bjerken and Emil Vanyo families.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Malberg were Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Malberg, Mrs. Helen Davidson and Mrs. Egbert Malberg of Viking.

A week ago Sunday evening Melvin Saugen was happy to have Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Hoff from Columbine, Mich., come to visit him. They are friends he met who enjoyed the same tour to European countries a year ago this summer, as Melvin did, and who are spending their vacation this summer visiting their tour partners.

An afternoon of reminiscing with a potluck lunch was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Clara Jaennette Thursday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stroberg, Mrs. Anne Muzzy, Mrs. Vernon Malberg and Mrs. Jaennette. Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Meyer who have August birthdays.

Mrs. Peter Solem was reminded of her birthday Thursday afternoon, August 30, when Mrs. Linnea Ness, Mrs. Carrie Ness, Mrs. Julian Rodahl, Mrs. David Rodahl and Mandi and Mrs. Alfred Solem came to enjoy cake, ice cream and coffee with her.

Kitchen Band Plays In Grand Forks

Mrs. Gladys Joringdal, who works with the senior citizens in Grand Forks, invited the senior citizen kitchen band from Thief River Falls to participate in a program at the senior citizen place in Grand Forks Wednesday afternoon. The Sunshine kitchen band of Grand Forks also presented numbers. The local band also played when the Snorre lodge 70 Sons of Norway held their annual picnic August 19 at the Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf were Monday overnight guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ranum in Fergus Falls. Tuesday morning they drove to Brainerd, where they had dinner with Mrs. Joyce Rondorf, Tyson and Jeremy. In the afternoon they were luncheon guests at the home of Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Friday at Merrifield. Mr. and Mrs. Rondorf stayed overnight in Brainerd and Wednesday drove to Detroit Lakes to visit LaVerne's uncle, Lorenz Anton, who is a resident at the Immanuel nursing home. Lorenz was in very good spirits in spite of having had both his legs amputated, showed his guests around the home, and is very satisfied with living there.

Mrs. Ethel Moe and Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas attended the senior citizen picnic at the Skylite center Friday afternoon. Steve Anderson, a regular entertainer at Lon's, entertained the group.

Recent visitors at the Lloyd Larson home were Lester Sorenson of Newfolden, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Solberg, Lance and Keith of Plummer, Orville Harstad of Viking and Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter, Kent and Hope of Strandquist.

Sunday supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Swanson were Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja of Smiley and Mrs. Clara Jaennette.

Wednesday, August 22, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Larson were afternoon and supper guests at the Orville Harstad home at Viking. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Larson were to the Eugene Kleinwachter home at Strandquist.

Enjoying camping over the Labor Day weekend near Park Rapids were Mr. and Mrs. Curt Johnson, Mark, Sheryl and Jeffry, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Blodgett, Susan and Yvonne, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fellman, Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Stocks, Lisa and Lori and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Naeseth and Randy.

Friday afternoon, August 24, Mrs. Orville Harstad of Viking and Mrs. Lloyd Larson visited with Mrs. Olga Harstad, who is a patient at Northwestern hospital. In the evening Mrs. Larson attended a meeting of the Esther circle of Nazareth Lutheran church at the Lon Inman home of rural Holt. Mr. Larson was a coffee guest there later in the evening.

Mrs. Helen Russell returned home Saturday after spending three weeks with the Dale Grondahl family of Buffalo, who brought her home. They had spent a week on a camp out in the Duluth and iron range area and up the North Shore Drive and had also attended the Minnesota state fair.

A Monday overnight guest at the Larry Gustafson home was Roxanne Chute of International Falls. She is a granddaughter of the late Henry Pederson, whom some folks in our area may remember. She enrolled in school here.

Lloyd Larson attended funeral services for Lars Ring at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt Saturday, August 25. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Hans Haarstad of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Nelson of Fargo were supper guests at the Larson home. The Nelsons returned home the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, Stacy, Susan and Tony were visitors at the home of Mrs. Amanda Torgerson Sunday afternoon. In the evening they were guests at the Clarence Gustafson home at Viking.

Mrs. Clara Jaennette was a dinner guest at the Clifford Jorde home Labor Day. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lendobeja of Smiley were coffee guests in the afternoon.

Mrs. Lloyd Larson attended a baby shower at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt Sunday afternoon, August 25, in honor of Mrs. Don Lunke and infant son Brad Don. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Larson accompanied by Mrs. Anne Muzzy of Thief River Falls, helped Lance Solberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Solberg, celebrate his 12th birthday at his home at Plummer. Lance also had a party at school the next day, which was his birth date. The Larsons and Mrs. Muzzy were callers at the home of Sue Feeney on their way home.

Recent dinner guests and afternoon visitors at the Larry Gustafson home were Mrs. Gary Krogstad and Michael of Stephen.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson were Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alf Elden at Oslo.

Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Lloyd Larson was a visitor at the Marian Augustine home of rural Holt.

Larry Gustafson and daughters Stacy and Susan visited at the Wallace Hanson home at Viking a week ago Sunday.

Mrs. Lloyd Larson and her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter and Hope attended a products party at the Mrs. Esther Storeby home at Strandquist Friday afternoon. In the evening Mrs. Larson attended the baby shower at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt in honor of Mrs. Jim Klemmetson (nee Patty Steinhauer) and daughter.

Tuesday morning last week the executive board of the womens Christian association met at the home of Mrs. Larry Gustafson. Present were Kathy Ebbighausen, Verna Christensen, Arlene Overbye, Marge Green, Konnie Christensen, Sandy Sortor, Carol Rudd, Doris Swanson, Gelene Peltier, Shelly Steva, Sharline Hess and Melba Ponning, besides Carmen Gustafson, the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Boughton spent Sunday and Labor Day sight seeing at Winnipeg.

Buying Glasses Is More Than Simply Selecting Frames

There is more to buying glasses than selecting appealing frames, says the Minnesota association of ophthalmology, which represents Minnesota physicians and surgeons who specialize in eye care.

Yet the purchase of a new pair of glasses is often a mystifying experience for many of the estimated 100 million Americans who wear corrective lenses.

"Shop around, compare prices, and know what services to expect, both from the ophthalmologist who prescribes the glasses and from the optician who will make your glasses," suggests Raymond C. Croissant, M.D., president of the Minnesota association of ophthalmology.

"At the time of your eye examination, if glasses are required, your ophthalmologist should provide you with a copy of your eye glass prescription at no additional charge," says Dr. Croissant. "This is unquestionalby the right of every patient," he adds.

"With the prescriptipn in hand you may choose to visit a local optician, or if your ophthalmologist dispenses glasses, you may choose to purchase them from him," adds Dr. Croissant. "The key point to remember is that you have a choice as to where you purchase your glasses.

"A correct prescription alone does not insure that your glasses will feel comfortable on your face. You should check to make sure that the frames sit well upon your face. If the fit is wrong they might slip and create a vision distortion, or a general feeling of discomfort.

"Though sometimes fashionable, very large frames or lenses can cause problems," suggests Dr. Croissant. "It is advisable to select a smaller frame and lenses for the higher prescriptions required to correct strong astigmatism, or severe nearsightedness or farsightedness. The smaller lens assure less optical distortion at the lens edges," he says.

When you receive your new glasses, they should be checked for accuracy by your ophthalmologist.

If you want tinted lenses, it is probably best to stick to the milder tints. Tinted lenses may diminish your vision indoors or at night to a significant degree. This is particularly true in elderly people.

Either prescription sunglasses or clip-on sunglasses work fine, Dr. Croissant adds. Clip-ons have to be chosen carefully in order to avoid having your glasses scratched. No one tint is better than another, but gray and brown are the most poplular.

Without a final check by the ophthalmologist, an inaccuracy could slip by and cause a visual annoyance or disturbance for you when the glasses are worn, Croissant notes.

Consumer awareness should not disappear once you have your new glasses at home, Dr. Croissant warns. "Grabbing the glasses off the face on one side with one hand may destroy their alignment. Remove them with both hands, one on each side," he says. This is an important point which should be emphasized particularly when young children first receive glasses.

"Care for your frames and lenses the way you would care for a fine instrument," suggests Dr. Croissant. "Never lay your glasses down when you are not using them. Put them away in a good storage case."

A proper storage case should have a soft lining which will not scratch the lenses. And it should have a supportive outer shell which will not easily be crushed. Never store glasses in a leather case. Leather can scratch and may damage the lenses. Also, don't store your glasses in a case which is too restrictive. Most eyeglass frames are made out of plastic, and this could compress your frames out of shape, Dr. Croissant concludes.

As America becomes a nation of increasingly long-lived people, how's your acuity about aging?

1. The fastest growing segment of our population is (a) under 50 (b) between 50 and 60 (c) over 75?

2. Older adults should (a) get regular exercise (b) always avoid vigorous exercise (c) substitute saunas and steam baths for exercise?

3. Marital relations among older adults (a) should be avoided (b) may be more fulfilling (c) usually disappears?

4. A decline in intellectual activities among long-living persons (a) commences at about age 63 (b) is inevitable (c) if it occurs, is most frequently the result of treatable medical or emotional problems?

ANSWERS: 1. (c). 2. (a) Regular, moderate exercise helps maintain health, provides better sleep and diminish stress. 3. (b) Normal changes in marital relations with age need not impair or diminish pleasure. Additional lubrication, such as a greaseless, nonirritating, stainless gel, called ORTHO Personal Lubricant, may be used to compensate for the vaginal dryness that may accompany the aging process. 4. (c) There is nothing inevitable about the decline of intellectual processes. In fact, the slowing of response which seems characteristic of old age has been found to be statistically related to environmental deprivation and depression as well as to decreasing physical health.

Football Officials Make News

Officials took their toll on the Lincoln high school and Northland community college football teams over the weekend as the Prowlers lost a 13-7 home opener to Detroit Lakes and the Northmen lost a 20-6 season opener to Mesabi at Virginia.

Friday's Thief River Falls-Detroit Lakes contest was the most heavily penalized football game in our record books which date back to the 1970 season. The Prowlers and Lakers racked up a whopping 24 penalties that amounted to a staggering 217 yards worth of infractions. Both teams were guilty of misdeeds in the eyes of the officials who whistled 12 penalties on both parties that went for 110 yards against the Prowlers and 107 against the Lakers.

Ironically, the only other game in our books that comes close to matching those penalty figures occurred exactly one year ago when the Prowlers and Lakers, playing at Detroit Lakes, were charged with 21 penalties for an even 200 yards. Thief River Falls got caught 10 times and Detroit Lakes 11 times that night in a 12-7 win by the Prowlers (almost identical to Friday's score).

Thief River Falls and Detroit Lakes players, coaches and fans could take some consolation in the fact that the penalties, however closely called, went both ways.

However, Northland coach Irv Smith says the treatment the Northmen received at Virginia was decidedly one-sided — in favor of Mesabi.

"I couldn't believe it," began Smith. "We gotta do something about that range officiating. There was no way we would win over there. It was a joke. I'm not making excuses, but it wasn't even close to being fair."

With a fine recruiting year under his belt, Smith had hopes of being a contender this year in the Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) Northern Division. But even after one game, Smith isn't sure where the Northmen stand because the officiating, he said, turned into a one-sided affair.

"We still don't know what we've got," mentioned Smith. "Mesabi has a good club and so do we. I don't know if we could have beaten them, but it would have been a great football game if we would have had some decent officiating. Instead, it turned into a joke. I don't think Mesabi will go undefeated this year, but I don't tink they'll lose on the range."

MSHSL Announces Rule Changes

Board of directors of the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) have adopted the baseball ten-run rule for hockey this winter. Beginning in the 1979-80 season, high school hockey games will be terminated after two periods or during the third period when a team leads the opposing team by ten or more goals.

Don't expect to see that rule put into effect too often, though. In the past eight years only 10 Thief River Falls hockey games would have been affected by the ten-goal rule. Last time it happened was a 10-0 victory over Indus in the 1978 Sub Section 8 tournament at Roseau. Earlier that season Roseau clobbered the Prowlers 11-1.

With Thief River Falls mentioned as strong Region 8AA contenders in boys tennis and boys golf this year, two other new MSHSL rules changes might be noticeable to local athletes and fans.

In tennis, schools will now be able to enter two singles and two doubles teams into the first level of tournament competition. Last spring the Region 8AA champion Prowlers were able to enter two singles players but only one doubles team in the post-season individual competition.

In golf (cross country, too), only the individual qualifiers advanced into the state meet are eligible to compete for the individual championship. Team members who are not advanced as individual qualifiers are ineligible for individual championship honors at the state level.

Miscellaneous

+Entry forms for the 1979 local punt, pass and kick football competition for youngsters ages 8 through 13 are available at Tunberg Motor Co. in Thief River Falls.

+Chuck's Off Sale of Wahpeton was 1-2 in the national Class AA men's slow pitch softball tournament during the Labor Day weekend in York, Pa. The Wahpeton ball club finished the season with a 92-6 record after losing 15-10 to County Sports of Long Island, N.Y.

+Crookston will make a strong bid to host the 1980 Minnesota state Class C men's slow pitch softball tournament, reported to Gary Zitzer, assistant park and recreation director for the city. Crookston's classy Highland Complex has been the site of Class B and Class C District 7 tournaments in recent years and Bob Gustafson, formerly of Thief River Falls and now a Crookston Chamber of Commerce executive, says local business places reported "a real lift" during this year's tournaments. "Everyone reported sales strong during the two weekends of softball tournaments in the city," Gustafson told the Crookston Times. "Motels were filled, bars were packed, gas stations were overflowing and the food establishments throughout the community fared well." Some 1,800 softball players were in Crookston during the August tournaments.

Mistake-Prone Prowlers Lose Home Opener To Lakers 13-6

Like one of those tape recordings in the old Mission Impossible television series, the Lincoln high school football team was self-destructing Friday in losing a 13-6 home opener to Detroit Lakes as the Prowlers accumulated 12 penalties for 110 yards, lost four of five fumbles, threw two pass interceptions and left a kickoff uncovered that went for a 41-yard onside kick for the Lakers.

"Just terrible," was the simple, quick post-game comment from Thief River Falls coach Gene Jurgens. "We did a lot of really stupid things out there; stupid, stupid things."

The Lakers, themselves far from being perfect, turned two of those Thief River Falls mistakes into touchdowns. Detroit Lakes was also tagged for 12 penalties in the loosely played, closely called contest and also fumbled five times. With penalties and turnovers bogging things down, neither team produced much offense. The Prowlers were held to just 86 net yards and the Lakers fared little better with an even 100.

"We couldn't move the ball against the Thief River defense," said Detroit Lakes coach Dick Riedberger. "We were fortunate that we were able to capitalize on a couple of opportunities."

Both opportunities were set up by Brooks Larson who intercepted a pass in the second quarter and recovered a fumble in the fourth quarter.

Larson latched on to a deflected Jeff Ulrich pass at the Thief River Falls 45 midway through the second quarter, returning the ball all the way to the 17. Scott Santwire picked up seven yards on a quarterback draw to start the four-play mini-march and then turned things over to tailback Dave Riedberger who carried three straight times before squirting into the end zone from 2½ yards out. The snap on the conversion kick was high, forcing the Lakers to settle for a 6-0 edge with 4:29 remaining in the first half.

It was on the ensuing kickoff that Thief River Falls, thinking Santwire's kick was headed out of bounds, let the ball roll unattended near the sideline. However, the pigskin died inches from the chalk line, with Gerry Seim of the Lakers pouncing on the ball at the Thief River Falls 20. Detroit Lakes couldn't cash in, though, and Santwire was short on a 35-yard field goal attempt.

A fine 18-yard punt return by Bill Jury, who picked his way to the Detroit Lakes 34 yard line, set up Thief River Falls' game-tying touchdown in the third quarter. The 10-play drive was kept alive when a three-yard loss by Dave Odegaard on third-and-seven from the 31 was erased on a 15-yard face mask penalty that set Thief River Falls up with a first down at the 19. Fullback John Dillon turned another third down situation into a first down at the six when he struggled through the middle for six yards. Then on fourth-and-goal from the one, Dillon went straight ahead for the touchdown.

Thief River Falls failed to break the deadlock, however, as Ulrich pitched behind Jury on a two-point conversion attempt, leaving the score a 6-6 with 1:07 remaining in the third quarter.

After 72 yards worth of penalties were called in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter, Larson stepped into the picture again by falling on a fumbled Thief River Falls pitch-out at the Prowlers 17 yard line.

This time little-used fullback Neil Sonnenberg was called on to carry four straight times after a drive-opening seven-yard burst off right tackle by Riedberger. Sonnenberg went straight ahead for a one-yard touchdown dive with 4:53 showing on the clock. Santwire's kick made it 13-6.

Thief River Falls' mistake-filled night then featured a fumble with 3:47 left and, after holding the Lakers on downs, a pass interception with 1:06 remaining.

While the offensive games suffered, both coaches were satisfied with the defensive play, especially Riedberger who had expressed concern about Thief River Falls' potentially dangerous offense.

"We're very happy with our defense," said the Lakers coach. "I thought our ends — (Mike) Hutchinson and Sonnenberg — played well. We were happy with the way our line rushed the passer. I thought Thief River would throw the ball more and throw better than they did. We kept the pressure on them."

Thief River Falls, winless in two starts, will host Crosby-Ironton Friday at 7:30 p.m. Detroit Lakes, 1-1, travels to Bemidji this week.

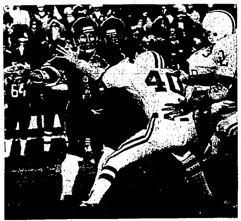
DETROIT LAKES runningback Gerry Seim got into the open, but only briefly, on this first quarter run that was stopped for no gain by the Thief River Falls defense during Friday's non-conference high school football game. The Lakers spoiled the Prowlers home opener by claiming a 13-6 triumph.



COMING UP QUICK to force an option pitch by Thief River Falls quarterback Jeff Ulrich was Detroit Lakes defender Brooks Larson on this play in the first quarter of Friday's high school football game played here. The Lakers capitalized on a pass interception and a fumble to beat the Prowlers 13-6.

Norsemen Beat Northmen 20-6 In MJCAA Opener

Mesabi Solves Northland Defense In Second Half

Mesabi, held to a net seven yards rushing in the first half, solved Northland's eight-man defensive front after intermission and ran away with a 20-6 Minnesota junior college athletic association MJCAA; Northern Division football win Saturday afternoon at Virginia.

The Norsemen showed they had their offensive problems licked when they took the second half kickoff and pieced together a 70-yard drive that ended with a one-yard touchdown run by quarterback Kevin Joyce. Kevin Lund's placement kick broke a 6-6 tie.

A fumble by Northland runningback Morice Hendricks at the Northland 30-yard line put Mesabi into business later in the third quarter, with Doug Meriweather going into the end zone from three yards out for a 13-6 game.

The final became inflated when Meriweather, on a third-and-long yardage spring draw in the final minute of the game, raced 55 yards. Joyce's kick made it 20-6.

"We had a breakdown in our defense in the second half," said Northland coach Irv Smith "But, really, except for a couple of breakdowns there in the second half, our defense was doing a decent job. We were not pleased, of course, with our offense. The offensive line was doing a good job, but the backs weren't reading the holes."

Northland scored the first touchdown in the 1979 season opener for both clubs on a five-yard run by quarterback Tony Smith in the second quarter. It was a Mesabi mistake — a center snap on a punt that sailed over the kicker's head — that set up the brief three-play, 20-yard drive. Hendricks got it going by picking up 15 yards in two carried before Smith reached the end zone. Jeff Gobell's kick was ruled wide of the mark.

Meriweather, a tailback from Michigan City, Ind., finished the afternoon with 163 yards on 29 carries, with 143 of those yards coming in the second half.

"We were running an eight-man front against him and we couldn't stop him," said Smith of Meriweather who gained most of his yards by slating off tackle and then breaking the run to the outside.

While Northland had trouble containing Mesabi's running game in the second half, the Northmen had no such problem with the pass, limiting the Norsemen to just three completions in 17 attempts for 21 yards.

"Our defensive secondary played great all day long," praised Smith. "Our secondary is really good this year," he added, citing the play of Eduardo Luis Belahoz, Jim McCue, Brian Thomas and Zayne Poitier.

Interior linemen Jeff Reese, Dave Klemisch and Danny Canela were the Northland defensive leaders with six tackles apiece while linebackers Albert Padron and Paul Wilcox had five stops each, with Wilcox intercepting a Joyce pass and returning 55 yards.

Hendricks carried the ball 21 times for 62 yards for the Northmen while Joe Kraska caught two passed for 36 yards.

"A temporary setback, that's all," concluded Smith whose Northmen will open their home season schedule Saturday with a 3 p.m. Northern Division game against Vermilion. "If we can work out or problems offensively we'll be all right."

Prowlers Challenge Flyers, Greyhounds

Top area competition awaits the Lincoln high school volleyball team this week at the Prowlers travel to Fisher Tuesday and host Fosston Thursday. The Flyers and Greyhounds are perennial Region 8A challengers.

Thief River Falls, in preparing for this week's schedule, turned in its best performance of the young 1979 season Thursday with a 2-0 victory over Alvarado to close out a season-opening three-match home stand.

"They can play better, but it's the best they've played this year," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss whose Prowlers improved their record to 2-1.

Thief River Falls opened with an 18-10 first game victory when senior Nancy Noreen served nine consecutive mid match points.

"She hot it together," said Stauss of Noreen's accurate serving which included a couple of aces. "She was on a hot streak. Everything went over."

Thief River Falls completed the night with an 18-13 second game victory that featured strong team play.

"Our setters were setting up different people. Everybody had hits," explained Stauss who praised the play of LeAnn Paetznick, Marlys Huot and Stacy Ehrenstrom.

Alvarado bounced back from an 18-16 first game loss to beat Thief River Falls 18-10, 19-17 for a 2-1 junior varsity triumph, the first loss in three starts for the Lincoln B squad.

Jay Moum Is Winner For Third Time On Country Club Course

Jay Moum picked up his third title of the summer on the Thief River Country Club golf course Sunday with a two-over-par 110 to win the annual Thief River Falls sno ball shortstop tournament.

A former Lincoln high school, Northland community college and Bemidji State University golfer, Moum shot rounds of 30-38-36 yesterday for a two-stroke victory over Mike Sipe of Crookston. Sipe went 36-40-36 for his 112.

Earlier this summer Moum won the Cat Classic and club tournament titles at the Thief River Country Club.

Mike Lundbohm of Roseau finished third in the championship flight with rounds of 41-34-38 for a 113. Scott Steinbach was fourth with 37-38-39 rounds for a 114 and Marv Carlson of Thief River Falls was fifth with a 39-38-38-115. Alex Easton and Jerry Johnson shared sixth place at 119.

Swanson, TRF Edge Indians

Sophomore Nancy Swanson squeeked out a 7-6, 7-6 victory over Barb Brunsdale at third singles Thursday to give Thief River Falls a 3-2 high school tennis win over visiting Mahnomen.

With the team score tied at 2-2 and all other matches completed, the evenly matched Swanson-Brunsdale showdown decided the outcome, but not without two tie-breakers.

"It was really exciting," confirmed Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "We were very happy with the way Nancy played under pressure. She knew she had to win and she played well."

It was the second time in three days that a key win by Swanson made Thief River Falls a winner. Her win in third singles at Roseau Tuesday cemented a 3-2 season-opening win for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls will be on the road for a pair of matches this week, playing Tuesday at Crookston and Thursday at East Grand Forks. Both matches start at 4 p.m.

Sophomores Win Opener 30-8 At GF Red River

Pass interceptions returned for touchdowns by Dave Upham and Jon Ness in the final minute of the first half opened up a 22-0 lead for the Lincoln high school sophomore football team Thursday and Thief River Falls coasted to a 30-8 season-opening victory over Grand Forks Red River.

A week earlier that same score produced a Red River win over Thief River Falls in the varsity opener for both schools.

After a scoreless first quarter, Thief River Falls took control with a second quarter scoring spree that included a 10-yard run by Dan Odegaard; a 70-yard pass interception return by Upham; a 35-yard return of a deflected pass by Ness, a defensive tackle; and two-point coversions by Odegaard and Rick Langlie.

Odegaard made it 30-0 in the third quarter on a 35-yard run and a two-point conversion.

STRUGGLING FOR YARDS and at the same time fighting for possession of the football, Thief River Falls halfback Dave Odegaard was hauled down by a pair of Detroit Lakes tacklers during Friday's high school football game played on the Thief River Falls athletic field. The Lakers beat the Prowlers 13-6 in Thief River Falls' home opener.

HEADED FOR THE end zone, Thief River Falls runningback Tom Bjorkman was stopped at the Detroit Lakes 12 yard line by the Lakers' Jeff Folkert in the third quarter of Friday's high school football game played on the Thief River Falls athletic field. Bjorkman gained four yards on the sweep left midway through a 10-play, 34-yard Thief River Falls touchdown march that tied the game 6-6. But Detroit Lakes claimed a 13-6 win in Thief River Falls' 1979 home opener that also doubled as parent's night. The Prowlers, 0-2 for the year, will host Crosby-Ironton Friday. Bulldogs Blank Bobcats 18-0

Gonvick broke open a scoreless defensive struggle with three second half touchdowns Friday to beat Oklee 18-0 in a key North Tri County Conference nine-man high school football game played at Oklee.

"There wasn't much offense," noted Oklee coach Dale Svaren, "Both defenses were pretty stiff."

There was no scoring until Gonvick quarterback Rick Hopperstad went 35 yards on an option play midway through the third quarter.

It became 12-0 when Doug Faldet scored on a five yard run in the fourth quarter and Gonvick tacked on an insurance touchdown in the final minute when Hopperstad passed two yards to Faldet following an Oklee fumble.

Gonvick, rated number one in the state Associated Press nine-man football poll, raised its record to 2-0 with the win while Oklee, considered a prime threat to the Bulldogs in the North Tri County Conference, fell to 1-1.

"It's kind of touch to lose it this early," mentioned Svaren. "We're not out of it yet, but I don't know who is going to be able to beat them (Gonvick)."

Svaren praised the defensive play turned in by Oklee linebackers Darrell Sandeen and Pat Paquin.

McIntosh-Winger 24, Plummer 0

Three short touchdown runs by Corby Burslie capped sustained drives by McIntosh-Winger, carrying the Scots to a 24-0 North Tri County Conference win over Plummer Friday, spoiling the Cardinals' home opener.

Burslie scored the only points of the first half on a one-yard first quarter plunge. He made it 12-0 on another one yard dive in the third quarter

Argyle 7, Newfolden 0

A rash of offensive mistakes spoiled a strong defensive effort as Marshall County Central dropped a 7-0 Top of the State Conference decision to Argyle Friday in Newfolden.

The Nordics turned the ball over eight times, losing five fumbles and throwing three interceptions. One of four first quarter turnovers led to the game's only scoring, a five-yard Paul Eckman to Dave Bergeron pass play and a Jay LaBine conversion kick.

"You just can't win a ball game with that many fumbles and interceptions," noted Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "It was probably the worst game we've played offensively since I've been here. It was one mistake after another."

The Nordics defense deserved better fate, giving up just 75 yards on the ground and 49 yards passing to the Eagles. "Defense was pretty good, except we gave them a couple of passes at times that hurt us," said Gebhart who liked the defensive performances of nose guard Scott Peters, tackle Dan Maki and linebacker Jeff Johnson. "They played really well," he said.

Marshall County Central quarterback Kerry Hodne passed for 165 yards, hitting 10 of 21 attempts. But he also threw three interceptions. And the Nordics, "missing a lot of blocks," according to Gebhart, accumlated just 52 yards rushing.

Playing its third straight season-opening game at home, Marshall County Central will be looking for its first win Friday when the Nordics face Warroad at 8 p.m.

Middle River 40, Goodridge 16

Scott McKeever scored three touchdowns while Mike Peterson passed for two and ran for another Friday in leading Middle River past Goodridge 40-16 in North Tri County Conference action at Goodridge.

Peterson passed 15 yards to Jeff Cwikla and 45 yards to McKeever as the Skippers built a 12-0 first quarter lead. A 25-yard Neil Race to Randy Hendrickson Goodridge touchdown pass narrowed the gap to 12-8 at the start of the second quarter, but Middle River took a 20-8 advantage into halftime on a five-yard run by fullback Steve Bengston.

"Everything they did in the first half came from big plays," explained Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "And they're so much bigger than us they wore us down in the second half."

Middle River pulled away 34-8 on third quarter touchdown runs by McKeever that covered three and 26 yards.

Carol Bishop of Goodridge and Peterson matched two-yard fourth quarter scores.

Tackle Mark Grabowska and linebacker Terry Drangstveit "did a good job on defense," according to Nelson whose Huckies will take an 0-2 record to Oklee Friday. Middle River, 1-1, hosts Plummer that afternoon.

Clearbrook 36, Grygla 34

A scoring explosion that lasted for three quarters finally subsided in the final 12 minutes as Clearbrook outlasted Grygla a 70-point North Tri County Conference game at Grygla, 36-34.

Mark Bagason ran for two touchdowns and passed for another score as the Hornets came from behind to win. Gene Lunsetter scored twice for the Eagles who led 12-8 at the end of the first quarter but trailed 24-20 at halftime.

Gerald Verbout, Gary Polanski and Dale Lillevold, on a pass from John Nordby, also scored for the Eagles, 0-2 for the year.

Grygla hosts Mentor Friday at 3 p.m.

and then put it out of reach on a two-yard scoring play in the fourth quarter.

Clint Nelson's three-yard run following a fourth down pass interference call later against Plummer in the final period completed the scoring.

"They just kind of wore us down," explained Plummer coach Gary Brantl whose team twice got inside the McIntosh-Winger 20 yard line but came up empty-handed. A fourth down running play came up inches short of a first down later in the first half and a McIntosh-Winger defensive back just tipped aside a potential touchdown pass midway through the third quarter.

Plummer produced 154 yards worth of offense, including a 4-for-4, 54-yard passing effort by quarterback Brad Hosten before he suffered a shoulder dislocation in the third quarter. He'll be out of action for six weeks.

"I was really pleased with our passing," mentioned Brantl. "It was really improved over last week. Brad was just getting the confidence he needed to do the job for us. His loss will hurt."

End Jon Swanson, middle linebacker Blair Gustafson and tackle Jay Brekke were all singled out for top defensive efforts.

Plummer, 0-2, will be at Middle River Friday for a 3 p.m. game.

Moorhead 29-8 Winner Over Lincoln B Squad

Three bad exchanges on center snaps on punts led to 10 Moorhead points Saturday and a 29-8 win over Thief River Falls in a junior varsity high school football game played at Moorhead.

A 22-0 leader at halftime, Moorhead turned those fourth down Thief River Falls miscues into a touchdown and two safties.

Thief River Falls points came on a 65-yard run by Scott Wiebolt who also added the two-point conversion.

It was the season-opener for the Lincoln high school junior varsity. Thief River Falls will host Crookston Mon., Sept. 24, at 7 p.m.

Atlanta Flames Play Olympic Team At UND

Advance sale of the exhibition hockey game tickets between the Atlanta Flames of the National Hockey League and the United States Olympic team in Grand Forks, N.D. on October 3 will begin September 18 at the University of North Dakota fieldhouse ticket office, according to Dick Koppenhaver, general arrangements chairman for the game.

Reserved advance tickets are priced at $5, but must be purchased before the game. Gate tickets October 3 will be priced at $6.

Mail orders will be accepted by writing to the UND athletic ticket office and including a 50 cent postage and handling fee with each order. Checks should be made payable to the UND athletic department.

Koppenhaver said proceeds after expenses from the sale of tickets will go to area youth hockey development programs and the U.S. Olympic fund.

Sioux fans will have an opportunity to see Dave Christian of Warroad, who would have been a UND junior, with the U.S. Olympic team. Christian was voted the most improved player on the WCHA championship UND team last season. Christian's father, Bill, and uncles Roger and Gordon, preceded him on U.S. Olympic teams. Gordon was a standout Sioux forward 1947-50.

U.S. Olympic team is coached by Herb Brooks, University of Minnesota mentor. It will have played nearly 60 games by the time the Winter Olympic games open at Lake Placid, N.Y. Feb. 12-24, 1980.

Ken Johannson of Rochester, Minn., is general manager of the U.S. Olympic team, which currently began its pre-Olympic schedule with games in Europe, Sept. 3-19. Johannson is a former star forward at UND, 1950-53, and a Sioux record holder.

The exhibition game in the winter sports center will mark the first time a National Hockey League team has played at UND.

Cross Country Teams Run In Roseau Races

Last in the varsity competition and first in the junior high race, the Thief River Falls cross country team opened its season Thursday at Roseau.

Minus top two runners Bob Fitzgerald and Todd Bergland because of injuries, the Prowlers struggled in the varsity event won by East Grand Forks with 45 points, followed by Roseau 53, Grafton 90, Crookston 95 and Thief River Falls 95.

With 46 runners in the 3.2-mile race, Thief River Falls' Greg Ness placed third in 17:29 and teammate Bruce Johnson was fourth in 17:31.

"If we could have had our top two runners we would have been right in there for the title," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Bill McGann.

With three top ten finishers, Thief River Falls fared much better in the junior high race, winning the event with 44 points, followed by Crookston 51, Grafton 53 and Roseau 63.

Twenty-three junior high runners covered the 2.2 miles, including Thief River Falls' Kevin Kezar, third in 12:22; Chuck Lowell, fifth in 12:24; and Mike Booren, seventh in 12:31.

"Not bad for the first time out," said McGann.

Thief River Falls — both boys and girls — will run in the Grand Forks invitational Thursday at 4:30 p.m. and will run again Friday at Crookston in another 4:30 p.m. start.

Waterfowl Hunting Workshop Set Here

Tom Roster

A waterfowl hunting workshop is scheduled to be held Sept. 17, in Thief River Falls. The workshop is open to the public and free of charge. The featured speaker will be Tom Roster, ballistics specialist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, who will reveal his findings from two years of studying steel shot ballistics. He will present steel shot information of interest to all waterfowlers and will be available for questions. The workshop will also cover lead poisoning in waterfowl, decoy setting techniques and duck calling techniques.

The workshop will be held at the Franklin middle school from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Agassiz Regional environmental Education Council, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Roster is a professional writer, editor and ballistics consultant, and also an avid waterfowl hunter. He is currently the reloading editor of The American Shotgunner magazine and the technical editor of Skeet Shooting Review. In addition, as a nationally recognized authority on shotshell ballistics, he is a frequent contributor to Sports Afield, Field And Stream, The Handloader and Fins And Feathers magazines.

Formerly a researcher and administrator at Oregon Institute of Technology, Roster conducted ballistics research there for three years, and independently for six years. He has served as a ballistics consultant to over 15 shotshell ammunition component and reloading tool manufacturers, and several state and government agencies concerning shotshell ballistics. In addition, he has testified as a ballistics expert at numerous state and Congressional House committee hearings on shotshell ammunition performance.

Roster has recently been employed as a ballistics specialist by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, office of migratory bird management in Washington, D.C. In this position he continues to conduct shotshell ballistics research and to administer steel vs. lead shot field tests across the country. His work also involves research into lethality parameters for lead and steel shotshells, and pioneering research into steel shot's field performance on ducks and geese.

Roster is considered to have pioneered and perfected the use of filler materials to "buffer" long-range lead shotshell loads (the 100 per cent pattern), a technological advancement hailed by many shotgun experts as significant as the development of the choke. His most current research in shotshell reloading has been primarily devoted to the development of steel shot reloading data.

Roster is also working on completing a book entitled "Modern Shotshell Loading: Lead and Steel," on shotshell reloading which will include chapters on shotshell ballistics, clay target loads, long-range lead hunting loads and six chapters on the reloading of steel shot.

A Les Kouba print, "Mallards Arriving," will be offered as a workshop door prize. The numbered and signed limited edition print is matted and framed.

Forest Service Produces New Habitat Film

U.S. Forest Service has produced a new documentary film in cooperation with the National Wildlife Federation about the life-support system on which all wildlife depends — habitat.

The half-hour picture, "Habitat: A Special Place," is aimed at giving general audiences an in-depth look at the ever-changing relationship between wildlife and the essential elements it needs to survive — food, water, cover and a place to raise their young.

Filmed at numerous locations around the country, including the magnificent Grand Teton Mountains and the unique New Jersey Pine Barrens, the film features interviews with wildlife experts, conservationists, land developers and government officials. It is hosted by screen and TV actor Leslie Nielsen.

"This is probably the best film of its kind I've seen," said Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the 4.1 million-member NWF. "It goes way beyond the simple definition of habitat and tells how natural and man-made changes to habitat can have a positive or negative effect on wildlife."

Kimball praised the film for its objective and well-balanced approach "particularly in the way it deals with the economic and aesthetic tradeoffs."

Area Volleyball Coaches Are An Optimistic Bunch

Optimistic best describes six area coaches at the start of the 1979 high school volleyball season. Hoping for productive fall campaigns are coaches Dean Miller, Plummer; Ardis Hofstad, Oklee; Pam Worth, Grygla; Julie Helgeson, Middle River; Sarah Ackerman, Newfolden; and Susan Saurdiff, Goodridge.

Grygla

With a starting unit intact from 1978, Grygla coach Pam Worth anticipates an enjoyable 1979 season. "We've got a good team," she said. "We've got some real skills. I'm looking forward to a good year."

Worth has two top setters in senior Cindy Moe and sophomore Sherry Anderson, with 5-8 junior Jill Saurdiff earning praise as a spiker. Rounding out the veteran starting line-up are senior Terri Holthusen, junior Lois Verbout and sophomore Jean Verbout.

Grygla opened the season Tuesday with a 2-1 win at Karlstad but lost a 2-0 decision to Marshall County Central Thursday at Newfolden. "They looked good against Karlstad," mentioned Worth. "They played well as a team. I don't know what happened against Newfolden."

Grygla was scheduled to play at Badger tonight (Monday) before opening its home schedule Tuesday against Middle River. The Eagles play Lake of the Woods Thursday at Baudette.

Plummer

Cousins Lori and Kathy Skjerven served 21 points Thursday as Plummer opened play with a 2-0 triumph over Stephen. Kathy, a junior, served 11 points, and Lori, a senior, served 10 as the Cardinals claimed easy 18-7, 18-6 wins.

"We've got a good sound team this year," pointed out Plummer coach Dean Miller. "We have a good set and spike combination."

Joining the Skjerven girls in the starting line-up are juniors Caryl Adolphson, Debbie Koskela and Diane Zimpel, along with senior Sandy Zimpel.

Plummer hosts a strong Warren team Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Middle River

Starting the season without the benefit of a home court, Middle River opened with a 1-1 first week record. The Skippers, forced to practice and play at Strandquist while a remodeling project is completed in the Middle River gym, beat Lake of the Woods 2-0 Tuesday but lost a close 2-1 decision to Warroad Thursday as the Warriors snapped a 1-1 tie with a 19-17 overtime victory.

"We're looking for a lot of improvement this year," explained Middle River coach Julie Helgeson. "The girls are putting techniques into operation."

Three seniors — Michele Maertens, Trudy Christofferson and Dawn Anderson — are expected to lead the Skippers, but Helgeson also says, "We've got lots of talent on the junior class."

Middle River will be at Grygla Tuesday.

Oklee

Oklee bounced back from a 2-1 season-opening loss at Erskine Tuesday to edge Mentor 2-1 Thursday. The Trojans opened with an 18-13 victory, but the Bobcats dominated play in winning the next two games 18-5, 18-7.

"We'll be right in there this year," promised Oklee coach Ardis Hofstad. "We could be pretty good. We've got some pretty good servers. We've got some hard servers, but sometimes when you hit the ball as hard as we do you don't have the consistency."

Seniors Jill Parenteau and Donna Stenberg, along with juniors Michele Bachand and Susie Longtin were all starters a year ago.

Newfolden

With just a single graduation loss, an experienced Marshall County Central squad should be a contender this fall.

"I have high hopes for my team right now," acknowledged Nordics coach Sarah Ackerman. "We lost just one senior and we've seemed to have replaced her alright."

Sophomores Gloria Nelson and Tammy Anderson are already proven setters, with senior Diane Graham and junior Gloria Moose providing the point-scoring spikes.

Junior Kim Olson, who served 12 points in an 18-3, 18-8 victory over Grygla Thursday is the team's strongest server. "She's very consistent," pointed out Ackerman.

Marshall County Central, a 2-1 season-opening loser at the hands of Warroad Tuesday, will return to action Tuesday at Badger and will host Middle River Thursday.

Goodridge

Season opener for a young Goodridge team will be Thursday when the Huskies host Mount St. Benedict.

"We have a young team," admitted Goodridge coach Susan Saurdiff. "We'll be lacking experience."

Saurdiff expects her only two seniors — Renae Hanson and Vickie Troska — to lead her team. "They'll help us a lot. They're both good servers and they have good all-around skills."

Good things are also expected from freshmen Sheri Swanson and Leah Dahlen.

Hunting Preview

With the first day of fall set Sun., Sept. 23, fishing is improving and we have reports of good duck hatches.

Don Wendt of Rapids Tackle at Grand Rapids writes:

"We have a very good hatch of mallards. There are many second hatches, and I saw one yesterday that was so small I'm wondering if it might have been a third and a real late second hatch. The rice is coming along pretty good but it is late due to our later than usual spring. We are waiting for bear season to open and it should be a good one. Itasca county had a good kill last year. There are a few partridge showing up along the raods but we won't see many on the roads until after a frost and the leaves come down. Our deer herd is very good and we are seeing more and more along the road. I am sure there are many more back in the bush that haven't started to leave their summer home."

Muskie Story

Dave Fallis of Bemidji was fishing for muskies on Lake Andrusia and brought up five muskies. He lost the first four and was returning to the resort when he hooked another. This one he landed. It weighed 15½ pounds. Who ever heard of hooking five muskies in one day?

Walleyes have become active on Lake Andrusia and Cass Lake after a slow period.

Fishing Board

Fishing is good in Big Sandy Lake at McGregor according to Kent DuChaine of Du Chaines Point. Crappies are hitting on little yellow jigs in shallow water. All walleyes and northern listed were caught in less than six feet of water. The blue Dardevil has been a good northern bait.

Fishing in Lake of the Woods this past week has been best in the area north of Big Island around Pony, North and Skiff islands. Walleyes are being found in about nine to 15 feet of water on both the rock reef areas and along the shorelines. The largest walleye taken weighed eight-pounds, seven ounces.

Fishing is excellent in the Waterville area according to Del Pope. He says that is the best he has seen in the past 25 years. Striped bass and crappies are active in Tetonka and Sakatah. Bullhead fishing is fantastic. Mike Smuck of Ames, Iowa brought in a stringer full weighing 38 pounds.

Backyard Help Recommended For Butterflies

Of the 20,000 species of butterflies in the world, there are 700 species in the U.S., and everywhere the insects are losing much of their habitat.

Several species have been wiped out and several dozen have been pushed to the brink. Fortunately, the butterflies can be helped. Here are some suggestions from National Wildlife magazine as to what you can do in your backyard and in your community:

+ Let the edges of your lawn grow wild. If there's a patch or strip of land in your yard you've been meaning to mow, butterflies are a fine reason not to.

+ Be tolerant of thistles and nettles, which are among the most valuable food sources for butterflies: Joe-Pye weed, ragweed, goldenrod, milkweed, knapweed, dandelions, mallow, marjoram, bugle, wild thyme, clover, meadow sweet, vetch, currant, blueberry and tick trefoil are also extremely important to butterflies, especially as nectar sources for adults.

+ Provide a variety of habitats. Different butterflies require different conditions, so try to create sunny areas, shaded areas, and dappled areas, protection from wind, a shallow pool and an adjacent damp spot for drinking.

+ Avoid using chemical insecticides.

+ Provide the small, bright flowers that butterflies favor, such as aralia, polyanthus, sweet rocket, honesty, mauve, valerian, pink thrift, catmint, sweet William, the single French marigolds and white alyssum.

+ Cut back shrubs each spring to encourage more blossoms. Also cut back some of the plants used by caterpillars — milkweed, for instance — so that tender new growth will be available for later generations that same season.

+ Speak out against the application of needless — and often harmful — pesticides in your town and state.

AN OFFENSIVE LINEMAN cut down a Thief River Falls defender to give Detroit Lakes quarterback Dave Riedberger time to get off a first quarter pass Friday during the Prowlers-Lakers high school football game played in Thief River Falls. Riedberger was later switched to a tailback and scored a touchdown in the Lakers' 13-6 victory.

NWAC Teams Beaten

After winning four of five season-opening nonconference games, Northwest Athletic Conference (NWAC) football teams took it on the chin Friday in reversing the first week results; losing four of five games against outside competition.

Only Bemidji, a 14-6 victor over Little Falls, was able to save face for the NWAC as Fergus Falls lost to Alexandria 7-6, Crookston lost to Grand Forks Central 8-7, East Grand Forks lost to Grand Forks Red River 25-16 and Thief River Falls lost to Detroit Lakes 13-6.

Bemidji 14, Little Falls 6

Both teams marched up and down the field, but failed to produce the needed ground in tough yardage areas as Bemidji edged Little Falls 14-6.

The visiting Flyers took a 6-0 lead on a Tom Kinselle touchdown midway through the first quarter, but shortly thereafter Bemidji's Craig Erhart, who gained 97 yards on just six carries, broke loose on a 56-yard touchdown run.

Nelson Rotto, who added the two-point conversion after Erhart's score, put the game out of reach on an eight-run touchdown run just 10 seconds into the fourth quarter.

Central 8, Crookston 7

A ballyhooed Crookston junior class lost its first game since the seventh grade as Grand Forks Central ended a three-year losing streak with an 8-7 decision.

Brent Weiss pulled in an 18-yard touchdown pass from Steve Johnson for a 7-0 Crookston lead at halftime, but with 2:10 remaining in the mistake-filled contest, Don Arvidson scored for Central on a 32-yard pass from Matt Malma and Mike Rogalla squeezed into the end zone for the game-winning two-point conversion.

Alexandria 7, Fergus Falls 6

Fergus Falls scored on a first quarter one-yard run by Darwin Boe (his third TD of the season) and held on to a 6-0 lead until the final period when Alexandria pulled out a 7-6 victory.

A 24-yard run by Rod Nydold tied the game with just eight seconds elapsed in the fourth quarter tied the game and the Cardinals won it on Brock Smith's conversion as the Otters, struggling with penalities, fumbles and poor field position most of the night failed to capitalize on a scoring threat late in the game.

Red River 25, EGF 16

Grand Forks Red River came back from a 16-6 deficit in the third quarter to beat East Grand Forks 25-16.

East Grand Forks built a 9-6 halftime edge when John Roche kicked a 25-yard field goal and Todd Selk scored on a one-yard run. The Green Wave then went ahead by 10 when Dave Swanberg returned the second half kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown.

But three Green Wave fumbles turned the game around.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Johnnie Ruud who passed away Sept. 11, 1972:

Seven years have passed
Our hearts are still very sore
We miss him more and more
His loving smiling face
No one can ever take his place
Friends may think we have forgotten
When they still see us smile.
But how little they know, about the heartaches
That our smiles try to hide all the while.

Sadly missed by wife Vivian and children Jean, Darlene, Russ and their families. 1171p district and the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters club which had assumed the responsibility of raising the funds to support the program.

Now to be paid for out of district funds will be four coaches for seventh and eighth grade football, five coaches for fifth and sixth grade football, two coaches for girls' volleyball in grades six, seven and eight; one coach for each of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in both boys' and girls' basketball and two coaches each for grades six, seven and eight in boys' and girls' track.

Some travel expense was also put back into the extra-curricular program with the total costs estimated at $9,200.

A number of other extra-curricular activities which had been cut are still eliminated. Increased teacher time in the special learning disability program was authorized due to anticipated need in that area.

County Board Acts On Varied Items Tuesday

adoption of the code. The revised law was effective August 31 and board members felt that the sooner the county knew its residents' wishes, the sooner any necessary changes could be made.

In other business, the board called for bids on the sale of $200,000 of ditch bonds with bids to be opened October 23; approved the final plat for Magner's first subdivision; ordered payment of the county's share for upkeep of snowmobile trails in 1978-79 in the amount of $840.61; and reviewed procedures that must be followed in the construction of a new bridge in St. Hilaire with a group of residents from that area.

Viola Rud of the tri-county nursing service appeared before the board to request direction on the use of an additional seven per cent state subsidy received in the second half of 1979. Commissioners instructed Rud to distribute the funds equally between all services.

Suggestions On Grain Storage Are Presented

problems due to condensation underneath the plastic. If a cover sheet of plastic is used with aeration, the edges of the plastic can be folded up to allow air movement into and through the grain to the aeration duct. The cover sheet must be anchored with throw-over ties or by some other means.

All of these emergency storages should be considered as temporary only, the agent advises. Grain stored in these facilities should be the first grain moved out. If at all possible, grain stored under these conditions should be moved before the following spring. If the grain is in good condition in the spring and the storage is in good shape, the decision could then be made to hold it longer if desired.

If emergency storage must be provided for overflow grain production, the last grain harvested and dried should be delivered to this storage. The colder weather occurring near the end of the harvest and drying season will provide an additional safety factor for the grain being delivered to emergency storage. The problem of leaks occurring during rainy weather will also be minimized, at least until the spring rains. If the above guidelines are followed, these emergency storages will perform quite well, Courneya said.

Farmers desiring design plans or additional information should contact the county extension office and ask for agricultural engineering fact sheet number 23, "Emergency Grain Storage".

In a recent Times story regarding district court cases, Beverly Jacobson of Thief River Falls was listed as pleading guilty to theft charges. It has been called to our attention that there is more than one resident of the community with that name, and that the person charged is a former employee of the J.C. Penney company where the alleged theft occurred.

State's Roads In Trouble, MGRI Reports

"Minnesota's road system is in trouble," states Robert Johnson, executive director of Minnesota good roads, Inc. (MGRI). "The Minnesota department of transportation recently deferred 61 highway improvement projects because there just isn't enough money to get the job done."

Johnson recently told the group of AFL-CIO building trades members at their state annual convention in Rochester that as motorists they'd feel the consequences of the cutbacks in terms of the roads they drive on. As building trades members they have more at stake because the inability to fund the 61 projects means jobs lost.

"If we want good roads, we've got to be willing to pay for them or live with the consequences," Johnson said.

During the last legislative sessions, MGRI has backed successful bridge bonding programs which provided more than $150 million to upgrade or replace deficient bridges in Minnesota. In cooperation with Mn-DOT, MGRI attempted to obtain an increase in the state gasoline tax, a measure which failed to gain support of legislators.

Minnesota good roads is an association of 1,500 concerned citizens working together to insure adequate funding to maintain the quality of Minnesota's road system.

Serious Crimes In State Rise 5.5 Per Cent

Serious crimes in Minnesota increased by 5.5 per cent during the first six months of 1979 compared with the same period a year ago, according to figures released today by the Bureau of criminal apprehension (BCA), a division of the Department of public safety.

Serious crimes totalled 69,373 for January through June of 1979, compared to 65,770 reported for a similar period in 1978, an increase of 3,603 crimes.

Leading the upsurge was violent crimes with an average increase of 30 per cent. Broken down, murder rose 38 per cent, rape rose 21 per cent, aggravated assault rose 40 per cent, and robbery rose 22 per cent. Bank robberies showed the biggest jump, rising 142 per cent during this period.

Crimes against property increased a total of 4.5 per cent. Burglary went up 1.6 per cent, larceny-theft went up 6.1 per cent, and motor vehicle theft went up 1.5 per cent.

Forty-seven murders were committed during the first half of 1979, as compared to 34 in the same period of 1978. The victim was killed by a family member or friend in over half of the instances. A firearm was the murder weapon 49 per cent of the time.

Through June of 1979, 323 rapes were reported compared to 267 for the same period in 1978. Of the 323 rapes, 250 were forcible and 73 were attempts.

According to the BCA report, 1979 robberies are up 21.9 per cent and losses are up 43 per cent. These robberies totaled 1,387 with losses of $490,000 compared with 1,138 robberies totalling $340,000 for the same period of 1978.

Total dollar loss from burglaries amounted to $6.4 million for January through June of this year, an increase of 1.6 per cent over the same period of 1978. The 10,912 residential burglaries represent a loss of about $4 million. This is a two per cent decrease from 1978. The 6,195 non-residential burglaries represent a 7.8 per cent increase.

Larceny-thefts numbered 43,774 for the first six months of 1979, up 6.1 per cent from 1978. Property losses for larceny-thefts totalled about $7.9 million for 1979, up seven per cent from 1978.

Motor vehicle thefts increased to 5,287 in 1979 compared with 5,214 in 1978, a 1.4 per cent increase during the first six months. Cars comprised 71 per cent of all stolen vehicles.

Thefts of trucks or buses rose sharply, up 20.5 per cent over 1978. Thefts of "other" vehicles such as motorcycles, snowmobiles, or motor scooters increased only 1.5 per cent.

Total value of stolen vehicles totalled more than $11 million for the reported period, an 18 per cent increase from the $9.3 million in 1978.

Police recovered 2,480 or 47 per cent of the total stolen vehicles. Two-thirds of the recovered vehicles were found within the same jurisdiction where they were stolen.

National crime rate was up 11 per cent as of March, 1979. At that time Minnesota's crime rate was up 4.7 per cent, trailing the national average.

Eye Problems Often Found In Preschoolers

No child is too young for a vision problem. Eye disorders affect nearly half a million preschool children, or one in every twenty youngsters ages three through five.

"Some of these problems can easily be overlooked," said Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of the national society to prevent blindness. "The child probably won't complain because he, or she, doesn't realize there's anything amiss. After all, he's always seen his world the same way." Mrs. Boyce stressed that it is important to find eye problems early, because by the time the disorder becomes apparent, it may be difficult to correct.

Ideally, children should have a professional eye examination by the age of four or five, or at least a vision screening. The society sponsors periodic free preschool vision screenings, conducted by a network of trained volunteers.

One of the eye problems of most concern is amblyopia — "lazy eye" — a dimness of vision in the affected eye that, without professional treatment, can lead to permanently impaired vision, or even blindness in that eye, if not discovered and treated by age six or seven. The earlier the treatment, the better the chance for its success.

Usual method of treatment is to patch the stronger eye, to force the weaker one to develop, sometimes in combination with eye exercises, glasses or surgery.

Parents who cannot take their children to a doctor or community vision screening can send for the society's do-it-yourself home eye test for preschoolers. "Like any other screening," Mrs. Boyce, pointed out, "it does not take the place of a professional eye examination, but it can tip off parents to the fact that a problem may exist, so that the child can see an eye doctor for a thorough check-up."

Available in English or Spanish, the test is presented as a game for children too young to recognize letters and numbers. The kit is self-contained, with directions for giving the test and interpreting the results, and is available free from the national society. For a copy of this, or other helpful brochures on children's eye care, write: National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10016.

Glaucoma Still Leading Cause Of Blindness

In spite of readily available methods of treatment that can prevent its damage, glaucoma remains a leading cause of blindness in the United States, according to the national society to prevent blindness (NSPB). The society reports that about two million Americans have glaucoma, half of whom do not know that they have it; one million have lost at least some of their vision to the disease and 6,600 new cases of glaucoma blindness are reported each year.

"The problem is," said Virginia S. Boyce, executive director of the society, "that glaucoma sneaks up on you. In most cases it has no symptoms in its early states, and its victims do not realize that anything is wrong until they have already lost some vision."

Glaucoma can be detected, Mrs. Boyce added, through Tonometry, a quick and painless test by an eye doctor. People at greatest risk for this eye condition include the elderly, people with a family history of glaucoma, and those with diabetes and cardiovascular diseases. All persons over 35 are advised to have an eye examination every other year — the best defense against glaucoma, according to Mrs. Boyce.

In glaucoma, she explained, the fluid that cleanses and lubricates the lens of the eye does not drain away properly. It continues to collect, causing pressure that eventually damages the retina in the back of the eye. Warning signals include loss of peripheral vision, difficulty in adjusting the eyes to dark rooms blurred or foggy vision, or the appearance of halos around lights. By the time these symptoms appear, however, there may already be significant damage to the vision, and that damage cannot be corrected.

If glaucoma is diagnosed early, it can be treated and its progress can be permanently halted, Mrs. Boyce emphasized. In most cases, she said, treatment consists of eye drops that enable the eye's drainage system to work more effectively. In some cases, medication is given to reduce the body's production of fluid. Occasionally, an operation is performed to open the chamber into which the fluid drains.

To expand glaucoma detection projects and educate the public about the disease, the society has launched a glaucoma alert. This is a nationwide campaign to bring the disease under control, backed by major national organizations and local groups.

In addition to conducting periodic screenings in communities across the country, the society also works to educate professionals with the hope that more internists and family physicians will include tonemetry as part of the routine physical examination for patients 35 and over.

"With what we know today," Mrs. Boyce concluded, "there is no reason why people should continue to go bling or to have impaired vision from glaucoma."

Jaycees Seek 10 Outstanding Young People

Minnesota Jaycees recently announced that the selection process has begun for the ten outstanding young Minnesotans (TOYM) for 1980. Nominations are now being taken by the Minnesota Jaycees.

Past recipients include such well known personalities as vice president Walter Mondale, senator David Durenberger, congressmen Martin Sabo and Thomas Hagedorn, former secretary of agriculture Orville Freeman, Doctor Charles Lellehei, coloumnist Carl T. Rowan, savings and loan president Harold Greenwood Jr. and many, many more. All were named before the age of 36 and before many had achieved their real fame.

Every young Minnesotan (male or female) between the ages of 18 and 36 is a potential candidate. Winners are selected by a group of distinguished citizens and the selections will be announced at a gala awards ceremony Feb. 10, 1980 at the Radisson South hotel. The ceremony dramatizes the winners' career and provides a state for the honorees to be recognized for their outstanding achievements.

The TOYM program was begun in Minnesota in 1950. Since that time outstanding young Minnesotans have been selected from virtually every region of the state. Jaycee chapters in communities around the state have begun the process of selecting local candidates for submission to the state TOYM selection committee.

Nomination forms can be obtained through your local Jaycee chapter or by writing TOYM 1980, P.O. Box 21090, Columbia Heights, Minnesota 55421, or by calling 612-448-5300.

New Trustees Elected At Hospital Annual Meeting

Two new trustees were elected and three former trustees reelected when the annual meeting of Northwestern hospital association was held Monday evening at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls.

Newly elected to the board of trustees were Duane Walton, placed in nomination by the nominating committee to succeed Dr. H.P. Wendt, and Dr. Bill Ramsay, opthalmologist nominated by the hospital's medical staff. Dr. Wendt was ineligible for reelection under by-laws of the association.

Dr. Ramsay and Dr. George Martin were nominated by the medical staff in accordance with the by-laws which provide for one medical staff member to be elected from two nominated, but permit only one medical staff member to serve on the board at any one time. Election is for a three-year term.

Reelected were Curtis L. Charlson, attorney, currently serving as chairman of the board; Terry Courneya, county extension agent and present board secretary; and Roy Lee, an owner in Lee Plumbing and Heating and a past board president. The new trustee, Duane Walton, is owner of Mr. Duane's and Phase II retail stores in Thief River Falls.

Informational program at the annual meeting centered on nursing shortages on a national, state and community basis. Speakers were Ronald Norby of the American hospital association, Julie Eszlinger of the state department of education and Mary Mergens of the community college system.

Norby said the nursing shortage in much of the nation today is an "agonizing and frustrating situation", and noted that in his 18 years of nursing and administration he has never seen a time when pressures in the nursing profession are what they are today.

Nursing is in a focal point in the health care field, he said, which places it in the middle between a number of opposing forces. It becomes a focal point in coast containment efforts because it is one of the major cost items in health care.

Other pressures cited were explosions of technology in the medical field, changes in patient needs and traditional nursing roles, increases in paramedical areas, restructuring of social values (right to life, pro-abortion, death with dignity, pro-euthanasia, etc.) and an increasing demand for accountability from a business standpoint.

He pointed out that admissions to general nursing programs in the nation grew from 108,000 in 1973-74 to 113,000 in 1975-76, then remained constant in 1976-77 but dropped to 112,000 in 1977-78. He also emphasized the turmoil within the profession itself as groups attempt to accomplish changes and reorganizatcon.

Dr. Bill Ramsay
New Trustee

Dr. H.P. Wendt
Completes Term

In the future he foresees changes in the role and responsibility of the nurse in the hospital setting with nurses becoming primary care givers. Nurses will be more independent, he predicts, and nurse administrators will be more business oriented. Nursing will be defined at the baccalaureate level and a national organization for credentialling will be established. Fewer federal dollars will be available to nursing programs, collective bargaining will spread, then fall off with a return to greater professionalism. More paraprofessionals and technicians will become involved in the health fields.

Julie Eszlinger reemphasized many of Norby's points, adding that many existing nurses and licensed practical nurses feel a fear of losing positions due to the American Nurses association program to provide only two levels of nursing. She said that the Minnesota higher education coordinating board (MHECB) is conducting a one-year study of nursing in Minnesota.

Mary Mergens told of the suddenness, with which the School Proposals To Get Public Hearing Oct. 2nd

Residents of School District 564 will be asked to consider two proposals suggested by a citizens committee at a public meeting to be held Tuesday, October 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The citizens group is presenting the proposals (selected from among five alternatives prepared by school district architects) following two discussion sessions on building needs and analysis.

First alternative would involve a $3,353,671 package including general improvements to the elementary, middle school, senior high school and service center costing $1,657,500; remodeling of the senior high school at $327,250; an addition to the high school of $1,152,166; and demolition of existing outdated structures at $216,755.

Second alternative to be presented for discussion is an $8,086,679 program which would provide $1,362,500 for general improvements to elementary schools and the middle school, $216,755 for remodeling and demolition at the center school, and $6,507,424 for construction and equipping of a new senior high school.

Considerations given by the committee included recognition that the local school district has much higher than average maintenance and operational costs and low debt service costs, indicating the advanced age and deteriorating condition of existing buildings and a low level of bonded debt for construction.

Also meeting in regular session Monday evening, the board of education took action on reinstatement of several elementary programs into the 1979-80 budget. Included were a half-time reading instructor for Title I type defined students, part-time music instructor, library aides and extra-curricular programs. Total estimated cost is $18,550.

The board also approved a half-time position for someone to serve as an academic advanced student service person with 75 per cent of that person's time devoted to elementary, 10 per cent to middle school and 15 per cent to senior high school.

Resignation of Dan Olson as supervisor of buildings and grounds was accepted. Mary Tyler was hired as remedial related math and reading instructor at the AVTI, Mariann Stark as clerical aide at Northrop, Millicent Paulson as kitchen helper at Franklin and Beattie Mickelson as crossing guard. The administration was instructed to readvertise for a fourth grade teaching position at St. Hilaire.

Substitute teacher salary rate was established at $40 per full day and $23.25 for half day for degree substitutes and $29 for full day and $17.75 for half day for non-degree substitutes.

Extra-curricular assignments approved for Lincoln high school were William Fogarty, 10th grade class advisor; Darwin Boutiette, 11th grade class advisor; Judith Schmit, Prowler yearbook; and Karyn Enestvedt, one-act and fall and spring plays.

Extra-curricular assignments okays for Franklin middle school included Ron Novak, David Peterson and Howard Thorrson for fifth and sixth grade football; Billie Blankenfeld and Barry Liimatainen for seventh and eighth grade football; Diane Lillevold and Mary Nordhagen for volleyball; and Randy Dallmann for seventh grade basketball.

Lane changes were approved as follows: William Fogarty, Lincoln, MA 30 to MA 45; Sharnon Erickson, Sylvia Jensen and Dennis Wilkens, AVTI, BS 30 to BS 45;

NORTHERN LIGHTS COUNCIL of the Boy Scouts of America presented a plaque of appreciation Tuesday evening to Eagles Aerie 2368 of Thief River Falls for the lodge's donation of $404 to Camp Wilderness. The funds were contributed last summer and used toward the purchase of camp tables used during the camping session. Art Heinze (left), Voyageur Trails district commissioner for the scout organization, made the award for the council to Duane Vatsaas, president of Eagles Aerie 2368.

Rural Fire Talks Result In Impasse

Rural fire protection contract with the townships of Norden, Smiley, North, Rocksbury and Silverton again drew the attention of the Thief River Falls city council when that group met Monday in a regular session. A fire department committee recommendation, tabled at the August 28 council meeting, was brought before the floor for further consideration.

Recommendation was for a three-year rural fire contract with the townships making contributions to the operational budget of the firehall in the amounts of $8,000, $9,000 and $10,000, respectively, for 1980, 1981 and 1982. Fire call fees and maintenance contributions by the city would remain the same.

Under the current contract, townships make no contribution to the operational budget of the firehall since fire call fees go directly to the fireman's relief association. Negotiations between city personnel and township representatives for a new contract have been underway since April.

Aldermen opposed to the committee's recommendation reviewed data which they felt showed the $8,000 or even $10,000 contribution to be inequitable. With the city facing a $160,000 operating budget for the firehall and with townships accounting for approximately 25 per cent of the fire calls, 25 per cent of the assessed valuation and 25 per cent of the population of the area served, mathematics indicate $40,000 would be an equal share.

However, taking into consideration the longer response time to rural areas and the fact that the townships own some fire equipment, those opposed to the committee's recommendation feel the $20,000 figure originally proposed to the townships would be a more reasonable share of costs.

Fire protection per capita costs for city residents compared to county residents, presently a comparison of approximately $16 to less than $1, respectively, were also discussed. With the townships making a $10,000 contribution, the comparison would be $15 for city residents and $3 to $4 for township residents.

Comment of Alderman Don Goodrich to the fire department committee members was, "There is inequity there, that's for sure. If there wasn't, your committee wouldn't have been asking for $20,000 the first time."

Fourth ward alderman Bill Penning made a motion Monday that the city continue in the present contract for an additional year, allowing township representatives ample opportunity to discuss the rural fire protection contract with township residents at their annual meetings. Township representatives should determine whether or not the rural residents would be willing to levy two mills (approximately $20,000) for fire protection or if they would like to develop another method of fire protection or seek protection elsewhere. Following the annual meetings negotiations between the city and the townships could again get underway for a contract to take effect in 1981 if rural residents indicated they would like to continue to be served by Thief River Falls fire department at a cost of approximately $20,000 annually.

The motion failed in a four to four vote with alderman Ambrose Wysoski, Ole Engelstad and Milton Heierson and Mayor Bob Carlson dissenting. Those aldermen opposed to the motion felt the city should take the fire department committee's recommendation and accept the amounts of $8,000, $9,000 and $10,000 for the next three years, respectively. Logic was that whether or not the city served the townships, operating costs would remain the same and the $8,000 or $10,000 contribution would be better than what the city is presently receiving. Carlson stated, "I wouldn't throw away $8,000 from a department budget." It was also indicated that without the

Wedul Speaker At Historical Society Meet

Melvin Wedul, author of "Autumn in Grandma's Woods", will be guest speaker when the Pennington county historical society holds a meeting Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Pennington pioneer village in Thief River Falls.

Weather permitting, the meeting will be held in the Burlington Northern depot. If a heated area is required, the session will be held in the Asphult church basement in the pioneer village. Wedul, a former resident of the Thief River Falls area, will show slides regarding research for his book and autograph copies being sold locally by the historical society.

The pioneer village will be open during its regular hours of 2 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday. A special feature this week will be weaving on looms donated to the historical soceity, with Art Heinze in charge of arranging the weaving demonstration.

To Check For Glaucoma At Area Clinics

Glaucoma screening clinics have been scheduled for Goodridge, September 13, 7 p.m., Faith Lutheran church; Oklee, September 20, 7 p.m., Oklee hall; Red Lake Falls, September 27, 7 p.m., city hall; and Thief River Falls, October 4, 6:30 p.m., city auditorium.

All interested persons are encouraged to come in and be checked for this serious vision condition. Dr. William Ramsay, his staff and the Inter-county nursing service will be available at the above times.

Glaucoma strikes about two per cent of the population over 40, many of whom will become blind if the disease is not detected and treated early. It affects the fluid pressure within the eye.

The eye is a fluid filled sac that is kept at constant pressure by a balance between the amount of fluid that enters this sac and the amount that leaks out. In glaucoma either too much fluid comes into the eyeball, or more commonly, too little gets out. When the pressure goes up there is pain.

But eye pain is not the only symptom. Sometimes glaucoma causes headaches, nausea, vomiting, mysterious aches and pains any place in the head or neck. Blurred vision can result.

All adults are encouraged to attend and take advantage of this free service offered for the community. Persons with questions may call the Inter-county nursing service at 681-5960.

Oak Ridge And Zion Dedicate New Parsonage

Dedication services for the new parsonage being constructed by Oak Ridge and Zion Lutheran church will be held Sunday at both churches. Bishop Cecil Johnson will speak at the services and a pot-luck dinner will be served at noon in the Zion church at Viking.

The new parsonage is nearing completion near the Zion church in Viking and an open house is being planned for this winter. Family night services will be held at 8 p.m. September 23 at Oak Ridge with the Skylite kitchen band to perform and slides of Norway to be shown. Public attendance is invited.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Sheila K. Erickson and Russell E. Holtan Wed

Miss Sheila K. Erickson and Russell E. Holtan exchanged marriage vows recently at a three o'clock ceremony at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Middle River. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Erickson of Middle River and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holtan of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Duane Pribula officiated at the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was provided by organist, Mrs. Phyllis Dalager, St. Hilaire, and trumpeter, Valorie Larson, friends of the bride. Selections chosen were Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary," for the processional, "Morning Has Broken," for the congregational hymn, and Bach's "Prelude and Fuge in E Major," as the recessional. Miss Diane Mosbeck, a friend of the bride's family, was the vocalist. She sang "Ave Maria," by Shubert, before the processional, "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," between the Scripture readings; "Rainbow," by Darryl Ducote as the couple lit the marriage candle, and "Hosea," by Weston Priory, after the congregation prayed "The Lord's Prayer." Serving as reader was Ann Smidt, a cousin of the bride. Patrick Erickson was server and Paul Erickson distributed the wedding programs. Both are brothers of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. As they approached the altar, the bride paused and kissed her parents. For her wedding, she wore a gown designed by Mori Lee of New York. The gown featured an Insabella neckline accented with Clumy lace and beading. Her full bishop sleeves with lace insertions, were gathered into deep ruffled cuffs. Attached at the raised waistline was a floor-length skirt that flowed into a cathedral train with a triple ruffled flounce accented with Cluny lace.

Miss DeLayne Swenson, Middle River, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were the groom's sisters: Mary Lou Lian of Nashwauk, and Jeanette Holtan, Thief River Falls. The bride's sister, Mary Jo Erickson, Middle River, was junior bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of peach printed rayon trimmed in orange velvet ribbon and lace. The gowns, styled with lace yokes and sheer bishop sleeves, were made by the bride's mother. To complete their attire, they wore picture hats, accenting their gowns, and carried solitary long-stemmed orange silk football mums. The junior bridesmaid carried a beige basket filled with daisies, baby roses and babies' breath, corresponding with the bride's bouquet.

Stacy Larson of Holt was the bride's personal attendant.

Best man was Dale Johnson, Holt, a friend of the groom. Serving as groomsmen were Randy Lian, Nashwauk, brother-in-law of the groom, and Tim Erickson, a brother of the bride. Junior groomsman was Jeff Oxford, St. Paul, a cousin of the bride. The ushers were Dean Holtan, brother of the groom, and Kevin and Keith Oxford, Aurora, twin cousins of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore gray tuxedos, peach ruffled shirts and orange tipped button mum boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a yellow baby rose with babies' breath. His shirt, like those worn by the fathers, was white.

The mother of the bride wore an ivory polyester gown accented by a shawl. The groom's mother was attired in a light lavender gown with a matching jacket. Their corsages were white daisies and babies' breath.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Oxford, Detroit Lakes, grandparents and godparents of the bride and Olga Erickson, Holt, grandmother of the bride. Unable to attended but sending best wishes was the bride's great grandmother Mrs. Mary Beran of Detroit Lakes.

A wedding reception and supper for 300 guests was hosted at the Meadowbrooke ballroom near Middle River by the bride's parents. For the trip to the ballroom, the couple rode in their car which well-wishers had loaded on one of the groom's semi-trailers.

Host and hostess at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smidt, Stephen, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. James Smidt, Thief River Falls, cousins of the bride. At the guest book was Paula Mueler, St. Paul, a cousin of the bride. Punch was served by Beth Erickson, St. Paul and JoAnn Tharaldson, cousins of the couple.

The three-tiered wedding cake was iced in peach and decorated with white daisies. A miniature bride and groom graced the top. Three smaller cakes, replicas of the center cake, surrounded the base. The cakes, baked and decorated by Mrs. George Severts of Middle River, were cut and served by Mrs. Dale Johnson and Martha Tharaldson, sister-in-law and aunt of the groom. Mrs. Harry Oxford and Mrs. Kenneth Oxford, Aurora, aunts of the bride, poured the coffee.

The groom's cake was distributed by Kim Schultz of Minnetonka, a cousin of the bride. Waitresses at the head table were Valorie Larson, Leone Garthus and Chrissy Oxford. Assisting in the opening of the gifts were Mrs. Marilyn Smidt, Thief River Falls, Denise Stokke of Newfolden, Cecelia Swenson and Ione Schiltz.

A wedding dance followed with the Needham Twins (The Family Tree) providing the music. As a special feature, the band invited the bride to join them in playing her saxophone during one of the selections.

Following a wedding trip along the North Shore Drive and into Canada, the newlyweds are now at home in rural Thief River Falls. The bride is a graduate of Marshall County Central high school, Newfolden. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls, and is owner-operator of Wedul Truck Lines. Legion Auxiliary Receives Honors At Fall Meeting

Thief River Falls American Legion auxiliary received two honors at the recent Fall Conference, according to an announcement made by the unit's out-going president Constance Driscoll. Honors received were the American Education week award and the Operation Heartbeat citation.

Announcement was made at the regular monthly meeting of the unit held September 4.

The September meeting also included the election and installation of new officers. They are Marilyn Winters, president; Avis Odegaard, first vice president; Flora Hagglund, second vice president; LaVonne Haraldson, secretary; Eileen Horejsh, treasurer; Hazel Maves, recording secretary; Constance Driscoll, chaplain and Ruth Schmidt and Romona Grovum, sergeants-at-arms. Peg Peterson served as installing officer.

The meeting concluded with membership chairman Avis Odegaard announcing that the membership tea will be held September 15 at the Legion club rooms. She stated that members may pay their dues at that time and membership cards will be issued. Dues for 1979-80 are $7.00 for members 18 to 60 years; $5.00 for those over 60; and $2.50 for those below 18.

Catholic Daughters Monthly Meeting Held

Regular meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America, Our Lady of the Snows court 2023, was held recently with Rev. John Kleinwachter offering the Mass. Regent Ione Gonsorowski was reader, Frances Meland, commentator and Sister Ann, communion distributor.

The court officers presided at the business session which included a discussion of the year's program.

Hostesses were Ione Gonsorowski and Marie Kleinvachter. Lunch proceeds were donated to the Catholic Daughter's mission group.

The next meeting of the Catholic Daughters will be held October 2 at 8 p.m. A Mass at 7:30 will precede the meeting. All members are encouraged to attend. Prospective members are also welcome to attend. Anyone wishing further information may call 681-5961 evenings or 681-1043.

Jennifer Searles And Neil Sjulson Exchange Vows

Miss Jennifer Searles and Neil Sjulson exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, August 18, at 4 p.m., at the Warrendale Presbyterian church in St. Paul.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Searles of St. Paul. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire.

Rev. Courtney Furman officiated at the double ring ceremony with L. Robert Wolf as organist and Lori Ann Vosejpka as soloist.

Attending the couple were Mrs. William (Susan) Klingbeil, White Bear Lake, Mrs. Michael Kirk, Mrs. Roger Vitko, sisters of the bride; Dr. Roger Sjulson of Fosston, brother of the groom; Lee Rolland and Timothy Engelstad, friends of the groom. Jennifer Peterson was the bride's personal attendant.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a dinner at the Venetian Inn for 110 guests.

The bride and groom are attending the University of Minnesota. The bride is majoring in English education, and the groom is enrolled in the dental school.

SMART Series For Retirees To Begin Monday

First in a series of eight two-hour workshops of the Senior Member and Retiree training (SMART) program will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m., at St. John Lutheran church in this city.

The program, sponsored by Aid Association for Lutherans, is designed to help people deal with their concerns as they approach retirement. Problem areas will be discussed with Paul and Mary Warble of Bemidji as leaders assisted by local resource personnel. Topics will include attitudes towards retirement, finances, legal arrangements, housing, health and leisure activities.

The program is designed for people between the ages of 50 and 65. Since bilateral decision making is stressed, participants are urged to attend as couples, or if single, with a relative or friend.

The sessions are free. There will be no sales or solicitations.

Monday's meeting is open to anyone in the area, regardless of church affiliations. Those who were unable to attend the introductory meeting may register at Monday's session.

Women's Temperance Group to Meet Friday

Regular meeting of the Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Friday at 2 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Earle Ripley.

The meeting will include a report on the National WCTU convention.

Anyone interested in the work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union is welcome to attend.

The Secretary of Labor, nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, is the President's chief advisor on labor matters.

Events Planned By Women of St. Bernard's

Several events were discussed and planned at a recent meeting of the Women of St. Bernard's Catholic parish. Included were the shower and open house for the Sisters, the Diocesan workshop, and the annual fall bazaar.

The shower and open house for the Sisters was scheduled for 2 p.m., Sunday, September 23, in the church parlors. The September circle was appointed to be in charge of the lunch.

The Diocesan workshop, set for Sunday, September 16, from 2 to 5 p.m., will begin with bars and coffee served about 1:45 p.m., by members of St. Ann's circle.

In discussing the fall bazaar, scheduled for October 27, circles were appointed to be in charge of the various activities. The St. Cecelia circle was selected to be in charge of the coffee bar; St. Mary Jo circle, the baked goods and candy booth; St. Margaret Mary, the cake walk; St. Angeline circle, the publicity and advertising; St. Martina circle, handiwork and holiday booth; St. Jude-St. Johanna circle, pantry; and October and November serving circles, the kitchen.

Renting the meeting room was discussed and Helen Bushaw, Vi Sullivan, Lorena Lasha, Katherine Kinsman and Gerri Duquette were appointed on the committee to establish rental rates and suggested fees for weddings. The group voted against renting out the tables and chairs for use away from the church.

The monthly Senior Citizens activities was discussed and will be continued at a later date. Members were also notified that a list of duties will be posted for those appointed for Saturday dusting and cleaning.

It was noted that during the summer, the Women of the Parish had installed new drapes in the rectory, painted the church halls and kitchen, and cleaned the convent, hung new drapes and shades, bought two new chairs for the living room, and painted and wallpapered the kitchen.

Audrey Donarski presided at the meeting and Mary Ann Knutson led the prayers. Lunch was served by Pat Lemer and Rose Schmitz of the St. Margaret-Mary circle.

Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges Resume Meetings

Regular meetings of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges will resume Thursday at 8 p.m., at the Odd Fellows hall. Both lodges were recessed during July and August.

Thursday's meetings will begin with a joint potluck dinner at 6:30, for all members and their spouses.

Business to be discussed will be the joint installation of officers to be held in October, and the regional officers meeting October 21, to be hosted by the Odd Fellows and sponsored by officers of the Grand lodge of Minnesota.

LPNs To Hear Talk On Drugs

Rick Coutos, pharmacist at Northwestern hospital, will speak on the use of everyday drugs at an LPN association meeting in the Northwest regional library meeting room September 17.

LPN members will meet from 7:30 to 8 p.m. and all LPN's will meet for the program from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Newfolden ALCW One-Day Retreat Attended by 150

Over 150 women attended the one-day retreat held Wednesday, September 5, at the Bethlehem Lutheran church at Newfolden. The event was sponsored by the Thief River Falls Conference of the American Lutheran Church Women (ALCW).

The theme was "Captured by God's Spirit," with Rev. Hans Floan, host pastor, presenting a musical devotion. Guest speaker was Rev. Roger Brockmeyer of Oslo. In his study of "The Map of the Future," he said, "I don't know what is coming, but I know Who is coming."

Mrs. Donald Rupprecht, Thief River Falls, was in charge of the program. Song leader was Mrs. Myron Carlson of Warren and the accompanists were Mrs. Nels Vigstol, Plummer, and Mrs. Steven Hanson and Mrs. Hans Floan, both of Newfolden.

Others participating in the program were Rev. David Christensen, Warren, women from the Immanuel ALCW of Plummer; Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Thief River Falls; Mylo Carlson, Warren; Mrs. Dale Rokke, Newfolden; Mrs. Dale Rasmussen, Stephen and Olga Engevik, Gatzke.

A potluck meal was served at noon with beverage and hot dishes furnished by the Bethlehem ALCW Newfolden. Morning and afternoon coffee was supplied by the ALCW of Viking and Oak Ridge.

Retreat committee members were Mrs. Donald Rupprecht, Mrs. Bert Amundson of Grygla, Mrs. Dale Rokke, Mrs. Nels Vigstol, and Mrs. Earl L. Anderson of Stephen.

UNAWARE of her fourth generation role, little Andrea Mae Udager sleeps contentedly in the arms of her great-grandmother, Mrs. Amanda Hallstrom, a resident at Valley Home. Behind them are Andrea's mother, Anita Udager of Maple Grove, and her grandfather, Wilbur Hallstrom, rural Thief River Falls.

Rural Fire Contract Hits Council Draw

rural fire equipment, Thief River Falls would have to purchase another truck or drop from a class six to a class seven department because of a reduction in pumping capacity.

A subsequent motion to accept the fire department committee's recommendation also failed four to four with alderman Penning, Clayton Restad, Milan Borsheim and Goodrich dissenting. A third compromise motion, introduced by alderman Penning, that the city continue the present contract for an additional six months until the township annual meetings were held in March and then settle the contract dispute was also defeated four to four. No further action was taken and the matter was left unsettled.

A related item of business that came before the council at Monday's meeting was a request by Numedahl township to be considered for fire protection by the Thief River Falls fire department. Ralph Berg was in attendance representing the township and indicated Numedahl had a population of approximately 125 with over 100 building sites. Edge of the township is approximately nine miles from the city limits and the township continues to the Polk county line. Council indicated it would keep the request in mind but suggested Numedahl contact the other five townships served to discuss joint use of fire equipment owned by the townships.

In other business, the council examined two bids received for load management systems. Bids included prices on a master controller, communication system with transmitter and receiver, receivers for individual customers, and spare parts and test equipment. Total bids of the two bidders, Sangamo and Scientific Atlanta, were $166,150 and $189,468, respectively making Sangamo the low bidder by $23,278. Following discussion with superintendent of utilities John T. Anderson and a Sangamo representative the council voted to accept the company's low bid with delivery guaranteed in December.

Questions were raised in regard to the rate study being conducted by the utilities department in conjunction with the installation of the load management system. Comment of alderman Don Goodrich was, "If we are going to spend this kind of money (for the load management system) we have to have a rate schedule that reflects savings for the people that use it."

Anderson indicated the study will be completed in the near future and will suggest rate levels for interruptable, partially interruptable and uninterruptable electric heat customers. A rate increase of approximately 20 per cent can be expected, he stated, with that to be borne mainly by big users.

A report from city engineer Doug Stewart on proposed utility improvements was also examined at the Monday meeting. The report outlined areas suggested for water main replacement and sanitary sewer repairs and replacement. It also listed water service lines experiencing annual freeze-ups where residents should be given the opportunity to have the line lowered or insulated. Estimated cost of the projects which would be combined with the 1979 street improvement project were also outlined.

According to the report, water main replacement is recommended at nine locations at an estimated cost of $248,500 with all abutting property owners liable for assessment. Sanitary sewer repairs and replacements were suggested in seven locations at an approximate cost of $90,000 and, again, all abutting property owners can be assessed.

Approximately 100 customers have water service lines that regularly freeze up and an additional 200 had freeze-ups occur in 1978-79. These individuals will be contacted and invited to participate in the lowering-insulating project. Total project cost is estimated at $220,000 with a $600 cost anticipated for each service connection. The city would bear one-half of the cost of the work with property owners to be specially assessed for the second $300.

If property owners do have the work done, the city will guarantee it. If not, property owners will become responsible for future freeze-ups and meters will not be removed. So if the owners find it necessary to thaw or let the water run in their residences, the water would continue to be metered and the owners would pay the entire cost for both water use and wastewater disposal.

Council resolved to accept the engineer's report and proceed with the utilities projects at a total cost of $338,500. Hearing date for the project was set for October 2 at 7 p.m.

Acting on other agenda items, the council called for bids for work on the water treatment plant roof with bids to be opened September 25 at 7:30 p.m.; set September 25 as the date for a proposed use hearing on federal revenue sharing funds with the hearing to begin at 7 p.m.; resolved not to proceed with television inspection of sewers at this time; and entered into an agreement with the state of Minnesota for installation, operation and maintenance of traffic control signals to be installed on trunk highways in the upcoming signalization program.

Council also granted a tipboard and raffle license to the American Legion auxiliary; granted a group peddlers permit to John Zukatis for the September 15 flea market; increased the mileage reimbursement rate to 18 cents per mile; passed an ordinance annexing the Eldor Ornquist property on Nelson Drive; and granted a progression raise to custodian Gary Anderson, bringing his salary to $980 a month effective September 1.

Mrs. Sena Ness Services Held In Washington

Mrs. Emil (Sena) Ness, 89, of Everett, Wash., and formerly of the Thief River Falls area, died September 2 in Washington.

Funeral services were held at Everett at the Calvary Lutheran church.

Mrs. Ness, the former Sena Strandvold, was born Nov. 27, 1890 at Rosewood to Halvor and Serene Strandvold, now deceased. She attended school and grew to womanhood in Norden township, Pennington county.

On Feb. 14, 1909, she was united in marriage to Emil Ness. The couple farmed for a time in Norden township. Later they moved to Alberta, Canada, Prosser, Spokane and Silvana, Wash.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Thoralf (Evangeline) Stovick, Stanwood, Wash.; one son, Harry Ness, Everett, Wash.; four granddaughters, a grandson, seven great-grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Erick (Inga) Huseth of Thief River Falls; one nephew and two nieces.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in 1967; and one sister.

Rites Held For Mrs. Joseph LaCoursiere, 80

Funeral services for Mrs. Joseph (Margurite) LaCoursiere, 80, of Red Lake Falls, were held there Tuesday at 9 a.m., at St. Joseph's Catholic church. Mrs. LaCoursiere died Saturday at the Fair Meadow nursing home at Fertile.

Celebrant at the Mass of the Resurrection was Rev. Jerome Felion. Interment was in the church cemetery, with the Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. LaCoursiere, the former Margurite McCullough, was born Feb. 18, 1899 in Graden Prairie township, South Dakota, to Mr. and Mrs. Dominic McCullough. As a child, she moved with her parents to the Plummer community. There she resided until her marriage to Joseph LaCoursiere on June 1, 1920 at Red Lake Falls. The couple made their home at Red Lake Falls.

She was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters, a charter member of the Red Lake Falls American Legion auxiliary and a past president of the unit.

DEANNA EDWARDS, artist, composer and therapist from Orem, Utah, will be one of the featured participants in an aging workshop to be held September 17 at the Best Western Inn in Crookston. Edwards will address the special needs and feelings of the older individual with the aid of live music. Title of her presentation is "The Gift of Love Through Sharing."

She lived at Oklee before entering the Fair Meadow Nursing home at Fertile.

Survivors are three daughters: Mrs. Robert (Patricia) Thielen, Pillager; Mrs. Noble (Iolas) Watson, Stinnett, Tex., and Mrs. Vernon (JoAnn) Olson, Las Vegas, Nev.; nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are three sisters: Mrs. William (Bessie) Kramer, Falls City, Wash.; Mrs. John (Edna) Nemisgren, El Cajon, Calif., and Mrs. Elnora Lautt, Rochester, Ind.; and three brothers: John McCullough, Fredricks, Okla., and Charles and Edward, both of Snoqualimie, Wash.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in November of 1968, a son, one daughter, and her parents.

Services Held Today For Hulda Christianson

Funeral services for Mrs. Hulda Christianson, 77, of this city were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church. Mrs. Christiason, a resident of the Hartz apartments, died Monday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Richard Larson officiated at the services. Jerry Jorindal was the organist and Diane Anderson, the soloist. Interment was in the Viking cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Douglas Anderson, Halward Anderson, Larry Engen, Donavon Engen, Lowell Gustafson and Art Rud.

Mrs. Christianson, the former Hulda Engen, was born March 26, 1902 in Viking township, Marshall county, to Hartvik and Marie Engen. She attended the Marsh Grove township school and grew to womanhood in that community. She was employed for a number of years as a domestic at Detroit Lakes and later in Warren. In 1943, she came to Thief River Falls and had since made her home here, working at Elaine's store for women for 23 years. She retired in 1966.

In 1953, she was united in marriage to Carl Christianson. He died in 1964.

She was a member of Zion Lutheran church.

Surviving are three brothers, Clarence and Walter Engen, both of Crookston, and Harvey of Viking; two sisters: Mrs. Minnie Gustafson, Viking, and Mrs. Arthur (Ella) Anderson, Thief River Falls; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, parents, and one sister, Mildred Rud.

Anton Wagner Services Held At Thief Lake

Funeral services for Anton (Tony) Wagner, 66, of Thief River Falls were held Tuesday at 11 a.m., at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Thief Lake. Wagner died unexpectedly Saturday morning in Thief River Falls. He had been in failing health for the past two months.

Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the services. Music was provided by Mrs. Hjalmer Hanson, organist, and Mrs. Elwood Beito and Donald Ose, vocalists. Interment was in the German Evangelical cemetery, near Middle River, with the Collins Funeral home, Middle River, in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were Anthony (Bud) Brown, Jay Haroldson, Loris Danielson, Howard Young, George Hill and Sam Pearson.

Serving as active pallbearers were Harold Brandon, Ronald Haugen, Connie Burrell, Dennis McCullough, Gary Peterson and Wayne Wagner.

Anton Emmet Wagner, a son of the late William and Ida Wagner, was born Dec. 19, 1912 in Cedar township, Marshall county, near Middle River. He attended school and grew to manhood in that community.

On June 21, 1939, he was united in marriage to Augot Johnson at Newfolden. Following their marriage, they made their home on a farm in Cedar township.

Wagner was employed by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources for 18 years. Following his retirement in 1975, they moved to Thief River Falls. He was an avid outdoorsman and enjoyed hunting and fishing.

He was a member of Our Savior's Lutheran church, served on the Cedar Town board for 15 years, and was also employed for several years as a school bus driver.

He is survived by his wife; four sons: Ray and Kenneth Wagner, both of Thief River Falls; Virgil and Lloyd of Middle River; 10 grandchildren, a brother, Emmett Wagner, Middle River; and four sisters: Mrs. Pat (Selma) McCullough, Newfolden; Miss Alma Wagner, Middle River; Mrs. Carl (Adeline) Burrell, Thief River Falls; and Mrs. Gene (Ann) Peterson, Gatzke.

He was preceded in death by two brothers: John and Harvey.

VA Hospitals Get Patients' Approval

Patients at Veterans administration hospitals and clinics have once again expressed a high degree of satisfaction with their medical care, VA reported recently. They also gave high marks to the attitudes of VA personnel and to the cleanliness of VA medical facilities.

Patients expressed higher degrees of satisfaction with the VA medical care system than did patients in non-VA facilities who were responding to similar survey questions asked by private pollsters, the agency said.

These comments were taken from VA's 1978 Patient Satisfaction Survey, a massive, biennial study designed to monitor and lead to improvements in the agency's nationwide medical system.

Patients selected at random were asked to complete, anonymously, questionnaires measuring their satisfaction with various aspects of VA medical care. Their sealed responses were tabulated at VA headquarters in Washington, D.C.

For example, 88 per cent of the inpatients responding to the survey said they felt "my doctor has given me the best care possible." In the VA survey, 85 per cent said they felt their doctors' examination had been "very thorough," 82 per cent said "everything that was wrong with me was carefully looked into," and 81 per cent felt that "my doctor really understands my case."

A total of 92 per cent said VA physicians had been pleasant and courteous, 88 per cent felt "the staff has a real interest in me," and 81 per cent said "my doctor did his best to keep me from worrying." In the Harris poll, 64 per cent of the patients said their doctors exhibited "respect and concern for patients as individuals." By contrast, 73 per cent of the VA patients surveyed found this respect and concern among agency doctors.

Eighty-three per cent of the veterans surveyed said their doctors answered their questions about their medical condition, 79 per cent said their physicians explained to them what they were doing, and 76 per cent expressed satisfaction with the doctors' explanations. On the other hand, 64 per cent of the non-VA patients in a survey conducted expressed satisfaction with the diagnostic, progress and treatment information given to them.

The lowest scores from veteran-patients came in the area of "emotional support" by doctors and nurses. Less than half thought doctors took enough time to tell them how they were doing or to listen to their views; just over half thought their nurses took enough time to give them progress reports.

VAA medical centers rated high in the culinary department: 85 per cent of the patients were satisfied with the variety of food served, 81 per cent said their meals were served at the correct temperatures, and 86 per cent graded their meals "good." In contrast, 55 per cent of respondents in the Harris poll expressed satisfaction with their hospital food and meals.

In other areas, VA patients were very complimentary of their nursing care: 94 per cent said "the nurses have taken good care of me," 93 per cent said nurses aides had been kind and helpful, and 92 per cent thought "the nurses know their job and do it well." On the other hand, Harris found only 79 per cent of non-VA patients gave similar grades to their nurses.

Other VA medical personnel also received high grades from the patients: x-ray and laboratory personnel, people who served meals, and canteen employees all received favorable comments from more than 90 per cent of those surveyed.

VA outpatients also expressed a high degree of satisfaction over the care they received; and between 80 and 90 per cent said VA medical personnel took a personal, sympathetic and understanding interest in them and their medical problems.

Eighty-seven per cent of VA hospital patients in the survey said they would want to return to the Veterans Administration for any future hospital care needed.

VA's Chief Medical Director, Dr. James C. Crutcher, said, "We place a high value on the responses to this survey. We will use these results in our continuing efforts to refine and update our procedures and practices."

Minn. Turkey Production At All-Time High

Minnesota's world-leading turkey production this year now is estimated at an all-time high of 25,076,000, agriculture commissioner Mark Seetin said today. If achieved, that would again represent 16 per cent of national turkey production, also forecast at a new all-time high of nearly 158 million birds.

The new estimated by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service indicates a 13 per cent increase in turkey production both for Minnesota and the nation compared to 1978.

Minnesota's standing record for turkey production was set in 1976 when growers raised and marked 24,370,000 turkeys.

While Minnesota has continued to widen its margin over one-time national champion California, the new estimates show that North Carolina has moved not only into second place but as well into a close challenge position on 23,450,000 turkeys, or about 15 per cent of United States production this year.

This year's estimated Minnesota turkey production includes 19,518,000 of the heavy breed birds, 14 per cent of the national total, and 5,558,000 of the light breeds, over 50 per cent of the national total.

Local Jaycees Given Awards For Efforts

Randy Adamson, president of the Thief River Falls Jaycees, has announced the recipients of a number of awards to recognize local chapter members and officers who have "given outstanding service to the Jaycees during May, June and July".

"These awards recognize outstanding achievement in the areas of leadership, planning and involvement," Adamson said. The awards and recipients are: Jaycee of the month — June, Gary Hamness for family fishing trip, July, Dave Miller for horse show; and Jim Hoks for Aquacade pageant chairman; Director of the Month — May, Steve Ford; June, Dave Jones; and July, Rod Janisch; Officer of the Month — May, Gerry Paulson; June, John Anderson; and July, Tim Wang.

Two projects were selected as outstanding projects of the quarter. They were the Pennington county fair demolition derby, chaired by Allan Snare and Rod Janisch and the family fishing trip, chaired by Gary Hamness. The family fishing, held in June at Warroad and hosted by the Warroad Jaycees, involved nearly 50 Jaycees, wives and families. Thief River Falls chapter won the man-mile award at the weekend event by bringing the most people the most miles.

New Trustees Elected To Hospital Board

nursing shortage hit the metropolitan area and how intensified recruitment has become there from hospitals in the "sun belt" and other medical centers. She noted that 130 beds had been closed at St. Mary's hospital in Rochester due to the shortage.

At the same time, she said, applicants for nursing programs have declined dramatically. Recruitment among high school students was classified by her as "a wasted effort", and she said efforts toward recruitment are being concentrated among more mature and stable people who have roots in the community but are seeking new or different employment.

Average age of students in the community college nursing programs which she administers is now 31, she said, and for the first time the program isn't filled.

She pointed out the argument that there is no nursing shortage when there is a 70 per cent turnover in the nurse force annually and 50 per cent of those certified as nurses are inactive. "I know a couple of inactive ones," she said, "one of whom makes $6.10 an hour as a check-out girl at Applebaum's, and that's better than she could earn as a nurse."

The speakers answered several questions from the approximately 85 people in attendance at the annual session.

School Plans Go To Public Hearing Oct. 2

Beverly Kays, Knox, BS to BS 15, and Rodney Ruthschadt, vocational center, BS 45 to BS 60.

Other employment approved included Marian Cork, secretary at Lincoln athletic office; Jane Daniels, Kevin Murphy and Elizabeth Nichols, head lifeguards at Franklin pool; Jon Pinkerson, lifeguard at Franklin pool; Johanna Desrocher and Frances Kuyath, girls' locker room attendants at Franklin pool.

Extra-curricular assignments approved included Glenna Wefald, Mark Twain school safety patrol; Susan LeMoine, Knox school safety patrol; Don Fugleberg, grades 7 and 8 football; and Kay Anderson, yearbook advisor at AVTI.

The board tabled bids on nine-passenger station wagons and rejected all bids on a used ¾ ton or one-ton van for use by the AVTI carpentry department and a two to two and one-half ton truck. Proposal of a photo package of $4 per student was accepted from Neal Fox studios.

Bid of $43,750 for construction of test cells at the AVTI was accepted and contract awarded to Prichard Brothers of Thief River Falls.

Policy statement was adopted which gave authorization for student overnight trips, based upon a set of standards established by the principals. Supervising principal may approve or disapprove a specific request for student over-night trips, the superintendent is to be informed of the decision and requests are subject to review by the superintendent and school board.

Authorization was given to the appointing of an advisory committee to assist in development of a program for the gifted and talented. Appointment for the 1979-80 school year is to be made at the first meeting of the board in October.

DANA PETERSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peterson of Holt, won the junior high point trophy Sunday at the Jaycee-sponsored horse show in Thief River Falls. Her placings included second in showing 1976 mare, first in 1977 colt, grand champion colt, second in 1975 and older geldings, third in junior showmanship, first in bareback horsemanship, fourth in English pleasure and second in junior horsemanship. The trophy was awarded by Dave Miller, chairman of the project for the Jaycees.

Storytime '79 Begins Oct. 19 At NW Library

Storytime '79, an eight week series of programs for preschoolers, will be starting at the Northwest regional library October 12.

Registration is required for the series and the sessions are limited to twenty children between the ages of three and five. To register a child, the parent must visit the library and complete a form. Registration will be on a first come basis.

Fall Storytime will run for eight Fridays beginning October 12 from 10-10:45 a.m. The sessions will acquaint children with the books and services available at their library and to make their first experiences in the library enjoyable ones.

For more information on this or other library programs, please call 681-4325.

51 Registered Into Pack 59 Of Cub Scouts

Pack 59 round-up was held Monday evening at Zion Lutheran church with Chester Camp, cubmaster, conducting the opening meeting. Fifty-one boys registered into the pack.

Judy Bowen, Jeff Bowen, Bonnie Camp and Bobbie Camp presented a skit showing the need for parent participation with their scout in order for the pack to be a success.

Jim Bowen, assistant cubmaster, demonstrated the qualifications new cubs would need to know for receipt of their bobcat badge at the next pack meeting.

Leaders meeting will be held September 17 at 8:15 p.m. at the Richard Melby home. Next pack meeting will be Monday, September 24 at 7:30 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church basement.

Dist. Bankers Meet Sept. 17 In Moorhead

Bankers from northwestern Minnesota will convene at the Holiday Inn in Moorhead September 17 for the Minnesota bankers association annual meeting of District 9.

District meetings, being held in seven locations throughout the state, are headed by MBA president James T. Gowan, vice president of the First National bank of St. Paul. Gowan said 2,000 bankers are expected to attend the sessions.

Moorhead meeting, open to officers, staff members and directors of full-service banks in the 15-county district, will provide information on key trends and developments in the banking industry. Bankers attending the meeting will elect district officers for the 1979-80 year and endorse nominees for MBA elected offices.

MBA is a trade organization for over 760 full-service banks in Minnesota.

Roff, Hoglund Pass RN State Board Exams

Mary Hogland and Carolyn Roff, R.N.'s at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls recently passed their state nursing boards and are now licensed registered nurses.

Hogland, who graduated from NDSU nursing program in Fargo, N.D., is originally from the Fargo area. She accepted employment at St. John's hospital in July of 1979 and is now residing in Red Lake Falls.

Carolyn Roff worked at St. John's hospital as an L.P.N., then returned to school, completing the R.N. program at Northland community college in Thief River Falls. She graduated in June of this year and accepted employment at St. John's hospital.

Carter Assists UND Freshmen

Jeff Carter of Thief River Falls is among 84 upper classmen at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks who volunteered to lead information and discussion sessions for the recent new student orientation program.

The upper classmen helped new students learn about life at UND by leading sessions on study skills, career planning, student health, library and campus tours. Prior to the orientation they attended four days of instruction on orientation goals and directions, leadership training, communication skills and facts about the campus and city.

Roy Acuff To Appear Here Tues., Sept. 25

"King of Country Music," Roy Acuff, and two of his Smoky Mountain Boys, Bashful Brother Oswald and Charlie Collins, will appear in Thief River Falls at the high school auditorium Tuesday September 25, at 7:30 p.m.

Acuff, star of the Grand Ole Opry and first living musician to be elected to the country music hall of fame, made many songs famous including "Wabash Cannonball," and Great Speckled Bird. This will be one of Acuff's rare tours since a serious auto accident in 1965.

Country and bluegrass pickin' of the Smoky Mountain Boys, Bashful Brother Oswald and Charlie Collins, Acuff says, "I don't think that anyone has the style, the touch, and the control of a Dobro instrument, or what you'd call the Hawaiian type guitar, of Oswald. . . He also plays banjo in the old mountain style. . . claw hammer. He also plays straight guitar, accompanying Charlie Collins who plays both fiddle and Mandolin. Charlie is also one of the best guitarists in country music. He and Oswald make a fine duo. Both sing and play in their own native country way. I share a love of old time music with them."

This country music event is being sponsored by the Thief River Falls and Nevis chambers of commerce. Tickets are $5 and are available at Ekeren Drug, Model Barbershop and the chamber office. Tickets will also be sold at the door for $5.

Aaseby Attends Army Exercise At Fort Riley

Minnesota army national guardsman 2nd Lt. Hjalmar V. Aaseby, Thief River Falls, of company B, and approximately 50 other members of the 2nd battalion, 136th infantry, headquartered in Moorhead, attended a command post exercise at Fort Riley, Kan., September 8-9.

Command post exercises train the unit leaders in a simulated combat situation, but not the rest of the troops.

The 2nd battalion, the only mechanized unit in Minnesota, is affiliated with the active army's 1st infantry division at Fort Riley, and in the event of a national emergency would be activated with the 1st division.

Debra Reierson On Honor List

Debra J. Reierson, Thief River Falls, has been placed on the Moorhead state university director's list for earning an average of B or above in the accounting program for the summer quarter.

The first federal legislation designating Labor Day as a national holiday was passed in 1894, according to the U.S. Labor Department's "Labor Firsts In America."

Tank Cleaners Contaminate Ground Water

Many septic tank or cesspool cleaners being marked in Minnesota have levels of carcinogens so strong that one gallon can contaminate up to 29 million gallons of ground water in excess of environmental protection agency (EPA) drinking water standards.

This warning is from Roger Machmeier, agricultural engineer with the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service; and Michael Hansel, staff engineer with the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA).

The following cleaners contain the carcinogens trichloroethane and methylene chloride: Drainz, Glamorene Drain Power and Kitchen Drano. Other septic tank cleaners as well as household products, such as fabric and rug cleaners, workshop cleaners and solvents may also contain high concentrations of cancer-causing chemicals.

"None of these products should be discharged into a home sewage system," Machmeier and Hansel say. "They are not removed by the system and quickly find their way into the ground water supply.

"Please help keep these dangerous compounds out of Minnesota's underground waters, a valuable natural resource," they add. "If you are aware of these products on your local market, please write or call the Minnesota pollution control agency," at 1935 West County Road B-2, Roseville, Minn., 55113 (612) 296-7356.

Involve Public In Planning On Conservation

Effort by Minnesota's soil and water conservation agencies to involve the public in planning the solutions to soil and water problems is a model for the nation, Governor Al Quie said at a news conference in St. Paul Wednesday. He said that Minnesota's present $40 million per year soil conservation effort is a strong commitment by government and private landowners, but it can be made stronger with more participation by the public.

The governor joined actor Eddie Albert and soil and water conservation officials in encouraging people to participate in the Minnesota congress on soil and water management.

"The project is an all out effort to analyze Minnesota's resource problems and to ask the public what they want done about those problems," said Harry Major, state conservationist for the USDA's soil conservation service.

Major said that soil erosion, which averages about nine tons per acre each year on Minnesota's cropland, has been ranked by the top resource problems in 82 of the state's 87 counties.

Eddie Albert, who is featured in a brochure and radio and television announcements promoting the project said he considers soil erosion the top concern in Minnesota and throughout the nation and the world. "If you lose the soil, that's the end of it. In the last 100 years we have lost about half of this rich Minnesota soil to erosion," he said.

Vern Reinert, executive director of the Minnesota soil and water conservation board added that erosion is not only a farm problem. He said that annual erosion from urban construction sites can be as high as 80 tons per acre. Programs to control erosion in urban areas and along roadsides, lakeshores and streambanks are just as important as those to control erosion on farmland, he said.

Major said that the erosion control task is about 40 per cent complete in Minnesota and that the remaining 60 per cent will cost about $1.2 billion. He said that at the present rate, it will take about 60 years to complete the needed erosion control. "We are asking people if they are satisfied with the progress on erosion control and other soil and water conservation. We want people to tell us who they think should address soil and water problems, how fast it should be done, and what responsibility they think the private landowners and various levels of government have in soil and water conservation."

Reinert explained that the state soil and water conservation board will use the information people provide during the next two months to develop a new direction for conservation programs in the state.

People can participate by completing a response sheet provided by the Minnesota congress on soil and water management. The sheet asks people to comment on a proposal for future soil and water conservation efforts in their area.

The response sheet is being mailed with a brochure to about 110,000 persons who represent varying interests and occupations. Another 30,000 are available from local soil and water conservation district offices, the Minnesota soil and water conservation board, or the soil conservation service.

Prowlers Must Show Improvement

Disappointed with back-to-back season-opening losses to Grand Forks Red River 30-8 and Detroit Lakes 13-6, the Lincoln high school football coaching staff will be using Friday's 7:30 p.m. game here against Crosby-Ironton as a personnel test. Another poor performance matching last week's play against the underdog Lakers will likely produce line-up changes.

"If things don't change, we'll have to make some changes," explained Thief River Falls head coach Gene Jurgens. "We still feel we have the best personnel out there, but it has gotten to the point where we'll have to make some changes, or whatever it takes, to shake them up."

On paper, Thief River Falls' offense looks good. On the field it doesn't. The Prowlers have fumbled 14 times, losing seven of them, in two games. Four interceptions and a big portion of 18 Thief River Falls penalties has also stopped the Prowlers offense.

"We will either move the ball Friday or we'll make changes," promised Jurgens. "We have to try something."

Jurgens isn't sure who will start at quarterback against the Rangers. He has used both Tom Bjorkman and Jeff Ulrich to date. Bjorkman started the Red River game and was relieved by Ulrich who started the Detroit Lakes game but was relieved by Bjorkman.

"One of our quarterbacks has got to take charge. One has to come out and get things going, it's that pure and simple," said Jurgens who could also look to junior Scott Wiebolt, who played a strong ball game in a 29-8 junior varsity loss at Moorhead Saturday. "Somebody will take charge Friday. I don't know which one, but something will."

It'll be the first long bus ride to Thief River Falls for coach John Davies and his Rangers, but he's not overly concerned about the four-hour trip. "Bus rides don't affect athletes," noted Davies. "It might affect the marginal players, but not the real athletes."

First ever meeting between the two teams a year ago produced a terrific show won by the Prowlers 28-27 when Jim Shirley and Jeff Kosel baffled the Rangers on a fourth quarter kickoff return. Shirley, after receiving the kick and faking a hand-off to Kosel, covered nearly half the field before the Rangers realized he had the ball and went 79 games for a game-winning touchdown with 3:10 remaining.

Top of the State Looks To Nine-Man

Top of the State football conference, which this year lost Mount St. Benedict, Kennedy and Greenbush to nine-man football, may have only Roseau, Warroad and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart playing 11-man football in 1980.

At a Top of the State Conference meeting held last week, Argyle, Karlstad, Hallock, Marshall County Central and Stephen all indicated they will be playing nine-man football next fall. Lake of the Woods, the tenth Top of the State member, was not represented at the meeting.

Indications were last year that several Top of the State Conference schools were looking into the possibility of going to nine-man football because of numbers, and apparently those possibilities are very real.

Several Top of the State teams will be experimenting with the nine-man game this fall when they play Greenbush. Marshall County Central will host the Tigers Fri., Sept. 28.

Miscellaneous

+Fri., Oct. 5, has been designated as national coaches day for the 1979-80 school year in honor of all the coaches across the country to who devote hundreds of hours to developing boys and girls both physically and emotionally through interscholastic athletics.

+Mark Kirkpatrick of Oklee will start his third game at center this week for Moorhead State University as the Dragons host new foe Pacific Lutheran University at 7:30 p.m. in Moorhead. Kirkpatrick played two years of junior college football under former Lincoln high school coach Jim Sims at Crookston before transferring to Moorhead this fall.

+Warroad Pioneer reports that Christian Brothers, Inc. achieved the highest sales and highest net income in the history of the hockey stick manufacturing company during the fiscal year from April 1 to March 31. The 15-year-old company had revenues of $2,095,340, a 24 per cent increase over last year. Net income after taxes was up 60 per cent to $155,959.

Lincoln, Northland Share TRF Athletic Field

First of three 1979 Thief River Falls football doubleheaders involving Lincoln high school and Northland community college will be staged this weekend on the Thief River Falls athletic field when the Prowlers host Crosby-Ironton Friday at 7:30 p.m. and the Northmen entertain Vermilion Saturday at 3 p.m.

Both home-standing teams will be looking for their first wins. Lincoln is 0-2 after losing its season opener to Grand Forks Red River 30-8 and dropping its home opener to Detroit Lakes 13-6 last week. Northland suffered a 20-6 setback at the hands of Mesabi at Virginia in its season opener Saturday.

Other Lincoln-Northland weekend football doubleheaders will be played in October. Both teams will be celebrating homecoming when Lincoln plays Bemidji Fri., Oct. 5, and Northland faces Itasca Sat., Oct. 6. Then later in the month, Lincoln closes the year at home against Crookston Fri., Oct. 26, with Northland finishing its home schedule the next afternoon against Golden Valley Lutheran.

Northland also has a home date Sat., Sept. 22, against Hibbing. Lincoln is scheduled to be at Staples the night before.

Lincoln, in turn, will be at home Fri., Sept. 28, against Moorhead, with Northland appearing at Itasca the next afternoon.

Both teams will be on the road Oct. 12-13 when Lincoln travels to Fergus Falls and Northland drives to Brainerd. Lincoln will also be at East Grand Forks Wed., Oct. 17, with Northland playing at Bismarck, N.D. that weekend. The Northmen close out the season at Crookston Nov. 3.

LHS vs. Crosby-Ironton . . .

Awaiting Friday night's first-ever Crosby-Ironton visit, Lincoln high school football cocahes are wondering what type of team the Rangers will field. And that's because in the space of a week, a Crosby-Ironton team that looked like a push-over in a 52-6 season-opening loss to Bemidji apparently transformed itself into a solid ball club that lost by only a 12-0 count last week to Class AA rival Brainerd, a team that began the year by ending a 26-game winning streak owned by two-time defending Class A state champion Fridley Grace.

"Our kids played well. We're very happy with our performance against Brainerd," said Crosby-Ironton coach John Davies whose young ball club is staffed by some 18 sophomores.

"With a young ball club like we have, you don't get all your offense in right away," explained Davies. "You start with the fundamentals and work your way up. We should have most of it (offense) in by Friday's game. We hope to give Thief River a good ball game. It should be a good match-up. Somebody has to come out with a win."

Senior Scott Stanfield, who lettered as a defensive back in 1978, quarterbacks the Crosby-Ironton double-wing offense that has wingbacks flanked outside the ends and features lots of motion. "He's doing an excellent job," said Davies of his quarterback who will be handing the ball off to sophomores Todd Sorenson, a 150-pounder with good quickness, and Jeff Becknal, a 160-pound power runner.

The Crosby-Ironton offense failed to score against Brainerd, but Davies was more than pleased with the Rangers' defensive effort. Only scoring was done by the Warriors on fourth down plays. Quarterback scramble from the Crosby-Ironton 16 yard line produced a broken play touchdown in the first half and in the fourth quarter a Brainerd back made it through an eight-man C-1 front for a clear shot at the goal line — 81 yards away.

"Our defensive line has been our strong point," mentioned Davies who cited the work of the three down linement in the Rangers' 5-2 set: 205-pound Steve Whitney, 190-pound Tom Schneider and 180-pound Tom Zima. "We have juniors and seniors in the defensive line and they're playing well. Our secondary is young, though, and leaves something to be desired."

However, it's the Thief River Falls offense and not the Crosby-Ironton defense that has Lincoln head coach Gene Jurgens worried. The Prowlers have been their own worst enemy to date, fumbling 14 times, throwing four interceptions and accumulating 18 penalties in two games.

"Those stats shows why we're 0-2," said Jurgens. "You just can't win football games doing those things."

Led by a secondary that was allowed just three completions in 19 attempts for only 27 yards, Thief River Falls defense has performed admirably. "We have been excellent against the pass," praised Jurgens. "We seem to play good defense out in the middle of the field, but when we've given up the ball, we haven't been able to stop the other team in crucial situations. However, you just can't keep giving it up. You can't turn over the ball that many times and expect your defense to stop them every time."

Halfback Dave Odegaard, injured against Detroit Lakes, will play against the Rangers. And versatile Jim Thompson, although hobbled since the opener against Red River, will play Friday.

Prowlers Top Flyers 2-0

Combination of Kathy Walker serves and Stacy Ehrenstrom spikes were too much for Fisher to handle Tuesday as the Lincoln high school volleyball team breezed to a 2-0 win over the Flyers.

Thief River Falls, rallying from a 7-0 deficit, won the first game 18-12. The Prowlers doubled the host Flyers 18-9 in the second contest.

"The reason we won was Kathy Walker's serving," explained Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss. "She had a couple of aces and some well-placed serves."

Stauss also praised the play of Ehrenstrom at the net. "I know you can't have hitters without setters, but Stacy had a lot of nice hits for us. She had three kills (unreturnable spikes) in the second game."

Thief River Falls, 3-1 for the year, will host Fosston Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln gym.

It was a clean sweep for the Prowlers Tuesday as they also won the junior varsity and freshman matches. Tara Nicholson served eight points as Thief River Falls rolled to an 18-3, 18-7 victory in the junior varsity match, improving the Lincoln B squad record to 3-1. In the freshman competition, Thief River Falls won 18-10, 5-18, 18-9.

NCC vs. Vermilion . . .

After making an instant star out of Mesabi freshman Doug Meriweather who scored two touchdowns and rushed for 163 yards in his Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) debut last week, the Northland community college football team is preparing to face an already established top flight runningback in Tim Bosiacki Saturday when Vermilion arrives for a late-afternoon Northern Division game.

Bosiacki, a 185-pound sophomore from Hermantown, was an all-division choice a year ago when he began an outstanding season with a three touchdown performance in a 20-0 Vermilion win over Northland.

"Bosiacki is one of the better runningbacks in the league," noted Northland coach Irv Smith. "He was a very deserving all-conference choice last year. He's quick, he's strong, he sees the hole and reads his blockers extremely well."

Bosiacki and the Ironmen, 7-0 winners over Itasca in last week's season opener, gain most of their yardage running behind the blocks of tackles Jim Lesar, a 6-2, 255-pounder, and Brad Wick, a 6-3, 200-pounder, a pair of sophomores from Ely.

"They don't do anything fancy," mentioned Smith. "They just try to ram it down your throat. They just try to see who has the tougher football team. We expect some real hitting out there Saturday."

Smith wasn't happy with the way his team played at Virginia, but some less-than-favorable officiating played a part in that loss, too. "We can play better," he said. "We're just happy to have a Range team on our home field."

Two Miami, Fla. area newcomers will likely find their way into the Northland line-up this week. Lloyd Miller, a 5-7, 175-pound quarterback, and Mike Cowart, a 5-8, 175-pound runningback, both joined the Northmen Monday and they'll play Saturday. Miller, in fact, could be a starter. "He knows how to run the option," beams Smith. "He looked impressive at the first practice." Cowart, a 4.4 man in the 40, will give Northland some outstanding backfield speed.

Defensive linemen Jeff Reese (Hallock), Dave Klemisch (Drayton, N.D.) and Danny Canela (Hialeah, Fla.) all graded out strong on film from the Mesabi game, said Smith, who also had good words for kicker Jeff Gobell of Thief River Falls.

In other MJCAA Northern Division games this week, Brainerd will be at Fergus Falls, Crookston at Golden Valley Lutheran and Itasca at Hibbing Saturday, with Mesabi hosting the Bemidji State University junior varsity in a Sunday non-conference game.

Middle River Underclassmen Are Gaining Experience, Confidence

Lacking seniors but not talent, Middle River coach Eldon Sparby said before the start of the 1979 North Tri County Conference high school football season that, given a couple of games for seasoning, his young Skippers could be a force to be reckoned with this fall. Well, after opening against top-rated Gonvick and absorbing a 22-6 defeat, Middle River bounced back with a 40-16 win over Goodridge and Sparby feels the Skippers are ready to set sail.

"We played a pretty decent game against Goodridge," said Sparby whose enthusiasm was tempered a bit by nine penalties, including half-dozen 15-yarders. "That aspect wasn't very good, but we did all right on the physical part. Our line did a good job. They controlled Goodridge," he said, praising the blocking of center Terry Beito, guards Ryan Johnson and Donavon Dahl and end Mike Peterson.

Defensively, interior linemen Steve Bengston and Delray Ness did the job on the Huskies, according to Sparby. "They really shut the middle down," he said.

Middle River will go after win number two Friday when the Skippers host Plummer, 0-2, at 3 p.m.

"I feel we'll be in the race from here on in," Sparby said.

In other North Tri County Conference nine-man games Friday, Gonvick will be at Clearbrook, McIntosh-Winger at Erskine, Mentor at Grygla and Oklee observes an early homecoming against Goodridge.

Last week's scores, in addition to the Middle River victory over Goodridge, found Gonvick blanking Oklee 18-0, Mentor edged Erskine 22-18, McIntosh-Winger shut out Plummer 24-0 and Clearbrook outscored Grygla 36-34.

Meawhile, Marshall County Central continues to look for its first victory in Top of the State Conference play, with the Nordics closing out a three-week season-opening homestad Friday against Warraod. Argyle took a 7-0 decision out of Newfolden last week.

A feature Top of the State match-up Saturday will find unbeatens Stephen and Karlstad playing at Karlstad. In other Saturday games, Roseau will be at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart, while Lake of the Woods plays at Argyle and Hallock, in a nonconference start, will be at Walhalla, N.D. Friday.

Last week, Warren beat Roseau 28-6, Stephen blanked Lake of the Woods 14-0, Warroad shut out Hallock 14-0 and Karlstad belted East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 30-0 as Gene LaDoucer rushed for 179 yards and scored 20 points, making him the Top of the State scoring leader with 32 points in two weeks. Bill Sczepanski of Stephen has 20.

Nordics Beat Rockets 2-0 In Volleyball

Marshall County Central, led by sophomore Gloria Nelson, looked impressive Tuesday in recording a 2-0 volleyball win over Badger. The Nordics improved their record to 2-1 with an 18-11, 18-5 victory over the host Rockets.

"I thought they looked good," said Marshall County Central coach Sarah Ackerman who had special praise for Nelson. "She had a lot of saves at the net and some excellent sets. Her sets were always good, putting our hitters into position for some spikes."

Marshall County Central will host Middle River Thursday, with junior varsity matches starting at 6:30 p.m. Newfolden will travel to Baudette Saturday afternoon to face Lake of the Woods.

Grygla — Badger

Badger bounced back from an 18-14 first game loss to beat Grygla 18-11, 18-10 for a 2-1 victory Monday at Badger.

"Technically we were the better team," observed Grygla coach Pam Worth. "We played really good offense. We had our bump-set-spike down pretty good. But we weren't serving well and we weren't receiving the serve very well, either."

Grygla, 1-2 heading into a Tuesday match against Middle River, will play Lake of the Woods Thursday at Baudette.

Young Lincoln Swimmers Lose Opener To Lakers

A youthful Lincoln high school girls swimming team, minus six graduated seniors from a 1978 Section 3 championship squad, opened its 1979 season Tuesday and showed its inexperience in a 46-37 loss to the Lakers.

"We have really a young team," noted Thief River Falls coach John Hustad. "Our experienced kids swim really well. The younger kids have never faced the pressure before and they really didn't know how to handle it."

Thief River Falls won four events yesterday as Betsy Hallstrom swam a 27.3 in the 50-yard freestyle; Kathy Dillon swam a fine 1:00.0 in the 100-yard freestyle; Brenda Lund won the diving competition with 57.30 points; and Joan Glauque, Lund, Hallstrom and Dillon covered the 400-yard freestyle relay in 4:10.5.

John Hustad

Hustad also liked the times turned in by Andrea Lia who swam a second place 1:15.5 in the 100-yard backstroke and Johanna Desrocher who turned in a pair of second place finishes with a 2:38.9 in the 200-yard individual medley and a 1:20.8 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

"I wasn't unhappy with the loss," said Hustad. They really tried hard. But we really don't know what we can do yet because of our youth and inexperience. It's going to take us a while to put things together."

Providing the nucleus to this year's squad will be the versatile Dillon; Desrocher in the I.M. and breaststroke; Lund in diving; Hallstrom in the sprints; Frankl Kuyath in the breastroke; and butterflyers Lia and Glauque.

"I think it will be a good year for us," offered Hustad. "I'm looking for big improvements, and that's what will make it a good year. We'll have to change our approach to things, though, putting most of our emphasis on individual improvements."

While the youthful look presents some varsity problems, it provides Thief River Falls with a solid junior varsity squad which beat Detroit Lakes 53-22 Tuesday.

Thief River Falls B squad winners were Mary Geatz, 1:18.5 in the 100-yard individual medley; Lori Swanson, 25.45 points in diving; Lori Thompson, 1:11.1 in the 100-yard freestyle; Rochelle Farmes, 1:28.0 in the 100-yard backstroke; Geatz, Peggy Achenbach, Lisa Desrocher and Karla Lokken with a 2:25.4 in the 200-yard medley relay; and Lokken, Thompson, Geatz and Achenbach with a 4:44.5 in the 400-yard freeestyle relay.

Home opener for the Prowlers will be Tuesday at 5 p.m. against Bemidji in the Franklin middle school pool. To kick off the season, a special "get acquainted" program will be held Monday for swim team parents and fans. Beginning at 6:45 p.m. persons attending the program will catch a part of the Prowlers practice in the Franklin pool, which will be narrated by Hustad, before moving into the school library where coffee and cookies will be served.

Senior Citizens Offered Special Hunting License

Minnesota senior citizens who hunt were reminded by the Department of Natural Resources that they are entitled to a special senior citizens small game license which costs less than the standard license.

The senior citizens small game license costs $5 while the standard license is $7.50. The cost includes a $2 surcharge for wetlands acquisition and an issuing fee of 50 cents which is paid to the license agent.

To be eligible for the senior citizens license, the hunter must be at least 65 years of age and a Minnesota resident.

Senior citizens receive another break if they are waterfowl hunters since they are not required to purchase the new state migratory waterfowl stamp costing $3.

They are, however, required to purchase the federal duck stamp for $7.50.

Northwest vs. Mid-State Games Featured Friday

Northwest and Mid-State conferences, long rumored to be involved in some type of consolidation plan, match strengths this week in non-conference high school football games as four of the five Northwest Athletic Conference members host Mid-State Conference foes.

In Friday's Northwest vs. Mid-State match-ups, Detroit Lakes will be at Bemidji, Crosby-Ironton at Thief River Falls, Staples at East Grand Forks and Park Rapids at Crookston.

Fergus Falls, the only NWAC team without a Mid-State opponent this week, will be at Montevideo Friday. Mid-State teams without Northwest mates Friday at Aitkin, scheduled to play at Pequot Lakes, and Wadena, slated to be at Breckenridge.

Northwest Ahtletic Conference teams will be trying to bounce back from a disastrous 1-4 performance last week when Bemidji beat Little Falls 14-6 but Thief River Falls lost to Detroit Lakes 13-6, East Grand Forks lost to Grand Forks Red River 25-16, Fergus Falls lost to Alexandria 7-6 and Crookston lost to Grand Forks Central 8-7.

Meanwhile, the Mid-State Conference has been having problems of its own, losing all six season-opening non-conference games and picking up just two wins last week as Detroit Lakes beat Thief River Falls 13-6 and Park Rapids stopped Frazee. Elsewhere, Staples lost to Perham 26-0, Wadenea lost to Sauk Centre 30-7 and Crosby-Ironton lost to Brainerd 12-0. Aitkin was idel Friday.

+ Dale Leonard of Bemidji is the early season overall scoring leader in the NWAC with four touchdowns and 24 points. Darwin Boe of Fergus Falls has 18 points and John Roche of East Grand Forks was 14.
